

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

IN this volume an attempt has been made to present a neat and serviceable edition of Paradise Lost, provided with brief explanatory notes. It is hoped that it may prove especially useful to a class of readers, in our schools and elsewhere, who can relish Milton's poetry, but who have few formal books of reference. The notes which have been introduced serve to throw light on points of mythology, history, and geography, and on nice or obscure turns of expression. Much advantage has been derived from the labors of English commentators, and the recent edition of Keightley (1859) has been constantly at hand. But these resources have not been drawn upon without discrimination; and a great deal of independent labor has been applied, which is none the less real, that its results appear in a compact and summary form. For the comparison of parallel passages the copious verbal index, which is so valuable a part of Cleveland's edition of the Poems of Milton, has been of great use.

For the most part the modern spelling has been preferred. In some words, however, as for example, in quire (choir), sovrán, ammiral, lour, and particularly in the initial syllables of certain compounds, the orthography of the old editions has been retained. In various instances the punctuation has been modified, a liberty as to the text of the Paradise Lost which is quite justifiable.

This edition has been prepared under the advice and with the assistance of Professor Torrey of Harvard University.

CAMBRIDGE, July, 1866.

LIFE OF MILTON.

JOHN MILTON, the author of Paradise Lost, was born in London on the ninth day of December, 1608. His father, John Milton, was a man of some learning and ability, and had been educated at Oxford. He there became a Protestant, and was in consequence disinherited by his father. He then established himself in London, where he pursued the profession of a scrivener.¹

The poet himself says, "I was born at London, of an honest family; my father was distinguished by the undeviating integrity of his life, my mother by the esteem in which she was held and the alms which she bestowed. My father destined me while yet a child to the study of polite literature, which I embraced with such avidity that from the twelfth year of my age I hardly ever retired to rest from my studies till midnight, which was the first source of injury to my eyes, to the natural weakness of which were added frequent headaches; all of which not retarding my eagerness after knowledge, he took care to have me instructed daily both at school and by other masters at home." His first tutor was a learned and pious clergyman, named Young, whom his pupil regarded with respect and affection. Milton was sent to St. Paul's School in London, and at the age of sixteen to Christ's College, Cambridge. Before entering the University, he had acquired some knowledge of Hebrew, and translated the 114th and 116th Psalms into English verse.

Milton remained at Cambridge seven years. The Hymn on the Morning of Christ's Nativity was written in the winter of 1629, soon after he had completed his twenty-first year. He had originally intended to enter the Church, but it was now torn by dissensions between the High Church party and the Puritans. The interest and sympathy of Milton were with the latter, while the former, now in power, required a submission which he could not yield. He therefore relinquished this design, and after leaving Cambridge passed five years at Horton, in Buckinghamshire, to which place his father had removed from London. Here he spent his time in close and severe study, making occasional visits to London for the purpose of buying books or gaining instruction in mathematics or music, in the latter of which he was well skilled and took great delight. We are told that "he had a delicate, tunable voice," and he performed on both the organ and the bass-viol. In one of his letters from Horton he says, "It is my way to suffer no impediment, no love of ease, no avocation whatever, to chill the ardor, to break the continuity, or divert the completion of my literary pursuits." At Horton were probably written several of Milton's shorter poems, — Arcades, Comus, Lycidas, L'Allegro, and Il Penseroso. The charming descriptions of rural sights and sounds in these poems show the influence of his country life upon the mind of the poet. The Masque of Comus was presented at Ludlow Castle, the official residence of the Earl of Bridgewater, then Lord President of Wales and the Marches, in 1634. The actors were the sons of the Earl, and his daughter, Lady Alice Egerton. The story of the poem is said to have been founded on the circumstance of the Lady Alice having been not long before lost in passing through Haywood forest. The monody of Lycidas was composed on occasion of the death of Mr. Edward King, who had been Milton's friend and fellow-student at Cambridge, and was drowned in 1637 on his passage to Ireland. Of the other two poems, L'Allegro (the Cheerful, or the Cheerful Man) and Il Penseroso (the Pensive or Thoughtful), the exact date cannot be ascertained. Of these even Dr. Johnson, Milton's most unfriendly critic, is compelled to acknowledge that "they are two noble efforts of imagination."

The mother of the poet died in 1637, and the next year Milton left England to travel upon the Continent. He stayed only a few days in Paris, where he was introduced to the celebrated Grotius. From France he proceeded to Italy, and passed some time in Florence, Rome, and Naples. He was on terms of intimacy with several Florentines well known as men of letters, and says himself, "Here it was that I found and visited the famous Galileo, grown old, a prisoner to the Inquisition for thinking in astronomy otherwise than the Franciscan and Dominican licensers thought." At Naples, Milton was treated with great kindness by Manso, Marquis of Villa, now an old man, who had been the friend and patron of the poet Tasso. The influence of this visit to Italy and acquaintance with its distinguished literary men and works may be traced in Milton's subsequent writings, particularly in Paradise Lost, though it was nearly thirty years later that this, his greatest work, was published.

Milton had intended to proceed from Naples to Sicily and Greece, but hearing of the alarming state of public affairs in England he relinquished his plan. "I deemed it," he says, "to be disgraceful for me to be idling away my time abroad for my own gratification, while my countrymen were contending for their liberty." He did not, however, immediately return to England, but again visited Rome and Florence, and afterwards went to Venice, whence he proceeded to Geneva. He returned by way of Paris to England, after an absence of fifteen months. In giving an account of his travels, Milton writes, "I take God to witness that I lived, in all those places where so much license is given, free from and untouched by any kind of vice and infamy, continually bearing in mind that even if I could escape the eyes of men, I could not escape those of God."

Milton was a republican in politics and an independent in religion. In the contest at that time raging in England between the King (Charles I.) and the Parliament, he sided with the latter. He believed neither in the divine right of kings nor in the authority of the Established Church, and considered it as lawful and right to oppose to the last extreme the despotic use of the king's prerogative and the efforts made by the primate, Archbishop Laud, to maintain High Church doctrines and observances. He did not, however, take any active part in the contest. He says, "Things being in such a disturbed and fluctuating state, I looked about to see if I could get any place that would hold myself and my books, and so I took a house of sufficient size in the city (London); and there with no small delight I resumed my intermitted studies, cheerfully leaving the event of public affairs, first to God, and then to those to whom the people had committed that task." Here he received as pupils his two nephews, the sons of his sister Mrs. Phillips, and also the sons of some of his friends. These he instructed in Greek, Latin, and Hebrew, as well as in mathematics and astronomy. His scholars read to him every Sunday a portion of the New Testament in Greek, which he explained to them.

In the year 1641, all hopes of an accommodation between the king and the parliament being at an end, the opponents of Monarchy and Episcopacy became bold, and Milton wrote and published several treatises in opposition to the doctrines of what he called "Prelatical Episcopacy."

In 1643, he married Mary Powell, the daughter of Mr. Richard Powell of Forest Hill in Oxfordshire. Mr. Powell was of the king's party (or, in the language of the times, a cavalier), and the strict and simple notions of Milton may have been distasteful to the daughter of a royalist and churchman. A few weeks after her marriage, she went to her father's house for a visit, and there remained, though repeatedly urged by her husband to return. Milton was not of a temper to bear such an injury patiently, and his views with regard to the duty of obedience and subjection in a wife, as afterwards expressed in some passages of Paradise Lost, did not incline him to submission. He considered himself as having a right to divorce a wife so contumacious, and published several treatises on the subject of Divorce, which gave as great scandal to the Presbyterian clergy, then at the height of their influence, as his previous attacks upon Episcopacy had done to the Bishops and High Church party. In the same year, 1644, he published his Tractate on Education and the Areopagitica, a Speech for the liberty of unlicensed Printing, which is held to be in eloquence and dignity the first in rank among his prose works. In 1645, a reconciliation was brought about between Milton and his wife. His forgiveness of her and her family seems to have been complete, for he soon after received Mr. Powell (who had suffered great losses in the civil war which was now going on), with his wife and children, into his own house, where they remained for some months. After this, nothing further was published by Milton on the subject of Divorce. His wife died, probably in the year 1653, leaving three daughters. The poet was afterwards twice married, and his third wife survived him. It is supposed that no descendants of the poet remain.

Charles I. was brought to trial and executed in 1649, and Milton, whose views coincided with those of the party at that time in power (the Independents¹ having succeeded the Presbyterians in influence), wrote a treatise to maintain the lawfulness of the king's execution. Royalty having been thus abolished, the government of the Commonwealth, as it was now called, was vested in a Council of State. The Latin language was used by them in their correspondence with foreign powers, and Milton was made their Secretary. The execution of Charles had excited the greatest indignation throughout Europe, and one of the most famous scholars of the time, best known by his Latinized name, Salmasius, published a famous treatise upholding the doctrine of the divine right of kings to rule without accountability to man. Milton was ordered by the Council to prepare an answer to Salmasius, and in 1650 appeared his celebrated Defensio pro Populo Anglicano. But this labor caused the loss of his sight,² which had before been greatly impaired, and soon after he became totally blind. He continued, however, to hold the office of Secretary under Cromwell (who had possessed himself of the supreme power, and been made Lord Protector in 1653), and wrote state papers even up to the time of the Restoration.

When, after the death of Oliver Cromwell and the resignation of his son Richard, a return to monarchical government seemed unavoidable, Milton made a last effort in behalf of the republicanism to which he was always ardently attached, but it was of no avail. The tide had turned, and in 1660 Charles II. was restored to the throne. Milton was for a time obliged to conceal himself, but influential friends exerted themselves for him, and, though some of his books were burned, he was spared. Of the manner of his life after this time we have some account from Ellwood, a young Quaker who had become acquainted with the poet. He writes, "John Milton, a gentleman of great note for learning throughout the learned world, having filled a public station in former times, lived now a private and retired life in London: and, having wholly lost his sight, kept always a man to read to him, which usually was the son of some gentleman of his acquaintance, whom in kindness he took to improve in his learning." In 1665, when the plague was raging in London, Milton took a small house at Chalfont in Buckinghamshire, where he remained, with his wife and daughters, till it was safe to return to London. At Chalfont he showed to Ellwood the manuscript of Paradise Lost, which was published in 1667. Thirteen hundred copies of the poem were sold in two years, and in 1669 a second edition was printed. When we consider the circumstances of the time and the political disfavor in which Milton stood, we must regard this as a fair measure of success, and the poet could hardly have anticipated more when he wrote of the audience fit though few that would attend his song. To more than few it must have been a delight, for, to quote the words of one of his biographers, "As to the assertion of the poem being above the age in which it appeared, we cannot regard it as correct; the knowledge of the Scriptures, the classics, and the Italian poets, was probably greater at that time than it is at the present day; and this is the knowledge requisite for understanding the Paradise Lost." Criticism of this great poem would here be out of place; its beauties and its blemishes must carry their own commendation or condemnation. It was said by Dr. Johnson that Milton's "images and descriptions of the scenes or operations of Nature do not seem to be always copied from original form, nor to have the freshness, raciness, and energy of immediate observation. He saw Nature, as Dryden expresses it, through the spectacles of books;" and, as has been maintained in our own times, described Nature like a blind man. It is true that Milton was blind, but he retained both memory and imagination, and numerous passages and happy touches as of an artist's pencil prove that it was not in vain that he had seen and loved Nature for nearly fifty years. The five years that he spent in Buckinghamshire at a period of life when the mind is most alive to external impressions, and the time that he passed in foreign travel and under Italian skies, must have stored his mind with pictures and images that it scarcely needed his genius to recall. He had not forgotten "the Etrurian shades,"

"Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose."

In 1671 Milton published Paradise Regained, a poem generally regarded as inferior to Paradise Lost. But Milton himself did not so esteem it, and was disturbed at the expression of such opinion. Coleridge says of it, "In its kind it is the most perfect poem extant," and Wordsworth, that it is "the most perfect in execution of anything written by Milton." Together with Paradise Regained was published Samson Agonistes, probably the last poem composed by Milton. It was after the manner of the ancient Greek drama, and contains many noble passages. In 1673 Milton published an edition of his collected poems. During the last three years of his life, he also published some of his earlier and later prose works.

Notwithstanding the strict temperance and regularity of life which the poet seems always to have observed, he had been for many years afflicted with the gout. We are told by one of his biographers that "an ancient clergyman of Dorsetshire, Dr. Wright, found John Milton in a small chamber hung with rusty green, sitting in an elbow-chair, and dressed neatly in black; pale, but not cadaverous, his hands and feet gouty, and with chalk-stones. He used also to sit in a gray coarse cloth coat at the door of his house near Bunhill Fields, in warm sunny weather, to enjoy the fresh air; and so, as well as in his room, received the visits of people of distinguished parts as well as quality." His wife speaks of his dining alone with her in October, 1674, when he "talked and discoursed sensibly and well, and was very merry, and seemed to be in good health of body." On the 8th of the following month, November, he died quietly and without pain, having nearly completed his sixty-sixth year. He was buried in St. Giles's Church, and "the funeral was attended by all the author's 'earned and great friends in London, not without a friendly concourse of the vulgar." A monument was erected to his memory in Westminster Abbey in 1737.

Milton was of middle height, and it is said that his deportment was affable, and his gait erect and manly, bespeaking courage and undauntedness. He had great personal beauty, and his complexion retained even in later life much of its freshness, and the appearance of his eyes was not affected by their blindness. His habits were simple, and music seems, especially in his latter years, to have been his chief recreation. He was to the end of his life a student.

TWO OF MILTON'S SONNETS.

I.

ON HIS BLINDNESS.

WHEN I consider how my light is spent
Ere half my days, in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent, which is death to hide,
Lodged with me useless, though my soul more bent
To serve therewith my Maker, and present
My true account, lest He returning chide;
"Doth God exact day-labor, light denied?"
I fondly ask. But Patience, to prevent
That murmur, soon replies: "God doth not need
Either man's work or his own gifts: who best
Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best. His state
Is kingly; thousands at his bidding speed,
And post o'er land and ocean without rest:
They also serve who only stand and wait."

II.

TO CYRIAC SKINNER.

CYRIAC, this three years day these eyes, though clear
To outward view of blemish or of spot,
Bereft of light their seeing have forgot;
Nor to their idle orbs doth sight appear
Of sun, or moon, or star, throughout the year,
Or man, or woman. Yet I argue not Against Heaven's hand or will, nor bate a jot
Of heart or hope; but still bear up and steer
Right onward. What supports me, dost thou ask?
The conscience, Friend, to have lost them overplied
In Liberty's defence, my noble task,
Of which all Europe rings from side to side.
This thought might lead me through the world's vain mask
Content though blind, had I no better guide.

THE VERSE.*

THE measure is English Heroic Verse without Rime, as that of Homer in Greek, and of Virgil in Latin; Rime being no necessary Adjunct or true Ornament of Poem or good Verse, in longer Works especially, but the Invention of a barbarous Age to set off wretched matter and lame Meeter; grac't indeed since by the use of some famous modern Poets carried away by Custom, but much to their own vexation and hindrance, and restraint, to express many things otherwise, and for the most part worse, than else they would have expressed them. Not without cause, therefore, some both Italian and Spanish Poets of prime note have rejected Rime both in longer and shorter Works, as have also long since our best English Tragedies, as a thing of itself to all judicious ears trivial and of no true musical delight; which consist only in apt Numbers, fit quantity of Syllables, and the sense variously drawn out from one verse into another not in the jingling sounds of like endings, a fault avoided by the learned Ancients both in Poetry and all good Oratory. This neglect then of Rime so little is to be taken for a defect, though it may seem perhaps to vulgar readers, that it rather is to be esteemed an example set, the first in English, of ancient liberty recover'd to Heroic Poem from the troublesome and modern bondage of Rimeing.

* This was printed in the second title-page of the first edition, as "a reason why the Poem rhimes not." The original spelling is preserved.

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK I.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS first book proposes first, in brief, the whole subject, man's disobedience, and the loss thereupon of Paradise wherein he was placed; then touches the prime cause of his fall, the serpent, or rather Satan in the serpent; who, revolting from God and drawing to his side many legions of angels, was, by the command of God, driven out of Heaven with all his crew into the great deep. Which action passed over, the poem hastes into the midst of things, presenting Satan with his angels now fallen into Hell, described here, not in the centre (for Heaven and Earth may be supposed as yet not made, certainly not yet accursed), but in a place of utter darkness, fittest called Chaos: Here Satan, with his angels, lying on the burning lake, thunder-struck and astonished, after a certain space recovers as from confusion, calls up him who next in order and dignity lay by him; they confer of their miserable fall. Satan awakens all his legions, who lay till then in the same manner confounded; they rise; their numbers, array of battle, their chief leaders named according to the idols known afterwards in Canaan and the countries adjoining. To these Satan directs his speech, comforts them with hope yet of regaining Heaven; but tells them lastly of a new world and new kind of creature to be created, according to an ancient prophecy or report in Heaven; (for that angels were long before this visible creation, was the opinion of many ancient Fathers). To find out the truth of this prophecy, and what to determine thereon, he refers to a full council. What his associates thence attempt. Pandemonium, the palace of Satan, rises, suddenly built out of the deep: the infernal peers there sit in council.

 In the beginning how the heavens and earth
 Rose out of Chaos: or, if Sion hill
 Delight thee more, and Siloa's brook that flowed Fast by the oracle of God, I thence

 That with no middle flight intends to soar
 Above the Aonian mount, while it pursues
 Things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme.

And chiefly thou, O Spirit, that dost prefer
 Before all temples the upright heart and pure,
 Instruct me, for thou know'st; thou from the first
 Wast present, and, with mighty wings outspread,
 Dove-like sat'st brooding on the vast abyss,
 And mad'st it pregnant: what in me is dark

 Confounded though immortal. But his doom
 Reserved him to more wrath; for now the thought
 Both of lost happiness and lasting pain 55

 That witnessed huge affliction and dismay,
 Mixed with obdurate pride and steadfast hate.
 At once, as far as angels ken, he views
 The dismal situation waste and wild: 60
 A dungeon horrible on all sides round
 As one great furnace flamed; yet from those flames
 No light, but rather darkness visible
 Served only to discover sights of woe,
 Regions of sorrow, doleful shades, where peace 65
 And rest can never dwell, hope never comes
 That comes to all; but torture without end
 Still urges, and a fiery deluge, fed
 With ever-burning sulphur unconsumed.
 Such place eternal justice had prepared 70
 For those rebellious; here their prison ordained
 In utter darkness, and their portion set
 As far removed from God and light of Heaven
 As from the centre thrice to the utmost pole.
 O how unlike the place from whence they fell! 75
 There, the companions of his fall, o'erwhelmed
 With floods and whirlwinds of tempestuous fire,

Breaking the horrid silence, thus began :

“ If thou beest he — but O how fallen ! how changed

From him, who in the happy realms of light, 85

Clothed with transcendent brightness, didst outshine

Myriads though bright ! — if he, whom mutual league,

United thoughts and counsels, equal hope

And hazard in the glorious enterprise,

Joined with me once, now misery hath joined 90

In equal ruin — into what pit thou seest

From what height fallen, so much the stronger proved

He with his thunder : and till then who knew

The force of those dire arms ? Yet not for those,

Nor what the potent victor in his rage 95

Can else inflict, do I repent or change

(Though changed in outward lustre) that fixed mind

And high disdain from sense of injured merit,

That with the Mightiest raised me to contend,

And to the fierce contention brought along 100

Innumerable force of spirits armed,

That durst dislike his reign, and, me preferring,

His utmost power with adverse power opposed,

In dubious battle on the plains of Heaven,

And shook his throne. What though the field be lost ?

All is not lost ; the unconquerable will, 105

And study of revênge, immortal hate,

And courage never to submit or yield,

And what is else not to be overcome ;

That glory never shall his wrath or might 110

82. thence called Satan. The Hebrew word Satan means enemy or adversary.

87. if he. See line 84.

91. The break in this sentence shows that its structure is incomplete.

101. force, forces.

102. me preferring, making me first or leader, or choosing me rather.

110. That glory, the glory of my submission.

Extort from me. To bow and sue for grace
 With suppliant knee, and deify his power,
 Who from the terror of this arm so late
 Doubted his empire; that were low indeed!
 That were an ignominy and shame beneath 115
 This downfall; since by fate the strength of gods
 And this empyreal substance cannot fail;
 Since, through experience of this great event,
 In arms not worse, in foresight much advanced,
 We may with more successful hope resolve 120
 To wage by force or guile eternal war,
 Irreconcilable to our grand foe,
 Who now triumphs, and in the excess of joy
 Sole reigning holds the tyranny of Heaven."

So spake the apostate angel, though in pain, 125
 Vaunting aloud, but racked with deep despair;
 And him thus answered soon his bold compeer:

"O prince, O chief of many thronèd Powers,
 That led the embattled Seraphim to war
 Under thy conduct, and, in dreadful deeds 130
 Fearless, endangered Heaven's perpetual King,
 And put to proof his high supremacy,
 Whether upheld by strength, or chance, or fate;
 Too well I see and rue the dire event,
 That with sad overthrow and foul defeat 135
 Hath lost us Heaven, and all this mighty host
 In horrible destruction laid thus low,
 As far as gods and heavenly essences

117. empyreal substance, angelic nature. See II. 771.

124. tyranny. The original meaning of this word is absolute rule. The poet here seems to join with it the idea which the word commonly conveys to us. — of, over.

129. embattled, ranged in order of battle.

130. conduct, leadership.

138. heavenly essences. See empyreal substance, above.

Can perish; for the mind and spirit remains
 Invincible, and vigor soon returns, 140
 Though all our glory extinct, and happy state
 Here swallowed up in endless misery.
 But what if he our conqueror (whom I now
 Of force believe almighty, since no less
 Than such could have o'erpowered such force as ours)
 Have left us this our spirit and strength entire, 146
 Strongly to suffer and support our pains;
 That we may so suffice his vengeful ire,
 Or do him mightier service, as his thralls
 By right of war, whate'er his business be, 150
 Here in the heart of Hell to work in fire,
 Or do his errands in the gloomy deep.
 What can it then avail, though yet we feel Strength undiminished, or eternal being
 To undergo eternal punishment?" 155
 Whereto with speedy words the Arch-fiend replied:

" Fallen Cherub, to be weak is miserable,
 Doing or suffering: but of this be sure,
 To do aught good never will be our task;
 But ever to do ill our sole delight, 160
 As being the contrary to his high will
 Whom we resist. If then his providence
 Out of our evil seek to bring forth good,
 Our labor must be to pervert that end,
 And out of good still to find means of evil; 165
 Which oft-times may succeed, so as perhaps Shall grieve him, if I fail not, and disturb
 His inmost counsels from their destined aim.
 But see! the angry Victor hath recalled

141. glory, brightness. See line

97.

144. Of force believe, am compelled to believe.

148. suffice, satisfy.

149. thralls, slaves.

151. Here, whether here.

152. the gloomy deep, Chaos.

167. if I fail not, unless I deceive myself.

His ministers of vengeance and pursuit 170
 Back to the gates of Heaven; the sulphurous hail
 Shot after us in storm, o'er-blown, hath laid
 The fiery surge, that from the precipice
 Of Heaven received us falling; and the thunder,
 Winged with red lightning and impetuous rage, 175
 Perhaps hath spent his shafts, and ceases now
 To bellow through the vast and boundless deep.
 Let us not slip the occasion, whether scorn
 Or satiate fury yield it from our foe.
 Seest thou yon dreary plain, forlorn and wild, 180
 The seat of desolation, void of light,
 Save what the glimmering of these livid flames
 Casts pale and dreadful? Thither let us tend
 From off the tossing of these fiery waves;
 There rest, if any rest can harbor there, 185
 And, re-assembling our afflicted Powers,
 Consult how we may henceforth most offend
 Our enemy; our own loss how repair;
 How overcome this dire calamity;
 What reinforcement we may gain from hope; 190
 If not, what resolution from despair."

Thus Satan, talking to his nearest mate,
 With head uplift above the wave, and eyes
 That sparkling blazed; his other parts besides
 Prone on the flood, extended long and large, 195
 Lay floating many a rood, in bulk as huge.
 As whom the fables name of monstrous size,
 Titanian or Earth-born, that warred on Jove,

172. laid, beaten down.
 178. slip the occasion, lose the opportunity.

179. satiate, satiated.

183. tend, direct our course.

186. afflicted, beaten down.

192. Thus, thus spoke.

196. prone, lying along.

197. whom, those whom. — the fables, the fables of Grecian mythology.

198. Titanian or Earth-born, whether Titans or Giants. The Giants were sons of Earth. — Jove, Jupiter or Zeus.

Briareos, or Typhon whom the den
 By ancient Tarsus held ; on that sea-beast 200
 Leviathan, which God of all his works
 Created hugest that swim the ocean stream : —
 Him, haply slumbering on the Norway foam,
 The pilot of some small night-foundered skiff
 Deening some island, oft, as seamen tell, 205
 With fixèd anchor in his scaly rind,
 Moors by his side under the lee, while night
 Invests the sea, and wishèd morn delays : —
 So stretched out huge in length the Arch-fiend lay,
 Chained on the burning lake, nor ever thence 210
 Had risen or heaved his head, but that the will
 And high permission of all-ruling Heaven
 Left him at large to his own dark designs,
 That with reiterated crimes he might
 Heap on himself damnation, while he sought 215
 Evil to others ; and enraged might see,
 How all his malice served but to bring forth
 Infinite goodness, grace, and mercy shown
 On man by him seduced, but on himself
 Treble confusion, wrath, and vengeance poured. 220

Forthwith upright he rears from off the pool
 His mighty stature ; on each hand the flames
 Driven backward slope their pointing spires, and, rolled
 In billows, leave in the midst a horrid vale.
 Then with expanded wings he steers his flight 225
 Aloft, incumbent on the dusky air,
 That felt unusual weight, till on dry land
 He lights, if it were land that ever burned

199. Briareos was one of the Giants, described as having a hundred arms and fifty heads. Typhon was a giant who breathed fire from a hundred heads. His den was in Cilicia, a part of Asia Minor, of which ancient Tarsus was the capital.

201. Leviathan, the whale.

203. haply, by chance.

204. night-foundered, overtaken and stopped by the darkness.

207. under the lee, away from the wind.

208. Invests, clothes as with a garment.

211. Had, would have.

With solid as the lake with liquid fire,
 And such appeared in hue, as when the force 230
 Of subterranean wind transports a hill
 Torn from Pelorus, or the shattered side
 Of thundering Ætna, whose combustible
 And fuelled entrails, thence conceiving fire,
 Sublimed with mineral fury aid the winds, 235
 And leave a singèd bottom all involved
 With stench and smoke; such resting found the sole
 Of unblest feet. Him followed his next mate,
 Both glorying to have scaped the Stygian flood
 As gods and by their own recovered strength, 240
 Not by the sufferance of supernal power.

“Is this the region, this the soil, the clime,”
 Said then the lost Archangel, “this the seat,
 That we must change for Heaven? this mournful gloom
 For that celestial light? Be it so, since he 245
 Who now is sovran can dispose and bid
 What shall be right; farthest from him is best
 Whom reason hath equalled, force hath made supreme Above his equals. Farewell, happy fields,
 Where joy forever dwells! hail, horrors! hail, 250
 Infernal world! and thou, profoundest Hell,
 Receive thy new possessor, one who brings
 A mind not to be changed by place or time.
 The mind is its own place, and in itself
 Can make a heaven of Hell, a hell of Heaven. 255
 What matter where, if I be still the same,
 And what I should be, all but less than he

232. Pelorus is the north-eastern point of the island of Sicily.

235. sublimed, changed into vapor by heat.

239. scaped, escaped.—the Stygian flood. According to Grecian mythology, the Styx was the chief river of the lower world.

241. Not by the leave of heavenly power.

245. sovrän, sovereign, from the Italian “sovrano.”

248. equalled, made equal.

257. but less, except being less.

Whom thunder hath made greater ? Here at least
 We shall be free ; the Almighty hath not built
 Here for his envy, will not drive us hence ; 260
 Here we may reign secure ; and in my choice
 To reign is worth ambition, though in Hell ;
 Better to reign in Hell than serve in Heaven.
 But wherefore let we then our faithful friends,
 The associates and copartners of our loss, 265
 Lie thus astonished on the oblivious pool,
 And call them not to share with us their part
 In this unhappy mansion, or once more
 With rallied arms to try what may be yet
 Regained in Heaven, or what more lost in Hell ? ” 270

So Satan spake, and him Beëlzebub
 Thus answered : — “ Leader of those armies bright,
 Which but the Omnipotent none could have foiled,
 If once they hear that voice, their liveliest pledge
 Of hopes in fears and dangers, heard so oft 275
 In worst extremes, and on the perilous edge
 Of battle when it raged, in all assaults
 Their surest signal, they will soon resume
 New courage and revive, though now they lie
 Grovelling and prostrate on yon lake of fire, 280
 As we erewhile, astounded and amazed ;
 No wonder, fallen such a pernicious height ! ”

He scarce had ceased, when the superior Fiend
 Was moving toward the shore ; his ponderous shield,
 Ethereal temper, massy, large, and round, 285
 Behind him cast ; the broad circumference
 Hung on his shoulders like the moon, whose orb
 Through optic glass the Tuscan artist views

260. for his envy, that he may envy us possession of this place. to a right degree of hardness, in the purest element.

282. fallen, fallen through or from. 288. the Tuscan artist. Galileo, of Florence in Tuscany, was the first who turned the optic glass, or

286. Ethereal temper, of heavenly make ; tempered, or formed telescope, to the heavens. He was

At evening, from the top of Fesolé,
 Or in Valdarno, to descry new lands, 290
 Rivers, or mountains in her spotty globe.
 His spear (to equal which the tallest pine
 Hewn on Norwegian hills to be the mast
 Of some great ammiral were but a wand)
 He walked with, to support uneasy steps 295
 Over the burning marle, not like those steps
 On Heaven's azure; and the torrid clime
 Smote on him sore besides, vaulted with fire.
 Nathless he so endured, till on the beach
 Of that inflamèd sea he stood, and called 300
 His legions, angel-forms, who lay intranced,
 Thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks
 In Vallombrosa, where the Etrurian shades
 High over-arched imbower; or scattered sedge
 Afloat, when with fierce winds Orion armed 305
 Hath vexed the Red-Sea coast, whose waves o'erthrew
 Busiris and his Memphian chivalry,
 While with perfidious hatred they pursued
 The sojourners of Goshen, who beheld
 From the safe shore their floating carcasses 310
 And broken chariot-wheels; so thick bestrown, contemporary with Milton. — artist, one skilled in science.

289. Fesolé, Fiesole, near Florence.

290. Valdarno, or Val d'Arno, the valley of the river Arno, on which Florence is situated.

294. ammiral, from the Italian "ammiraglio," admiral. This word was sometimes used to denote the principal vessel in a fleet, the ship which carried the admiral.

299. Nathless, nevertheless.

303. Vallombrosa, a wooded valley in Tuscany (anciently called Etruria), about eighteen miles from Florence.

305. Orion armed. Orion was a giant hunter, who after his death was placed among the stars, where he appears with sword and belt. The setting of the constellation of Orion opposite to the Sun, in November, was usually attended with winds and storms.

307. Busiris, Pharaoh. — Memphian, Egyptian; Memphis being a chief city of ancient Egypt. — chivalry, horsemen; those who use horses in fight.

308. they pursued. See Ex. xiv.

309. the sojourners of Goshen, the Israelites, who, when they dwelt in Egypt, inhabited a district called Goshen. — who beheld. "And Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea-shore." Ex. xiv. 30.

Abject and lost lay these, covering the flood,
 Under amazement of their hideous change.
 He called so loud, that all the hollow deep
 Of Hell resounded : — “ Princes, Potentates, 815
 Warriors, the flower of Heaven — once yours, now lost —

If such astonishment as this can seize Eternal spirits : — or have ye chosen this place
 After the toil of battle to repose
 Your wearied virtue, for the ease you find 820
 To slumber here as in the vales of Heaven ?
 Or in this abject posture have ye sworn
 To adore the conqueror, who now beholds
 Cherub and Seraph rolling in the flood
 With scattered arms and ensigns ; till anon 825
 His swift pursuers from Heaven-gates discern
 The advantage, and descending tread us down
 Thus drooping ; or with linkèd thunderbolts
 Transfix us to the bottom of this gulf ?
 Awake, arise, or be forever fallen ! ” 830

They heard and were abashed, and up they sprung
 Upon the wing ; as when men wont to watch,
 On duty sleeping found by whom they dread,
 Rouse and bestir themselves ere well awake.
 Nor did they not perceive the evil plight 835
 In which they were, or the fierce pains not feel ;
 Yet to their general’s voice they soon obeyed,
 Innumerable. As when the potent rod
 Of Amram’s son, in Egypt’s evil day,
 Waved round the coast up called a pitchy cloud 840
 Of locusts, warping on the eastern wind,

812. Abject, cast down ; overthrown.

817. astonishment, confusion of mind ; dismay.

818, 822. or — or, either — or.

820. virtue, strength ; vigor. — for, for the sake of.

825. anon, presently ; soon.

835. Nor did they not perceive,
 and they did perceive.

839. Amram’s son, Moses. See
 Ex. x. 18.

841. warping, proceeding with a waving motion.

That o'er the realm of impious Pharaoh hung
 Like night, and darkened all the land of Nile :
 So numberless were those bad angels seen
 Hovering on wing under the cope of Hell, 345
 'Twixt upper, nether, and surrounding fires ;
 Till, as a signal given, the uplifted spear
 Of their great Sultan waving to direct
 Their course, in even balance down they light
 On the firm brimstone, and fill all the plain : 350
 A multitude, like which the populous North
 Poured never from her frozen loins, to pass
 Rhene or the Danaw, when her barbarous sons
 Came like a deluge on the South, and spread
 Beneath Gibraltar to the Libyan sands. 355
 Forthwith, from every squadron and each band,
 The heads and leaders thither haste where stood
 Their great commander ; godlike shapes, and forms
 Excelling human, princely Dignities,
 And Powers that erst in Heaven sat on thrones ; 360
 Though of their names in heavenly records now
 Be no memorial, blotted out and razed
 By their rebellion from the books of life.
 Nor had they yet among the sons of Eve 364
 Got them new names ; till, wandering o'er the earth,
 Through God's high sufferance for the trial of man,
 By falsities and lies the greatest part
 Of mankind they corrupted to forsake
 God their Creator, and the invisible
 Glory of him that made them to transform 370
 Oft to the image of a brute, adorned
 With gay religions full of pomp and gold,

345. the cope, the roof, or arch.

348. Sultan, sovereign.

353. Rhene or the Danaw, the Rhine or the Danube. — her barbarous sons, the tribes from northern Europe, Goths, Vandals, Huns, and others, who overran the Roman empire.

355. Beneath, to the south of. — the Libyan sands, the deserts of Africa.

360. erst, formerly.

366. sufferance. See line 241.

369–371. See Rom. i. 23.

372. religions, religious rites.

And devils to adore for deities :
 Then were they known to men by various names
 And various idols through the heathen world. 876

Say, Muse, their names then known, who first, who last,
 Roused from the slumber on that fiery couch,
 At their great Emperor's call, as next in worth
 Came singly where he stood on the bare strand,
 While the promiscuous crowd stood yet aloof. 880
 The chief were those who, from the pit of Hell
 Roaming to seek their prey on Earth, durst fix
 Their seats long after next the seat of God,
 Their altars by his altar, gods adored
 Among the nations round, and durst abide 885
 Jehovah thundering out of Sion, throned
 Between the Cherubim ; yea, often placed
 Within his sanctuary itself their shrines,
 Abominations ; and with cursèd things
 His holy rites and solemn feasts profaned, 890
 And with their darkness durst affront his light.

First Moloch, horrid king, besmeared with blood
 Of human sacrifice and parents' tears,
 Though, for the noise of drums and timbrels loud,
 Their children's cries unheard, that passed through fire 896
 To his grim idol. Him the Ammonite

880. the promiscuous crowd, the mass undistinguished by particular names.

883. the seat of God, the temple at Jerusalem.

885. durst abide, dared to encounter.

887. Between the Cherubim. "Thou that dwellest between the cherubims." Psalms lxxx. 1.

887-891. See Ezekiel viii.

891. affront, face.

892. First Moloch. His grim idol is described as a hollow image of brass, heated by fires below, and having the arms extended downwards. The victims are said to have been laid on these, whence they rolled into the flames below. This is called in the Old Testament, "making their children pass through the fire." See 2 Kings xxiii. 10.

893-899. The Ammonites dwell

Worshipped in Rabba and her watery plain,
 In Argob and in Basan, to the stream
 Of utmost Arnon. Nor content with such Audacious neighborhood, the wisest heart 400
 Of Solomon he led by fraud to build
 His temple right against the temple of God,
 On that opprobrious hill; and made his grove
 The pleasant valley of Hinnom, Tophet thence
 And black Gehenna called, the type of Hell. 405
 Next Chemos, the obscene dread of Moab's sons,
 From Aroer to Nebo and the wild
 Of southmost Abarim; in Hesebon
 And Horonaim, Seon's realm, beyond
 The flowery dale of Sibma clad with vines; 410
 And Eleale to the Asphaltic pool:
 Peor his other name, when he enticed
 Israel in Sittim, on their march from Nile,
 To do him wanton rites, which cost them woe.
 Yet thence his lustful orgies he enlarged 415
 Even to that hill of scandal, by the grove
 Of Moloch homicide, lust hard by hate;

on the east of the Jordan, but not so far to the north as the river Arnon. Basan, or Bashan, and Argob belonged to the Ammonites. Rabba, or Rabbah, was the chief city of the Ammonites, situated in a well-watered valley, and sometimes called the City of Waters. See 2 Samuel xii. 27.

400-408. See 1 Kings xi. 1-8. — right against, opposite to, on the Mount of Olives; called, therefore, that opprobrious hill, and afterwards that hill of scandal and offensive mountain.

404. Hinnom. The Valley of Hinnom was on the south of Jerusalem, and it was there that children were sacrificed to Moloch. It is said that drums were beaten or timbrels sounded to drown their cries, whence the place was called Tophet, from the Hebrew word toph, a kind of drum or tambourine. In later times it was called Gehenna, and this word was used by the Jews to express the place of future punishment.

406. Chemos, or Chemosh, also mentioned in 1 Kings xi., as "the abomination of Moab"; Peor (or Baal-peor) his other name.

407-411. These places were in the country of the Moabites, situated to the east of the Dead Sea, or Asphaltic pool. — Abarim was a mountain range east of the Jordan, of which Nebo appears to have been a part. — Hesebon, Heshbon. See Isaiah xvi. 8, 9. — Seon, Sihon.

418. Sittim, Shittim, the place of the last encampment of the Israelites before they crossed the Jordan. It was here that "Israel joined himself unto Baal-peor."

417. homicide, delighting in human victims. — Lust is repre-

Till good Josiah drove them thence to Hell.
 With these came they, who, from the bordering flood
 Of old Euphrates to the brook that parts 420
 Egypt from Syrian ground, had general names
 Of Baalim and Ashtaroth, those male,
 These feminine: for spirits when they please
 Can either sex assume, or both; so soft
 And uncompounded is their essence pure, 425
 Not tied or manacled with joint or limb,
 Nor founded on the brittle strength of bones,
 Like cumbrous flesh; but in what shape they choose,
 Dilated or condensed, bright or obscure,
 Can execute their aery purposes, 430
 And works of love or enmity fulfil.
 For those the race of Israel oft forsook
 Their living Strength, and unfrequented left
 His righteous altar, bowing lowly down
 To bestial gods; for which their heads, as low 435
 Bowed down in battle, sunk before the spear
 Of despicable foes. With these in troop
 Came Astoreth, whom the Phœnicians called Astarte, queen of heaven, with crescent horns;
 To whose bright image, nightly by the moon, 440
 Sidonian virgins paid their vows and songs;
 In Sion also not unsung, where stood
 Her temple on the offensive mountain, built
 By that uxorious king, whose heart, though large,
 Beguiled by fair idolatresses, fell 445
 To idols foul. Thammuz came next behind,
 Whose annual wound in Lebanon allured
 The Syrian damsels to lament his fate sented by Chemos or Peor, and hate by Moloch.

418. See 2 Kings xxiii. 10-14.

419. they, Syrian gods.

422. Baalim and Ashtaroth,
 the plural of Baal and Astoreth.

430. aery, from the Latin aer, the air.

442-437. See Judges ii. 11-15.

441. Sidonian virgins. Sidon was a chief city of Phœnicia, on the northwest of Palestine.

444. "Largeness of heart" is mentioned among the gifts bestowed upon Solomon. 1 Kings
 iv. 29.

446-452. Thammuz is supposed to have been the Phœnician Ado-

In amorous ditties all a summer's day,
 While smooth Adonis from his native rock 450
 Ran purple to the sea, supposed with blood
 Of Thammuz yearly wounded : the love tale
 Infected Sion's daughters with like heat,
 Whose wanton passions in the sacred porch
 Ezekiel saw, when, by the vision led, 455
 His eye surveyed the dark idolatries
 Of alienated Judah. Next came one
 Who mourned in earnest, when the captive ark
 Maimed his brute image, head and hands lopped off 460
 In his own temple, on the grunsel edge,
 Where he fell flat and shamed his worshippers :
 Dagon his name ; sea monster, upward man
 And downward fish ; yet had his temple high
 Reared in Azotus, dreaded through the coast
 Of Palestine, in Gath and Ascalon 465
 And Accaron and Gaza's frontier bounds.
 Him followed Rimmon, whose delightful seat
 Was fair Damascus, on the fertile banks
 Of Abana and Pharpar, lucid streams :
 He also against the house of God was bold ; 470
 A leper once he lost, and gained a king,
 Ahaz his sottish conqueror, whom he drew
 God's altar to disparage and displace
 For one of Syrian mode, whereon to burn
 His odious offerings, and adore the gods 475
 Whom he had vanquished. After these appeared
 A crew, who under names of old renown,
 Osiris, Isis, Orus, and their train,
 With monstrous shapes and sorceries abused

nis, who was said to die and revive again every year. His death was annually commemorated.
 The river Adonis flowed from Mount Lebanon to the sea.

455. Ezekiel saw. See Ezek.
 viii.

459. his brute image. See 1 Sam.
 v. 1-5.

460. grunsel edge, threshold, or groundsill.

464-466. These places were in the land of the Philistines, on the coast of Palestine. — Accaron, Ekron.

467-471. The account of the leper is found in 2 Kings v., and of the king in 2 Kings xvi.

Fanatic Egypt and her priests, to seek 480
 Their wandering gods disguised in brutish forms
 Rather than human. Nor did Israel scape
 The infection, when their borrowed gold composed
 The calf in Oreb; and the rebel king
 Doubled that sin in Bethel and in Dan, 485
 Likening his Maker to the grazèd ox,
 Jehovah, who, in one night, when he passed
 From Egypt marching, equalled with one stroke
 Both her first-born and all her bleating gods.
 Belial came last, than whom a spirit more lewd 490
 Fell not from Heaven, or more gross to love
 Vice for itself: to him no temple stood,
 Or altar smoked; yet who more oft than he
 In temples and at altars, when the priest
 Turns atheist, as did Eli's sons, who filled 495
 With lust and violence the house of God?
 In courts and palaces he also reigns,
 And in luxurious cities, where the noise
 Of riot ascends above their loftiest towers,
 And injury and outrage; and when night 500
 Darkens the streets, then wander forth the sons
 Of Belial, flown with insolence and wine.
 Witness the streets of Sodom, and that night
 In Gibeah, when the hospitable door
 Exposed a matron, to avoid worse rape. 505

These were the prime in order and in might;
 The rest were long to tell, though far renowned,

482. scape, escape.

484. The calf in Oreb. See Ex. xxxii. — the rebel king, Jeroboam. See 1 Kings xii.

ing gods. Among the Egyptian deities were Ammon and Mendes, the former a ram, the latter a goat.

492. to him no temple stood. There is no mention in the Old Testament of a god named Belial, but wicked men are called "sons of Belial."

502. flown, flushed, or flooded.

507. were, (it) would be.

The Ionian gods, of Javan's issue held
 Gods, yet confessed later than Heaven and Earth,
 Their boasted parents : Titan, Heaven's first born,
 With his enormous brood, and birthright seized 511
 By younger Saturn ; he from mightier Jove
 (His own and Rhea's son) like measure found ;
 So Jove usurping reigned. These first in Crete
 And Ida known, thence on the snowy top 515
 Of cold Olympus ruled the middle air,
 Their highest heaven ; or on the Delphian cliff,
 Or in Dodona, and through all the bounds
 Of Doric land ; or who with Saturn old
 Fled over Adria to the Hesperian fields, 520
 And o'er the Celtic roamed the utmost isles.

All these and more came flocking ; but with looks
 Downcast and damp ; yet such wherein appeared

508. The Ionian gods, the gods worshipped by the Ionian Greeks. — Javan was the son of Japhet, and grandson of Noah. His descendants are supposed to have peopled the coasts of Asia Minor and Greece. — of, by. — held, held as.

509. confessed later, confessed to be later, being fabled to have been children of Uranus, Heaven, and Ge, Earth.

510–514. There were twelve Titans, Heaven's first born. The youngest of these, Saturn or Kronos, deprived his father Uranus of his power, and was in his turn dispossessed by mightier Jove (Jupiter or Zeus), his own and Rhea's son.

518. like measure, similar treatment.

514. Crete, now called Candia, an island south of Greece, was the birthplace of Jupiter. He was said to have been brought up in a cave of Mount Ida, which was in the centre of the island.

516. Olympus, the seat of the gods, was in northern Greece.

517. the Delphian cliff. The celebrated temple and oracle of Apollo were at Delphi, on Mount Parnassus.

518. Dodona, in the western part of Greece, was a grove, from which answers were given to those who came to consult the oracle. It was sacred to Jupiter.

519. Doric land, Greece, or that part of Greece peopled by the Dorians, an important race. — who, those of them who.

520. Fled. Saturn is said to have fled to Italy, and reigned there, after his defeat and overthrow by Jupiter. — Adria, the Adriatic Sea, between Greece and Italy. See Acts xxvii. 27. — Hesperian, Italian ; to the west, from Hesperus, the evening star.

521. the Celtic, probably a Greek idiom, meaning the Celtic land ; ancient Gaul. — roamed, wandered over. — the utmost isles, Britain, or the British Isles. — utmost, furthest.

523. such wherein appeared, looks such that in them appeared.

Obscure some glimpse of joy to have found their chief
 Not in despair, to have found themselves not lost 525
 In loss itself; which on his countenance cast
 Like doubtful hue: but he his wonted pride
 Soon recollecting, with high words, that bore
 Semblance of worth not substance, gently raised
 Their fainting courage and dispelled their fears. 530
 Then straight commands that, at the warlike sound
 Of trumpets loud and clarions, be upreared
 His mighty standard: that proud honor claimed
 Azazel as his right, a Cherub tall;
 Who forthwith from the glittering staff unfurled 535
 The imperial ensign, which, full high advanced,
 Shone like a meteor streaming to the wind,
 With gems and golden lustre rich emblazed,
 Seraphic arms and trophies; all the while
 Sonorous metal blowing martial sounds: 540
 At which the universal host up sent
 A shout that tore Hell's concave, and beyond
 Frighted the reign of Chaos and old Night.
 All in a moment through the gloom were seen
 Ten thousand banners rise into the air, 545
 With orient colors waving; with them rose
 A forest huge of spears; and thronging helm
 Appeared, and serried shields in thick array
 Of depth immeasurable: anon they move
 In perfect phalanx to the Dorian mood 550
 Of flutes and soft recorders; such as raised
 To height of noblest temper heroes old
 Arming to battle, and instead of rage

527. like, the same.528. recollecting, collecting again; recovering.531. straight, straightway.533. emblazed, emblazoned; painted or adorned with figures.542. reign, kingdom.546. orient, bright.548. serried, pressed close, or locked together.549. anon. See line 325.550. Dorian mood, or mode, the martial measure or music to which the Dorians, particularly the Spartans, moved. They always drew up their troops in phalanx.551. recorders, instruments resembling flageolets.

Deliberate valor breathed, firm and unmoved
 With dread of death to flight or foul retreat; 555
 Nor wanting power to mitigate and swage
 With solemn touches troubled thoughts, and chase
 Anguish and doubt and fear and sorrow and pain
 From mortal or immortal minds. Thus they,
 Breathing united force, with fixèd thought, 560
 Moved on in silence to soft pipes that charmed
 Their painful steps o'er the burnt soil; and now
 Advanced in view they stand, a horrid front
 Of dreadful length and dazzling arms, in guise
 Of warriors old, with ordered spear and shield, 565
 Awaiting what command their mighty chief
 Had to impose: he through the armèd files
 Darts his experienced eye, and soon traverse
 The whole battalion views, their order due,
 Their visages and stature as of gods; 570
 Their number last he sums. And now his heart
 Distends with pride, and hardening in his strength
 Glories; for never, since created man,
 Met such embodied force as named with these Could merit more than that small infantry 575
 Warred on by cranes; though all the giant brood
 Of Phlegra with the heroic race were joined
 That fought at Thebes and Ilium, on each side
 Mixed with auxiliar gods; and what resounds

554. unmoved, not to be moved.

556. swage, assuage.

563. horrid, perhaps here, as in the Latin "horridus," bristling.

565. ordered, in due order, the shield on the left arm, and the spear erect in the right hand.

568. traverse, through and through.

572. his, probably its. His was the original possessive of "it," as well as of "he," as is seen in our translation of the Bible. See Gen. i. 11.: "The fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind." See line 673.

578. since created man, since man was created.

576. that small infantry, the Pygmies, a fabulous people, little more than a foot in height, who dwelt on the sea-shore, and were attacked by cranes every spring.

577. Phlegra, a plain in Macedonia, in which the rebellious Giants perished.

578. Thebes and Ilium. Allusion is made to the War of the Seven against Thebes in Greece, and to the Trojan War. In the latter, heroes fought, assisted by gods. — Ilium, Troy.

In fable or romance of Uther's son, 580
 Begirt with British and Armoric knights;
 And all who since, baptized or infidel,
 Jousted in Aspramont or Montalban,
 Damasco or Morocco or Trebisond,
 Or whom Biserta sent from Afric shore, 585
 When Charlemain with all his peerage fell
 By Fontarabbia. Thus far these beyond
 Compare of mortal prowess, yet observed
 Their dread commander: he, above the rest
 In shape and gesture proudly eminent, 590
 Stood like a tower; his form had not yet lost
 All her original brightness, nor appeared
 Less than Archangel ruined and the excess
 Of glory obscured: as when the sun new risen
 Looks through the horizontal misty air, 595
 Shorn of his beams; or from behind the moon,
 In dim eclipse, disastrous twilight sheds
 On half the nations, and with fear of change
 Perplexes monarchs; darkened so, yet shone
 Above them all the Archangel: but his face 600
 Deep scars of thunder had intrenched, and care
 Sat on his faded cheek, but under brows
 Of dauntless courage and considerate pride,

580. Uther's son, King Arthur.

581. Armoric, of Armorica or Brittany, in the northwest of France.

582. infidel, unbelieving, whether Pagan or Mohammedan.

583-587. These are names of places mentioned in very old romances. Some of them are found in the poem of "Orlando Furioso," which describes the adventures of the Brave Roland, one of the knights of Charlemain, Charlemagne. — Biserta was in the north of Africa. Fontarabia (as commonly spelled) is in northern Spain. At Roncesvalles, in the northeastern part, in a celebrated battle, his peerage fell, but not Charlemagne himself.

587-589. These, although in prowess above all comparison with any heroes of mortal birth, yet watched and obeyed their dread commander.

595. horizontal, near the horizon.

597. disastrous, announcing disaster. An eclipse has always been supposed by the ignorant and superstitious to threaten some great calamity.

599. darkened so, although so darkened.

601. intrenched, furrowed; cut with deep lines.

603. considerate, deliberating; planning.

Waiting revenge ; cruel his eye, but cast
 Signs of remorse and passion to behold 605
 The fellows of his crime, the followers rather,
 Far other once beheld in bliss, condemned
 Forever now to have their lot in pain ;
 Millions of spirits for his fault amerced
 Of Heaven, and from eternal splendors flung 610
 For his revolt, yet faithful how they stood,
 Their glory withered : as when heaven's fire
 Hath scathed the forest oaks or mountain pines,
 With singed top their stately growth though bare
 Stands on the blasted heath. He now prepared 615
 To speak ; whereat their doubled ranks they bend
 From wing to wing, and half enclose him round
 With all his peers : attention held them mute.
 Thrice he essayed, and thrice, in spite of scorn,
 Tears, such as angels weep, burst forth ; at last 620
 Words interwove with sighs found out their way.

" O myriads of immortal Spirits, O Powers
 Matchless but with the Almighty, and that strife
 Was not inglorious, though the event was dire,
 As this place testifies, and this dire change 625
 Hateful to utter : but what power of mind,
 Foreseeing or presaging, from the depth
 Of knowledge past or present, could have feared
 How such united force of gods, how such
 As stood like these, could ever know repulse ? 630
 For who can yet believe, though after loss,
 That all these puissant legions, whose exile
 Hath emptied Heaven, shall fail to reascend
 Self-raised, and repossess their native seat ?
 For me be witness all the host of Heaven 635
 If counsels different, or danger shunned

605. passion, feeling ; compassion.

609. amerced, deprived ; punished by loss.

611. yet faithful how they stood. This depends on behold in line 606.

636. different, varying.

e, have lost our hopes : but he who reigns rich in Heaven, till then as one secure on his throne, upheld by old repute, custom, or habit, and his regal state 640
 worth at full, but still his strength concealed, hath tempted our attempt and wrought our fall.
 Forth his might we know, and know our own,
 not either to provoke, or dread war provoked ; our better part remains 645 work in close design, by fraud or guile, force effected not ; that he no less strength from us may find, who overcomes force hath overcome but half his foe.
 He may produce new worlds ; whereof so rife 650
 He sent a fame in Heaven, that he ere long intended to create ; and therein plant a generation, whom his choice regard did favor equal to the sons of Heaven :
 For, if but to pry, shall be perhaps 655
 first eruption, thither or elsewhere ;
 his infernal pit shall never hold rebellious spirits in bondage, nor the abyss under darkness cover. But these thoughts counsel must mature. Peace is despaired, 660 who can think submission ? — War then, war or understood, must be resolved."

spake ; and to confirm his words out flew flames of flaming swords, drawn from the thighs of mighty Cherubim ; the sudden blaze 665 round illumined Hell : highly they raged against the Highest, and fierce with grasped arms provoke, as well as dread, went so general a fame or rumour.

New war.
work, work out ; effect. 655. Thither. See line 650.
who, that he who. 659. cover, cover them.
whereof so rife there 660. despaired, despaired of ;
of fame, of which there hopeless.

Clashed on their sounding shields the din of war,
Hurling defiance toward the vault of Heaven.

There stood a hill not far, whose grisly top 670
Belched fire and rolling smoke; the rest entire Shone with a glossy scurf; undoubted sign
That in his womb was hid metallic ore,
The work of sulphur. Thither winged with speed
A numerous brigade hastened; as when bands 675
Of pioneers, with spade and pickaxe armed,
Forerun the royal camp, to trench a field
Or cast a rampart. Mammon led them on,
Mammon, the least erected spirit that fell
From Heaven; for even in Heaven his looks and thoughts 680

Were always downward bent, admiring more
The riches of Heaven's pavement, trodden gold,
Than aught divine or holy else enjoyed
In vision beatific: by him first
Men also, and by his suggestion taught, 685
Ransacked the centre, and with impious hands
Rifled the bowels of their mother Earth
For treasures better hid. Soon had his crew
Opened into the hill a spacious wound,
And digged out ribs of gold. Let none admire 690
That riches grow in Hell; that soil may best Deserve the precious bane. And here let those Who boast in mortal things, and wondering tell
Of Babel and the works of Memphian kings,
Learn how their greatest monuments of fame, 695

671. the rest entire, all the rest.

678. his, its. See note on line 572.

678. Mammon is a Syriac word meaning Riches, which are here personified, as in Matt. vi. 24.

684. beatific, making blessed; heavenly. See III. 61, 62.

686. impious is probably here

used in its Latin sense of undutiful; unnatural.

690. admire, wonder; be astonished.

694. Babel, Babylon, whose walls, as well as the Pyramids of Egypt, the works of Memphian kings (see line 307), were among the Seven Wonders of the ancient world.

And strength and art are easily outdone
 By spirits reprobate, and in an hour,
 What in an age they, with incessant toil
 And hands innumerable, scarce perform.
 Nigh on the plain in many cells prepared, 700
 That underneath had veins of liquid fire
 Sluiced from the lake, a second multitude
 With wondrous art founded the massy ore,
 Severing each kind, and scummed the bullion dross :
 A third as soon had formed within the ground 705
 A various mould ; and from the boiling cells
 By strange conveyance filled each hollow nook ;
 As in an organ from one blast of wind
 To many a row of pipes the sound-board breathes.
 Anon out of the earth a fabric huge 710
 Rose, like an exhalation, with the sound
 Of dulcet symphonies and voices sweet,
 Built like a temple, where pilasters round
 Were set, and Doric pillars overlaid
 With golden architrave ; nor did there want 715
 Cornice or frieze, with bossy sculptures graven ;
 The roof was fretted gold. Not Babylon
 Nor great Alcairo such magnificence
 Equalled in all their glories, to enshrine
 Belus or Seräpis their gods, or seat 720
 Their kings, when Egypt with Assyria strove

697. in an hour, how in an hour is performed.

700. prepared, made for this purpose.

702. sluiced, brought in sluices.

703. founded, melted.

704. the bullion dross, the dross thrown off by the metal ; the scum of the boiling ore.

714. Doric. Of the three orders of Grecian architecture, Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian, the first was the most simple. The Parthenon at Athens was Doric.

715, 716. The architrave is that part of a building which rests immediately on the columns ; it is the lowest part of the entablature, of which the cornice is the upper part, the frieze being between them. — bossy, in relief ; standing out.

717. fretted, ornamented ; adorned with raised work.

720. Belus, or Bel, a Babylonish idol. — Serapis, an Egyptian deity worshipped at Memphis, near the site of which Cairo, or Alcairo, now stands.

In wealth and luxury. The ascending pile
 Stood fixed her stately height; and straight the doors
 Opening their brazen folds discover, wide
 Within, her ample spaces o'er the smooth 725
 And level pavement: from the archèd roof,
 Pendent by subtle magic, many a row
 Of starry lamps and blazing cressets, fed
 With naphtha and asphaltus, yielded light
 As from a sky. The hasty multitude 730
 Admiring entered, and the work some praise
 And some the architect; his hand was known
 In Heaven by many a towered structure high,
 Where sceptred angels held their residence,
 And sat as princes, whom the supreme King 735
 Exalted to such power, and gave to rule,
 Each in his hierarchy, the orders bright:
 Nor was his name unheard or unadored
 In ancient Greece; and in Ausonian land
 Men called him Mulciber; and how he fell 740
 From Heaven they fabled, thrown by angry Jove
 Sheer o'er the crystal battlements; from morn
 To noon he fell, from noon to dewy eve,
 A summer's day; and with the setting sun
 Dropped from the zenith like a falling star, 745
 On Lemnos the Ægean isle: thus they relate,
 Erring; for he with this rebellious rout
 Fell long before; nor aught availed him now
 To have built in Heaven high towers; nor did he scape

723. fixed, fixed in, or as to. But if a comma be put after stood, height may be considered as the nominative case absolute. — straight. See line 531.

729. naphtha and asphaltus are bituminous substances, the former liquid, the latter solid, and both very inflammable.

736. rule, rule over.

737. hierarchy, sacred rank.

739-746. Hephestos, the god of fire, was called Vulcan, or Mulciber, by the Romans, who dwelt in Ausonian land, or Italy. Having taken part with his mother, Hera, or Juno, in a quarrel between his parents, he was hurled by his father, angry Jove, from heaven. He fell on the island of Lemnos in the Ægean Sea.

749. scape. See line 482.

By all his engines, but was headlong sent 750
With his industrious crew to build in Hell.

Meanwhile the wingèd heralds, by command
Of sovran power, with awful ceremony
And trumpet's sound, throughout the host proclaim
A solemn council forthwith to be held 755
At Pandemonium, the high capital
Of Satan and his peers: their summons called
From every band and squared regiment
By place or choice the worthiest; they anon
With hundreds and with thousands trooping came 760
Attended: all access was thronged, the gates
And porches wide, but chief the spacious hall
(Though like a covered field, where champions bold
Wont ride in armed, and at the Soldan's chair
Defied the best of Panim chivalry 765
To mortal combat, or career with lance)
Thick swarmed, both on the ground and in the air
Brushed with the hiss of rustling wings. As bees
In spring-time, when the sun with Taurus rides,
Pour forth their populous youth about the hive 770
In clusters; they among fresh dews and flowers
Fly to and fro, or on the smoothèd plank,
The suburb of their straw-built citadel,
New rubbed with balm, expatiate, and confer
Their state affairs: so thick the aery crowd 775
Swarmed and were straitened; till, the signal given,
Behold a wonder! they but now who seemed

750. engines, ingenious devices or contrivances.

753. sovran. See line 246.

756. Pandemonium, place of all devils.

759. anon. See line 325.

761. all access, every way of access or approach.

763-766. In the wars between the Christians and Saracens, champions bold of the true faith
sometimes engaged in single combat with Panim (Paynim or Pagan) chivalry. They used (wont) to ride in (into the lists) in armor.

— Soldan, Sultan, the Saracen
chief or emperor.

769. when the sun with Taurus
rides, when the sun is in Taurus,
the sign of the Bull.

774. expatiate, move at large;
walk abroad. — confer, confer upon.

775. See line 430.

In bigness to surpass earth's giant sons,
 Now less than smallest dwarfs in narrow room
 Throng numberless, like that pygméan race 785
 Beyond the Indian mount; or fairy elves,
 Whose midnight revels by a forest side
 Or fountain some belated peasant sees,
 Or dreams he sees; while overhead the moon
 Sits arbitress, and nearer to the earth 786
 Wheels her pale course; they, on their mirth and 787 dance

Intent, with jocund music charm his ear;
 At once with joy and fear his heart rebounds.
 Thus incorporeal spirits to smallest forms
 Reduced their shapes immense; and were at large, 788
 Though without number still, amidst the hall
 Of that infernal court. But far within,
 And in their own dimensions like themselves,
 The great Seraphic lords and Cherubim
 In close recess and secret conclave sat; 789
 A thousand demi-gods on golden seats,
 Frequent and full. After short silence then
 And summons read, the great consult began.

785. arbitress, witness; spectator; — from the Latin.

790. were at large, had room enough.

797. Frequent, crowded; thronged.

798. consult, consultation.

BOOK II.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE consultation begun, Satan debates whether another battle is to be hazarded for the recovery of Heaven : some advise it, others dissuade. A third proposal is preferred, mentioned before by Satan, to search the truth of that prophecy or tradition in Heaven concerning another world, and another kind of creature, equal or not much inferior to themselves, about this time to be created ; their doubt who shall be sent on this difficult search : Satan, their chief, undertakes alone the voyage ; is honored and applauded. The council thus ended, the rest betake them several ways and to several employments, as their inclinations lead them, to entertain the time till Satan return. He passes on his journey to Hell gates, finds them shut, and who sat there to guard them, by whom at length they are opened, and discover to him the great gulf between Hell and Heaven ; with what difficulty he passes through, directed by Chaos, the Power of that place, to the sight of this new world which he sought.

HIGH on a throne of royal state, which far
Outshone the wealth of Ormus and of Ind,
Or where the gorgeous East with richest hand
Showers on her kings barbaric pearl and gold,
Satan exalted sat, by merit raised 5
To that bad eminence ; and, from despair
Thus high uplifted beyond hope, aspires
Beyond thus high, insatiate to pursue
Vain war with Heaven ; and, by success untaught,
His proud imaginations thus displayed : 10

2. of Ormus or of Ind. Ormus, or Ormuz, is an island in the Persian Gulf, formerly an emporium of the rich commerce of the East. — Ind, India.

4. barbaric pearl and gold. The term barbaric here means oriental, having no reference to barbarians, as we use the word.

5. by merit, because he had so deserved.

7. beyond hope, beyond what he had lately hoped for.

8. insatiate, eager with insatiate passion.

9. success, the event.

10. displayed, set forth.

" Powers and Dominions, deities of Heaven —
 For since no deep within her gulf can hold
 Immortal vigor, though oppressed and fallen,
 I give not Heaven for lost ; from this descent
 Celestial virtues rising will appear 15
 More glorious and more dread than from no fall,
 And trust themselves to fear no second fate —
 Me though just right and the fixed laws of Heaven
 Did first create your leader, next free choice,
 With what besides in council or in fight 20
 Hath been achieved of merit ; yet this loss
 Thus far at least recovered hath much more
 Established in a safe unenvied throne,
 Yielded with full consent. The happier state
 In Heaven, which follows dignity, might draw 25
 Envy from each inferior ; but who here
 Will envy whom the highest place exposes
 Foremost to stand against the Thunderer's aim
 Your bulwark, and condemns to greatest share
 Of endless pain ? Where there is then no good 30
 For which to strive, no strife can grow up there
 From faction ; for none sure will claim in Hell
 Precedence, none whose portion is so small
 Of present pain that with ambitious mind
 Will covet more. With this advantage then 35
 To union and firm faith and firm accord,
 More than can be in Heaven, we now return
 To claim our just inheritance of old,
 Surer to prosper than prosperity
 Could have assured us ; and by what best way, 40
 Whether of open war or covert guile,
 We now debate ; who can advise may speak."

22. recovered, made up.

23. established. For the object of this verb, see line 18.

25. follows dignity, accompanies high rank.

27. whom, him whom.

29. Your bulwark, as your bulwark.

33. none, there is none.

40. by what best way, by what way we may best return.

He ceased ; and next him Moloch, sceptred king,
 Stood up, the strongest and the fiercest spirit
 That fought in Heaven, now fiercer by despair : 45
 His trust was with the Eternal to be deemed Equal in strength, and rather than be less
 Cared not to be at all ; with that care lost
 Went all his fear ; of God, or Hell, or worse, 49
 He recked not ; and these words thereafter spake :

“ My sentence is for open war ; of wiles
 More unexpert I boast not ; them let those Contrive who need, or when they need, not now :
 For while they sit contriving, shall the rest,
 Millions that stand in arms and longing wait 55
 The signal to ascend, sit lingering here,
 Heaven’s fugitives, and for their dwelling-place
 Accept this dark opprobrious den of shame,
 The prison of his tyranny who reigns
 By our delay ? No, let us rather choose, 60
 Armed with hell-flames and fury, all at once
 O’er Heaven’s high towers to force resistless way,
 Turning our tortures into horrid arms
 Against the torturer ; when to meet the noise
 Of his almighty engine he shall hear 65
 Infernal thunder, and for lightning see
 Black fire and horror shot with equal rage
 Among his angels, and his throne itself
 Mixed with Tartarean sulphur and strange fire,
 His own invented torments. But perhaps 70
 The way seems difficult and steep to scale
 With upright wing against a higher foe :
 Let such bethink them, if the sleepy drench

43. Moloch. See I. 392-405.

46. The pause in this line is after was.

52. unexpert agrees with I.

65. engine, thunderbolt.

69. Tartarean, belonging to Tartarus, or Hell.

73. such, those to whom the way seems difficult, &c.

Of that forgetful lake benumb not still,
 That in our proper motion we ascend 75
 Up to our native seat; descent and fall
 To us is adverse. Who but felt of late,
 When the fierce foe hung on our broken rear
 Insulting and pursued us through the deep,
 With what compulsion and laborious flight 80
 We sunk thus low? The ascent is easy then;
 The event is feared; should we again provoke
 Our stronger, some worse way his wrath may find
 To our destruction, if there be in Hell
 Fear to be worse destroyed. What can be worse 85
 Than to dwell here, driven out from bliss, condemned
 In this abhorrèd deep to utter woe;
 Where pain of unextinguishable fire
 Must exercise us without hope of end,
 The vassals of his anger, when the scourge 90
 Inexorably and the torturing hour
 Calls us to penance? — more destroyed than thus,
 We should be quite abolished, and expire.
 What fear we then? what doubt we to incense
 His utmost ire? which, to the height enraged, 95
 Will either quite consume us and reduce
 To nothing this essential (happier far
 Than miserable to have eternal being!);
 Or, if our substance be indeed divine
 And cannot cease to be, we are at worst 100
 On this side nothing; and by proof we feel
 Our power sufficient to disturb his Heaven,

74. that forgetful lake. See I., 286.

75. proper, that which belongs to us; natural.

82. The event, what might be the result.

89. exercise, afflict; torment.

91. Inexorably. Milton may here have dictated inexorable.

92. than thus, than we are now.

94. what doubt we, why do we hesitate. — to incense, to inflame.

97. this essential, our being; our existence. — happier far, which would be a lot far happier.

101. On this side nothing, on this side of nothing; not annihilated.

And with perpetual inroads to alarm,
 Though inaccessible, his fatal throne ;
 Which, if not victory, is yet revenge." 106

He ended frowning, and his look denounced
 Desperate revenge, and battle dangerous
 To less than gods. On the other side uprose
 Belial, in act more graceful and humane :
 A fairer person lost not Heaven ; he seemed 110
 For dignity composed and high exploit ;
 But all was false and hollow, though his tongue
 Dropped manna, and could make the worse appear
 The better reason, to perplex and dash
 Maturest counsels ; for his thoughts were low, 115
 To vice industrious, but to nobler deeds
 Timorous and slothful ; yet he pleased the ear,
 And with persuasive accents thus began :

"I should be much for open war, O Peers,
 As not behind in hate, if what was urged 120
 Main reason to persuade immediate war
 Did not dissuade me most, and seem to cast
 Ominous conjecture on the whole success ;
 When he who most excels in fact of arms,
 In what he counsels and in what excels 125
 Mistrustful, grounds his courage on despair
 And utter dissolution, as the scope
 Of all his aim after some dire revenge.
 First, what revenge ? The towers of Heaven are filled
 With armed watch, that render all access 130

104. fatal, upheld by fate.106. denounced, threatened.109. Belial. See I. 490-505. — act, manner. — humane, refined ;
courteous.111. composed, made.118. industrious, assiduously devoted.121. Main reason, as the main reason.123. Ominous conjecture, threatening doubt ; anticipation of evil.124. he, Moloch. See lines 51-105. — fact, deed or deeds.130. render all access impregnable, make approach impossible

Impregnable; oft on the bordering deep
 Encamp their legions, or with obscure wing
 Scout far and wide into the realm of night,
 Scorning surprise. Or could we break our way
 By force, and at our heels all Hell should rise 136
 With blackest insurrection to confound
 Heaven's purest light, yet our great enemy
 All incorruptible would on his throne
 Sit unpolluted, and the ethereal mould,
 Incapable of stain, would soon expel 140
 Her mischief, and purge off the baser fire,
 Victorious. Thus repulsed, our final hope
 Is flat despair: we must exasperate
 The almighty victor to spend all his rage,
 And that must end us; that must be our cure, 146
 To be no more. Sad cure! for who would lose,
 Though full of pain, this intellectual being,
 Those thoughts that wander through eternity,
 To perish rather, swallowed up and lost
 In the wide womb of uncreated night, 150
 Devoid of sense and motion? And who knows,
 Let this be good, whether our angry foe
 Can give it, or will ever? how he can,
 Is doubtful; that he never will, is sure.
 Will he, so wise, let loose at once his ire, 155
 Belike through impotence or unaware,
 To give his enemies their wish, and end
 Them in his anger, whom his anger saves
 To punish endless? Wherefore cease we then,
 Say they who counsel war; we are decreed, 160
 Reserved, and destined to eternal woe;

134. surprise, the danger of being surprised. — In this line and the next, supply if.

138. All incorruptible, not to be impaired.

141. Her, its. — mischief, damage, injury. — baser fire is opposed to purest light.

149. To perish rather, preferring to perish.

152. Let this be good, supposing that this be good, or desirable.

156. Belike, perhaps. — impotence, ungovernable rage.

159. What they say ends with worse.

Whatever doing, what can we suffer more,
 What can we suffer worse? — Is this then worst,
 Thus sitting, thus consulting, thus in arms?
 What! when we fled amain, pursued and struck 165
 With Heaven's afflicting thunder, and besought
 The deep to shelter us? 'this Hell then seemed
 A refuge from those wounds. Or when we lay Chained on the burning lake? that sure was worse.
 What if the breath that kindled those grim fires, 170
 Awaked, should blow them into sevenfold rage,
 And plunge us in the flames? or from above
 Should intermitted vengeance arm again
 His red right hand to plague us? What if all
 Her stores were opened, and this firmament 175
 Of Hell should spout her cataracts of fire,
 Impendent horrors, threatening hideous fall
 One day upon our heads; while we, perhaps Designing or exhorting glorious war,
 Caught in a fiery tempest shall be hurled 180
 Each on his rock transfix'd, the sport and prey
 Of racking whirlwinds, or forever sunk
 Under yon boiling ocean, wrapt in chains;
 There to converse with everlasting groans,
 Unrespited, unpitied, unreprieved, 185
 Ages of hopeless end? This would be worse.
 War, therefore, open or concealed, alike
 My voice dissuades; for what can force or guile
 With him, or who deceive his mind, whose eye Views all things at one view? He from Heaven's height 190
 All these our motions vain sees and derides;

166. afflicting. See I. 186.172. Or, or what if.175. Her refers to vengeance.176. her, its177. Impendent, hanging over us.184. converse, be familiar or conversant with.186. Ages of hopeless end, through ages without hope of end.188. dissuades, discourages. — what can, what can force or guile accomplish.

Not more almighty to resist our might
 Than wise to frustrate all our plots and wiles.
 Shall we then live thus vile, the race of Heaven,
 Thus trampled, thus expelled, to suffer here 195
 Chains and these torments? Better these than worse,
 By my advice; since fate inevitable
 Subdues us, and omnipotent decree,
 The victor's will. To suffer, as to do,
 Our strength is equal, nor the law unjust 200
 That so ordains: this was at first resolved,
 If we were wise, against so great a foe
 Contending, and so doubtful what might fall.
 I laugh, when those who at the spear are bold
 And venturous, if that fail them, shrink, and fear 205
 What yet they know must follow, to endure
 Exile, or ignominy, or bonds, or pain,
 The sentence of their conqueror: this is now
 Our doom, which if we can sustain and bear,
 Our supreme foe in time may much remit 210
 His anger, and perhaps thus far removed
 Not mind us not offending, satisfied
 With what is punished: whence these raging fires
 Will slacken, if his breath stir not their flames.
 Our purer essence then will overcome 215
 Their noxious vapor, or inured not feel;
 Or changed at length, and to the place conformed
 In temper and in nature, will receive
 Familiar the fierce heat, and void of pain;
 This horror will grow mild, this darkness light: 220
 Besides what hope the never-ending flight
 Of future days may bring, what chance, what change
 Worth waiting, since our present lot appears

200. equal, equally able.

201. this was at first resolved, to this (that is, to suffer as to do)
 we must at the beginning have brought our mind.

208. fall, befall.

216. or inured not feel, or,

having become accustomed to it,
 cease to feel it.

218. temper, constitution or natural condition.

219. the fierce heat as familiar and void of pain.

223. waiting, waiting for.

For happy though but ill, for ill not worst ;
If we procure not to ourselves more woe." 225

Thus Belial, with words clothed in reason's garb,
Counselled ignoble ease and peaceful sloth,
Not peace ; and after him thus Mammon spake :

" Either to disenthroned the King of Heaven
We war, if war be best, or to regain 230
Our own right lost : Him to unthroned we then
May hope, when everlasting Fate shall yield
To fickle Chance, and Chaos judge the strife :
The former vain to hope, argues as vain
The latter ; for what place can be for us 235
Within Heaven's bound, unless Heaven's lord supreme
We overpower ? Suppose he should relent
And publish grace to all, on promise made
Of new subjection ; with what eyes could we Stand in his presence humble, and receive 240
Strict laws imposed, to celebrate his throne
With warbled hymns, and to his Godhead sing
Forced hallelujahs ; while he lordly sits
Our envied sovrán, and his altar breathes
Ambrosial odors and ambrosial flowers, 245
Our servile offerings ? This must be our task
In Heaven, this our delight ; how wearisome
Eternity so spent, in worship paid
To whom we hate ! Let us not then pursue
By force impossible, by leave obtained 250
Unacceptable, though in Heaven, our state
Of splendid vassalage ; but rather seek

224. though but ill for a happy one, yet not worst for an evil one.

228. Mammon. See I. 678-688.

233. grace, pardon.

241. celebrate, throng around and glorify.

249. pursue, seek to continue.

250, 251. The adjectives belong to state.

Our own good from ourselves, and from our own
 Live to ourselves, though in this vast recess,
 Free and to none accountable, preferring 254
 Hard liberty before the easy yoke
 Of servile pomp. Our greatness will appear
 Then most conspicuous, when great things of small,
 Useful of hurtful, prosperous of adverse
 We can create ; and in what place soe'er 255
 Thrive under evil, and work ease out of pain,
 Through labor and endurance. This deep world
 Of darkness do we dread ? How oft amidst Thick clouds and dark doth Heaven's all-ruling Sire 256
 Choose to reside, his glory unobscured,
 And with the majesty of darkness round
 Covers his throne ; from whence deep thunders roar
 Mustering their rage, and Heaven resembles Hell !
 As he our darkness, cannot we his light
 Imitate when we please ? This desert soil 257
 Wants not her hidden lustre, gems and gold ;
 Nor want we skill or art, from whence to raise
 Magnificence ; and what can Heaven show more ?
 Our torments also may in length of time
 Become our elements, these piercing fires 275
 As soft as now severe, our temper changed
 Into their temper, which must needs remove
 The sensible of pain. All things invite
 To peaceful counsels and the settled state
 Of order, how in safety best we may 280
 Compose our present evils, with regard
 Of what we are and were, dismissing quite
 All thought of war. Ye have what I advise."

253. our own, what is our own stances or matter of which we are composed.

258. of, out of.

260. in what place soe'er, in whatever place ; anywhere.

264. See Psalm xviii. 6-18.

275. our elements, the sub-

276. temper. See line 218.

278. sensible of, sensibility to.

280. how, to take counsel how, implied in counsels.

281. Compose, settle ; calm.

He scarce had finished, when such murmur filled
 The assembly, as when hollow rocks retain 285
 The sound of blustering winds, which all night long
 Had roused the sea, now with hoarse cadence lull
 Sea-faring men o'erwatched, whose bark by chance
 Or pinnace anchors in a craggy bay
 After the tempest: such applause was heard 290
 As Mammon ended, and his sentence pleased,
 Advising peace; for such another field
 They dreaded worse than Hell, so much the fear
 Of thunder and the sword of Michaël
 Wrought still within them; and no less desire 295
 To found this nether empire, which might rise,
 By policy and long process of time,
 In emulation opposite to Heaven.
 Which when Beëlzebub perceived, than whom,
 Satan except, none higher sat, with grave 300
 Aspect he rose, and in his rising seemed
 A pillar of state; deep on his front engraven
 Deliberation sat and public care;
 And princely counsel in his face yet shone,
 Majestic though in ruin: sage he stood, 305
 With Atlantéan shoulders fit to bear
 The weight of mightiest monarchies; his look
 Drew audience and attention still as night
 Or summer's noon-tide air; while thus he spake:

"Thrones and Imperial Powers, offspring of Heaven,
 Ethereal Virtues! or these titles now 311
 Must we renounce, and, changing style, be called Princes of Hell? for so the popular vote

287. now, but now.
 288. o'erwatched, having watched too long.
 289. desire, the desire.

 297. policy, politic arts.
 299. Beëlzebub. See I. 78-81.

300. except, excepted.
 302. front, forehead, or face.
 306. Atlantéan, like those of Atlas, who is fabled to have borne the world on his shoulders.
 308. audience, hearing.

Inclines, here to continue, and build up here
 A growing empire; doubtless! while we dream, 311
 And know not that the King of Heaven hath doomed
 This place our dungeon, not our safe retreat
 Beyond his potent arm, to live exempt
 From Heaven's high jurisdiction, in new league
 Banded against his throne; but to remain 320
 In strictest bondage, though thus far removed,
 Under the inevitable curb, reserved
 His captive multitude; for he, be sure,
 In height or depth, still first and last will reign
 Sole king, and of his kingdom lose no part 325
 By our revolt, but over Hell extend
 His empire, and with iron sceptre rule
 Us here, as with his golden those in Heaven.
 What sit we then projecting peace and war?
 War hath determined us, and foiled with loss 330
 Irreparable; terms of peace yet none
 Vouchsafed, or sought; for what peace will be given
 To us enslaved, but custody severe,
 And stripes, and arbitrary punishment
 Inflicted? and what peace can we return, 335
 But to our power hostility and hate,
 Untamed reluctance, and revenge, though slow,
 Yet ever plotting how the conqueror least
 May reap his conquest, and may least rejoice
 In doing what we most in suffering feel? 340
 Nor will occasion want, nor shall we need
 With dangerous expedition to invade
 Heaven, whose high walls fear no assault or siege,
 Or ambush from the deep. What if we find
 Some easier enterprise? There is a place 345
 (If ancient and prophetic fame in Heaven

 sneeringly, like "forsooth."

322. reserved, reserued as.

329. What, why.

336. to, to the extent of.

337. reluctance, struggling against.

341. occasion, opportunity — want, be wanting.

Err not), another world, the happy seat
 Of some new race called Man, about this time
 To be created like to us, though less
 In power and excellence, but favored more 350
 Of him who rules above; so was his will Pronounced among the gods, and by an oath,
 That shook Heaven's whole circumference, confirmed.
 Thither let us bend all our thoughts, to learn
 What creatures there inhabit, of what mould 355
 Or substance, how endued, and what their power,
 And where their weakness, how attempted best,
 By force or subtilty. Though Heaven be shut,
 And Heaven's high arbitrator sit secure
 In his own strength, this place may lie exposed, 360
 The utmost border of his kingdom, left
 To their defence who hold it: here perhaps
 Some advantageous act may be achieved
 By sudden onset, either with hell-fire
 To waste his whole creation, or possess 365
 All as our own, and drive, as we were driven,
 The puny habitants; or, if not drive,
 Seduce them to our party, that their God
 May prove their foe, and with repenting hand
 Abolish his own works. This would surpass 370
 Common revenge, and interrupt his joy
 In our confusion, and our joy upraise
 In his disturbance; when his darling sons,
 Hurl'd headlong to partake with us, shall curse
 Their frail original and faded bliss, 375
 Faded so soon. Advise if this be worth
 Attempting, or to sit in darkness here
 Hatching vain empires." Thus Beëlzebub
 Pleaded his devilish counsel, first devised

352. See Hebrews vi. 17.

357. how attempted best, how best to be attacked.366. drive, drive out.375. original, original nature.376. Advise, consider.377. or, or if it be better.379. Pleaded, urged; pressed earnestly.

By Satan, and in part proposed ; for whence, 380
 But from the author of all ill, could spring
 So deep a malice, to confound the race
 Of mankind in one root, and Earth with Hell
 To mingle and involve, done all to spite
 The great Creator ? But their spite still serves 385
 His glory to augment. The bold design
 Pleas'd highly those infernal states, and joy
 Sparkled in all their eyes : with full assent
 They vote ; whereat his speech he thus renews :

“ Well have ye judged, well ended long debate, 390
 Synod of gods ! and, like to what ye are,
 Great things resolved ; which from the lowest deep
 Will once more lift us up, in spite of fate,
 Nearer our ancient seat ; perhaps in view 394
 Of those bright confines, whence with neighboring arms

And opportune excursion we may chance
 Reënter Heaven ; or else, in some mild zone
 Dwell, not unvisited of Heaven's fair light,
 Secure, and at the brightening orient beam
 Purge off this gloom ; the soft delicious air, 400
 To heal the scar of these corrosive fires, Shall breathe her balm. But first, whom shall we send

In search of this new world ? whom shall we find Sufficient ? who shall tempt with wandering feet
 The dark unbottomed infinite abyss, 405
 And through the palpable obscure find out
 His uncouth way, or spread his aery flight,

387. states, assembled counsellors ; estates. free from anxiety.—orient, which rises and gives lustre.

392. resolved, determined on.

396. excursion, sallying forth. 406. obscure is used as a noun-like abrupt in line 409.

—chance, chance to, or by chance.

398. of, by.

399. Secure, without care ;

407. uncouth, unknown.—aery. See I. 430 and note.

Upborne with indefatigable wings,
 Over the vast abrupt, ere he arrive
 The happy isle? what strength, what art, can then
 Suffice, or what evasion bear him safe 411
 Through the strict senteries and stations thick
 Of angels watching round? here he had need
 All circumspection, and we now no less
 Choice in our suffrage; for on whom we send, 415
 The weight of all and our last hope relies."

This said, he sat; and expectation held
 His look suspense, awaiting who appeared
 To second, or oppose, or undertake
 The perilous attempt; but all sat mute, 420
 Pondering the danger with deep thoughts, and each
 In other's countenance read his own dismay,
 Astonished. None among the choice and prime
 Of those heaven-warring champions could be found
 So hardy as to proffer or accept 425
 Alone the dreadful voyage; till at last
 Satan, whom now transcendent glory raised
 Above his fellows, with monarchal pride,
 Conscious of highest worth, unmoved thus spake:

"O progeny of Heaven, empyreal Thrones! 430
 With reason hath deep silence and demur
 Seized us, though undismayed. Long is the way
 And hard, that out of Hell leads up to light;
 Our prison strong; this huge convex of fire,
 Outrageous to devour, immures us round 435
 Ninefold, and gates of burning adamant
 Barred over us prohibit all egress.

409. arrive, reach; arrive at.

412. senteries, sentries. — stations, guards.

414. All, of all, as of choice in the next line. — no less, no less need.

415. whom, him whom.

418. suspense, suspended; in suspense. — appeared, should appear.

426. voyage, journey.

434. convex, vault.

435. Outrageous, furious; raging.

These passed, if any pass, the void profound
 Of unessential night receives him next,
 Wide gaping, and with utter loss of being
 Threatens him, plunged in that abortive gulf.
 If thence he scape into whatever world
 Or unknown region, what remains him less
 Than unknown dangers and as hard escape?
 But I should ill become this throne, O Peers!
 And this imperial sovranity, adorned
 With splendor, armed with power, if aught proposed
 And judged of public moment, in the shape
 Of difficulty or danger, could deter
 Me from attempting. Wherefore do I assume
 These royalties, and not refuse to reign,
 Refusing to accept as great a share
 Of hazard as of honor, due alike
 To him who reigns, and so much to him due
 Of hazard more, as he above the rest
 High honored sits? Go, therefore, mighty Powers,
 Terror of Heaven, though fallen! intend at home,
 While here shall be our home, what best may ease
 The present misery, and render Hell
 More tolerable; if there be cure or charm
 To respite, or deceive, or slack the pain
 Of this ill mansion. Intermit no watch
 Against a wakeful foe, while I abroad
 Through all the coasts of dark destruction seek Deliverance for us all: this enterprise
 None shall partake with me." Thus saying rose
 The monarch and prevented all reply,
 Prudent, lest from his resolution raised

439. unessential, having no essence or being.

443. remains, is left.

448. moment, importance; weight.

458. due alike, both due; that is, both hazard and honor.

455. Of hazard more, so much more of hazard or danger.

457. intend, consider; direct your attention to.

468. from his resolution raised, roused by his resolve.

Others among the chiefs might offer now
 (Certain to be refused) what erst they feared; 470
 And, so refused, might in opinion stand
 His rivals, winning cheap the high repute
 Which he through hazard huge must earn. But they Dreaded not more the adventure than his voice
 Forbidding; and at once with him they rose: 475
 Their rising all at once was as the sound
 Of thunder heard remote. Towards him they bend
 With awful reverence prone; and as a god
 Extol him equal to the Highest in Heaven;
 Nor failed they to express how much they praised
 That for the general safety he despised 481
 His own; for neither do the Spirits damned
 Lose all their virtue, lest bad men should boast
 Their specious deeds on earth, which glory excites,
 Or close ambition varnished o'er with zeal. 485

Thus they their doubtful consultations dark
 Ended, rejoicing in their matchless chief:
 As when from mountain-tops the dusky clouds
 Ascending, while the north wind sleeps, o'erspread 490
 Heaven's cheerful face, the louring element
 Scowls o'er the darkened landscape snow or shower,
 If chance the radiant sun with farewell sweet
 Extend his evening beam, the fields revive,
 The birds their notes renew, and bleating herds 495
 Attest their joy, that hill and valley rings.
 O shame to men! devil with devil damned
 Firm concord holds, men only disagree
 Of creatures rational, though under hope
 Of heavenly grace; and, God proclaiming peace,

Yet live in hatred, enmity, and strife 500
 Among themselves, and levy cruel wars,
 Wasting the earth, each other to destroy :
 As if (which might induce us to accord)
 Man had not hellish foes enow besides,
 That day and night for his destruction wait. 505

The Stygian council thus dissolved ; and forth
 In order came the grand infernal peers :
 Midst came their mighty paramount, and seemed Alone the antagonist of Heaven, nor less
 Than Hell's dread emperor, with pomp supreme 510
 And godlike imitated state. Him round
 A globe of fiery Seraphim enclosed
 With bright emblazonry and horrent arms.
 Then of their session ended they bid cry
 With trumpet's regal sound the great result. 515
 Toward the four winds four speedy Cherubim
 Put to their mouths the sounding alchemy,
 By herald's voice explained ; the hollow abyss
 Heard far and wide, and all the host of Hell 519
 With deafening shout returned them loud acclaim.

Thence more at ease their minds, and somewhat raised
 By false presumptuous hope, the rangèd powers
 Disband, and wandering each his several way
 Pursues, as inclination or sad choice
 Leads him perplexed, where he may likeliest find 525
 Truce to his restless thoughts, and entertain
 The irksome hours till his great chief return.

504. enow, enough.

506. Stygian, infernal. See I. 239.

508. paramount, chief ; lord-paramount.

512. globe, a crowd close ranged in a circle.

513. emblazonry, emblazoned or pictured shields. — horrent, bristling.

517. alchemy, metal mixed or compounded by chemical art.

526. entertain, employ or spend agreeably ; while away.

Part on the plain or in the air sublime
 Upon the wing or in swift race contend,
 As at the Olympian games or Pythian fields ; 530
 Part curb their fiery steeds, or shun the goal
 With rapid wheels, or fronted brigades form.
 As when, to warn proud cities, war appears
 Waged in the troubled sky and armies rush
 To battle in the clouds, before each van 535
 Prick forth the aery knights, and couch their spears
 Till thickest legions close ; with feats of arms
 From either end of heaven the welkin burns.
 Others with vast Typhœan rage more fell
 Rend up both rocks and hills, and ride the air 540
 In whirlwind ; Hell scarce holds the wild uproar,
 As when Alcides from Æchalia crowned
 With conquest felt the envenomed robe, and tore
 Through pain up by the roots Thessalian pines,
 And Lichas from the top of Æta threw 545
 Into the Euboic Sea. Others more mild,

528. sublime, high.

530-532. The Olympian games were celebrated once in four years at Olympia, in Greece, in honor of Zeus, or Jupiter. The Pythian games were celebrated, also every fourth year, in honor of Apollo, on a plain in the neighborhood of Delphi. The contests consisted of various trials of strength and skill, among which were horse and chariot races. — shun, keep clear of ; drive round without touching. — fronted brigades, brigades formed with a front, or fronting on a line.

533. to warn proud cities. Appearances in the heavens, such as are here described, are considered as warnings by the super-

536. Prick, come upon the wing. — aery, seen in the air. — fix or set for attack.

537. Typhœan, from Typhœus, a monster who is sometimes described as a destructive hurricane and the father of winds. — more fell, fiercer.

542-546. Alcides, Hercules. He was called Alcides from his grandfather Alcæus, and was celebrated for his great strength. On his return from the conquest of Æchalia, a city in Thessaly, he prepared to offer sacrifice to Zeus, and sent his attendant Lichas to bring him a white garment. His wife, moved by jealousy of a beautiful captive whom he had taken, sent him a poisoned robe instead, which threw him into such agony that he seized the messenger by the feet, and hurled him into the sea between Thessaly and the island of Eubœa, hence called the Euboic Sea. — Æta was a mountain in the south of Thessaly, on which Hercules raised a funeral pile and caused himself to be burned to death.

Retreated in a silent valley, sing
 With notes angelical to many a harp
 Their own heroic deeds and hapless fall
 By doom of battle ; and complain that fate 550
 Free virtue should enthrall to force or chance.
 Their song was partial, but the harmony
 (What could it less when spirits immortal sing ?)
 Suspended Hell, and took with ravishment
 The thronging audience. In discourse more sweet
 (For eloquence the soul, song charms the sense) 554
 Others apart sat on a hill retired,
 In thoughts more elevate, and reasoned high
 Of providence, foreknowledge, will, and fate,
 Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute ; 560
 And found no end, in wandering mazes lost.
 Of good and evil much they argued then,
 Of happiness and final misery,
 Passion and apathy, and glory and shame,
 Vain wisdom all, and false philosophy ; 566
 Yet with a pleasing sorcery could charm
 Pain for a while or anguish, and excite
 Fallacious hope, or arm the obdured breast
 With stubborn patience as with triple steel.
 Another part, in squadrons and gross bands, 570
 On bold adventure to discover wide
 That dismal world, if any clime perhaps
 Might yield them easier habitation, bend
 Four ways their flying march, along the banks
 Of four infernal rivers, that disgorge 576
 Into the burning lake their baleful streams ;
 Abhorred Styx, the flood of deadly hate ;

552. partial, describing only Lethe, were the rivers of the lower world. The word Styx their own part or share.

554. Suspended, held mute.

568. obdured, hardened.

570. gross, dense, or large.

576. four infernal rivers. In Phlegethon flaming. The word Lethe meant oblivion.

Greek mythology these, with

Sad Acheron, of sorrow — black and deep ;
 Cocytus, named of lamentation loud
 Heard on the rueful stream ; fierce Phlegethon 580
 Whose waves of torrent fire inflame with rage.
 Far off from these a slow and silent stream,
 Lethè, the river of oblivion, rolls
 Her watery labyrinth, whereof who drinks
 Forthwith his former state and being forgets, 585
 Forgets both joy and grief, pleasure and pain.
 Beyond this flood a frozen continent
 Lies dark and wild, beat with perpetual storms
 Of whirlwind and dire hail, which on firm land
 Thaws not, but gathers heap, and ruin seems 590
 Of ancient pile : all else, deep snow and ice,
 A gulf profound, as that Serbonian bog
 Betwixt Damiatra and Mount Casius old,
 Where armies whole have sunk : the parching air
 Burns frore, and cold performs the effect of fire. 595
 Thither, by harpy-footed Furies haled,
 At certain revolutions all the damned
 Are brought ; and feel by turns the bitter change
 Of fierce extremes, extremes by change more fierce,
 From beds of raging fire to starve in ice 600
 Their soft ethereal warmth, and there to pine
 Immovable, infixèd, and frozen round,
 Periods of time ; thence hurried back to fire.
 They ferry over this Lethéan sound
 Both to and fro, their sorrow to augment, 605
 And wish and struggle, as they pass, to reach

592. that Serbonian bog. This bog was near Mount Casius, east of Damiatra or Damietta, on the road from Egypt to Syria. Whole armies are said to have been here swallowed up.

595. frore, with frost.

596. harpy-footed Furies. The Furies, according to ancient mythology, were avenging deities, dreaded by gods and men as the punishers of crime. — harpy-footed, having the feet of Harpies. These were disgusting monsters, with the bodies of birds, the heads of maidens, and long claws. — haled, dragged or pulled violently along. "Haling men and women, he committed them to prison." Acts viii. 3.

The tempting stream, with one small drop to lose
 In sweet forgetfulness all pain and woe,
 All in one moment, and so near the brink ;
 But fate withstands, and to oppose the attempt 610
 Medusa with Gorgonian terror guards
 The ford, and of itself the water flies
 All taste of living wight, as once it fled
 The lip of Tantalus. Thus roving on,
 In confused march forlorn, the adventurous bands, 615
 With shuddering horror pale and eyes aghast,
 Viewed first their lamentable lot, and found
 No rest : through many a dark and dreary vale
 They passed, and many a region dolorous,
 O'er many a frozen, many a fiery Alp, 620
 Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens, and shades of death ;

A universe of death, which God by curse
 Created evil, for evil only good,
 Where all life dies, death lives, and nature breeds
 Perverse all monstrous, all prodigious things, 625
 Abominable, inutterable, and worse
 Than fables yet have feigned or fear conceived,
 Gorgons, and Hydras, and Chimæras dire.

611. Medusa was one of the three Gorgons. These were represented as frightful beings, whose heads were covered with hissing serpents instead of hair. The head of Medusa, though her face is sometimes described as very beautiful, was so terrible that whoever looked upon it was changed to stone.

613. wight, person ; being.

614. Tantalus, as a punishment for some crime committed against Zeus, was condemned in the lower world to the torments of a raging thirst, while he was placed in the midst of a lake the waters of which always receded when he attempted to drink them. Branches of refreshing fruit hung over his head, which moved away when he stretched out his hand to reach them. From Tantalus comes our English word "tantalize."

617. Viewed first, had their first view of.

625. prodigious things, prodigies.

628. Gorgons. See line 611, and note. — Hydras. The Hydra was a monster with nine heads. When one of these was cut off, two new ones grew in its place. It was finally conquered by Hercules. — Chimæras. The Chimæra was a fire-breathing monster, with the head of a lion, the body of a goat, and the tail of a dragon. The word chimera

Meanwhile the adversary of God and man,
 Satan, with thoughts inflamed of highest design, 630
 Puts on swift wings, and towards the gates of Hell
 Explores his solitary flight ; sometimes
 He scours the right-hand coast, sometimes the left ;
 Now shaves with level wing the deep, then soars
 Up to the fiery concave towering high. 635
 As when far off at sea a fleet descried
 Hangs in the clouds, by equinoctial winds
 Close sailing from Bengala, or the isles
 Of Ternate and Tidore, whence merchants bring
 Their spicy drugs ; they on the trading flood 640
 Through the wide Ethiopian to the Cape
 Ply, stemming nightly toward the Pole : so seemed Far off the flying Fiend. At last appear
 Hell bounds, high reaching to the horrid roof,
 And thrice threefold the gates ; three folds were brass, 645
 Three iron, three of adamantine rock,
 Impenetrable, impaled with circling fire,
 Yet unconsumed. Before the gates there sat
 On either side a formidable shape ;
 The one seemed woman to the waist and fair, 650
 But ended foul in many a scaly fold
 Voluminous and vast, a serpent armed
 With mortal sting : about her middle round
 A cry of hell-hounds never ceasing barked
 With wide Cerberean mouths full loud, and rung 655

 — the Cape, the Cape of Good

629. adversary. See I. 82.
 632. Explores, tracks ; traces out.

635. concave, vault.
 638. Bengala, Bengal.
 639. Ternate and Tidore are islands of the Asiatic Archipelago, near the Moluccas, or Spice Islands.
 641. the wide Ethiopian, the Hope.

 642. stemming, making their way. — nightly, by night ; steering by the stars. — the Pole, the South Pole.
 647. impaled, enclosed ; surrounded.
 654. cry, pack.
 655. Cerberean. Cerberus was the triple-headed dog that guard-

A hideous peal ; yet, when they list, would creep,
 If aught disturbed their noise, into her womb,
 And kennel there, yet there still barked, and howled
 Within unseen. Far less abhorred than these Vexed Scylla, bathing in the sea that parts 660
 Calabria from the hoarse Trinacrian shore ;
 Nor uglier follow the night-hag, when, called
 In secret, riding through the air she comes,
 Lured with the smell of infant blood, to dance
 With Lapland witches, while the laboring moon 665
 Eclipses at their charms. The other shape —
 If shape it might be called that shape had none
 Distinguishable in member, joint, or limb,
 Or substance might be called that shadow seemed,
 For each seemed either — black it stood as Night, 670
 Fierce as ten Furies, terrible as Hell,
 And shook a dreadful dart ; what seemed his head
 The likeness of a kingly crown had on.
 Satan was now at hand, and from his seat
 The monster moving onward came as fast 675
 With horrid strides ; Hell trembled as he strode.
 The undaunted Fiend what this might be admired,
 Admired, not feared ; God and his Son except,
 Created thing nought valued he nor shunned ;
 And with disdainful look thus first began : 680

“ Whence and what art thou, execrable shape,
 That dar’st, though grim and terrible, advance
 Thy miscreated front athwart my way

ed the entrance to the infernal regions.

659. abhorred, to be abhorred.

660, 661. Vexed Scylla, is vexed (chafed, lashed) Scylla. — Scylla was a rock, thought to be dangerous to mariners, in the sea west of Italy, between Calabria and the Trinacrian (Sicilian) shore. It was personified by the ancients, and represented as a fearful monster having six heads and barking like a dog.

662. Nor uglier, nor do uglier shapes or hounds.

665. laboring. This word is applied by Latin writers to the moon under eclipse.

677. admired, wondered.

679. nought, nothing ; not at all.

To yonder gates ? Through them I mean to pass,
 That be assured, without leave asked of thee. 685
 Retire, or taste thy folly, and learn by proof,
 Hell-born, not to contend with spirits of Heaven."

To whom the goblin full of wrath replied :
 " Art thou that traitor angel, art thou he
 Who first broke peace in Heaven and faith, till then
 Unbroken, and in proud rebellious arms 691
 Drew after him the third part of Heaven's sons,
 Conjured against the Highest ; for which both thou
 And they, outcast from God, are here condemned
 To waste eternal days in woe and pain ? 695
 And reckon'st thou thyself with spirits of Heaven,
 Hell-doomed, and breath'st defiance here and scorn,
 Where I reign king, and, to enrage thee more,
 Thy king and lord ? Back to thy punishment,
 False fugitive ! and to thy speed add wings, 700
 Lest with a whip of scorpions I pursue
 Thy lingering, or with one stroke of this dart
 Strange horror seize thee, and pangs unfelt before."

So spake the grisly terror, and in shape,
 So speaking and so threatening, grew tenfold 705
 More dreadful and deform. On the other side,
 Incensed with indignation, Satan stood
 Unterrified, and like a comet burned,
 That fires the length of Ophiuchus huge
 In the arctic sky, and from his horrid hair 710
 Shakes pestilence and war. Each at the head
 Levelled his deadly aim ; their fatal hands
 No second stroke intend ; and such a frown

698. Conjured, conspired.

710. horrid. See I. 563.

707. Incensed, kindled ; inflamed.

711. Shakes pestilence and war.
 Comets were anciently supposed to foretell or bring public calamities.

709. Ophiuchus, or Serpentarius, is a northern constellation which winds about the Pole.

Each cast at the other, as when two black clouds
 With heaven's artillery fraught come rattling on 715
 Over the Caspian; then stand front to front,
 Hovering a space, till winds the signal blow
 To join their dark encounter in mid-air:
 So frowned the mighty combatants, that Hell
 Grew darker at their frown; so matched they stood;
 For never but once more was either like 721
 To meet so great a foe. And now great deeds
 Had been achieved, whereof all Hell had rung,
 Had not the snaky sorceress that sat
 Fast by Hell-gate and kept the fatal key, 725
 Risen, and with hideous outcry rushed between.

"O father! what intends thy hand," she cried,
 "Against thy only son? What fury, O son,
 Possesses thee to bend that mortal dart
 Against thy father's head? and know'st for whom?
 For him who sits above, and laughs the while 731
 At thee ordained his drudge, to execute
 Whate'er his wrath, which he calls justice, bids;
 His wrath, which one day will destroy ye both!"

She spake, and at her words the hellish pest 735
 Forebore; then these to her Satan returned:

"So strange thy outcry, and thy words so strange
 Thou interposest, that my sudden hand,
 Prevented, spares to tell thee yet by deeds
 What it intends, till first I know of thee 740
 What thing thou art, thus double-formed, and why
 In this infernal vale first met, thou call'st

716. the Caspian. The Caspian Sea is said to be very tempestuous. See 1 Cor. xv. 25, 26, and Heb. ii. 14.

721. like, likely.

722. To meet so great a foe. When Christ would subdue them.

723. Had, would have. — had rung, would have rung.

725. Fast by. See I. 12.

Me father, and that phantasm call'st my son :
 I know thee not, nor ever saw till now
 Sight more detestable than him and thee." 745

To whom thus the portress of Hell-gate replied :
 " Hast thou forgot me then, and do I seem
 Now in thine eye so foul, once deemed so fair
 In Heaven ? when at the assembly, and in sight
 Of all the Seraphim with thee combined 750
 In bold conspiracy against Heaven's king,
 All on a sudden miserable pain
 Surprised thee, dim thine eyes, and dizzy swum
 In darkness, while thy head flames thick and fast
 Threw forth ; till, on the left side opening wide, 755
 Likest to thee in shape and countenance bright,
 Then shining heavenly fair, a goddess armed,
 Out of thy head I sprung : amazement seized
 All the host of Heaven ; back they recoiled, afraid
 At first, and called me Sin, and for a sign 760
 Portentous held me ; but familiar grown
 I pleased, and with attractive graces won
 The most averse, thee chiefly, who full oft
 Thyself in me thy perfect image viewing
 Becam'st enamored, and such joy thou took'st 765
 With me in secret, that my womb conceived
 A growing burden. Meanwhile war arose,
 And fields were fought in Heaven, wherein remained
 (For what could else ?) to our almighty foe
 Clear victory, to our part loss and rout, 770
 Through all the empyrean : down they fell,
 Driven headlong from the pitch of Heaven, down
 Into this deep, and in the general fall
 I also ; at which time this powerful key
 Into my hand was given, with charge to keep 775

758. I sprung, as Minerva from the head of Jove. est heaven ; the purest element. From the Greek for fire.

771. the empyrean, the high- 772. pitch, height.

These gates forever shut, which none can pass
 Without my opening. Pensive here I sat
 Alone, but long I sat not, till my womb,
 Pregnant by thee and now excessive grown,
 Prodigious motion felt and rueful throes. 780
 At last this odious offspring whom thou seest,
 Thine own begotten, breaking violent way,
 Tore through my entrails; that, with fear and pain
 Distorted, all my nether shape thus grew
 Transformed; but he, my inbred enemy, 785
 Forth-issued, brandishing his fatal dart
 Made to destroy: I fled, and cried out Death!
 Hell trembled at the hideous name, and sighed
 From all her caves, and back resounded Death!
 I fled, but he pursued (though more, it seems, 790 Inflamed with lust than rage) and, swifter far,
 Me overtook, his mother, all dismayed,
 And in embraces forcible and foul,
 Ingendering with me, of that rape begot
 These yelling monsters, that with ceaseless cry 795
 Surround me, as thou saw'st, hourly conceived,
 And hourly born, with sorrow infinite
 To me; for, when they list, into the womb
 That bred them they return, and howl, and gnaw
 My bowels, their repast; then bursting forth 800
 Afresh, with conscious terrors vex me round,
 That rest or intermission none I find.
 Before mine eyes in opposition sits
 Grim Death, my son and foe, who sets them on,
 And me his parent would full soon devour 805
 For want of other prey, but that he knows
 His end with mine involved, and knows that I
 Should prove a bitter morsel and his bane,
 Whenever that shall be; so Fate pronounced.
 But thou, O father! I forewarn thee, shun 810
 His deadly arrow; neither vainly hope

To be invulnerable in those bright arms,
Though tempered heavenly ; for that mortal dint,
Save he who reigns above, none can resist."

She finished, and the subtle Fiend his lore 815
Soon learned, now milder, and thus answered smooth :

" Dear daughter, since thou claim'st me for thy sire,
And my fair son here show'st me (the dear pledge
Of dalliance had with thee in Heaven, and joys
Then sweet, now sad to mention, through dire change
Befallen us, unforeseen, unthought of), know 821
I come no enemy, but to set free
From out this dark and dismal house of pain
Both him and thee, and all the heavenly host
Of spirits that, in our just pretences armed, 825
Fell with us from on high : from them I go
This uncouth errand sole, and one for all Myself expose, with lonely steps to tread
The unfounded deep, and through the void immense
To search with wandering quest a place foretold 830
Should be, and, by concurring signs, ere now
Created vast and round, a place of bliss
In the purlieus of Heaven, and therein placed
A race of upstart creatures, to supply
Perhaps our vacant room, though more removed, 835
Lest Heaven, surcharged with potent multitude,
Might hap to move new broils. Be this or aught
Than this more secret now designed, I haste

818. tempered heavenly. See I. 286. — dint, stroke.

825. pretences, claims ; pretensions.

827. uncouth. See line 407. sole, alone ; by myself.

829. unfounded, bottomless, or without foundation.

830. foretold, which it has been foretold.

837. move, excite. — Be this, whether this or aught more secret than this be now designed.

To know ; and, this once known, shall soon return,
 And bring ye to the place where thou and Death
 Shall dwell at ease, and up and down unseen 841
 Wing silently the buxom air, embalmed
 With odors : there ye shall be fed and filled
 Immeasurably, all things shall be your prey."

He ceased, for both seemed highly pleased, and Death 845
 Grinned horrible a ghastly smile, to hear
 His famine should be filled, and blessed his maw
 Destined to that good hour : no less rejoiced
 His mother bad, and thus bespake her sire :

" The key of this infernal pit, by due 850
 And by command of Heaven's all-powerful king,
 I keep, by him forbidden to unlock
 These adamantine gates ; against all force
 Death ready stands to interpose his dart,
 Fearless to be o'ermatched by living might. 855
 But what owe I to his commands above
 Who hates me and hath hither thrust me down
 Into this gloom of Tartarus profound,
 To sit in hateful office here confined,
 Inhabitant of Heaven and heavenly-born, 860
 Here in perpetual agony and pain,
 With terrors and with clamors compassed round
 Of mine own brood that on my bowels feed ?
 Thou art my father, thou my author, thou
 My being gav'st me ; whom should I obey 865
 But thee ? whom follow ? Thou wilt bring me soon
 To that new world of light and bliss, among
 The gods who live at ease, where I shall reign

842. buxom, yielding ; obedient. — embalmed, made balmy, or fragrant.

847. famine, hunger ; craving.

850. by due, by due right.

855. Fearless, not fearing.

858. Tartarus, Hell.

At thy right hand voluptuous, as be seems
Thy daughter and thy darling, without end." 870

Thus saying, from her side the fatal key,
Sad instrument of all our woe, she took ;
And, towards the gate rolling her bestial train,
Forthwith the huge portcullis high up-drew ;
Which but herself not all the Stygian powers 875
Could once have moved ; then in the key-hole turns
The intricate wards, and every bolt and bar
Of massy iron or solid rock with ease
Unfastens : on a sudden open fly
With impetuous recoil and jarring sound 880
The infernal doors, and on their hinges grate
Harsh thunder, that the lowest bottom shook
Of Erebus. She opened, but to shut
Excelled her power ; the gates wide open stood,
That with extended wings a bannered host, 885
Under spread ensigns marching, might pass through
With horse and chariots ranked in loose array ;
So wide they stood, and like a furnace mouth
Cast forth redounding smoke and ruddy flame.

Before their eyes in sudden view appear 890
The secrets of the hoary deep, a dark
Illimitable ocean, without bound,
Without dimension ; where length, breadth, and highth,
And time and place are lost ; where eldest Night
And Chaos, ancestors of Nature, hold 895
Eternal anarchy amidst the noise
Of endless wars, and by confusion stand :
For Hot, Cold, Moist, and Dry, four champions fierce, 877. wards, divisions or parts of a lock, here applied to a key.

883. Erebus, the place of darkness ; Hell.
885. Nature, Creation ; the world of organized matter.
882, 885. that, so that.

Strive here for mastery, and to battle bring
 Their embryon atoms; they around the flag 900
 Of each his faction, in their several clans,
 Light armed or heavy, sharp, smooth, swift, or slow,
 Swarm populous, unnumbered as the sands
 Of Barca or Cyrenè's torrid soil,
 Levied to side with warring winds, and poise 901
 Their lighter wings. To whom these most adhere,
 He rules a moment; Chaos umpire sits,
 And by decision more embroils the fray
 By which he reigns; next him high arbiter
 Chance governs all. Into this wild abyss — 902
 The womb of Nature and perhaps her grave,
 Of neither sea, nor shore, nor air, nor fire,
 But all these in their pregnant causes mixed
 Confusedly, and which thus must ever fight,
 Unless the Almighty Maker them ordain 903
 His dark materials to create more worlds —
 Into this wild abyss the wary Fiend
 Stood on the brink of Hell, and looked awhile,
 Pondering his voyage; for no narrow frith
 He had to cross: nor was his ear less pealed 904
 With noises loud and ruinous (to compare
 Great things with small) than when Bellona storms
 With all her battering engines bent to rase
 Some capital city; or less than if this frame
 Of heaven were falling, and these elements 905
 In mutiny had from her axle torn
 The steadfast earth. At last his sail-broad vans 906

900. embryon, embryo.901. Of each, each of; or each his is each's, each one's.903. unnumbered, innumerable.904. Barca and Cyrene were in the north of Africa.905. poise, give weight to.906. To whom, he (that is, either hot, cold, moist, or dry) towhom. — these most, most of these atoms.920. pealed, assailed or stunned as with a peal.921. ruinous, like that of the fall of buildings.922. Bellona, the Roman goddess of war.923. rase, raze; overthrow.927. vans, wings.

He spreads for flight, and in the surging smoke
 Uplifted spurns the ground ; thence many a league
 As in a cloudy chair ascending rides 920
 Audacious ; but, that seat soon failing, meets
 A vast vacuity : all unawares,
 Fluttering his pennons vain, plumb down he drops
 Ten thousand fathom deep, and to this hour
 Down had been falling, had not by ill chance 935
 The strong rebuff of some tumultuous cloud,
 Instinct with fire and nitre, hurried him
 As many miles aloft : that fury stayed,
 Quenched in a boggy Syrtis, neither sea
 Nor good dry land, nigh foundered on he fares, 940
 Treading the crude consistence, half on foot,
 Half flying ; behooves him now both oar and sail.
 As when a gryphon through the wilderness
 With wingèd course o'er hill or moory dale
 Pursues the Arimaspians, who by stealth 945
 Had from his wakeful custody purloined
 The guarded gold, so eagerly the Fiend
 O'er bog or steep, through strait, rough, dense, or rare,
 With head, hands, wings, or feet, pursues his way,
 And swims, or sinks, or wades, or creeps, or flies. 950
 At length a universal hubbub wild
 Of stunning sounds and voices all confused,

929. spurns, presses with his foot in springing.

931. Audacious, bold ; daring.

933. pennons, wings. — plumb, in a perpendicular direction ; like a plumb-line.

935. had See line 723. — had not, if the strong rebuff had not.

937. Instinct, excited ; stung.

938. stayed, being stayed ; having ceased.

939. Syrtis, a quicksand.

940. nigh, almost.

941. crude consistence, substance not yet firm.

942. behooves him now, and now he needs.

943-947. gryphon, or griffin. This was a fabulous monster, said to have had the head and wings of an eagle with the body of a lion, and to have been found in the mountainous regions north of Scythia, the gold of which it guarded. The one-eyed Arimaspians, a people of Scythia, sometimes purloined this gold.

Borne through the hollow dark, assaults his ear
 With loudest vehemence : thither he plies
 Undaunted, to meet there whatever Power 905
 Or Spirit of the nethermost abyss
 Might in that noise reside, of whom to ask
 Which way the nearest coast of darkness lies
 Bordering on light ; when straight behold the throne
 Of Chaos, and his dark pavilion spread 960
 Wide on the wasteful deep ! With him enthroned
 Sat sable-vested Night, eldest of things,
 The consort of his reign ; and by them stood
 Orcus and Ades, and the dreaded name
 Of Demogorgon ; Rumor next and Chance, 965
 And Tumult and Confusion all embroiled,
 And Discord with a thousand various mouths.
 To whom Satan turning boldly, thus : — “ Ye Powers
 And Spirits of this nethermost abyss,
 Chaos and ancient Night, I come no spy 970
 With purpose to explore or to disturb
 The secrets of your realm ; but by constraint
 Wandering this darksome desert, as my way
 Lies through your spacious empire up to light,
 Alone and without guide, half lost, I seek 975
 What readiest path leads where your gloomy bounds
 Confine with Heaven ; or if some other place
 From your dominion won the ethereal king
 Possesses lately, thither to arrive
 I travel this profound. Direct my course : 980

954. plies, bends his way ; See Spenser's Faery Queene, Can-hastens. to I. Stanza xxxvii. :

959. straight, straightway ; immediately.

964. Orcus and Ades (or Hades).
 These were names given by the ancients to Pluto, the god of the lower or nether world, and also applied to his dominions. — the dreaded name. The ancients were superstitiously afraid of uttering
 the word Gorgon or Demogorgon.

“ A bold bad man, that dared to call by name
 Great Gorgon, prince of darkness and dead night,
 At which Coerytus quakes, and Styx
 is put to flight.”

977. Confine with, border upon ; have limits together with.

979. Possesses lately, has lately taken possession of.

Directed, no mean recompense it brings
 To your behoof, if I that region lost,
 All usurpation thence expelled, reduce
 To her original darkness and your sway
 (Which is my present journey), and once more 985
 Erect the standard there of ancient Night;
 Yours be the advantage all, mine the revenge!"

Thus Satan; and him thus the Anarch old,
 With faltering speech and visage incomposed,
 Answered:—"I know thee, stranger, who thou 990
 art,
 That mighty leading angel, who of late
 Made head against Heaven's king, though overthrown.

I saw and heard; for such a numerous host
 Fled not in silence through the frightened deep,
 With ruin upon ruin, rout on rout, 995
 Confusion worse confounded; and Heaven-gates
 Poured out by millions her victorious bands
 Pursuing. I upon my frontiers here
 Keep residence; if all I can will serve
 That little which is left so to defend, 1000
 Encroached on still through your intestine broils
 Weakening the sceptre of old Night: first Hell,
 Your dungeon, stretching far and wide beneath;
 Now lately heaven and earth, another world
 Hung o'er my realm, linked in a golden chain 1005
 To that side Heaven from whence your legions fell:
 If that way be your walk, you have not far;
 So much the nearer danger. Go and speed!
 Havoc and spoil and ruin are my gain."

985. Which is, which is the purpose of.

989. incomposed, disturbed; discomposed.

999. if all I can, to try if all that I can do.

1002. first Hell, first to encroach was Hell.

1007. far, far to go.

1008. the nearer danger, the nearer is danger.

He ceased, and Satan staid not to reply, 1010
 But, glad that now the sea should find a shore,
 With fresh alacrity and force renewed
 Springs upward, like a pyramid of fire,
 Into the wild expanse; and through the shock
 Of fighting elements, on all sides round 1015
 Environed, wins his way; harder beset
 And more endangered than when Argo passed
 Through Bosphorus betwixt the justling rocks;
 Or when Ulysses on the larboard slunned
 Charybdis, and by the other whirlpool steered. 1020
 So he with difficulty and labor hard
 Moved on, with difficulty and labor he;
 But he once passed, soon after when Man fell —
 Strange alteration! — Sin and Death amain
 Following his track (such was the will of Heaven)
 Paved after him a broad and beaten way 1025
 Over the dark abyss, whose boiling gulf
 Tamely endured a bridge of wondrous length
 From Hell continued, reaching the utmost orb
 Of this frail World; by which the spirits perverse
 With easy intercourse pass to and fro 1030
 To tempt or punish mortals, except whom
 God and good angels guard by special grace.

But now at last the sacred influence
 Of light appears, and from the walls of Heaven 1035
 Shoots far into the bosom of dim night
 A glimmering dawn: here Nature first begins

1016-1018. When the ship Argo was on its way to Colchis for the recovery of the golden fleece, which had been carried thither, it passed, at the entrance of the Euxine (or Black) Sea from the Bosphorus, between the rocks called the Symplegades, which then closed behind it.

1019, 1020. The adventures of Ulysses are related by Homer in the Odyssey. Among them was his escape from the dangers of Scylla (see note to line 660) and Charybdis, the names of a rock and whirlpool between Italy and Sicily.

1032. whom, those whom.

1037. Nature. See line 895.

Her farthest verge, and Chaos to retire,
 As from her outmost works, a broken foe,
 With tumult less and with less hostile din ; 1040
 That Satan, with less toil and now with ease,
 Wafts on the calmer wave by dubious light ;
 And like a weather-beaten vessel holds
 Gladly the port, though shrouds and tackle torn :
 Or in the emptier waste resembling air 1045
 Weighs his spread wings, at leisure to behold
 Far off the empyreal Heaven, extended wide
 In circuit undetermined square or round,
 With opal towers and battlements adorned
 Of living sapphire, once his native seat ; 1060
 And fast by, hanging in a golden chain,
 This pendent World, in bigness as a star
 Of smallest magnitude close by the moon.
 Thither, full fraught with mischievous revenge,
 Accursed and in a cursèd hour, he hies. 1055

1038. to retire, begins to retire.1041. That, so that. — with less, first with less.1043. holds, gains, or has reached.1046. Weighs, balances ; poises.1848. undetermined, not to be

BOOK III.

THE ARGUMENT.

God sitting on his throne sees Satan flying towards this world, then newly created ; shows him to the Son who sat at his right hand ; foretells the success of Satan in perverting mankind ; clears his own justice and wisdom from all imputation, having created man free, and able enough to have withstood his tempter ; yet declares his purpose of grace towards him, in regard he fell not of his own malice, as did Satan, but by him seduced. The Son of God renders praises to his Father for the manifestation of his gracious purpose towards Man ; but God again declares, that grace cannot be extended towards Man without the satisfaction of divine justice ; Man hath offended the majesty of God by aspiring to Godhead, and therefore with all his progeny devoted to death must die, unless some one can be found sufficient to answer for his offence and undergo his punishment. The Son of God freely offers himself a ransom for Man ; the Father accepts him, ordains his incarnation, pronounces his exaltation above all names in Heaven and Earth ; commands all the angels to adore him ; they obey, and hymning to their harps in full choir, celebrate the Father and the Son. Meanwhile Satan alights upon the bare convex of this world's outermost orb ; where wandering he first finds a place, since called the Limbo of Vanity ; what persons and things fly up thither ; thence comes to the gate of Heaven, described ascending by stairs, and the waters above the firmament that flow about it ; his passage thence to the orb of the sun ; he finds there Uriel, the regent of that orb ; but first changes himself into the shape of a meaner angel, and pretending a zealous desire to behold the new creation and Man whom God had placed there inquires of him the place of his habitation, and is directed ; alights first on Mount Niphates.

HAIL, holy Light, offspring of Heaven first-born !
Or of the eternal coeternal beam
May I express thee unblamed ? since God is light,

1. first-born. See Genesis i. 8. out blame call thee. — is light
2. express thee unblamed, with- See 1 John i. 5.

And never but in unapproachèd light
 Dwelt from eternity; dwelt then in thee, 5
 Bright effluence of bright essence increate!
 Or hearest thou rather pure ethereal stream,
 Whose fountain who shall tell? before the sun,
 Before the heavens thou wert, and at the voice
 Of God, as with a mantle, didst invest 10
 The rising world of waters dark and deep,
 Won from the void and formless infinite.
 Thee I revisit now with bolder wing,
 Escaped the Stygian pool, though long detained
 In that obscure sojourn, while in my flight 15
 Through utter and through middle darkness borne,
 With other notes than to the Orphéan lyre,
 I sung of Chaos and eternal Night;
 Taught by the heavenly Muse to venture down
 The dark descent, and up to reascend, 20
 Though hard and rare; thee I revisit safe,
 And feel thy sovran vital lamp; but thou
 Revisit'st not these eyes, that roll in vain

4. unapproached. "Dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto." 1 Timothy vi. 16.

6. increate perhaps refers to effluence.

7. hearest thou rather. This is a Latinism, meaning dost thou prefer to be called.

10. as with a mantle. See Psalm civ. 2. — invest. See I. 208.

14. Escaped, escaped from. — Stygian pool. See I. 239.

16. utter. See I. 72.

17. With other notes, "with notes different from those which were sung to the Orphean lyre; for Milton drew from the Sacred Scriptures, and probably believed himself to be in some sort inspired; while the song of Orpheus and the Orphic hymn to Night were only the products of human imagination." Orpheus was a Thracian bard, who charmed with his music not men only, but also beasts, and even rocks and trees, which moved from their places to follow the sound of his golden harp. His lyre was placed among the constellations, perhaps because he was the first who introduced music into the worship of the gods.

19. the heavenly Muse. See I. 6.

21. rare, seldom tried.

22. sovran (sovereign) lamp, the sun, whose warmth Milton could feel, though he could not see its light.

22-26. His eyesight had been long decaying, and at the time this poem was written was entirely gone. He seems uncertain whether the disease by which his blindness was occasioned was caused by "gutta serena," drop serene, or by dim suffusion, probably cataract. — veiled, veiled them.

To find thy piercing ray, and find no dawn ;
 So thick a drop serene hath quenched their orbs, 25
 Or dim suffusion veiled. Yet not the more
 Cease I to wander where the Muses haunt
 Clear spring, or shady grove, or sunny hill,
 Smit with the love of sacred song ; but chief
 Thee, Sion, and the flowery brooks beneath 30
 That wash thy hallowed feet and warbling flow,
 Nightly I visit ; nor sometimes forget
 Those other two equalled with me in fate,
 So were I equalled with them in renown,
 Blind Thamyris and blind Mæonides, 35
 And Tirēsias and Phineus, prophets old :
 Then feed on thoughts that voluntary move
 Harmonious numbers ; as the wakeful bird
 Sings darkling, and in shadiest covert hid Tunes her nocturnal note. Thus with the year 40
 Seasons return ; but not to me returns
 Day, or the sweet approach of even or morn,
 Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose,
 Or flocks, or herds, or human face divine ;
 But cloud instead, and ever-during dark 45
 Surrounds me, from the cheerful ways of men
 Cut off, and for the book of knowledge fair

26. Yet not the more cease I, nevertheless I do not on this account cease.

27. to wander, that is, in imagination, recalling poetic scenes. — the Muses, nine in number, were the goddesses of song, by whom poets were inspired. Many a clear spring in Greece was sacred to the Muses, especially the fountain of Castalia on Mount Parnassus, and that of Hippocrene on Mount Helicon, near which was a shady grove, their peculiar seat. See I. 15.

30. brooks, Kedron and Silos. See I. 10–12.

35. Thamyris was a Thracian bard who challenged the Muses to a trial of skill, and for his presumption was by them deprived of sight. His story was sung by Homer, who is also called Mæonides.

36. Tiresias was a blind seer or soothsayer of Thebes. — Phineus was also blind, and gifted by Apollo with prophetic powers. — This line begins, like some other lines in Milton, with a foot of three syllables.

37. feed, I feed. — voluntary, of themselves ; without effort.

38. the wakeful bird, the nightingale.

45. dark, darkness.

47. for, instead of.

Presented with a universal blank
 Of Nature's works to me expunged and rased,
 And wisdom at one entrance quite shut out. 50
 So much the rather thou, celestial light !
 Shine inward, and the mind through all her powers
 Irradiate ; there plant eyes, all mist from thence Purge and disperse, that I may see and tell
 Of things invisible to mortal sight. 55

Now had the Almighty Father from above,
 From the pure empyréan where he sits
 High throned above all height, bent down his eye,
 His own works and their works at once to view.
 About him all the Sanctities of Heaven 60
 Stood thick as stars, and from his sight received
 Beatitude past utterance ; on his right
 The radiant image of his glory sat,
 His only Son : on Earth he first beheld
 Our two first parents, yet the only two 65
 Of mankind, in the happy garden placed,
 Reaping immortal fruits of joy and love,
 Uninterrupted joy, unrivalled love,
 In blissful solitude. He then surveyed
 Hell and the gulf between, and Satan there 70
 Coasting the wall of Heaven on this side Night,
 In the dun air sublime, and ready now
 To stoop with wearied wings and willing feet
 On the bare outside of this World, that seemed Firm land imbosomed without firmament, 75

51. empyrean. See II. 771.

59. their. The antecedent is works, just before.

60. Sanctities, holy beings.

62. Beatitude, blessedness.

63. image. "The brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person." Hebrews i. 3.

65. yet, as yet.

71. on this side Night, on this side of Night, the utter darkness. See line 16.

72. the dun air, the middle darkness, where was a glimmering dawn. See II. 1034-1042. — sublime. See II. 523.

74. World, universe ; whole system of created things. See II. 1051-1055.

Uncertain which, in ocean or in air.
 Him God beholding from his prospect high,
 Wherein past, present, future he beholds,
 Thus to his only Son foreseeing spake :

“ Only-begotten Son, seest thou what rage 80
 Transports our Adversary, whom no bounds
 Prescribed, no bars of Hell, nor all the chains
 Heaped on him there, nor yet the main abyss
 Wide interrupt, can hold ; so bent he seems
 On desperate revenge, that shall redound 85
 Upon his own rebellious head ? And now,
 Through all restraint broke loose, he wings his way
 Not far off Heaven, in the precincts of light,
 Directly towards the new-created world,
 And Man there placed, with purpose to assay 90
 If him by force he can destroy, or worse,
 By some false guile pervert ; and shall pervert ;
 For man will hearken to his glozing lies,
 And easily transgress the sole command,
 Sole pledge of his obedience : so will fall 95
 He and his faithless progeny. Whose fault ?
 Whose but his own ? Ingrate, he had of me
 All he could have : I made him just and right,
 Sufficient to have stood, though free to fall.
 Such I created all the ethereal Powers 100
 And Spirits, both them who stood, and them ~~who~~ failed ;
 Freely they stood who stood, and fell who fell.
 Not free, what proof could they have given since ~~—~~
 Of true allegiance, constant faith, or love,
 Where only what they needs must do appeared, 105

76. in ocean or in air, uncertain which.

83. main, vast.

84. Wide interrupt (participle), spread wide between.

88. precincts of light, regions bordering on the realms of light.

98. I made him just and ~~right~~.
 See Ecclesiastes vii. 29.

103. Not free, if they had not been free.

105. appeared, would have appeared.

Not what they would? What praise could they receive?

What pleasure I from such obedience paid,
When will and reason (reason also is choice),
Useless and vain, of freedom both despoiled,
Made passive both, had served necessity, 110
Not me? They therefore, as to right belonged,
So were created, nor can justly accuse
Their Maker, or their making, or their fate;
As if predestination overruled
Their will, disposed by absolute decree 115
Or high foreknowledge. They themselves decreed
Their own revolt, not I: if I foreknew,
Foreknowledge had no influence on their fault,
Which had no less proved certain unforeknown.
So without least impulse or shadow of fate, 120
Or aught by me immutably foreseen,
They trespass, authors to themselves in all,
Both what they judge and what they choose; for so
I formed them free, and free they must remain,
Till they enthrall themselves; I else must change 125
Their nature, and revoke the high decree
Unchangeable, eternal, which ordained
Their freedom; they themselves ordained their fall.
The first sort by their own suggestion fell,
Self-tempted, self-depraved: Man falls, deceived 130
By the other first; Man therefore shall find grace,
The other none. In mercy and justice both,
Through Heaven and Earth, so shall my glory excel;
But mercy first and last shall brightest shine."

Thus while God spake, ambrosial fragrance filled
All Heaven; and in the blessed spirits elect 135

110. had, would have.

111. as to right belonged, as was consistent with right.

117. if, though.

129. The first sort, the rebel angels.

Sense of new joy ineffable diffused.
 Beyond compare the Son of God was seen
 Most glorious; in him all his Father shone
 Substantially expressed, and in his face 140
 Divine compassion visibly appeared,
 Love without end, and without measure grace,
 Which uttering, thus he to his Father spake :

“ O Father, gracious was that word which closed
 Thy sovran sentence, that man should find grace ;
 For which both Heaven and Earth shall high extol
 Thy praises, with the innumerable sound 147
 Of hymns and sacred songs, wherewith thy throne
 Encompassed shall resound thee ever blest.
 For should Man finally be lost, should Man, 150
 Thy creature late so loved, thy youngest son,
 Fall circumvented thus by fraud, though joined
 With his own folly ? that be from thee far,
 That far be from thee, Father, who art judge
 Of all things made, and judgest only right. 155
 Or shall the Adversary thus obtain
 His end, and frustrate thine ? shall he fulfil
 His malice, and thy goodness bring to naught ;
 Or proud return, though to his heavier doom,
 Yet with revenge accomplished, and to Hell 160
 Draw after him the whole race of mankind,
 By him corrupted ? or wilt thou thyself
 Abolish thy creation, and unmake,
 For him, what for thy glory thou hast made ?
 So should thy goodness and thy greatness both 165
 Be questioned and blasphemed without defence.”

To whom the great Creator thus replied :
 “ O Son, in whom my soul hath chief delight,

Son of my bosom, Son who art alone
 My word, my wisdom, and effectual might, .70
 All hast thou spoken as my thoughts are, all
 As my eternal purpose hath decreed.
 Man shall not quite be lost, but saved who will ;
 Yet not of will in him, but grace in me
 Freely vouchsafed ; once more I will renew 175
 His lapsèd powers, though forfeit and enthralled
 By sin to foul exorbitant desires ;
 Upheld by me yet once more he shall stand
 On even ground against his mortal foe ;
 By me upheld, that he may know how frail 180
 His fallen condition is, and to me owe
 All his deliverance, and to none but me.
 Some I have chosen of peculiar grace
 Elect above the rest — so is my will ; —
 The rest shall hear me call, and oft be warned 185
 Their sinful state, and to appease betimes
 The incensèd Deity, while offered grace
 Invites ; for I will clear their senses dark
 What may suffice, and soften stony hearts
 To pray, repent, and bring obedience due. 190
 To prayer, repentance, and obedience due,
 Though but endeavored with sincere intent,
 Mine ear shall not be slow, mine eye not shut ;
 And I will place within them as a guide
 My umpire Conscience, whom if they will hear, 195
 Light after light well used they shall attain,
 And to the end persisting safe arrive.
 This my long sufferance and my day of grace
 They who neglect and scorn shall never taste ;

176. lapsèd, fallen from a state of innocence or perfection.

186. warned, warned of; reminded of.

189. What may suffice, so far as needs or may be sufficient.—soften stony hearts. See Book. xxxvi. 26.

197. to the end persisting. "He that endureth to the end shall be saved." Matthew x. 22.

But hard be hardened, blind be blinded more, 200
 That they may stumble on and deeper fall ;
 And none but such from mercy I exclude.
 But yet all is not done ; Man disobeying,
 Disloyal breaks his fealty, and sins
 Against the high supremacy of Heaven, 204
 Affecting Godhead, and so, losing all,
 To expiate his treason hath nought left,
 But to destruction sacred and devote
 He with his whole posterity must die,
 Die he or Justice must ; unless for him 210
 Some other able, and as willing, pay
 The rigid satisfaction, death for death.
 Say, heavenly Powers, where shall we find such love ?
 Which of ye will be mortal to redeem
 Man's mortal crime, and just the unjust to save ? 215
 Dwells in all Heaven charity so dear ? "

He asked, but all the heavenly choir stood mute,
 And silence was in Heaven : on Man's behalf
 Patron or intercessor none appeared ;
 Much less that durst upon his own head draw 220
 The deadly forfeiture, and ransom set.
 And now without redemption all mankind
 Must have been lost, adjudged to death and Hell
 By doom severe, had not the Son of God,
 In whom the fulness dwells of love divine, 225
 His dearest mediation thus renewed :

" Father, thy word is passed, Man shall find grace ,
 And shall grace not find means, that finds her way,
 The speediest of thy wingèd messengers,
 To visit all thy creatures, and to all 230

Comes unprevented, unimplored, unsought ?
 Happy for Man, so coming ! he her aid
 Can never seek, once dead in sins and lost ;
 Atonement for himself or offering meet,
 Indebted and undone, hath none to bring. 235
 Behold me then ; me for him, life for life
 I offer ; on me let thine anger fall ;
 Account me Man : I for his sake will leave
 Thy bosom, and this glory next to thee
 Freely put off, and for him lastly die 240
 Well pleased ; on me let Death wreak all his rage.
 Under his gloomy power I shall not long
 Lie vanquished ; thou hast given me to possess
 Life in myself forever ; by thee I live,
 Though now to Death I yield, and am his due, 245
 All that of me can die ; yet that debt paid,
 Thou wilt not leave me in the loathsome grave
 His prey, nor suffer my unspotted soul
 Forever with corruption there to dwell ;
 But I shall rise victorious, and subdue 250
 My vanquisher, spoiled of his vaunted spoil :
 Death his death's wound shall then receive, and stoop
 Inglorious, of his mortal sting disarmed.
 I through the ample air in triumph high
 Shall lead Hell captive maugre Hell, and show 255
 The powers of darkness bound. Thou, at the sight
 Pleased, out of Heaven shalt look down and smile,
 While by thee raised I ruin all my foes,
 Death last, and with his carcass glut the grave :
 Then with the multitude of my redeemed 260

Shall enter Heaven, long absent, and return,
 Father, to see thy face, wherein no cloud
 Of anger shall remain, but peace assured
 And reconciliation; wrath shall be no more
 Thenceforth, but in thy presence joy entire." 265

His words here ended, but his meek aspect
 Silent yet spake, and breathed immortal love
 To mortal men, above which only shone
 Filial obedience: as a sacrifice
 Glad to be offered, he attends the will 270
 Of his great Father. Admiration seized
 All Heaven, what this might mean and whither tend Wondering; but soon the Almighty thus replied:

"O thou in Heaven and Earth the only peace
 Found out for mankind under wrath! O thou 275
 My sole complacency! well thou know'st how dear
 To me are all my works, nor Man the least,
 Though last created, that for him I spare
 Thee from my bosom and right hand, to save,
 By losing thee awhile, the whole race lost. 280
 Thou, therefore, whom thou only canst redeem
 Their nature also to thy nature join,
 And be thyself man among men on earth,
 Made flesh, when time shall be, of virgin seed,
 By wondrous birth; be thou in Adam's room 285
 The head of all mankind, though Adam's son.
 As in him perish all men, so in thee,
 As from a second root, shall be restored

265. joy entire. "In thy presence is fulness of joy." Psalm xvi. 11.

270. attends, waits; waits to know.

271. Admiration, surprise and wonder.

276. complacency, cause of

As many as are restored, without thee none.
 His crime makes guilty all his sons ; thy merit 290
 Imputed shall absolve them who renounce
 Their own both righteous and unrighteous deeds,
 And live in thee transplanted, and from thee
 Receive new life. So Man, as is most just,
 Shall satisfy for Man, be judged and die, 295
 And dying rise, and rising with him raise
 His brethren ransomed with his own dear life.
 So heavenly love shall outdo hellish hate,
 Giving to death, and dying to redeem,
 So dearly to redeem what hellish hate 300
 So easily destroyed, and still destroys
 In those who, when they may, accept not grace.
 Nor shalt thou by descending to assume Man's nature lessen or degrade thine own.
 Because thou hast, though throned in highest bliss, 305
 Equal to God and equally enjoying
 Godlike fruition, quitted all to save
 A world from utter loss, and hast been found
 By merit more than birthright Son of God,
 Found worthiest to be so by being good, 310
 Far more than great or high ; because in thee
 Love hath abounded more than glory abounds ;
 Therefore thy humiliation shall exalt
 With thee thy manhood also to this throne :
 Here shalt thou sit incarnate, here shalt reign 315
 Both God and Man, Son both of God and Man,
 Anointed universal King : all power
 I give thee ; reign forever, and assume
 Thy merits ; under thee, as head supreme,
 Thrones, Principedoms, Powers, Dominions, I reduce ;
 All knees to thee shall bow, of them that bide 321

In Heaven, or Earth, or under Earth in Hell.
 When thou, attended gloriously from Heaven,
 Shalt in the sky appear, and from thee send
 The summoning Archangels to proclaim
 Thy dread tribunal, forthwith from all winds
 The living, and forthwith the cited dead
 Of all past ages, to the general doom
 Shall hasten, such a peal shall rouse their sleep.
 Then, all thy saints assembled, thou shalt judge
 Bad men and angels; they arraigned shall sink
 Beneath thy sentence; Hell, her numbers full,
 Thenceforth shall be forever shut. Meanwhile
 The World shall burn, and from her ashes spring
 New heaven and earth, wherein the just shall dwell
 And after all their tribulations long
 See golden days, fruitful of golden deeds,
 With joy and love triumphing, and fair truth.
 Then thou thy regal sceptre shalt lay by,
 For regal sceptre then no more shall need;
 God shall be all in all. But all ye gods,
 Adore him, who to compass all this dies;
 Adore the Son and honor him as me!"

No sooner had the Almighty ceased, but all

 Loud as from numbers without number, sweet
 As from blest voices, uttering joy, Heaven rung
 With jubilee, and loud hosannas filled

 With solemn adoration down they cast 351
 Their crowns, inwove with amarant and gold;

 In Paradise, fast by the Tree of Life,
 Began to bloom; but soon for Man's offence 355
 To Heaven removed where first it grew, there grows
 And flowers aloft, shading the fount of life;
 And where the river of bliss through midst of Heaven
 Rolls o'er Elysian flowers her amber stream:
 With these that never fade the spirits elect 360
 Bind their resplendent locks, inwreathed with beams;
 Now in loose garlands thick thrown off, the bright
 Pavement, that like a sea of jasper shone,
 Impurpled with celestial roses smiled.
 Then, crowned again, their golden harps they took,
 Harps ever tuned, that glittering by their side 366
 Like quivers hung, and with preamble sweet
 Of charming symphony they introduce
 Their sacred song, and waken raptures high;
 No voice exempt, no voice but well could join 370

Drawn round about thee like a radiant shrine,
 Dark with excessive bright thy skirts appear, 380
 Yet dazzle Heaven, that brightest Seraphim
 Approach not, but with both wings veil their eyes.
 Thee next they sang of all creation first,
 Begotten Son, divine similitude,
 In whose conspicuous countenance, without cloud 385
 Made visible, the almighty Father shines,
 Whom else no creature can behold; on thee
 Impressed the effulgence of his glory abides;
 Transfused on thee his ample Spirit rests.
 He Heaven of heavens and all the powers therein 390
 By thee created, and by thee threw down
 The aspiring Dominations. Thou that day
 Thy Father's dreadful thunder didst not spare,
 Nor stop the flaming chariot-wheels that shook
 Heaven's everlasting frame, while o'er the necks 395
 Thou drov'st of warring angels disarrayed.
 Back from pursuit thy powers with loud acclaim
 Thee only extolled, Son of thy Father's might,
 To execute fierce vengeance on his foes:
 Not so on Man; him through their malice fallen, 400
 Father of mercy and grace, thou didst not doom
 So strictly, but much more to pity incline.
 No sooner did thy dear and only Son
 Perceive thee purposed not to doom frail man
 So strictly, but much more to pity inclined, 405
 He, to appease thy wrath and end the strife
 Of mercy and justice in thy face discerned,
 Regardless of the bliss wherein he sat

 God at any time; the only-begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him." John i. 18.

and to thee, offered himself to die
 Man's offence. O unexampled love, 410 ere nowhere to be found less than divine !
 O, Son of God, Saviour of men ! thy name shall be the copious matter of my song henceforth, and never shall my harp thy praise forget, nor from thy Father's praise disjoin. 415

Thus they in Heaven, above the starry sphere,
 their happy hours in joy and hymning spent.
 Meanwhile upon the firm opacous globe
 this round World, whose first convex divides
 all luminous inferior orbs enclosed 420 from Chaos and the inroad of darkness old, all unlighted walks. A globe far off seemed, now seems a boundless continent, dark, waste, and wild, under the frown of night
 all-recess exposed, and ever-threatening storms 425
 Chaos blustering round, inclement sky ;
 ere on that side from which the wall of Heaven,
 though distant far, some small reflection gains glimmering air, less vexed with tempest loud :
 ere walked the Fiend at large in spacious field. 430
 when a vulture on Imaüs bred,
 whose snowy ridge the roving Tartar bounds, lodging from a region scarce of prey gorge the flesh of lambs or yeanling kids hills where flocks are fed, flies toward the springs
 Ganges or Hydaspes, Indian streams ; 436
 but in his way lights on the barren plains

3. matter, subject.

5. disjoin, disjoin thy praise.

8. See II. 1084-1086, and 70-78.

9. World. See line 74, and

1. — first convex, outermost

re, enclosing the inferior

. The Earth, according to the ancient astronomy, was in the centre of this sphere. — divides, sets apart ; separates from Chaos.

431. Imaüs, a range of mountains on the north of India.

436. Hydaspes, a branch of the Indus.

Of Sericana, where Chineses drive
 With sails of wind their cany wagons light :
 So on this windy sea of land the Fiend 440
 Walked up and down alone, bent on his prey ;
 Alone, for other creature in this place,
 Living or lifeless, to be found was none ;
 None yet, but store hereafter from the earth
 Up hither like aërial vapors flew 445
 Of all things transitory and vain, when sin
 With vanity had filled the works of men ;
 Both all things vain, and all who in vain things
 Built their fond hopes of glory or lasting fame,
 Or happiness in this or the other life : 450
 All who have their reward on earth, the fruits
 Of painful superstition and blind zeal,
 Nought seeking but the praise of men, here find
 Fit retribution, empty as their deeds.
 All the unaccomplished works of Nature's hand, 455
 Abortive, monstrous, or unkindly mixed,
 Dissolved on earth, fleet hither, and in vain,
 Till final dissolution, wander here,
 Not in the neighboring moon, as some have dreamed ;
 Those argent fields more likely habitants 460
 Translated saints, or middle spirits hold
 Betwixt the angelical and human kind.
 Hither of ill-joined sons and daughters born
 First from the ancient world those giants came,
 With many a vain exploit, though then renowned :

438. Sericana, or Serica, a name anciently applied to the regions of Central and Eastern Asia, in which are vast sandy plains. Over these, the inhabitants are said to drive light carriages furnished with sails.

444. store, abundance.

456. unkindly, not according to their kind.

460-462. Those argent (silvery bright) fields more probably hold as their inhabitants translated saints, or spirits middle between the angelic and the human kind. — Translated, removed from earth.

463. ill-joined. See Genesis vi. 1, 2.

464. those giants. "There were giants in the earth in those days." Gen. vi. 4.

The builders next of Babel on the plain 466
 Of Sennaar, and still with vain design
 New Babels, had they wherewithal, would build :
 Others came single ; he who, to be deemed
 A god, leaped fondly into Ætna flames, 470
 Empédocles ; and he who, to enjoy
 Plato's Elysium, leaped into the sea,
 Cleómbrotus ; and many more too long,
 Embryos and idiots, eremites and friars,
 White, black, and gray, with all their trumpery. 475
 Here pilgrims roam, that strayed so far to seek
 In Golgotha him dead who lives in Heaven ;
 And they who, to be sure of Paradise,
 Dying put on the weeds of Dominic,
 Or in Franciscan think to pass disguised : 480
 They pass the planets seven, and pass the fixed,

466. Babel. See Genesis xi. 1-9.

467. Sennaar, Shinar, the plain of Babylon.

468. had they wherewithal, if they had the materials.

471. Empédocles was a celebrated philosopher of Sicily, who lived in the fifth century before Christ. Tradition related that he leaped fondly (foolishly) into Ætna flames, that he might, in consequence of his sudden disappearance, be deemed a god. One of his sandals, however, was thrown out by the volcano, and the manner of his death thus made known. — he. Cleombrotus, a Grecian youth, is said to have destroyed himself by leaping into the sea, after reading Plato's description of the happiness of a future state, that he might at once enjoy it.

473. too long, of whom it would be too long to tell.

474. eremites, hermits.

476. The different orders of friars in the Roman church are distinguished by their dress, the Carmelites or White-friars wearing a white robe, the Dominicans or Black-friars a black robe, and the Franciscans or Gray-friars a gray or light-brown robe.

476. pilgrims, to Jerusalem and the Holy Sepulchre.

477. Golgotha. See Matthew xxvii. 33.

478. to be sure of Paradise. It was once a superstition of some members of the church of Rome, that to be clothed at the time of death in a friar's habit or weeds, insured an entrance into heaven.

481-483. This is according to the notions of the ancient, or Ptolemaic, system of astronomy. From the Earth, the centre of the Universe, they pass the planets seven, our planetary or solar system, and beyond this pass the fixed, the firmament or sphere of the fixed stars, and still beyond, that crystalline sphere, the heaven clear as crystal, to which the Ptolemaics attributed a sort of libration or shaking (the trepidation).

And that crystalline sphere whose balance weighs
 The trepidation talked, and that first-moved ;
 And now Saint Peter at Heaven's wicket seems
 To wait them with his keys, and now at foot 485
 Of Heaven's ascent they lift their feet, when lo !
 A violent cross-wind from either coast
 Blows them transverse, ten thousand leagues awry
 Into the devious air : then might ye see
 Cows, hoods, and habits, with their wearers, tost 490
 And fluttered into rags ; then relics, beads,
 Indulgences, dispenses, pardons, bulls,
 The sport of winds : all these, up-whirled aloft,
 Fly o'er the backside of the world far off
 Into a Limbo large and broad, since called 495
 The Paradise of Fools, to few unknown
 Long after, now unpeopled and untrod.
 All this dark globe the Fiend found as he passed,
 And long he wandered, till at last a gleam
 Of dawning light turned thitherward in haste 500
 His travelled steps : far distant he descries,
 Ascending by degrees magnificent
 Up to the wall of Heaven, a structure high,
 At top whereof, but far more rich, appeared
 The work as of a kingly palace-gate, 505

dition so much talked of) to account for certain irregularities in the motious of the heavenly bodies, and furthest thai first-moved, the Primum Mobile, the sphere which was both the first moved and the first mover, communicating its motion to all the lower or interior spheres. The Crystalline is described either as external to the Primum Mobile, or as combined with it.

484, 485. Milton alludes here to the notion that Saint Peter literally holds the keys of Heaven and keeps the gate.

489. devious, out of their track or road.

492. In the Roman church, indulgences are remissions of the penalties of sin, granted by the Pope. — dispenses, or dispensations, are permissions to dispense with certain rules of the church. He also grants pardons for sins committed. Certain letters which contain his decrees or decisions are called bulls.

495. Limbo, a bordering region or place of confinement.

500. thitherward, to itself.

502. degrees, stairs. See line 510

With frontispiece of diamond and gold
 Embellished ; thick with sparkling orient gems
 The portal shone, inimitable on earth
 By model, or by shading pencil drawn.
 The stairs were such as whereon Jacob saw 510
 Angels ascending and descending, bands
 Of guardians bright, when he from Esau fled
 To Padan-aram, in the field of Luz
 Dreaming by night under the open sky,
 And waking cried, This is the gate of Heaven. 515
 Each stair mysteriously was meant, nor stood
 There always, but drawn up to Heaven sometimes
 Viewless ; and underneath a bright sea flowed
 Of jasper, or of liquid pearl, whereon
 Who after came from Earth sailing arrived 520
 Wafted by angels, or flew o'er the lake
 Rapt in a chariot drawn by fiery steeds.
 The stairs were then let down, whether to dare
 The Fiend by easy ascent, or aggravate
 His sad exclusion from the doors of bliss ; 525
 Direct against which opened from beneath,
 Just o'er the blissful seat of Paradise,
 A passage down to the Earth, a passage wide,
 Wider by far than that of after-times
 Over mount Sion, and, though that were large, 530
 Over the Promised Land to God so dear,
 By which, to visit oft those happy tribes,
 On high behests his angels to and fro
 Passed frequent, and his eye with choice regard
 From Paneas, the fount of Jordan's flood, 535

506. frontispiece, the face of a building.

509. By model, or by shading pencil drawn, by sculpture or by painting.

510-515. See Gen. xxviii.

518. Viewless, was viewless ; beyond the sight.

520. Who, whoever.

522. fiery steeds. See 2 Kings ii. 11.

530. and, and wider than that.

534. with choice regard, passed with choice regard, with special favor.

535. Paneas, Dan. This was a town in the northernmost part of Palestine or the Holy Land, near

To Beërsaba, where the Holy Land
 Borders on Egypt and the Arabian shore ;
 So wide the opening seemed, where bounds were set
 To darkness, such as bound the ocean wave.

Satan from hence, now on the lower stair, 540
 That scaled by steps of gold to Heaven gate,
 Looks down with wonder at the sudden view
 Of all this World at once. As when a scout,
 Through dark and desert ways with peril gone
 All night, at last by break of cheerful dawn 545
 Obtains the brow of some high-climbing hill,
 Which to his eye discovers unaware
 The goodly prospect of some foreign land
 First seen, or some renowned metropolis
 With glistening spires and pinnacles adorned, 550
 Which now the rising sun gilds with his beams ; —
 Such wonder seized, though after Heaven seen,
 The spirit malign, but much more envy seized
 At sight of all this World beheld so fair.
 Round he surveys (and well might, where he stood 555
 So high above the circling canopy
 Of night's extended shade) from eastern point
 Of Libra to the fleecy star that bears
 Andromeda far off Atlantic seas,
 Beyond the horizon ; then from pole to pole 560
 He views in breadth, and without longer pause
 Down right into the World's first region throws
 His flight precipitant, and winds with ease
 Through the pure marble air his oblique way the sources of the Jordan. Beer-sheba, or Beersaba, was on the southern border, or Arabian shore. "From Dan even to Beersheba" (1 Kings iv. 25) described the length of the land.

546. Obtains, reaches.

557-560. From farthest east to west : that is, through six signs of the Zodiac, from Libra to Aries, the fleecy star. As seen from the Earth, the constellation Andromeda appears above Aries, and being to the west of it may be said by a European to be borne far off Atlantic seas.

563. precipitant, headlong.

564. marble, marble-like in its clearness and brightness.

Amongst innumerable stars, that shone 586
 Stars distant, but nigh hand seemed other worlds ;
 Or other worlds they seemed, or happy isles,
 Like those Hesperian gardens famed of old,
 Fortunate fields, and groves, and flowery vales,
 Thrice happy isles ; but who dwelt happy there 570
 He stayed not to inquire. Above them all
 The golden sun, in splendor likest Heaven,
 Allured his eye ; thither his course he bends
 Through the calm firmament — but up or down,
 By centre or eccentric, hard to tell, 575
 Or longitude — where the great luminary,
 Aloof the vulgar constellations thick
 That from his lordly eye keep distance due,
 Dispenses light from far : they, as they move
 Their starry dance in numbers that compute 580
 Days, months, and years, toward his all-cheering lamp
 Turn swift their various motions, or are turned
 By his magnetic beam, that gently warms
 The Universe, and to each inward part
 With gentle penetration, though unseen, 585
 Shoots invisible virtue even to the deep ;
 So wondrously was set his station bright.

There lands the Fiend, a spot like which perhaps Astronomer in the sun's lucent orb
 Through his glazed optic tube yet never saw. 590

566. Stars distant, as stars when distant. — nigh hand, when near.
 567. Or, either.

568. Hesperian gardens. The beautiful gardens of the Hesperides, or nymphs who guarded the golden apples of Juno (Hera), were situated far to the west, as were also the Fortunate fields, or Islands of the Blessed, in which were the Elysian Fields.

574. up or down, whether north or south.

575. By centre or eccentric, whether towards or from the centre. — hard, it would be hard.

576. Or longitude, or whether east or west.

577. Aloof, aloof from. — vulgar, common.

580. numbers, measures.

588. magnetic, attractive.

588. virtue, power.

590. glazed optic tube. See I. 288.

The place he found beyond expression bright,
 Compared with aught on earth, metal or stone;
 Not all parts like, but all alike informed
 With radiant light, as glowing iron with fire;
 If metal, part seemed gold, part silver clear; 595
 If stone, carbuncle most or chrysolite,
 Ruby or topaz, to the twelve that shone
 In Aaron's breastplate, and a stone besides
 Imagined rather oft than elsewhere seen,
 That stone, or like to that, which here below 600
 Philosophers in vain so long have sought;
 In vain, though by their powerful art they bind
 Volatile Hermes, and call up unbound
 In various shapes old Proteus from the sea,
 Drained through a limbec to his native form. 605
 What wonder then if fields and regions here
 Breathe forth elixir pure, and rivers run
 Potable gold, when with one virtuous touch
 The arch-chemic sun, so far from us remote,
 Produces, with terrestrial humor mixed, 610
 Here in the dark so many precious things

593. informed, penetrated; animated.

597. to, up to; completing the number of.

598. Aaron's breastplate. See Exodus xxviii. 15-21.

600. That stone. It was long supposed that there existed a stone, the touch of which would turn any other substance to gold. From having been sought by philosophers, it was called the Philosopher's Stone.

603. From Hermes, or Mercury, the messenger of the gods, a planet and a metal have the name of Mercury. The god may be called volatile, from his winged sandals; the metal, because at a certain heat it flies off in vapor. Chemists bind it by combining it with other substances.

604. Proteus was a sea-god, who when seized assumed various shapes, but finally resumed his usual form. Matter, being worked upon by chemists and made to appear in different forms, is at last, being drained through a limbec, forced to take its original shape. It may be that the purifying of water by distillation is all that is here referred to.

605. limbec, or alembic, a vessel used by chemists in distillation.

606. here, in the Sun.

607. elixir, a liquid for transmuting metals into gold.

608. virtuous, powerful.

609. arch-chemic, having supreme chemical powers, by which the nature of bodies is changed.

Of color glorious and effect so rare ?
 Here matter new to gaze the Devil met
 Undazzled : far and wide his eye commands ;
 For sight no obstacle found here, nor shade, 615
 But all sunshine, as when his beams at noon
 Culminate from the equator, as they now
 Shot upward still direct, whence no way round
 Shadow from body opaque can fall ; and the air,
 Nowhere so clear, sharpened his visual ray 620
 To objects distant far, whereby he soon
 Saw within ken a glorious angel stand,
 The same whom John saw also in the sun :
 His back was turned, but not his brightness hid ;
 Of beaming sunny rays a golden tiar 625
 Circled his head, nor less his locks behind
 Illustrious on his shoulders fledged with wings
 Lay waving round ; 'on some great charge employed
 He seemed, or fixed in cogitation deep.
 Glad was the Spirit impure, as now in hope 630
 To find who might direct his wandering flight
 To Paradise, the happy seat of Man,
 His journey's end and our beginning woe.
 But first he casts to change his proper shape,
 Which else might work him danger or delay : 635
 And now a stripling Cherub he appears,
 Not of the prime, yet such as in his face
 Youth smiled celestial, and to every limb
 Suitable grace diffused, so well he feigned ;

613. gaze, gaze upon.

617. Culminate from the equator, are vertical when the sun is directly over the equator, shooting directly downwards, just as they now shot upward still direct.618. whence, for which reason ; on which account.620. Nowhere, nowhere else. — visual ray, vision ; sight.622. within ken, near enough to be recognized.623. The same. "And I saw an angel standing in the sun." Rev. xix. 17.625. tiar, tiara.627. Illustrious, bright. — fledge, fledged.631. who, one who.634. casts, plans ; casts in his mind.637. as, that.

Under a coronet his flowing hair 6—40
 In curls on either cheek played ; wings he wore
 Of many a colored plume sprinkled with gold,
 His habit fit for speed succinct, and held
 Before his decent steps a silver wand.
 He drew not nigh unheard ; the angel bright, 6—45
 Ere he drew nigh, his radiant visage turned,
 Admonished by his ear, and straight was known
 The archangel Uriel, one of the seven
 Who in God's presence nearest to his throne
 Stand ready at command, and are his eyes 6—50
 That run through all the heavens, or down to the earth h
 Bear his swift errands over moist and dry,
 O'er sea and land : him Satan thus accosts :

“ Uriel, for thou of those seven spirits that stand
 In sight of God's high throne, gloriously bright, 6—55
 The first art wont his great authentic will Interpreter through highest Heaven to bring,
 Where all his sons thy embassy attend ;
 And here art likeliest by supreme decree
 Like honor to obtain, and as his eye 6—60
 To visit oft this new creation round ;
 Unspeakable desire to see and know
 All these his wondrous works, but chiefly Man,
 His chief delight and favor, him for whom
 All these his works so wondrous he ordained, 6—65
 Hath brought me from the quires of Cherubim
 Alone thus wandering. Brightest Seraph, tell
 In which of all these shining orbs hath Man
 His fixed seat, or fixed seat hath none,

648. habit (garment) seems to depend on wore, or what is implied in it. — succinct, girded up short.

644. decent, becoming ; graceful.

648. Uriel is mentioned in the Apocrypha, 2 Esdras iv. 1.

650. are his eyes. “ They are the eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro through the whole earth.” Zechariah iv. 10.

657. Interpreter, as interpreter

658. attend, await.

666. quires, choirs.

But all these shining orbs his choice to dwell ; 670
 That I may find him, and with secret gaze
 Or open admiration him behold,
 On whom the great Creator hath bestowed
 Worlds, and on whom hath all these graces poured ;
 That both in him and all things, as is meet, 675
 The universal Maker we may praise ;
 Who justly hath driven out his rebel foes
 To deepest Hell, and, to repair that loss,
 Created this new happy race of men
 To serve him better : wise are all his ways." 680

So spake the false dissembler unperceived ;
 For neither man nor angel can discern
 Hypocrisy, the only evil that walks
 Invisible, except to God alone,
 By his permissive will, through Heaven and Earth : 685
 And oft, though wisdom wake, suspicion sleeps
 At wisdom's gate, and to simplicity
 Resigns her charge, while goodness thinks no ill
 Where no ill seems ; which now for once beguiled
 Uriel, though regent of the sun, and held 690
 The sharpest sighted spirit of all in Heaven ;
 Who to the fraudulent impostor foul,
 In his uprightness, answer thus returned :

" Fair angel, thy desire, which tends to know
 The works of God, thereby to glorify 695
 The great work-master, leads to no excess
 That reaches blame, but rather merits praise
 The more it seems excess, that led thee hither
 From thy empyreal mansion thus alone,
 To witness with thine eyes what some perhaps, 700

670. dwell, dwell in.

689. which. For the antecedent of this pronoun, see line 683.

690. held, considered as.

699. empyreal, heavenly ; in the pure region of light, above created spheres.

Contented with report, hear only in Heaven:
 For wonderful indeed are all his works,
 Pleasant to know, and worthiest to be all
 Had in remembrance always with delight;
 But what created mind can comprehend 705
 Their number, or the wisdom infinite
 That brought them forth, but hid their causes deep?
 I saw when at his word the formless mass,
 This World's material mould, came to a heap:
 Confusion heard his voice, and wild uproar 710
 Stood ruled, stood vast infinitude confined;
 Till at his second bidding darkness fled,
 Light shone, and order from disorder sprung.
 Swift to their several quarters hasted then
 The cumbrous elements, earth, flood, air, fire, 715
 And this ethereal quintessence of Heaven
 Flew upward, spirited with various forms,
 That rolled orbicular, and turned to stars
 Numberless, as thou seest, and how they move;
 Each had his place appointed, each his course, 720
 The rest in circuit walls this universe.
 Look downward on that globe whose hither side
 With light from hence, though but reflected, shines:
 That place is Earth, the seat of Man; that light
 His day, which else as the other hemisphere 725
 Night would invade; but there the neighboring moon
 (So call that opposite fair star) her aid
 Timely interposes, and, her monthly round
 Still ending, still renewing, through mid heaven,

708. at his word. "For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast." Psalm xxxiii. 9.

715. flood, water.

716. this ethereal quintessence. It was the belief of some of the ancient philosophers that there was, besides the four elements, a fifth essence, "quinta essentia," out of which the heavens and the stars were formed.

717. spirited, animated.

719. how they move, thou seest how they move.

721. The rest, the rest of this quintessence. — in circuit, round about.

727. call is in the imperative mood.

With borrowed light her countenance triform . 730
 Hence fills and empties to enlighten the earth,
 And in her pale dominion checks the night.
 That spot to which I point is Paradise,
 Adam's abode, those lofty shades his bower :
 Thy way thou canst not miss, me mine requires." 735

Thus said, he turned ; and Satan bowing low,
 As to superior spirits is wont in Heaven,
 Where honor due and reverence none neglects,
 Took leave, and toward the coast of Earth beneath,
 Down from the ecliptic, sped with hoped success, 740
 Throws his steep flight in many an aery wheel,
 Nor stayed, till on Niphates' top he lights.

730. triform, having three shapes or phases.

731. Hence, from the sun.

735. me mine requires, my way needs me.

740. the ecliptic, the sun's apparent path. — sped with hoped success, hastened by the hope of success.

741. wheel, turn or rotation.

742. Niphates' top. Niphates is a mountain chain of Armenia, in Turkey in Asia, north of Mesopotamia, the region in which the garden of Eden is supposed to have been situated.

BOOK IV.

THE ARGUMENT.

SATAN, now in prospect of Eden and nigh the place where he must now attempt the bold enterprise which he undertook alone against God and Man, falls into many doubts with himself, and many passions, fear, envy, and despair; but at length confirms himself in evil, journeys on to Paradise, whose outward prospect and situation is described, overleaps the bounds, sits in the shape of a cormorant on the Tree of Life, as highest in the garden, to look about him. The garden described; Satan's first sight of Adam and Eve; his wonder at their excellent form and happy state, but with resolution to work their fall; overhears their discourse, thence gathers that the tree of knowledge was forbidden them to eat of, under penalty of death; and thereon intends to found his temptation, by seducing them to transgress: then leaves them awhile, to know further of their state by some other means. Meanwhile Uriel descending on a sunbeam warns Gabriel, who had in charge the gate of Paradise, that some evil spirit had escaped the deep, and passed at noon by his sphere in the shape of a good angel down to Paradise, discovered after by his furious gestures in the mount. Gabriel promises to find him ere morning. Night coming on, Adam and Eve discourse of going to their rest: their bower described; their evening worship. Gabriel, drawing forth his bands of night-watch to walk the round of Paradise, appoints two strong angels to Adam's bower, lest the evil Spirit should be there doing some harm to Adam or Eve sleeping; there they find him at the ear of Eve tempting her in a dream, and bring him, though unwilling, to Gabriel; by whom questioned, he scornfully answers, prepares resistance, but hindered by a sign from Heaven flies out of Paradise.

O FOR that warning voice, which he who saw
The Apocalypse heard cry in Heaven aloud,
Then when the Dragon, put to second rout,

1. that warning voice.
See Revelation xii. 9-12.

3. second rout. The first rout was the expulsion of the rebel

Came furious down to be revenged on men,
Woe to the inhabitants on Earth ! that now, 5
 While time was, our first parents had been warned
 The coming of their secret foe, and scaped,
 Haply so scaped, his mortal snare : for now
 Satan, now first inflamed with rage, came down,
 The tempter ere the accuser of mankind, 10
 To wreak on innocent frail man his loss
 Of that first battle, and his flight to Hell :
 Yet not rejoicing in his speed, though bold
 Far off and fearless, nor with cause to boast,
 Begins his dire attempt, which nigh the birth 15
 Now rolling boils in his tumultuous breast,
 And like a devilish engine back recoils
 Upon himself: horror and doubt distract
 His troubled thoughts, and from the bottom stir
 The hell within him ; for within him hell 20
 He brings, and round about him, nor from hell
 One step, no more than from himself, can fly
 By change of place : now conscience wakes despair
 That slumbered, wakes the bitter memory
 Of what he was, what is, and what must be 25
 Worse ; of worse deeds worse sufferings must ensue.
 Sometimes toward Eden, which now in his view
 Lay pleasant, his grieved look he fixes sad ;
 Sometimes towards Heaven and the full blazing sun
 Which now sat high in his meridian tower ; 30
 Then much revolving, thus in sighs began :

“ O thou that, with surpassing glory crowned,
 Look'st from thy sole dominion like the god
 Of this new world, at whose sight all the stars
 Hide their diminished heads, to thee I call, 35 angels from Heaven. It is de- late. — had been, might have scribed in Book VI. been. — warned, warned of.

6. while time was, while there 30. in his meridian tower, at was time ; before it should be too his noon-day height.

But with no friendly voice, and add thy name,
 O Sun! to tell thee how I hate thy beams,
 That bring to my remembrance from what state
 I fell, how glorious once above thy sphere;
 Till pride and worse ambition threw me down, 40
 Warring in Heaven against Heaven's matchless king.
 Ah, wherefore? he deserved no such return
 From me, whom he created what I was
 In that bright eminence, and with his good
 Upbraided none; nor was his service hard: 45
 What could be less than to afford him praise,
 The easiest recompense, and pay him thanks,
 How due! yet all his good proved ill in me,
 And wrought but malice; lifted up so high
 I sdeined subjection, and thought one step higher 50
 Would set me highest, and in a moment quit
 The debt immense of endless gratitude,
 So burdensome still paying still to owe;
 Forgetful what from him I still received,
 And understood not that a grateful mind 55
 By owing owes not, but still pays, at once
 Indebted and discharged; what burden then?
 O had his powerful destiny ordained
 Me some inferior angel, I had stood
 Then happy; no unbounded hope had raised 60
 Ambition. Yet why not? some other power
 As great might have aspired, and me though mean
 Drawn to his part; but other powers as great Fell not, but stand unshaken, from within
 Or from without to all temptations armed. 65
 Hadst thou the same free will and power to stand?
 Thou hadst: whom hast thou then or what to accuse,
 But Heaven's free love dealt equally to all?

50. sdeined, disdained, from the Italian "sdegnare."

51. quit, discharge; relieve from.

63. part, party; side.

65. to, against.

Be then his love accursed, since love or hate
 To me alike it deals eternal woe. 70
 Nay, cursed be thou ; since against his thy will Chose freely what it now so justly rue.
 Me miserable ! which way shall I fly
 Infinite wrath and infinite despair ?
 Which way I fly is hell ; myself am hell ; 75
 And in the lowest deep a lower deep
 Still threatening to devour me opens wide,
 To which the hell I suffer seems a heaven.
 O then at last relent ! is there no place
 Left for repentance, none for pardon left ? 80
 None left but by submission ; and that word
 Disdain forbids me, and my dread of shame
 Among the spirits beneath, whom I seduced
 With other promises and other vaunts
 Than to submit, boasting I could subdue 85
 The Omnipotent. Ay me ! they little know
 How dearly I abide that boast so vain,
 Under what torments inwardly I groan ;
 While they adore me on the throne of Hell,
 With diadem and sceptre high advanced, 90
 The lower still I fall, only supreme
 In misery ; such joy ambition finds.
 But say I could repent, and could obtain
 By act of grace my former state, — how soon
 Would height recall high thoughts, how soon unsay 95
 What feigned submission swore ! ease would recant
 Vows made in pain, as violent and void
 (For never can true reconciliation grow
 Where wounds of deadly hate have pierced so deep),
 Which would but lead me to a worse relapse 100
 And heavier fall ; so should I purchase dear
 Short intermission bought with double smart.

71. his, his will.84. act of grace, decree of pardon.87. abide, suffer the consequences of.

This knows my punisher ; therefore as far
 From granting he, as I from begging, peace.
 All hope excluded thus, behold instead 106
 Of us outcast, exiled, his new delight
 Mankind craved, and for him this world.
 So farewell hope, and with hope farewell fear,
 Farewell remorse ! all good to me is lost :
 Evil, be thou my good ; by thee at least 110
 Divided empire with Heaven's king I hold,
 By thee and more than half perhaps will reign ;
 As Man ere long and this new world shall know."

Thus while he spake, each passion dimmed his face
 Thrice changed with pale, ire, envy, and despair, 115
 Which marred his borrowed visage, and betrayed
 Him counterfeit, if any eye beheld ;
 For heavenly minds from such distempers foul
 Are ever clear. Whereof he soon aware
 Each perturbation smoothed with outward calm, 120
 Artificer of fraud ; and was the first
 That practised falsehood under saintly show,
 Deep malice to conceal couched with revenge.
 Yet not enough had practised to deceive
 Uriel once warned ; whose eye pursued him down 125
 The way he went, and on the Assyrian mount
 Saw him disfigured, more than could befall
 Spirit of happy sort : his gestures fierce
 He marked and mad demeanor, then alone,
 As he supposed, all unobserved, unseen. 130
 So on he fares, and to the border comes
 Of Eden, where delicious Paradise,

112. more than half perhaps.
 Already Hell is his, and he hopes to gain this new world. — By thee precedes and for emphasis.

115. pale, the paleness of ire,
 of envy, and of despair.

117 counterfeit. See III. 636.

123. couched, close lurking ;
 lying close.

125. Uriel once warned. See
 114–119.

Now nearer, crowns with her enclosure green,
 As with a rural mound, the champain head
 Of a steep wilderness, whose hairy sides 135
 With thicket overgrown, grotesque and wild,
 Access denied; and over head up grew
 Insuperable height of loftiest shade,
 Cedar, and pine, and fir, and branching palm,
 A sylvan scene; and, as the ranks ascend 140
 Shade above shade, a woody theatre
 Of stateliest view. Yet higher than their tops
 The verdurous wall of Paradise up sprung,
 Which to our general sire gave prospect large
 Into his nether empire neighboring round. 145
 And higher than that wall a circling row
 Of goodliest trees loaden with fairest fruit,
 Blossoms and fruits at once of golden hue,
 Appeared, with gay enamelled colors mixed;
 On which the sun more glad impressed his beams 150
 Than in fair evening cloud, or humid bow
 When God has showered the earth; so lovely seemed
 That landscape: and of pure now purer air
 Meets his approach, and to the heart inspires
 Vernal delight and joy, able to drive 155
 All sadness but despair: now gentle gales,
 Fanning their odoriferous wings, dispense
 Native perfumes, and whisper whence they stole
 Those balmy spoils. As when to them who sail
 Beyond the Cape of Hope, and now are past 160
 Mozambic, off at sea northeast winds blow
 Sabéan odors from the spicy shore

134. the champain head, the level summit.

137. Access denied, forbade approach.

141. theatre, a place rising by steps, like the seats of an ancient theatre.

158. of, from or after.

154. inspires, breathes in.

160. of Hope, of Good Hope.

162. Sabean odors. The southern part of Arabia is often called Arabia Felix, or the Blest. Its ancient capital was Saba, or Sheba, whose queen came to Jerusalem "to hear the wisdom of Solo-

Of Araby the Blest ; with such delay
 Well pleased they slack their course, and many a league
 Cheered with the grateful smell old Ocean smiles : 165
 So entertained those odorous sweets the Fiend
 Who came their bane, though with them better pleased
 Than Asmodéus with the fishy fume
 That drove him, though enamored, from the spouse
 Of Tobit's son, and with a vengeance sent 170
 From Media post to Egypt, there fast bound.

Now to the ascent of that steep savage hill
 Satan had journeyed on, pensive and slow ;
 But further way found none, so thick entwined,
 As one continued brake, the undergrowth 175
 Of shrubs and tangling bushes had perplexed
 All path of man or beast that passed that way.
 One gate there only was, and that looked east
 On the other side : which when the arch-felon saw,
 Due entrance he disdained, and in contempt 180
 At one slight bound high overleaped all bound
 Of hill or highest wall, and sheer within Lights on his feet. As when a prowling wolf

 Watching where shepherds pen their flocks at eve

mon," bringing spices, gold, and precious stones ; " neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave King Solomon." 2 Chronicles ix. 1-9.

167. their bane, as their bane ; to poison them.

168. Asmodeus was an evil spirit, who had destroyed in succession seven husbands of the daughter of Raguel. After she became the spouse of Tobit's son, he was driven away by the fumes of the heart and liver of a fish ;

"the which smell when the evil spirit had smelled, he fled into the utmost parts of Egypt, and the angel bound him." The story is found in the Book of Tobit, in the Apocrypha. See chap viii.

171. Media, a country east of Assyria and south of the Caspian Sea. — post, with great speed.

172. savage, wild and woody.

175. As, like. — brake, thicket.

176. hail would have. — perplexed, made intricate.

In hurdled cotes amid the field secure, 186
 Leaps o'er the fence with ease into the fold ;
 Or as a thief, bent to unhoard the cash
 Of some rich burgher, whose substantial doors
 Cross-barred and bolted fast fear no assault, 190
 In at the window climbs, or o'er the tiles :
 So clomb this first grand thief into God's fold ;
 So since into his church lewd hirelings climb.
 Thence up he flew, and on the Tree of Life,
 The middle tree and highest there that grew, 195
 Sat like a cormorant ; yet not true life
 Thereby regained, but sat devising death
 To them who lived ; nor on the virtue thought
 Of that life-giving plant, but only used
 For prospect what well used had been the pledge 200
 Of immortality. So little knows
 Any, but God alone, to value right
 The good before him, but perverts best things
 To worst abuse or to their meanest use.
 Beneath him with new wonder now he views, 205
 To all delight of human sense exposed,
 In narrow room Nature's whole wealth, yea more,
 A heaven on Earth ; for blissful Paradise
 Of God the garden was, by him in the east
 Of Eden planted ; Eden stretched her line 210
 From Auran eastward to the royal towers
 Of great Seleucia, built by Grecian kings,

186. hurdled, fenced about with sticks or twigs closely interwoven.

— secure. See II. 890.

192. So clomb. See John x. 1.

193. lewd is probably used here as in Acts xxii. 5, for vile, unprincipled. Elsewhere Milton speaks of "hireling wolves, whose gospel is their maw."

194. the Tree of Life. "The tree of life also in the midst of the garden." Genesis ii. 9.

196. cormorant. The cormorant is a kind of sea-fowl, extremely voracious.

198. virtue, peculiar power or properties.

200. For prospect, as a place from which to look abroad. — had been, would have been.

210. Eden. "And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden." Genesis ii. 8.

211-214. Auran, or Haran (also called Charran), was a city in the northwestern part of Mesopotamia, the name anciently given to the country lying between the rivers Tigris and Euphrates

Or where the sons of Eden long before
 Dwelt in Telassar. In this pleasant soil
 His far more pleasant garden God ordained : 215
 Out of the fertile ground he caused to grow
 All trees of noblest kind for sight, smell, taste ;
 And all amid them stood the Tree of Life,
 High eminent, blooming ambrosial fruit
 Of vegetable gold ; and next to life 220
 Our death, the Tree of Knowledge, grew fast by,
 Knowledge of good bought dear by knowing ill.
 Southward through Eden went a river large,
 Nor changed his course, but through the shaggy hill
 Passed underneath ingulfed ; for God had thrown 225
 That mountain as his garden mould high raised
 Upon the rapid current, which, through veins
 Of porous earth with kindly thirst up-drawn,
 Rose a fresh fountain, and with many a rill
 Watered the garden ; thence united fell 230
 Down the steep glade, and met the nether flood
 Which from his darksome passage now appears,
 And now divided into four main streams
 Runs diverse wandering many a famous realm
 And country, whereof here needs no account ; 235
 But rather to tell how, if Art could tell
 How, from that sapphire fount the crisped brooks,

Seleucia was a city in the south-eastern part of Mesopotamia, on the river Tigris, built near the ancient Telassar by Seleucus, a Macedonian general who became king of Syria and the founder of a line of Grecian kings. — The exact situation of the Garden of Eden has always been a matter of conjecture. — pleasant soil. The word Eden means pleasure, delight.

218. all amid them, "in the midst of the garden." Genesis ii. 9. — blooming, blooming with.

221. the Tree of Knowledge.

"And the tree of knowledge of good and evil." Genesis ii. 9. — fast by. See I. 12.

223. a river large. "A river went out of Eden to water the garden." Genesis ii. 10.

224. his, its. So in line 232.

233. four main streams. "And from thence it was parted, and became into four heads." Gen. ii. 10-14.

234. wandering, wandering over or through.

237. crisped, curled in small waves.

Rolling on orient pearl and sands of gold
 With mazy error under pendent shades,
 Ran nectar, visiting each plant, and fed 240
 Flowers worthy of Paradise, which not nice Art
 In beds and curious knots, but Nature boon
 Poured forth profuse on hill and dale and plain,
 Both where the morning sun first warmly smote
 The open field, and where the unpiercèd shade 245
 Imbrowned the noon-tide bowers. Thus was this place
 A happy rural seat of various view ;
 Groves whose rich trees wept odorous gums and balm,
 Others whose fruit burnished with golden rind
 Hung amiable, — Hesperian fables true, 250
 If true, here only, — and of delicious taste.
 Betwixt them lawns, or level downs, and flocks
 Grazing the tender herb, were interposed,
 Or palmy hillock ; or the flowery lap
 Of some irriguous valley spread her store, 255
 Flowers of all hue, and without thorn the rose.
 Another side, umbrageous grots and caves
 Of cool recess, o'er which the mantling vine
 Lays forth her purple grape, and gently creeps
 Luxuriant : meanwhile murmuring waters fall 260
 Down the slope hills dispersed, or in a lake,
 That to the fringed bank with myrtle crowned
 Her crystal mirror holds, unite their streams.
 The birds their quire apply ; airs, vernal airs,
 Breathing the smell of field and grove, attune 265
 The trembling leaves, while universal Pan,

238. orient, eastern ; such as is found in the East.

239. error, wandering course.

241. nice Art, nice Art had set.

242. boon, bountiful.

245. unpierced, not penetrated
 by the rays of the sun.

246. Imbrowned, darkened.

247. of various view, presenting various scenes.

250. amiable, lovely or pleasing to the sight. See Psalm lxxxiv.

265. attune, make tuneful.

266. universal Pan. Pan was the god of shepherds and flocks.

Knit with the Graces and the Hours in dance,
 Led on the eternal Spring. Not that fair field
 Of Enna, where Proserpine gathering flowers,
 Herself a fairer flower, by gloomy Dis 270
 Was gathered, which cost Ceres all that pain
 To seek her through the world; nor that sweet grove
 Of Daphne by Orontes, and the inspired
 Castalian spring, might with this Paradise
 Of Eden strive; nor that Nyseian isle 275
 Gift with the river Triton, where old Cham,
 Whom Gentiles Ammon call and Libyan Jove,
 Hid Amalthéa and her florid son,
 Young Bacchus, from his stepdame Rhea's eye;
 Nor where Abassin kings their issue guard, 280

 True Paradise, under the Ethiop line,

As the word Pan in Greek signifies all, he is sometimes supposed to typify all Nature. He often led the dances of the Nymphs.

267. the Graces, three in number, were the attendants of Venus, the goddess of beauty, and sometimes of other deities. — the Hours were the goddesses of the seasons, whose course was represented in their dance.

269-272. Proserpine, the daughter of Ceres, was seized by Pluto, or Dis, the god of the infernal regions, while she was gathering flowers in the fertile plain of Enna in Sicily, and borne away by him to be the queen of the lower world. Her mother, in ignorance of her fate, sought her through the world.

273. Daphne. The city of Antioch, in Syria, was situated not far from the sea in the beautiful valley of the river Orontes. Near it was a celebrated grove, called Daphne and consecrated to Apollo.

274. Castalian spring. Castalia was a fountain on Mount Parnassus, sacred to Apollo and the Muses. The spring that watered the grove of Daphne was also so called.

275-279. that Nyseian isle is Nysa or Nyssa in Africa, where the god Bacchus was said to have been brought up. — Cham, or Ham, was a name given to Jupiter Ammon, who was worshipped in Libya, in the north of Africa. — Amalthéa was sometimes considered as the mother of Bacchus. — Rhea here seems to be the same as Cybele, who is called the mother of all the gods.

280-285. Mount Amara was in Ethiopia, near the Equinoctial line. In the midst of the hills of which the ridge was composed, or on the summit of the mountain, there was said to be a rich and beautiful plain. Here the children of the kings of Abyssinia were kept confined, until at the death of their father one of them was taken from this "Happy Valley" to succeed him. — The hill of Amara was said to be a whole day's journey high. — Nilus' head, the source of the Nile.

Then was not guilty shame, dishonest shame
 Of nature's works, honor dishonorable,
 Sin-bred, how have ye troubled all mankind
 With shows instead, mere shows of seeming pure,
 And banished from man's life his happiest life,
 Simplicity and spotless innocence !
 So passed they naked on, nor shunned the sight
 Of God or angel, for they thought no ill :
 So hand in hand they passed, the loveliest pair
 That ever since in love's embraces met ;
 Adam the goodliest man of men since born
 His sons, the fairest of her daughters Eve.
 Under a tuft of shade, that on a green
 Stood whispering soft, by a fresh fountain side
 They sat them down ; and after no more toil
 Of their sweet gardening labor than sufficed
 To recommend cool Zephyr, and made ease
 More easy, wholesome thirst and appetite
 More grateful, to their supper fruits they fell,
 Nectarine fruits, which the compliant boughs
 Yielded them, sidelong as they sat recline
 On the soft downy bank damasked with flowers.
 The savory pulp they chew, and in the rind,
 Still as they thirsted, scoop the brimming stream ;
 Nor gentle purpose nor endearing smiles
 Wanted, nor youthful dalliance, as beseems
 Fair couple linked in happy nuptial league,
 Alone as they. About them frisking played
 All beasts of the earth, since wild, and of all chase
 In wood or wilderness, forest or den :

813-815. The punctuation is that of the earliest editions. A period is needed after dishonorable, or after the first shame.

829. recommend, make welcome or acceptable. — Zephyr, or Zephyrus, is the personification of the west wind.

838. recline, reclined.

837. purpose, discourse.

839. Wanted, were wanting

841. wild, grown or become wild. — of all chase, beasts of chase ; all beasts that are hunted in various ways.

Sporting the lion ramped, and in his paw
 Dandled the kid; bears, tigers, ounces, pards,
 Gambolled before them; the unwieldy elephant, 345
 To make them mirth, used all his might, and wreathed
 His lithe proboscis; close the serpent sly
 Insinuating wove with Gordian twine
 His braided train, and of his fatal guile
 Gave proof unheeded; others on the grass 350
 Couched, and now filled with pasture gazing sat,
 Or bedward ruminating; for the sun
 Declined was hasting now with prone career
 To the ocean isles, and in the ascending scale
 Of heaven the stars that usher evening rose: 355
 When Satan, still in gaze as first he stood,
 Scarce thus at length failed speech recovered sad:

“O Hell! what do mine eyes with grief behold?
 Into our room of bliss thus high advanced
 Creatures of other mould, earth-born perhaps, 360
 Not spirits, yet to heavenly spirits bright
 Little inferior; whom my thoughts pursue
 With wonder, and could love, so lively shines
 In them divine resemblance, and such grace
 The hand that formed them on their shape hath poured. 366
 Ah, gentle pair! ye little think how nigh
 Your change approaches, when all these delights
 Will vanish and deliver ye to woe,

343. ramped, bounded; leaped.344. pards, leopards, or panthers.348. Insinuating, winding along. — Gordian. At Gordium, in Asia Minor, was a celebrated knot, so intricate that an oracle declared that he who should untie it should rule the world. Alexander of Macedon cut it with his sword. — twine, twist.350. unheeded by Adam and Eve.351. Couched, lay.352. bedward ruminating, chewing the cud before they slept.353. prone, sloping downwards.357. failed, lost for a time.359. Into our room of bliss, to take our place in bliss.362. Little inferior. “Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels.” Psalm viii. 5.

More woe the more your taste is now of joy :
 Happy, but for so happy ill secured 370
 Long to continue, and this high seat your heaven
 Ill-fenced for heaven to keep out such a foe
 As now is entered ; yet no purposed foe
 To you, whom I could pity thus forlorn,
 Though I unpitied. League with you I seek, 375
 And mutual amity, so strait, so close,
 That I with you must dwell, or you with me,
 Henceforth : my dwelling haply may not please,
 Like this fair Paradise, your sense ; yet such Accept your Maker's work ; he gave it me, 380
 Which I as freely give : Hell shall unfold,
 To entertain you two, her widest gates,
 And send forth all her kings ; there will be room,
 Not like these narrow limits, to receive
 Your numerous offspring : if no better place, 385
 Thank him who puts me loath to this revenge
 On you who wrong me not, for him who wronged.
 And should I at your harmless innocence
 Melt, as I do, yet public reason just,
 Honor and empire with revenge enlarged 390
 By conquering this new world, compels me now
 To do what else, though damned, I should abhor."

So spake the Fiend, and with necessity,
 The tyrant's plea, excused his devilish deeds.
 Then from his lofty stand on that high tree 395
 Down he alights among the sportful herd
 Of those four-footed kinds, himself now one,
 Now other, as their shape served best his end
 Nearer to view his prey, and unespied 399
 To mark what of their state he more might learn

370. for, considering that you are. 381. Hell shall unfold. See Isaiah xiv. 9.

371. continue, continue happy.

375. I myself remain unpitied.

386. puts, impels. — loath, unwilling.

By word or action marked : about them round
 A lion now he stalks with fiery glare ;
 Then as a tiger, who by chance hath spied
 In some purlieu two gentle fawns at play,
 Straight couches close, then rising changes oft 405
 His couchant watch, as one who chose his ground,
 Whence rushing he might surest seize them both
 Griped in each paw : when Adam, first of men,
 To first of women Eve thus moving speech,
 Turned him all ear to hear new utterance flow : 410

“ Sole partner and sole part of all these joys,
 Dearer thyself than all, needs must the Power
 That made us, and for us this ample world,
 Be infinitely good, and of his good
 As liberal and free as infinite ; 415
 That raised us from the dust and placed us here
 In all this happiness, who at his hand
 Have nothing merited, nor can perform
 Aught whereof he hath need ; he who requires
 From us no other service than to keep 420
 This one, this easy charge, of all the trees
 In Paradise that bear delicious fruit
 So various, not to taste that only Tree
 Of Knowledge, planted by the Tree of Life ;
 So near grows death to life, whate’er death is, 425
 Some dreadful thing no doubt ; for well thou know’st
 God hath pronounced it death to taste that tree,
 The only sign of our obedience left
 Among so many signs of power and rule

403. as a tiger, in the form or likeness of a tiger.

409. moving speech, speaking.

410. him, Satan. — all ear. See Comus, line 560, “ I was all ear.”

423. not to taste. “ And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat ; but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it ; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.” Genesis ii. 16, 17.

Conferred upon us, and dominion given 430
 Over all other creatures that possess
 Earth, air, and sea. Then let us not think hard
 One easy prohibition, who enjoy
 Free leave so large to all things else, and choice
 Unlimited of manifold delights ; 435
 But let us ever praise him and extol
 His bounty, following our delightful task,
 To prune these growing plants and tend these flowers,
 Which were it toilsome yet with thee were sweet."

To whom thus Eve replied : " O thou for whom
 And from whom I was formed, flesh of thy flesh, 441
 And without whom am to no end, my guide
 And head, what thou hast said is just and right :
 For we to him indeed all praises owe,
 And daily thanks ; I chiefly, who enjoy 445
 So far the happier lot, enjoying thee
 Preëminent by so much odds, while thou
 Like consort to thyself canst nowhere find.
 That day I oft remember, when from sleep
 I first awaked, and found myself reposed 450
 Under a shade on flowers, much wondering where
 And what I was, whence thither brought, and how.
 Not distant far from thence a murmuring sound
 Of waters issued from a cave, and spread
 Into a liquid plain, then stood unmoved, 455
 Pure as the expanse of heaven : I thither went
 With unexperienced thought, and laid me down
 On the green bank, to look into the clear
 Smooth lake, that to me seemed another sky.

So spake our general mother, and with eyes
 Of conjugal attraction unreprieved
 And meek surrender, half embracing leaned
 On our first father ; half her swelling breast 495
 Naked met his, under the flowing gold
 Of her loose tresses hid : he in delight
 Both of her beauty and submissive charms
 Smiled with superior love, as Jupiter
 On Juno smiles when he impregns the clouds 500
 That shed May flowers, and pressed her matron lip
 With kisses pure : aside the Devil turned
 For envy, yet with jealous leer malign
 Eyed them askance, and to himself thus plained :

“ Sight hateful, sight tormenting ! Thus these two,
 Imparadised in one another’s arms, 505
 The happier Eden, shall enjoy their fill
 Of bliss on bliss ; while I to Hell am thrust,
 Where neither joy nor love, but fierce desire,
 Amongst our other torments not the least, 510
 Still unfulfilled with pain of longing pines.
 Yet let me not forget what I have gained
 From their own mouths : all is not theirs it seems ;
 One fatal tree there stands of knowledge called,
 Forbidden them to taste. Knowledge forbidden ?
 Suspicious, reasonless. Why should their Lord 515
 Envy them that ? can it be sin to know ?
 Can it be death ? and do they only stand
 By ignorance ? is that their happy state,
 The proof of their obedience and their faith ? 520
 O fair foundation laid whereon to build
 Their ruin ! Hence I will excite their minds
 With more desire to know, and to reject

504. askance, with sideways

Envious commands, invented with design
 To keep them low, whom knowledge might exalt 525
 Equal with gods; aspiring to be such,
 They taste and die: what likelier can ensue? —
 But first with narrow search I must walk round
 This garden, and no corner leave unspied;
 A chance but chance may lead where I may meet 530
 Some wandering spirit of Heaven, by fountain side
 Or in thick shade retired, from him to draw
 What further would be learned. Live while ye may,
 Yet happy pair; enjoy, till I return,
 Short pleasures, for long woes are to succeed." 535

So saying, his proud step he scornful turned
 But with sly circumspection, and began,
 Through wood, through waste, o'er hill, o'er dale, his roam.

Meanwhile in utmost longitude, where heaven
 With earth and ocean meets, the setting sun 540
 Slowly descended, and with right aspect
 Against the eastern gate of Paradise
 Levelled his evening rays: it was a rock
 Of alabaster, piled up to the clouds,
 Conspicuous far, winding with one ascent 545
 Accessible from earth, one entrance high;
 The rest was craggy cliff, that overhung
 Still as it rose, impossible to climb.
 Betwixt these rocky pillars Gabriel sat,
 Chief of the angelic guards, awaiting night: 550
 About him exercised heroic games
 The unarmed youth of Heaven; but nigh at hand

542. Against the eastern gate.
 It could have been only against the inner side of the eastern gate, that the setting sun levelled his evening rays.

Celestial armory, shields, helms, and spears,
 Hung high with diamond flaming and with gold.
 Thither came Uriel, gliding through the even 555
 On a sunbeam, swift as a shooting star
 In autumn thwarts the night, when vapors fired
 Impress the air, and shows the mariner
 From what point of his compass to beware
 Impetuous winds: he thus began in haste: 560

"Gabriel, to thee thy course by lot hath given
 Charge and strict watch, that to this happy place
 No evil thing approach or enter in.
 This day at height of noon came to my sphere
 A Spirit, zealous, as he seemed, to know 565
 More of the Almighty's works, and chiefly Man,
 God's latest image: I described his way
 Bent all on speed, and marked his aery gait;
 But in the mount that lies from Eden north,
 Where he first lighted, soon discerned his looks 570
 Alien from Heaven, with passions foul obscured:
 Mine eye pursued him still, but under shade
 Lost sight of him. One of the banished crew,
 I fear, hath ventured from the deep to raise
 New troubles; him thy care must be to find." 575

To whom the wingèd warrior thus returned:
 "Uriel, no wonder if thy perfect sight,
 Amid the sun's bright circle where thou sitt'st,
 See far and wide. In at this gate none pass 580
 The vigilance here placed, but such as come
 Well known from Heaven; and since meridian h

So minded, have o'erleaped these earthy bounds
 On purpose, hard thou know'st it to exclude
 Spiritual substance with corporeal bar. 585
 But if within the circuit of these walks
 In whatsoever shape he lurk of whom
 Thou tell'st, by morrow dawning I shall know."

So promised he ; and Uriel to his charge
 Returned on that bright beam, whose point now raised 590
 Bore him slope downward to the sun, now fallen
 Beneath the Azorès ; whether the prime orb,
 Incredible how swift, had thither rolled
 Diurnal, or this less volúbil earth,
 By shorter flight to the east, had left him there, 595
 Arraying with reflected purple and gold
 The clouds that on his western throne attend.

Now came still evening on, and twilight gray
 Had in her sober livery all things clad ;
 Silence accompanied ; for beast and bird, 600
 They to their grassy couch, these to their nests,
 Were slunk, all but the wakeful nightingale ;
 She all night long her amorous descant sung ;
 Silence was pleased : now glowed the firmament
 With living sapphires ; Hesperus that led 605
 The starry host rode brightest ; till the moon,
 Rising in clouded majesty, at length

590. whose point now raised. As the sun had set, its beams were no longer horizontal, but now striking upwards.

592. the Azores, or Western Islands, in the Atlantic Ocean, due west from Mesopotamia.

592-595. The sun had set, in consequence either of its own diurnal motion round the earth, as was anciently supposed, or, according to the modern system of Astronomy, of the turning of the less volúbil earth on its axis eastward. If the former, it was the prime orb, or Primum Mobile (see III. 481-483), that caused the motion of the sun. — less volúbil, moving through less space.

605. Hesperus, the evening star, seen in the west.

Apparent queen unveiled her peerless light,
 And o'er the dark her silver mantle threw ;
 When Adam thus to Eve : " Fair consort, the hour
 Of night, and all things now retired to rest, 611
 Mind us of like repose, since God hath set
 Labor and rest, as day and night, to men
 Successive ; and the timely dew of sleep,
 Now falling with soft slumbrous weight, inclines 615
 Our eyelids : other creatures all day long
 Rove idle, unemployed, and less need rest :
 Man hath his daily work of body or mind
 Appointed, which declares his dignity,
 And the regard of Heaven on all his ways ; 620
 While other animals unactive range,
 And of their doings God takes no account.
 To-morrow, ere fresh morning streak the east
 With first approach of light, we must be risen,
 And at our pleasant labor, to reform 625
 Yon flowery arbors, yonder alleys green,
 Our walk at noon, with branches overgrown,
 That mock our scant manuring, and require
 More hands than ours to lop their wanton growth :
 Those blossoms also and those dropping gums 630
 That lie bestrown, unsightly and unsmooth,
 Ask riddance, if we mean to tread with ease ;
 Meanwhile, as nature wills, night bids us rest."

To whom thus Eve, with perfect beauty adorned :
 " My author and disposer, what thou bidd'st 635
 Unargued I obey, so God ordains :
 God is thy law, thou mine ; to know no more
 Is woman's happiest knowledge and her praise.

615. inclines, weighs down.

625. reform, form anew ; rearrange.

637. thou mine. See line 630.

With thee conversing I forget all time ;
 All seasons and their change, all please alike. 640
 Sweet is the breath of morn, her rising sweet,
 With charm of earliest birds ; pleasant the sun,
 When first on this delightful land he spreads
 His orient beams, on herb, tree, fruit, and flower,
 Glistening with dew ; fragrant the fertile earth 645
 After soft showers ; and sweet the coming on
 Of grateful evening mild ; then silent night,
 With this her solemn bird and this fair moon,
 And these the gems of heaven, her starry train :
 But neither breath of morn when she ascends 650
 With charm of earliest birds, nor rising sun
 On this delightful land, nor herb, fruit, flower,
 Glistening with dew, nor fragrance after showers,
 Nor grateful evening mild, nor silent night
 With this her solemn bird, nor walk by moon 655
 Or glittering starlight, without thee is sweet.
 But wherefore all night long shine these ? for whom
 This glorious sight, when sleep hath shut all eyes ? ”

To whom our general ancestor replied :
 “ Daughter of God and Man, accomplished Eve, 660
 These have their course to finish round the earth
 By morrow evening, and from land to land
 In order, though to nations yet unborn,
 Ministering light prepared, they set and rise ;
 Lest total darkness should by night regain 665
 Her old possession, and extinguish life
 In nature and all things, which these soft fires
 Not only enlighten, but with kindly heat
 Of various influence foment and warm,
 Temper or nourish, or in part shed down 670
 Their stellar virtue on all kinds that grow

the stars, which, in the days of

On earth, made hereby apter to receive
 Perfection from the sun's more potent ray ;
 These then, though unbeheld in deep of night,
 Shine not in vain. Nor think, though men were none, 675

That heaven would want spectators, God want praise:
 Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth
 Unseen, both when we wake and when we sleep ;
 All these with ceaseless praise his works behold
 Both day and night. How often from the steep 680
 Of echoing hill or thicket, have we heard
 Celestial voices to the midnight air,
 Sole, or responsive each to other's note,
 Singing the great Creator ! oft in bands 684
 While they keep watch, or nightly rounding walk,
 With heavenly touch of instrumental sounds
 In full harmonic number joined, their songs
 Divide the night and lift our thoughts to Heaven."

Thus talking, hand in hand alone they passed
 On to their blissful bower : it was a place 690
 Chosen by the sovran planter, when he framed
 All things to Man's delightful use : the roof
 Of thickest covert was inwoven shade,
 Laurel and myrtle, and what higher grew
 Of firm and fragrant leaf ; on either side 695
 Acanthus and each odorous bushy shrub
 Fenced up the verdant wall ; each beauteous flower,
 Iris all hues, roses and jessamine,
 Reared high their flourished heads between, and wrought
 Mosaic ; underfoot the violet, 700
 Crocus, and hyacinth, with rich inlay astrology, were supposed to have power over things on the earth.

688. Divide the night. In a Roman camp the night was divided into watches by the sound of trumpets.

698. all hues, of all hues.

699. flourished, adorned with flowers.—wrought, made by their different colors.

701. inlay, inlaid work.

Broidered the ground, more colored than with stone
 Of costliest emblem : other creature here,
 Beast, bird, insect, or worm, durst enter none,
 Such was their awe of Man. In shadier bower 705
 More sacred and sequestered, though but feigned,
 Pan or Sylvanus never slept, nor Nymph
 Nor Faunus haunted. Here, in close recess,
 With flowers, garlands, and sweet smelling herbs,
 Espoused Eve decked first her nuptial bed ; 710
 And heavenly quires the hymenæan sung,
 What day the genial angel to our sire
 Brought her, in naked beauty more adorned,
 More lovely than Pandora, whom the gods
 Endowed with all their gifts, and O too like 715
 In sad event ! when to the unwiser son
 Of Japhet brought by Hermes she ensnared
 Mankind with her fair looks, to be avenged
 On him who had stole Jove's authentic fire.

Thus at their shady lodge arrived, both stood, 720
 Both turned, and under open sky adored
 The God that made both sky, air, earth, and heaven
 Which they beheld, the moon's resplendent globe,
 And starry pole : " Thou also mad'st the night,
 Maker omnipotent ! and thou the day, 725

707. Pan. See line 286. — Silvanus was a rural god, who presided over woods and fields. — Nymph. The Nymphs were female divinities, some of whom dwelt in groves and trees.

708. Faunus was the god of fields and shepherds.

711. hymenæan, nuptial song.

714-719. Prometheus, son of Iapetus or Japhet, stole fire from heaven, Jove's authentic fire, for the use of mortals. In revenge, Jupiter sent to earth, for the misery of the human race, the first woman, Pandora (all-gifted), on whom the gods had conferred every charm. Hermes, or Mercury, brought her to Epimetheus, the unwiser son of Japhet, who, despite the warning of his brother Prometheus, took her to wife. She had brought with her from heaven a box containing all the ills that afflict humanity. When the box was opened, these escaped and spread over the earth, Hope alone remaining. This was the sad event, or consequence. — authentic, of which he was the author.

Which we in our appointed work employed
 Have finished, happy in our mutual help
 And mutual love, the crown of all our bliss,
 Ordained by thee ; and this delicious place
 For us too large, where thy abundance wants 730
 Partakers, and uncropt falls to the ground.
 But thou hast promised from us two a race
 To fill the earth, who shall with us extol
 Thy goodness infinite, both when we wake,
 And when we seek, as now, thy gift of sleep." 735

This said unanimous, and other rites
 Observing none, but adoration pure
 Which God likes best, into their inmost bower
 Handed they went ; and, eased the putting off
 These troublesome disguises which we wear, 740
 Straight side by side were laid ; nor turned, I ween,
 Adam from his fair spouse, nor Eve the rites
 Mysterious of connubial love refused ;
 Whatever hypocrites austere talk
 Of purity, and place, and innocence, 745
 Defaming as impure what God declares
 Pure, and commands to some, leaves free to all.
 Our Maker bids increase ; who bids abstain
 But our destroyer, foe to God and Man ?
 Hail, wedded love ! mysterious law, true source 750
 Of human offspring, sole propriety
 In Paradise of all things common else.
 By thee adulterous lust was driven from men
 Among the bestial herds to range ; by thee,
 Founded in reason, loyal, just and pure, 755
 Relations dear, and all the charities
 Of father, son, and brother, first were known.

beloved sleep." Psalm cxxvii. 2.

751. propriety, property.

Far be it, that I should write thee sin or blame,
 Or think thee unbecoming holiest place,
 Perpetual fountain of domestic sweets, 760
 Whose bed is undefiled and chaste pronounced,
 Present or past, as saints and patriarchs used.
 Here Love his golden shafts employs, here lights
 His constant lamp, and waves his purple wings,
 Reigns here and revels ; not in the bought smile 765
 Of harlots, loveless, joyless, unendeared,
 Casual fruition ; nor in court amours,
 Mixed dance, or wanton mask, or midnight ball,
 Or serenate, which the starved lover sings
 To his proud fair, best quitted with disdain. 770
 These, lulled by nightingales, embracing slept,
 And on their naked limbs the flowery roof
 Showered roses, which the morn repaired. Sleep on,
 Blest pair ; and O yet happiest if ye seek
 No happier state, and know to know no mote ! 775

Now had Night measured with her shadowy cone
 Half-way up hill this vast sublunar vault,
 And from their ivory port the Cherubim
 Forth issuing at the accustomed hour, stood armed
 To their night watches in warlike parade, 780
 When Gabriel to his next in power thus spake :

“ Uzziel, half these draw off, and coast the south
 With strictest watch ; these other wheel the north ;
 Our circuit meets full west.” — As flame they part,
 Half wheeling to the shield, half to the spear. 785

769. serenate, from the Italian “serenata,” serenade.

776. shadowy cone. The shadow of the earth is cone-shaped, the sun being the larger body. This moves as the sun (properly, the earth) moves.

777. Half way up hill, half way from the horizon to the zenith. If the day and night were each twelve hours long, this would be half way between sunset and midnight.

779. port, gate.

783. wheel, move round. — these other were under Gabriel himself.

From these, two strong and subtle spirits he called
That near him stood, and gave them thus in charge:

“Ithuriël and Zephon, with winged speed
Search through this garden, leave unsearched no nook;
But chiefly where those two fair creatures lodge, 790
Now laid perhaps asleep, secure of harm.
This evening from the sun’s decline arrived
Who tells of some infernal spirit seen
Hitherward bent (who could have thought?), escaped
The bars of Hell, on errand bad no doubt: 795
Such, where ye find, seize fast and hither bring.”

So saying, on he led his radiant files,
Dazzling the moon; these to the bower direct
In search of whom they sought: him there they found,
Squat like a toad, close at the ear of Eve, 800
Assaying by his devilish art to reach
The organs of her fancy, and with them forge
Illusions as he list, phantasms and dreams;
Or if, inspiring venom, he might taint
The animal spirits that from pure blood arise 805
Like gentle breaths from rivers pure, thence raise
At least distempered, discontented thoughts,
Vain hopes, vain aims, inordinate desires,
Blown up with high conceits ingendering pride.
Him thus intent Ithuriel with his spear 810
Touched lightly; for no falsehood can endure
Touch of celestial temper, but returns or left, shields being worn on the left arm, and half to the spear, or right hand, in which the spear was carried.

788. these, these other, who wheeled to the right. — subtle, quick to observe.

791. secure of, without anxiety or care on account of; free from the fear of.

793. Who, one who. See lines 549–575.

Of force to its own likeness ; up he starts,
 Discovered and surprised. As when a spark
 Lights on a heap of nitrous powder, laid 815
 Fit for the tun some magazine to store
 Against a rumored war, the smutty grain
 With sudden blaze diffused inflames the air ;
 So started up in his own shape the Fiend.
 Back stepped those two fair angels, half amazed 820
 So sudden to behold the grisly king ;
 Yet thus, unmoved with fear, accost him soon :

“ Which of those rebel spirits adjudged to Hell
 Com'st thou, escaped thy prison ? and transformed
 Why sat'st thou like an enemy in wait, 825
 Here watching at the head of these that sleep ? ”

“ Know ye not then,” said Satan, filled with scorn,
 “ Know ye not me ? ye knew me once no mate
 For you, there sitting where ye durst not soar :
 Not to know me argues yourselves unknown, 830
 The lowest of your throng ; or if ye know,
 Why ask ye, and superfluous begin
 Your message, like to end as much in vain ? ”

To whom thus Zephon, answering scorn with scorn :
 “ Think not, revolted Spirit, thy shape the same, 835
 Or undiminished brightness, to be known
 As when thou stood'st in Heaven upright and pure :
 That glory then, when thou no more wast good,
 Departed from thee, and thou resemblest now
 Thy sin and place of doom obscure and foul. 840
 But come ; for thou, be sure, shalt give account rendering.

To him who sent us, whose charge is to keep
This place inviolable, and these from harm."

So spake the Cherub; and his grave rebuke,
Severe in youthful beauty, added grace 845
Invincible: abashed the Devil stood,
And felt how awful goodness is, and saw
Virtue in her shape how lovely; saw, and pined
His loss; but chiefly to find here observed
His lustre visibly impaired; yet seemed 850
Undaunted. "If I must contend," said he,
"Best with the best, the sender not the sent,
Or all at once; more glory will be won,
Or less be lost." "Thy fear," said Zephon bold,
"Will save us trial what the least can do 855
Single against thee wicked, and thence weak."

The Fiend replied not, overcome with rage;
But like a proud steed reined went haughty on,
Champing his iron curb: to strive or fly
He held it vain; awe from above had quelled 860
His heart, not else dismayed. Now drew they nigh
The western point, where those half-rounding guards
Just met, and closing stood in squadron joined,
Awaiting next command. To whom their chief,
Gabriel, from the front thus called aloud: 865

"O friends, I hear the tread of nimble feet
Hasting this way, and now by glimpse discern
Ithuriel and Zephon through the shade;
And with them comes a third of regal port
But faded splendor wan, who by his gait 870

perhaps let the best contend.

855. trial, the trial or trying

869. port, bearing.

And fierce demeanor seems the Prince of Hell,
 Not likely to part hence without contest ;
 Stand firm, for in his look defiance lours."

He scarce had ended, when those two approached,
 And brief related whom they brought, where found,
 How busied, in what form and posture couched. 876

To whom with stern regard thus Gabriel spake :
 " Why hast thou, Satan, broke the bounds prescribed
 To thy transgressions, and disturbed the charge
 Of others, who approve not to transgress 880
 By thy example, but have power and right
 To question thy bold entrance on this place ;
 Employed it seems to violate sleep, and those Whose dwelling God hath planted here in bliss ? "

To whom thus Satan with contemptuous brow : 885
 " Gabriel, thou hadst in Heaven the esteem of wise,
 And such I held thee ; but this question asked
 Puts me in doubt. Lives there who loves his pain ?
 Who would not, finding way, break loose from Hell,
 Though thither doomed ? Thou wouldst thyself, no doubt, 890
 And boldly venture to whatever place .
 Farthest from pain, where thou might'st hope to change

Torment with ease, and soonest recompense
 Dole with delight, which in this place I sought ;
 To thee no reason, who know'st only good, 895
 But evil hast not tried ; and wilt object

878. lours, lowers.

877. regard, look.

880. approve not, do not think

 to thee no reason.

896. wilt object, wilt thou bring as an objection.

His will who bound us ? Let him surer bar
 His iron gates, if he intends our stay
 In that dark durance. Thus much what was asked ;
 The rest is true, they found me where they say ; 900
 But that implies not violence or harm."

Thus he in scorn. The warlike angel moved,
 Disdainfully half-smiling, thus replied :
 " O loss of one in Heaven to judge of wise,
 Since Satan fell ! whom folly overthrew, 905
 And now returns him from his prison scaped,
 Gravely in doubt whether to hold them wise
 Or not, who ask what boldness brought him hither
 Unlicensed from his bounds in Hell prescribed ;
 So wise he judges it to fly from pain 910
 However, and to scape his punishment !
 So judge thou still, presumptuous, till the wrath,
 Which thou incur'st by flying, meet thy flight
 Sevenfold, and scourge that wisdom back to Hell,
 Which taught thee yet no better, that no pain 915
 Can equal anger infinite provoked.
 But wherefore thou alone ? wherefore with thee
 Came not all Hell broke loose ? is pain to them
 Less pain, less to be fled ? or thou than they Less hardy to endure ? Courageous chief ! 920
 The first in flight from pain, hadst thou alleged
 To thy deserted host this cause of flight,
 Thou surely hadst not come sole fugitive."

To which the Fiend thus answered, frowning stern :
 " Not that I less endure, or shrink from pain, 925

Thy fiercest, when in battle to thy aid
 The blasting volleyed thunder made all speed,
 And seconded thy else not dreaded spear.
 But still thy words at random, as before, 930
 Argue thy inexperience what behooves,
 From hard assays and ill successes past,
 A faithful leader, not to hazard all
 Through ways of danger by himself untried.
 I therefore, I alone, first undertook 935
 To wing the desolate abyss, and spy
 This new created world, whereof in Hell
 Fame is not silent, here in hope to find
 Better abode, and my afflicted Powers
 To settle here on earth, or in mid-air ; 940
 Though for possession put to try once more
 What thou and thy gay legions dare against ;
 Whose easier business were to serve their Lord
 High up in Heaven, with songs to hymn his throne,
 And practised distances to cringe, not fight." 945

To whom the warrior angel soon replied :
 " To say and straight unsay, pretending first
 Wise to fly pain, professing next the spy,
 Argues no leader, but a liar traced,
 Satan ! and couldst thou faithful add ? O name, 950
 O sacred name of faithfulness profaned !
 Faithful to whom ? to thy rebellious crew ?
 Army of fiends, fit body to fit head !
 Was this your discipline and faith engaged,

Your military obedience, to dissolve 965
 Allegiance to the acknowledged power supreme?
 And thou, sly hypocrite, who now wouldst seem
 Patron of liberty, who more than thou
 Once fawned and cringed, and servilely adored
 Heaven's awful monarch? wherefore, but in hope 960
 To dispossess him, and thyself to reign?
 But mark what I arreëd thee now — Avaunt!
 Fly thither whence thou fleddest: if from this hour
 Within these hallowed limits thou appear,
 Back to the infernal pit I drag thee chained, 965
 And seal thee so, as henceforth not to scorn
 The facile gates of Hell, too slightly barred."

So threatened he; but Satan to no threats
 Gave heed, but waxing more in rage replied:

"Then when I am thy captive talk of chains, 970
 Proud liminary Cherub! but ere then
 Far heavier load thyself expect to feel
 From my prevailing arm, though Heaven's king
 Ride on thy wings, and thou with thy compeers,
 Used to the yoke, draw'st his triumphant wheels 975
 In progress through the road of Heaven star-paved."

While thus he spake, the angelic squadron bright
 Turned fiery red, sharpening in moonèd horns
 Their phalanx, and began to hem him round
 With ported spears, as thick as when a field 980

 Her bearded groves of ears which way the wind

Sways them ; the careful ploughman doubting stands,
 Lest on the threshing-floor his hopeful sheaves
 Prove chaff. On the other side, Satan alarmed, 985
 Collecting all his might, dilated stood,

 His stature reached the sky, and on his crest
 Sat horror plumed ; nor wanted in his grasp
 What seemed both spear and shield. Now dreadful

 Of heaven perhaps, or all the elements
 At least had gone to wrack, disturbed and torn

 Hung forth in heaven his golden scales, yet seen

 Wherein all things created first he weighed,
 The pendulous round earth with balanced air 1000

 Battles and realms : in these he put two weights,
 The sequel each of parting and of fight ;
 The latter quick up flew and kicked the beam,
 Which Gabriel spying thus bespake the Fiend : 1005

 To boast what arms can do ! since thine no more
 Than Heaven permits, nor mine, though doubled now
 To trample thee as mire : for proof look up, 1010
 And read thy lot in yon celestial sign,
 Where thou art weighed, and shown how light, how weak,

If thou resist." The Fiend looked up, and knew
 His mounted scale aloft : nor more ; but fled 1014
 Murmuring, and with him fled the shades of night.

THE ARGUMENT.

approached, Eve relates to Adam her troublesome dream ; s it not, yet comforts her. They come forth to their day-man inexcusable, sends Raphael to admonish him of his

a seraph, who in argument dissuades and opposes him, rsakes him.

Of birds on every bough : so much the more
 His wonder was to find unawakened Eve
 With tresses discomposed and glowing cheek, 10
 As through unquiet rest : he, on his side
 Leaning half raised, with looks of cordial love
 Hung over her enamored, and beheld
 Beauty, which, whether waking or asleep,
 Shot forth peculiar graces ; then, with voice 15
 Mild as when Zephyrus on Flora breathes,
 Her hand soft touching, whispered thus : “ Awake,
 My fairest, my espoused, my latest found,
 Heaven’s last best gift, my ever new delight,
 Awake ! the morning shines, and the fresh field 20
 Calls us ; we lose the prime, to mark how spring
 Our tended plants, how blows the citron grove,
 What drops the myrrh and what the balmy reed,
 How Nature paints her colors, how the bee
 Sits on the bloom extracting liquid sweet.” 25

Such whispering waked her, but with startled eye
 On Adam, whom embracing, thus she spake :

“ O sole in whom my thoughts find all repose,
 My glory, my perfection, glad I see
 Thy face, and morn returned ; for I this night 30
 (Such night till this I never passed) have dreamed,
 If dreamed, not, as I oft am wont, of thee,
 Works of day past, or morrow’s next design,
 But of offence and trouble, which my mind
 Knew never till this irksome night. Methought 35
 Close at mine ear one called me forth to walk
 With gentle voice ; I thought it thine : it said, ‘ Why sleep’st thou, Eve ? now is the pleasant time’

cool, the silent, save where silence yields
 the night-warbling bird, that now awake 40 sweetest his love-labored song; now reigns orb'd the moon and with more pleasing light
 how sets off the face of things; in vain,
 the regard: heaven wakes with all his eyes,
 to behold but thee, Nature's desire? 45 whose sight all things joy, with ravishment extorted by thy beauty still to gaze.
 As at thy call, but found thee not;
 and thee I directed then my walk;
 when, methought, alone I passed through ways 50
 brought me on a sudden to the tree ordained knowledge: fair it seemed,
 fairer to my fancy than by day;
 as I wondering looked, beside it stood shap'd and winged like one of those from Heaven
 oft seen: his dewy locks distilled 55
 Asia; on that tree he also gazed;
 O fair plant,' said he, 'with fruit surcharged,
 none to ease thy load and taste thy sweet,
 god, nor man? is knowledge so despised? 60
 why, or what reserve forbids to taste?
 I who will, none shall from me withhold or thy offered good, why else set here?'
 said, he paused not, but with venturous arm icked, he tasted; me damp horror chilled 65
 his bold words vouch'd with a deed so bold;
 thus, overjoyed: 'O fruit divine,
 of thyself, but much more sweet thus cropt,
 when here, it seems, as only fit

clear; ex-

Communicated, more abundant grows,
 The author not impaired, but honored more ?
 Here, happy creature, fair angelic Eve,
 Partake thou also ; happy though thou art, 75
 Happier thou mayst be, worthier canst not be ;
 Taste this, and be henceforth among the gods,
 Thyself a goddess, not to earth confined,
 But sometimes in the air, as we, sometimes
 Ascend to Heaven, by merit thine, and see 80
 What life the gods live there, and such live thou.
 So saying, he drew nigh, and to me held,
 Even to my mouth of that same fruit held part
 Which he had plucked ; the pleasant savory smell
 So quickened appetite, that I, methought, 85
 Could not but taste. Forthwith up to the clouds
 With him I flew, and underneath beheld
 The earth outstretched immense, a prospect wide
 And various ; wondering at my flight and change
 To this high exaltation, suddenly 90
 My guide was gone, and I, methought, sunk down
 And fell asleep ; but O how glad I waked
 To find this but a dream !” Thus Eve her night
 Related, and thus Adam answered sad :

“ Best image of myself and dearer half, 95
 The trouble of thy thoughts this night in sleep
 Affects me equally ; nor can I like
 This uncouth dream, of evil sprung I fear ;
 Yet evil whence ? in thee can harbor none, 100
 Created pure. But know that in the soul
 Are many lesser faculties that serve
 Reason as chief ; among these Fancy next
 Her office holds ; of all external things,
 Which the five watchful senses represent,

by merit thine, which thou and spring.

81. such, such life.
 98. uncouth, strange.

She forms imaginations, æery shapes, 106
 Which Reason joining or disjoining frames
 All what we affirm or what deny, and call
 Our knowledge or opinion ; then retires
 Into her private cell when Nature rests.
 Oft in her absence mimic Fancy wakes 110
 To imitate her ; but, misjoining shapes,
 Wild work produces oft, and most in dreams,
 Ill matching words and deeds long past or late.
 Some such resemblances methinks I find
 Of our last evening's talk in this thy dream, 115
 But with addition strange ; yet be not sad :
 Evil into the mind of God or man
 May come and go, so unapproved, and leave
 No spot or blame behind ; which gives me hope
 That what in sleep thou didst abhor to dream 120
 Waking thou never wilt consent to do.
 Be not disheartened then, nor cloud those looks
 That wont to be more cheerful and serene
 Than when fair morning first smiles on the world ;
 And let us to our fresh employments rise 125
 Among the groves, the fountains, and the flowers
 That open now their choicest bosomed smells,
 Reserved from night, and kept for thee in store."

So cheered he his fair spouse, and she was cheered ;
 But silently a gentle tear let fall 130
 From either eye, and wiped them with her hair ;
 Two other precious drops that ready stood,
 Each in their crystal sluice, he ere they fell
 Kissed as the gracious signs of sweet remorse
 And pious awe that feared to have offended. 135

So all was cleared, and to the field they haste.

107. All what, all things what-
~~so~~ever that.

113. so, so it be.

134. remorse, compunction ;
 sorrow.

136. cleared, made clear ; explained.

But first, from under shady arborous roof
 Soon as they forth were come to open sight
 Of day-spring and the sun (who scarce up-risen,
 With wheels yet hovering o'er the ocean brim, 140
 Shot parallel to the earth his dewy ray,
 Discovering in wide landscape all the east
 Of Paradise and Eden's happy plains),
 Lowly they bowed adoring, and began
 Their orisons, each morning duly paid 145
 In various style; for neither various style
 Nor holy rapture wanted they to praise
 Their Maker, in fit strains pronounced or sung
 Unmeditated, such prompt eloquence
 Flowed from their lips, in prose or numerous verse,
 More tunable than needed lute or harp 151
 To add more sweetness; and they thus began:

"These are thy glorious works, Parent of good,
 Almighty! thine this universal frame,
 Thus wondrous fair; thyself how wondrous then! 155
 Unspeakable, who sitt'st above these heavens,
 To us invisible, or dimly seen
 In these thy lowest works; yet these declare
 Thy goodness beyond thought, and power divine.
 Speak, ye who best can tell, ye sons of light, 160
 Angels; for ye behold him, and with songs
 And choral symphonies, day without night,
 Circle his throne rejoicing; ye in Heaven.
 On earth join all ye creatures, to extol
 Him first, him last, him midst, and without end. 165
 Fairest of stars, last in the train of night,

137. arborous roof. See IV. 690-697.

140. wheels. Phœbus, the Sun, was represented by the ancients as rising from the ocean brim and driving his chariot over the vault of heaven.

142. Discovering, making visible; opening to the view.

147. wanted they. were they wanting in, or unprovided with.

148. pronounced, spoken.

150. numerous, flowing in numbers or numbered syllables.

156. Unspeakable, not to be described by words.

163. circle, surround.

If better thou belong not to the dawn,
 Sure pledge of day, that crown'st the smiling morn
 With thy bright circlet, praise him in thy sphere
 While day arises, that sweet hour of prime. 170
 Thou sun, of this great world both eye and soul,
 Acknowledge him thy greater ; sound his praise
 In thy eternal course, both when thou climb'st,
 And when high noon hast gained, and when thou fall'st.
 Moon, that now meet'st the orient sun, now fly'st, 175
 With the fixed stars, fixed in their orb that flies ;
 And ye five other wandering fires, that move
 In mystic dance not without song, resound
 His praise, who out of darkness called up light.
 Air and ye elements, the eldest birth 180
 Of Nature's womb, that in quaternion run
 Perpetual circle, multiform, and mix
 And nourish all things, let your ceaseless change
 Vary to our great Maker still new praise.
 Ye mists and exhalations, that now rise 185
 From hill or steaming lake, dusky or gray,

167. better, rather.

170. prime. See line 21. The Prime is the early morning service in the Roman church.

175. now meet'st the orient sun, now fly'st. At new moon, the moon rises with or meets the sun ; from new to full, she may be said to fly from the sun ; from full, when she is opposite to the sun, to new, she seems to approach him.

178. With, together with ; as well as, referring to resound. — fixed in their orb that flies. It was the notion of the ancient astronomers that the stars were fixed in a crystal sphere, the motion of which brought these bodies into different situations with regard to the Earth, which was supposed to be the centre of this and the other spheres.

177. five other wandering fires.

The planets are so called from a Greek word meaning to wander, because they change their places with regard to the fixed stars, among which they seem to wander. In Milton's time, only five of these, besides the Earth, were known. They were Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn.

178. not without song. It was supposed by some of the ancients, that the harmonious movements of the heavenly bodies produced sweet sounds, which they called the Music of the Spheres.

181. that in quaternion, that, four in number, run a perpetual circle, one element mingling with, or, as it were, changing into another.

Till the sun paint your fleecy skirts with gold,
 In honor to the world's great Author rise,
 Whether to deck with clouds the uncolored sky
 Or wet the thirsty earth with falling showers, 190
 Rising or falling, still advance his praise.
 His praise, ye winds, that from four quarters blow,
 Breathe soft or loud; and wave your tops, ye pines,
 With every plant, in sign of worship wave.
 Fountains, and ye that warble, as ye flow, 195
 Melodious murmurs, warbling tune his praise.
 Join voices, all ye living souls; ye birds,
 That singing up to Heaven-gate ascend,
 Bear on your wings and in your notes his praise.
 Ye that in waters glide, and ye that walk 200
 The earth and stately tread or lowly creep,
 Witness if I be silent, morn or even,
 To hill or valley, fountain or fresh shade,
 Made vocal by my song and taught his praise.
 Hail, universal Lord, be bounteous still 205
 To give us only good; and, if the night
 Have gathered aught of evil, or concealed,
 Disperse it, as now light dispels the dark!"

So prayed they innocent, and to their thoughts
 Firm peace recovered soon and wonted calm. 210
 On to their morning's rural work they haste
 Among sweet dews and flowers, where any row
 Of fruit trees over-woody reached too far
 Their pampered boughs, and needed hands to check
 Fruitless embraces: or they led the vine 215
 To wed her elm; she spoused about him twines
 Her marriageable arms, and with her brings
 Her dower, the adopted clusters, to adorn
 His barren leaves. Them thus employed beheld

189. uncolored, without variety of color.

207. Have gathered or concealed ought of evil.

With pity Heaven's high king, and to him called 220
 Raphael, the sociable spirit, that deigned
 To travel with Tobias, and secured
 His marriage with the seven-times wedded maid.

"Raphael," said he, "thou hear'st what stir on Earth

Satan, from Hell scaped through the darksome gulf,
 Hath raised in Paradise, and how disturbed 226
 This night the human pair, how he designs
 In them at once to ruin all mankind.
 Go therefore, half this day as friend with friend
 Converse with Adam, in what bower or shade 230
 Thou find'st him, from the heat of noon retired
 To respite his day-labor with repast
 Or with repose; and such discourse bring on
 As may advise him of his happy state,
 Happiness in his power left free to will, 235
 Left to his own free will, his will though free
 Yet mutable; whence warn him to beware
 He swerve not, too secure: tell him withal
 His danger, and from whom; what enemy,
 Late fallen himself from Heaven, is plotting now 240
 The fall of others from like state of bliss;
 By violence? no, for that shall be withstood;
 But by deceit and lies: this let him know,
 Lest wilfully transgressing he pretend
 Surprisal, unadmonished, unforewarned." 245

So spake the eternal Father, and fulfilled
 All justice: nor delayed the winged saint

221-228. In the book of Tobit the angel Raphael is described as the companion of Tobias, traveling with him into Media and instructing him how to drive away the evil spirit, that he might marry the seven-times wedded maid. See IV. 168-171.

 Through all the empyreal road ; till at the gate
 Of Heaven arrived, the gate self-opened wide,
 On golden hinges turning, as by work 255
 Divine the sovran architect had framed.

From hence (no cloud, or, to obstruct his sight,
 Star interposed, however small) he sees,
 Not unconform to other shining globes,
 Earth, and the garden of God, with cedars crowned Above all hills : as when by night the glass 261

 seraphim.

270. Winnows, beats.—buxom. See II. 842.—within soar, having descended to the region to which towering eagles soar.

272-274. The phoenix was, according to the ancient story, a

When to enshrine his reliques in the Sun's
 Bright temple, to Egyptian Thebes he flies.
 At once on the eastern cliff of Paradise 275
 He lights, and to his proper shape returns,
 A seraph winged : six wings he wore to shade
 His lineaments divine ; the pair that clad
 Each shoulder broad came mantling o'er his breast
 With regal ornament ; the middle pair 280
 Girt like a starry zone his waist, and round
 Skirted his loins and thighs with downy gold
 And colors dipped in heaven ; the third his feet
 Shadowed from either heel with feathered mail,
 Sky-tinctured grain. Like Maia's son he stood, 285
 And shook his plumes, that heavenly fragrance filled
 The circuit wide. Straight knew him all the bands
 Of angels under watch, and to his state
 And to his message high in honor rise, 289
 For on some message high they guessed him bound.
 Their glittering tents he passed, and now is come
 Into the blissful field, through groves of myrrh,
 And flowering odors, cassia, nard, and balm,
 A wilderness of sweets ; for Nature here
 Wantoned as in her prime, and played at will 295
 Her virgin fancies, pouring forth more sweet,
 Wild above rule or art, enormous bliss.
 Him, through the spicy forest onward come,
 Adam discerned, as in the door he sat

bird that, after having lived five hundred years, built for itself a funeral pile of cinnamon, spike-mard, and myrrh. As it drew its last breath, a young Phoenix sprang from its ashes, to live another five hundred years, and then die in like manner. Thus it was that sole bird. The young bird carried the nest which contained the ashes of its parent, his reliques, to Egypt, there to enshrine it in the Temple of the Sun.

278. lineaments, form as described or marked by lines.

289. in, in sign of.

297. enormous, beyond or without measure.

Of his cool bower, while now the mounted sun 300
 Shot down direct his fervid rays to warm
 Earth's inmost womb, more warmth than Adam needs;

And Eve within due at her hour prepared
 For dinner savory fruits, of taste to please
 True appetite, and not disrelish thirst 305
 Of nectarous draughts between, from milky stream,
 Berry or grape; to whom thus Adam called:

"Haste hither, Eve, and, worth thy sight, behold
 Eastward among those trees what glorious shape
 Comes this way moving, seems another morn 310
 Risen on mid-noon; some great behest from Heaven
 To us perhaps he brings, and will vouchsafe
 This day to be our guest. But go with speed,
 And what thy stores contain bring forth, and pour
 Abundance, fit to honor and receive 315
 Our heavenly stranger: well we may afford
 Our givers their own gifts, and large bestow
 From large bestowed, where Nature multiplies
 Her fertile growth, and by disburdening grows
 More fruitful, which instructs us not to spare." 320

To whom thus Eve: "Adam, earth's hallowed mould,
 Of God inspired! small store will serve where store
 All seasons ripe for use hangs on the stalk;
 Save what by frugal storing firmness gains
 To nourish, and superfluous moist consumes. 325
 But I will haste, and from each bough and brake,
 Each plant and juiciest gourd, will pluck such choice
 To entertain our angel guest, as he Beholding shall confess, that here on Earth
 God hath dispensed his bounties as in Heaven." 330

303. due, punctual.310. seems, that seems.311. behest, command.

321. See Genesis ii. 7.

328. as, that.

So saying, with despatchful looks in haste
 She turns, on hospitable thoughts intent
 What choice to choose for delicacy best,
 What order so contrived as not to mix
 Tastes, not well joined, inelegant, but bring 335
 Taste after taste upheld with kindest change;
 Bestirs her then, and from each tender stalk
 Whatever Earth, all bearing mother, yields
 In India East or West, or middle shore,
 In Pontus or the Punic coast, or where 340
 Alcinoüs reigned, fruit of all kinds, in coat
 Rough or smooth rined, or bearded husk, or shell,
 She gathers, tribute large, and on the board
 Heaps with unsparing hand: for drink the grape
 She crushes, inoffensive must, and meathes 345
 From many a berry, and from sweet kernels pressed
 She tempers dulcet creams; nor these to hold
 Wants her fit vessels pure: then strews the ground
 With rose and odors from the shrub unfumed.

Meanwhile our primitive great sire, to meet 350
 His godlike guest, walks forth, without more train
 Accompanied than with his own complete
 Perfections; in himself was all his state,

333. What choice, her thought was, what choice.

335. not well joined, inelegant, if not well joined or mixed after careful selection, then not pleasing.

339. middle shore, what lies between.

340. Pontus was in the northern part of Asia Minor. — the Punic coast was the coast of Carthage, in the north of Africa.

341. where Alcinoüs reigned. Alcinoüs was the ruler of the Phæaciæ, who entertained Ulysses in his island of Scheria, on the west of Greece, as related by Homer in the Odyssey. For the scanning of this line, see note on III. 36. Here the second foot consists of three syllables.

342. Rough or smooth rined or rinded, having a rough or smooth rind.

345. must, new wine pressed from the grape, but not fermented; therefore inoffensive, without intoxicating qualities. — meathes, meads.

347. tempers, suitably prepares. 348. Wants her, has she any lack of.

349. unfumed, giving forth its fragrance without being burned like incense.

More solemn than the tedious pomp that waits
 On princes, when their rich retinue long 365
 Of horses led and grooms besmeared with gold
 Dazzles the crowd, and sets them all agape.
 Nearer his presence Adam, though not awed,
 Yet with submiss approach and reverence meek,
 As to a superior nature, bowing low, 380
 Thus said: "Native of Heaven! for other place
 None can than Heaven such glorious shape contain,
 Since, by descending from the thrones above,
 Those happy places thou hast deigned awhile
 To want and honor these, vouchsafe with us 385
 Two only, who yet by sovran gift possess
 This spacious ground, in yonder shady bower
 To rest, and what the garden choicest bears
 To sit and taste, till this meridian heat
 Be over, and the sun more cool decline." 390

Whom thus the angelic Virtue answered mild:
 "Adam, I therefore came; nor art thou such Created, or such place hast here to dwell,
 As may not oft invite, though spirits of Heaven,
 To visit thee: lead on then where thy bower 375
 O'ershades; for these midhours, till evening rise,
 I have at will." So to the sylvan lodge
 They came, that like Pomona's arbor smiled
 With flowerets decked and fragrant smells; but Eve
 Undecked save with herself, more lovely fair 380
 Than wood-nymph or the fairest goddess feigned
 Of three that in Mount Ida naked strove,

358. Nearer, when nearer to.

359. submiss, submissive.

365. To want, to be without; to leave.

371. Virtue. See II. 311:

374. though spirits, even spirits.

378. Pomona presided over fruit and its culture.

382. three. Juno, Minerva, and Venus each claimed the prize of beauty. Jupiter sent them to Mount Ida, where Paris, son of Priam king of Troy, was tending his flocks. He adjudged the prize to Venus, the fairest goddess feigned. His decision was called the Judgment of Paris.

Stood to entertain her guest from Heaven : no veil
 She needed, virtue-proof ; no thought infirm
 Altered her cheek. On whom the angel Hail ! 385
 Bestowed, the holy salutation used
 Long after to blest Mary, second Eve :
 “ Hail, mother of mankind, whose fruitful womb
 Shall fill the world more numerous with thy sons,
 Than with these various fruits the trees of God 390
 Have heaped this table ! ” Raised of grassy turf
 Their table was, and mossy seats had round,
 And on her ample square from side to side
 All autumn piled, though spring and autumn here
 Danced hand in hand. Awhile discourse they hold
 (No fear lest dinner cool), when thus began 396
 Our author : “ Heavenly stranger, please to taste
 These bounties, which our nourisher, from whom
 All perfect good unmeasured out descends
 To us for food and for delight, hath caused 400
 The earth to yield ; unsavory food perhaps
 To spiritual natures ; only this I know,
 That one celestial Father gives to all.”

To whom the angel : “ Therefore what he gives (Whose praise be ever sung !) to man in part 405
 Spiritual, may of purest spirits be found
 No ingrateful food : and food alike those pure
 Intelligent substances require,
 As doth your rational ; and both contain
 Within them every lower faculty 410
 Of sense, whereby they hear, see, smell, touch, taste ;

384. virtue-proof, strong or safe in virtue.

386. the holy salutation. “ And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favored.” Luke i. 28.

409. rational, rational substance.

Tasting concoct, digest, assimilate,
 And corporeal to incorporeal turn.
 For know, whatever was created needs
 To be sustained and fed; of elements 415
 The grosser feeds the purer, earth the sea,
 Earth and the sea feed air, the air those fires
 Ethereal, and as lowest first the moon;
 Whence in her visage round those spots, unpurged
 Vapors not yet into her substance turned, 420
 Nor doth the moon no nourishment exhale
 From her moist continent to higher orbs.
 The sun, that light imparts to all, receives
 From all his alimantal recompense
 In humid exhalations, and at even 425
 Sups with the ocean. Though in Heaven the trees
 Of life ambrosial fruitage bear, and vines
 Yield nectar; though from off the boughs each morn
 We brush mellifluous dews, and find the ground
 Covered with pearly grain: yet God hath here 430
 Varied his bounty so with new delights,
 As may compare with Heaven; and to taste
 Think not I shall be nice." So down they sat,
 And to their viands fell; nor seemingly
 The angel, nor in mist, the common gloss 435
 Of theologians, but with keen despatch
 Of real hunger, and concoctive heat
 To transubstantiate; what redounds transpires
 Through spirits with ease; nor wonder, if by fire

419. unpurged, which are unpurged, or not yet cleared. The word, if this punctuation is correct, agrees with vapors.

422. See line 548.

426. Sups with the ocean, because he seems to descend into it.

439. nor wonder, nor is it a wonder.

To whom the wingèd Hierarch replied :
 " O Adam, one almighty is, from whom
 All things proceed, and up to him return, 470
 If not depraved from good, created all
 Such to perfection, one first matter all,
 Endued with various forms, various degrees
 Of substance, and, in things that live, of life ;
 But more refined, more spiritous, and pure, 475
 As nearer to him placed or nearer tending,
 Each in their several active spheres assigned,
 Till body up to spirit work, in bounds
 Proportioned to each kind. So from the root Springs lighter the green stalk, from thence the 480 leaves
 More aery, last the bright consummate flower
 Spirits odorous breathes : flowers and their fruit,
 Man's nourishment, by gradual scale sublimed,
 To vital spirits aspire, to animal,
 To intellectual ; give both life and sense, 485
 Fancy and understanding ; whence the soul
 Reason receives, and reason is her being,
 Discursive or intuitive ; discourse
 Is oftest yours, the latter most is ours,
 Differing but in degree, of kind the same. 490
 Wonder not ; then, what God for you saw good
 If I refuse not, but convert, as you,
 To proper substance : time may come, when men
 With angels may participate, and find
 No inconvenient diet, nor too light fare ; 495

468. Hierarch, chief of a sacred order ; here, chief seraph.

472. such, good.—to perfection. that they might go on to perfection.—one first matter, of the same original substance.

475. spiritous, like spirit.

481. consummate, perfected.

482. by gradual scale, from one step to another.

483. sublimed, exalted ; improved.

488. Discursive or intuitive, whether reached as by mortals through the medium of discourse or process of reasoning, or at once apprehended by the mind as by superior beings.

495. inconvenient, unsuitable

And from these corporal nutriments perhaps
Your bodies may at last turn all to spirit,
Improved by tract of time, and winged ascend
Ethereal, as we, or may at choice
Here or in heavenly Paradises dwell ; 500
If ye be found obedient, and retain Unalterably firm his love entire,
Whose progeny you are. Meanwhile enjoy
Your fill what happiness this happy state
Can comprehend, incapable of more." 506

To whom the patriarch of mankind replied :
" O favorable Spirit, propitious guest,
Well hast thou taught the way that might direct
Our knowledge, and the scale of nature set
From centre to circumference ; whereon, 510
In contemplation of created things,
By steps we may ascend to God. But say,
What meant that caution joined, ' If ye be found
Obedient ' ? can we want obedience then
To him, or possibly his love desert, 515
Who formed us from the dust, and placed us here,
Full to the utmost measure of what bliss
Human desires can seek or apprehend ? "

To whom the angel : " Son of Heaven and Earth,
Attend ! That thou art happy, owe to God ; 520
That thou continu'st such, owe to thyself,
That is, to thy obedience ; therein stand.
This was that caution given thee ; be advised.
God made thee perfect, not immutable ;
And good he made thee, but to persevere 525
He left it in thy power, ordained thy will

498. tract, extent ; continued duration.

504. what happiness, of all the happiness which.

514. want, be wanting in.

By nature free, not overruled by fate
 Inextricable, or strict necessity :
 Our voluntary service he requires,
 Not our necessitated ; such with him 580
 Finds no acceptance, nor can find ; for how
 Can hearts not free be tried whether they serve Willing or no, who will but what they must
 By destiny, and can no other choose ?
 Myself and all the angelic host that stand 585
 In sight of God enthroned our happy state
 Hold, as you yours, while our obedience holds ;
 On other surety none ; freely we serve,
 Because we freely love, as in our will
 To love or not ; in this we stand or fall : 590
 And some are fallen, to disobedience fallen,
 And so from Heaven to deepest Hell ; O fall
 From what high state of bliss into what woe !”

To whom our great progenitor : “ Thy words
 Attentive, and with more delighted ear, 595
 Divine instructor, I have heard, than when Cherubic songs by night from neighboring hills
 Aerial music send : nor knew I not
 To be both will and deed created free ;
 Yet that we never shall forget to love 599
 Our Maker, and obey him whose command
 Single is yet so just, my constant thoughts
 Assured me, and still assure : though what thou tell'st
 Hath passed in Heaven, some doubt within me move,
 But more desire to hear, if thou consent, 604
 The full relation, which must needs be strange,
 Worthy of sacred silence to be heard ;

589. as in our will, it being in 548. nor knew I not, and I

And we have yet large day, for scarce the sun
Hath finished half his journey, and scarce begins
His other half in the great zone of heaven." 560

Thus Adam made request ; and Raphaël,
After short pause assenting, thus began :

“ High matter thou enjoin’st me, O prime of men,
Sad task and hard ; for how shall I relate
To human sense the invisible exploits 565
Of warring spirits ? how, without remorse,
The ruin of so many glorious once,
And perfect while they stood ? how, last, unfold
The secrets of another world, perhaps
Not lawful to reveal ? yet for thy good 570
This is dispensed ; and what surmounts the reach
Of human sense, I shall delineate so,
By likening spiritual to corporal forms,
As may express them best ; though what if Earth
Be but the shadow of Heaven, and things therein 575
Each to other like, more than on Earth is thought ?
As yet this world was not, and Chaos wild Reigned where these heavens now roll, where Earth
now rests
Upon her centre poised ; when, on a day
(For time, though in eternity, applied 580
To motion, measures all things durable
By present, past, and future), on such day
As Heaven’s great year brings forth, the empyreal host
Of angels, by imperial summons called,
Innumerable before the Almighty’s throne 585
Forthwith from all the ends of Heaven appeared,
Under their hierarchs in orders bright :

567. remorse. See line 134.

587 hierarchs See line 463.

571. dispensed, permitted

Ten thousand thousand ensigns high advanced,
Standards and gonfalons, 'twixt van and rear
Stream in the air, and for distinction serve 580
Of hierarchies, of orders, and degrees ;
Or in their glittering tissues bear emblazed
Holy memorials, acts of zeal and love
Recorded eminent. Thus, when in orbs
Of circuit inexpressible they stood, 585
Orb within orb, the Father infinite,
By whom in bliss imbosomed sat the Son,
Amidst as from a flaming mount, whose top
Brightness had made invisible, thus spake :

“ ‘ Hear, all ye Angels, progeny of light, 600
Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues, Powers,
Hear my decree, which unrevoked shall stand.
This day I have begot whom I declare
My only Son, and on this holy hill
Him have anointed, whom ye now behold 605
At my right hand ; your head I him appoint ;
And by myself have sworn, to him shall bow
All knees in Heaven, and shall confess him Lord.
Under his great vicegerent reign abide
United as one individual soul, 610
Forever happy. Him who disobey, s,
Me disobey, breaks union, and that day,
Cast out from God and blessed vision, falls

589. gonfalons, war-flags ;
banners.

592. emblazrd, emblazoned.

595. inexpressible, not capable of being described ; too large to be expressed.

598. Amidst, in or from the midst or centre of the orbs.

603. This day. “ The Lord hath said unto me, Thou art
my son ; this day have I begotten thee.” Psalm ii. 7.

607. by myself. “ I have sworn by myself.” Genesis xxii. 16.—

shall bow. See Philippians ii.

609. vicegerent. This word is here an adjective.

610. individual. See IV. 496.

Father which hath sent him.”
John v. 23.—breaks union, breaks
the union just described.

Into utter darkness, deep ingulfed, his place
Ordained, without redemption, without end.' 615

“ So spake the Omnipotent, and with his words
All seemed well pleased ; all seemed, but were not all.
That day, as other solemn days, they spent
In song and dance about the sacred hill ;
Mystical dance, which yonder starry sphere 620
Of planets and of fixed in all her wheels
Resembles nearest, mazes intricate,
Eccentric, interolved, yet regular
Then most, when most irregular they seem ;
And in their motions harmony divine 625
So smooths her charming tones, that God's own ear
Listens delighted. Evening now approached
(For we have also our evening and our morn,
We ours for change delectable, not need) ;
Forthwith from dance to sweet repast they turn 630
Desirous ; all in circles as they stood,
Tables are set, and on a sudden piled
With angels' food, and rubied nectar flows
In pearl, in diamond, and massy gold,
Fruit of delicious vines, the growth of Heaven. 635
On flowers reposed and with fresh flowerets crowned,
They eat, they drink, and in communion sweet
Quaff immortality and joy, secure
Of surfeit where full measure only bounds
Excess, before the all-bounteous King, who showered
With copious hand, rejoicing in their joy. 641
Now when ambrosial night, with clouds exhaled
From that high mount of God whence light and shade

621. fixed, fixed stars. — her,
its. — wheels, revolutions.

633. rubied, ruby-red.

638. secure of, safe from ; without danger of.

639. only, alone.

640. showered, showered his gifts.

Spring both, the face of brightest heaven had changed
 To grateful twilight (for night comes not there 645
 In darker veil), and roseate dews disposed
 All but the unsleeping eyes of God to rest;
 Wide over all the plain, and wider far
 Than all this globous earth in plain outspread
 (Such are the courts of God) the angelic throng, 650
 Dispersed in bands and files, their camp extend
 By living streams among the trees of life,
 Pavilions numberless and sudden reared,
 Celestial tabernacles, where they slept
 Fanned with cool winds, save those who in their course
 Melodious hymns about the sovran throne 655
 Alternate all night long: but not so waked
 Satan (so call him now, his former name
 Is heard no more in Heaven); he of the first,
 If not the first archangel, great in power, 660
 In favor and preëminence, yet fraught
 With envy against the Son of God, that day
 Honored by his great Father, and proclaimed
 Messiah, king anointed, could not bear 664
 Through pride that sight, and thought himself impaired.

Deep malice thence conceiving and disdain,
 Soon as midnight brought on the dusky hour
 Friendliest to sleep and silence, he resolved
 With all his legions to dislodge, and leave
 Unworshipped, unbeyed the throne supreme, 670
 Contemptuous, and his next subordinate
 Awakening, thus to him in secret spake:

652. living streams. See Revelation vii. 17.

655. in their course. This probably refers to the service of the Temple, performed by the Priests and Levites in their courses. See 1 Chronicles xxiii., xxiv. and Luke i. 8, 9.

664. Messiah is a Hebrew word meaning Anointed. The Greek word Christ has the same signification.

669. dislodge, remove; depart.
 671. his next subordinate. See I. 79-81.

“ ‘ Sleep’st thou, companion dear ? what sleep can close

Thy eyelids ? and remember’st what decree
Of yesterday so late hath passed the lips 675
Of Heaven’s Almighty ? Thou to me thy thoughts
Wast wont, I mine to thee was wont to impart ;
Both waking we were one ; how then can now
Thy sleep dissent ? New laws thou seest imposed :
New laws from him who reigns new minds may raise 680

In us who serve, new counsels, to debate
What doubtful may ensue : more in this place
To utter is not safe. Assemble thou
Of all those myriads which we lead the chief ;
Tell them that by command, ere yet dim night 685
Her shadowy cloud withdraws, I am to haste,
And all who under me their banners wave,
Homeward with flying march where we possess
The quarters of the North ; there to prepare
Fit entertainment to receive our King, 690
The great Messiah, and his new commands,
Who speedily through all the hierarchies
Intends to pass triumphant and give laws.’

“ So spake the false Archangel, and infused
Bad influence into the unwary breast 695
Of his associate : he together calls,
Or several one by one, the regent powers,
Under him regent ; tells, as he was taught,
That, the Most High commanding, now ere night,
Now ere dim night had disencumbered Heaven, 700
The great hierarchal standard was to move ;

679. dissent, show difference of feeling, or want of sympathy.

689. the North. See Isaiah xiv.

697. several, severally.

700. had, should have. — dis-encumbered Heaven, left Heaven clear.

Tells the suggested cause, and casts between
 Ambiguous words and jealousies, to sound
 Or taint integrity. But all obeyed
 The wonted signal, and superior voice 706
 Of their great potentate; for great indeed
 His name, and high was his degree in Heaven;
 His countenance, as the morning star that guides
 The starry flock, allured them, and with lies
 Drew after him the third part of Heaven's host. 710
 Meanwhile the eternal eye, whose sight discerns
 Abstrusest thoughts, from forth his holy mount,
 And from within the golden lamps that burn
 Nightly before him, saw without their light
 Rebellion rising; saw in whom, how spread 715
 Among the sons of morn, what multitudes
 Were banded to oppose his high decree;
 And smiling to his only Son thus said:

“ ‘ Son, thou in whom my glory I behold
 In full resplendence, Heir of all my might, 720
 Nearly it now concerns us to be sure
 Of our omnipotence, and with what arms
 We mean to hold what anciently we claim
 Of deity or empire; such a foe
 Is rising who intends to erect his throne 725
 Equal to ours, throughout the spacious North;
 Nor so content, hath in his thought to try
 In battle what our power is, or our right.
 Let us advise, and to this hazard draw
 With speed what force is left, and all employ 730
 In our defence, lest unawares we lose
 This our high place, our sanctuary, our hill.’

708. the morning - star. “O Lucifer, son of the morning.”
 Isaiah xiv. 12.

710. the third part. See Revelation xii. 3, 4.

712. Abstrusest, most hidden.

713. lamps. See Revelation iv. 5
 727. so, with that.

729. advise, consult; deliberate. — hazard, perilous enterprise.

" To whom the Son, with calm aspect and clear,
 Lightning divine, ineffable, serene,
 Made answer: ' Mighty Father, thou thy foes 735
 Justly hast in derision, and secure
 Laugh'st at their vain designs and tumults vain,
 Matter to me of glory, whom their hate
 Illustrates, when they see all regal power
 Given me to quell their pride, and in event 740
 Know whether I be dextrous to subdue
 Thy rebels, or be found the worst in Heaven.'

" So spake the Son ; but Satan with his powers
 Far was advanced on wingèd speed, an host
 Innumerable as the stars of night, 745
 Or stars of morning, dew-drops which the sun
 Impearls on every leaf and every flower.
 Regions they passed, the mighty regencies
 Of Seraphim and Potentates and Thrones
 In their triple degrees ; regions to which 750
 All thy dominion, Adam, is no more
 Than what this garden is to all the earth
 And all the sea, from one entire globose
 Stretched into longitude ; which having passed,
 At length into the limits of the North 755
 They came ; and Satan to his royal seat
 High on a hill far blazing, as a mount
 Raised on a mount, with pyramids and towers
 From diamond quarries hewn and rocks of gold,
 The palace of great Lucifer (so call 760

734. Lightning, shining with light, if the word is a participle.

That structure in the dialect of men Interpreted), which not long after he,
 Affecting all equality with God,
 In imitation of that mount whereon
 Messiah was declared in sight of Heaven, 766
 The Mountain of the Congregation called ;
 For thither he assembled all his train,
 Pretending so commanded to consult
 About the great reception of their king
 Thither to come, and with calumnious art 770
 Of counterfeited truth thus held their ears :

“ ‘ Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues,
 Powers,
 If these magnific titles yet remain
 Not merely titular, since by decree
 Another now hath to himself engrossed 776
 All power and us eclipsed under the name
 Of king anointed, for whom all this haste
 Of midnight march and hurried meeting here,
 This only to consult how we may best
 With what may be devised of honors new 780
 Receive him, coming to receive from us
 Knee-tribute yet unpaid, prostration vile,
 Too much to one, but double how endured,
 To one and to his image now proclaimed ?
 But what if better counsels might erect 786
 Our minds, and teach us to cast off his yoke !
 Will ye submit your necks, and choose to bend
 The supple knee ? Ye will not, if I trust
 To know ye right, or if ye know yourselves
 Natives and sons of Heaven, possessed before 790
 By none, and if not equal all, yet free,

768. Pretending, pretending to one and to him who is now proclaimed his image ?
 have been.

788, 784. Too much to pay to one, but how can it be endured when double, paid both to that 790. possessed, owned ; inhabited.

Equally free ; for orders and degrees
 Jar not with liberty, but well consist.
 Who can in reason then, or right, assume
 Monarchy over such as live by right 796
 His equals, if in power and splendor less,
 In freedom equal ? or can introduce
 Law and edict on us, who without law
 Err not ? much less for this to be our Lord,
 And look for adoration, to the abuse 800
 Of those imperial titles, which assert
 Our being ordained to govern, not to serve.'

" Thus far his bold discourse without control
 Had audience ; when among the Seraphim
 Abdiel, than whom none with more zeal adored 806
 The Deity, and divine commands obeyed,
 Stood up, and in a flame of zeal severe,
 The current of his fury thus opposed :

" ' O argument blasphemous, false, and proud !
 Words which no ear ever to hear in Heaven 810
 Expected, least of all from thee, ingrate,
 In place thyself so high above thy peers.
 Canst thou with impious obloquy condemn
 The just decree of God, pronounced and sworn,
 That to his only Son, by right endued 816
 With regal sceptre, every soul in Heaven
 Shall bend the knee, and in that honor due
 Confess him rightful king ? Unjust, thou say'st,
 Flatly unjust, to bind with laws the free,
 And equal over equals to let reign, 820
 One over all with unsucceeded power.

798. consist, are consistent ; 800. to the abuse of, abusing or agree. disparaging ; perverting.

degrees. — to be, assume or claim 821. unsucceeded, in which

Shalt thou give law to God? shalt thou dispute
 With him the points of liberty, who made
 Thee what thou art, and formed the powers of Heaven
 Such as he pleased, and circumscribed their being?
 Yet, by experience taught, we know how good, 826
 And of our good and of our dignity
 How provident he is, how far from thought
 To make us less, bent rather to exalt
 Our happy state, under one head more near 830
 United. But to grant it thee unjust
 That equal over equals monarch reign —
 Thyself though great and glorious dost thou count,
 Or all angelic nature joined in one,
 Equal to him, begotten Son? by whom, 836
 As by his Word, the mighty Father made
 All things, even thee; and all the spirits of Heaven
 By him created in their bright degrees,
 Crowned them with glory, and to their glory named

 Essential Powers; nor by his reign obscured, 841
 But more illustrious made; since he the head
 One of our number thus reduced becomes,
 His laws our laws; all honor to him done
 Returns our own. Cease then this impious rage, 846
 And tempt not these; but hasten to appease
 The incensed Father, and the incensed Son,
 While pardon may be found, in time besought.

" So spake the fervent angel ; but his zeal
 None seconded, as out of season judged 856
 Or singular and rash ; whereat rejoiced
 The Apostate, and more haughty thus replied :
 ' That we were formed then say'st thou ? and the work

Of secondary hands, by task transferred
 From Father to his Son ? Strange point and new !
 Doctrine which we would know whence learned. Who saw 856

When this creation was ? remember'st thou
 Thy making, while the Maker gave thee being ?
 We know no time when we were not as now ;
 Know none before us, self-begot, self-raised 860

 Had circled his full orb, the birth mature
 Of this our native Heaven, ethereal sons.
 Our puissance is our own ; our own right hand
 Shall teach us highest deeds, by proof to try 865

 Whether by supplication we intend

 These tidings carry to the anointed king ; 870
 And fly, ere evil intercept thy flight.'

" He said ; and, as the sound of waters deep,
 Hoarse murmur echoed to his words applause
 Through the infinite host ; nor less for that
 The flaming Seraph, fearless though alone, 875
 Encompassed round with foes, thus answered bold :

" ' O alienate from God, O spirit accursed,
 Forsaken of all good ! I see thy fall

 No more be troubled how to quit the yoke
 Of God's Messiah ; those indulgent laws
 Will not be now vouchsafed, other decrees
 Against thee are gone forth without recall ; 885
 That golden sceptre which thou didst reject
 Is now an iron rod to bruise and break
 Thy disobedience. Well thou didst advise ;
 Yet not for thy advice or threats I fly
 These wicked tents devoted, lest the wrath 890

 His thunder on thy head, devouring fire.
 Then who created thee lamenting learn,
 When who can uncreate thee thou shalt know. 895

 (Among the faithless, faithful only he ;)
 Among innumerable false, unmoved,
 Unshaken, unseduced, unterrified,
 His loyalty he kept, his love, his zeal ; 900
 Nor number nor example with him wrought
 To swerve from truth, or change his constant mind,
 Though single. From amidst them forth he passed,
 Long way through hostile scorn, which he sustained
 Superior, nor of violence feared aught ; 905
 And with retorted scorn his back he turned
 On those proud towers to swift destruction doomed.

BOOK VI.

THE ARGUMENT.

RAPHAEL continues to relate how Michael and Gabriel were sent forth to battle against Satan and his angels. The first fight described. Satan and his powers retire under night. He calls a council, invents devilish engines, which in the second day's fight put Michael and his angels to some disorder; but they at length, pulling up mountains, overwhelmed both the force and machines of Satan. Yet the tumult not so ending, God on the third day sends Messiah his Son, for whom he had reserved the glory of that victory: he, in the power of his Father, coming to the place, and causing all his legions to stand still on either side, with his chariot and thunder driving into the midst of his enemies, pursues them, unable to resist, towards the wall of Heaven; which opening, they leap down with horror and confusion into the place of punishment prepared for them in the deep. Messiah returns with triumph to his Father.

“ ALL night the dreadless angel, unpursued,
Through Heaven's wide champain held his way, till Morn,
Waked by the circling Hours, with rosy hand
Unbarred the gates of light. There is a cave
Within the mount of God, fast by his throne, 5
Where light and darkness in perpetual round
Lodge and dislodge by turns, which makes through Heaven
Grateful vicissitude, like day and night;
Light issues forth, and at the other door
Obsequious darkness enters, till her hour 10

To veil the heaven ; though darkness there might well
 Seem twilight here. And now went forth the morn
 Such as in highest Heaven, arrayed in gold
 Empyrean ; from before her vanished night,
 Shot through with orient beams ; when all the plain, 15
 Covered with thick embattled squadrons bright,
 Chariots, and flaming arms, and fiery steeds,
 Reflecting blaze on blaze, first met his view.
 War he perceived, war in procinct, and found
 Already known what he for news had thought 20
 To have reported : gladly then he mixed
 Among those friendly powers, who him received
 With joy and acclamations loud, that one,
 That of so many myriads fallen yet one
 Returned not lost. On to the sacred hill 25
 They led him high applauded, and present
 Before the seat supreme ; from whence a voice
 From midst a golden cloud thus mild was heard :

“ ‘ Servant of God, well done ; well hast thou fought
 The better fight, who single hast maintained 30
 Against revolted multitudes the cause
 Of truth, in word mightier than they in arms ;
 And for the testimony of truth hast borne
 Universal reproach, far worse to bear
 Than violence ; for this was all thy care, 35
 To stand approved in sight of God, though worlds
 Judged thee perverse : the easier conquest now
 Remains thee, aided by this host of friends,
 Back on thy foes more glorious to return
 Than scorned thou didst depart, and to subdue 40

19. in procinct, in preparation.
 The Latin “ in procinctu ” means armed in readiness to fight.

20. Servant of God. This is the signification of the Hebrew word Abdiel. See V. 896.

30. The better fight. “ Fight
 the good fight of faith.” 1 Tim.

35. approved. See 2 Tim. ii

38. thee, to thee.

By force who reason for their law refuse,
 Right reason for their law, and for their king
 Messiah, who by right of merit reigns.
 Go, Michael, of celestial armies prince,
 And thou, in military prowess next, 45
 Gabriel, lead forth to battle these my sons
 Invincible ; lead forth my armèd saints
 By thousands and by millions ranged for fight,
 Equal in number to that godless crew
 Rebellious ; then with fire and hostile arms 50
 Fearless assault, and to the brow of Heaven
 Pursuing drive them out from God and bliss
 Into their place of punishment, the gulf
 Of Tartarus, which ready opens wide
 His fiery chaos to receive their fall.' 55

" So spake the sovrap voice, and clouds began
 To darken all the hill, and smoke to roll
 In dusky wreaths reluctant flames, the sign
 Of wrath awaked ; nor with less dread the loud
 Ethereal trumpet from on high gan blow : 60
 At which command the powers militant
 That stood for Heaven, in mighty quadrate joined
 Of union irresistible, moved on
 In silence their bright legions to the sound
 Of instrumental harmony, that breathed 65
 Heroic ardor to adventurous deeds,
 Under their godlike leaders, in the cause
 Of God and his Messiah. On they move
 Indissolubly firm ; nor obvious hill,
 Nor straitening vale, nor wood, nor stream divides 70

Their perfect ranks ; for high above the ground
 Their march was, and the passive air upbore
 Their nimble tread : as when the total kind
 Of birds, in orderly array on wing,
 Came summoned over Eden to receive 75
 Their names of thee ; so over many a tract
 Of Heaven they marched, and many a province wide,
 Tenfold the length of this terrene. At last,
 Far in the horizon to the north appeared
 From skirt to skirt a fiery region, stretched 80
 In battailous aspéct, and nearer view
 Bristled with upright beams innumerable
 Of rigid spears, and helmets thronged, and shields
 Various with boastful argument portrayed,
 The banded powers of Satan hasting on 85
 With furious expedition ; for they weened
 That selfsame day, by fight or by surprise,
 To win the mount of God, and on his throne
 To set the envier of his state, the proud
 Aspirer ; but their thoughts proved fond and vain 90
 In the midway. Though strange to us it seemed
 At first that angel should with angel war
 And in fierce hosting meet, who wont to meet
 So oft in festival of joy and love
 Unanimous, as sons of one great sire, 95
 Hymning the eternal Father ; but the shout
 Of battle now began, and rushing sound
 Of onset ended soon each milder thought.
 High in the midst, exalted as a god,
 The Apostate in his sun-bright chariot sat, 100
 Idol of majesty divine, enclosed

73. the total kind, all the race.75. Came. See Genesis ii. 19.78. terrene, earthly province.82. beams, perhaps shafts.88. thronged, in throngs.84. argument, subject ; design.86. weened, thought ; proposed.90. fond, foolish.93. hosting, mustering ; assembling of troops.101. Idol, image ; counterfeit representation.

With flaming cherubim and golden shields ;
 Then lighted from his gorgeous throne, for now
 'Twixt host and host but narrow space was left,
 A dreadful interval, and front to front 105
 Presented stood in terrible array
 Of hideous length ; before the cloudy van,
 On the rough edge of battle ere it joined,
 Satan, with vast and haughty strides advanced,
 Came towering, armed in adamant and gold : 110
 Abdiel that sight endured not, where he stood
 Among the mightiest, bent on highest deeds,
 And thus his own undaunted heart explores :

“ O Heaven ! that such resemblance of the Highest

Should yet remain, where faith and reality 115
 Remain not : wherefore should not strength and might
 There fail where virtue fails, or weakest prove
 Where boldest, though to sight unconquerable ?
 His puissance, trusting in the Almighty's aid
 I mean to try, whose reason I have tried 120
 Unsound and false ; nor is it aught but just,
 That he who in debate of truth hath won
 Should win in arms, in both disputes alike
 Victor ; though brutish that contest and foul
 When reason hath to deal with force, yet so 125
 Most reason is that reason overcome.’

“ So pondering, and from his armed peers
 Forth stepping opposite, half way he met

108. edge of battle. The same word in Latin means both edge and line of battle. See l. 276.

109. advanced, having advanced.

118. explores, searches and expresses.

115. reality, reality ; unless it be loyalty, from the Italian “realta.”

118. to sight, as it appears to sight.

120. tried and found to be.

His daring foe, at this prevention more
Incensed, and thus securely him defied : 129

“ ‘Proud, art thou met? thy hope was to have reached
The height of thy aspiring unopposed,
The throne of God unguarded, and his side
Abandoned at the terror of thy power
Or potent tongue : fool, not to think how vain 135
Against the Omnipotent to rise in arms !
Who out of smallest things could without end
Have raised incessant armies to defeat
Thy folly ; or with solitary hand,
Reaching beyond all limit, at one blow 140
Unaided could have finished thee, and whelmed
Thy legions under darkness. But thou seest
All are not of thy train ; there be who faith
Prefer and piety to God, though then
To thee not visible when I alone 145
Seemed in thy world erroneous to dissent
From all ; my sect thou seest : now learn too late
How few sometimes may know, when thousands err.

“ Whom the grand foe, with scornful eye askance,
Thus answered : ‘ Ill for thee, but in wished hour 150
Of my revenge, first sought for, thou return’st
From flight, seditious angel, to receive
Thy merited reward, the first assay
Of this right hand provoked, since first that tongue,
Inspired with contradiction, durst oppose 155
A third part of the gods, in synod met

129. prevention, anticipation.

130. securely, without fear.

151. first sought for, whom I sought first to meet.

Their deities to assert, who, while they feel
 Vigor divine within them, can allow Omnipotence to none. But well thou com'st
 Before thy fellows, ambitious to win 160
 From me some plume, that thy success may show
 Destruction to the rest: this pause between (Unanswered lest thou boast) to let thee know,
 At first I thought that liberty and Heaven
 To heavenly souls had been all one; but now 165
 I see that most through sloth had rather serve,
 Ministering spirits, trained up in feast and song:
 Such hast thou armed, the minstrelsy of Heaven,
 Servility with freedom to contend, 169
 As both their deeds compared this day shall prove.'

"To whom in brief thus Abdiel stern replied:
 'Apostate, still thou err'st, nor end wilt find
 Of erring, from the faith of truth remote:
 Unjustly thou depriv'st it with the name 175
 Of servitude, to serve whom God ordains
 Or Nature; God and Nature bid the same,
 When he who rules is worthiest, and excels
 Them whom he governs. This is servitude,
 To serve the unwise, or him who hath rebelled
 Against his worthier, as thine now serve thee, 180
 Thyself not free, but to thyself enthralled;
 Yet lewdly dar'st our ministering upbraid.
 Reign thou in Hell, thy kingdom; let me serve
 In Heaven God ever blest, and his divine
 Behests obey, worthiest to be obeyed: 185
 Yet chains in Hell, not realms, expect; meanwhile

161. success, fortune; ill success. shall be heirs of salvation?" He brews i. 14.

175. whom, him whom.
182. lewdly, wickedly.

From me returned, as erst thou saidst, from flight,
This greeting on thy impious crest receive.'

"So saying, a noble stroke he lifted high,
Which hung not, but so swift with tempest fell 190
On the proud crest of Satan, that no sight,
Nor motion of swift thought, less could his shield
Such ruin intercept: ten paces huge
He back recoiled: the tenth on bended knee
His massy spear upstayed; as if on earth 195
Winds under ground, or waters forcing way,
Sidelong had pushed a mountain from his seat,
Half sunk with all his pines. Amazement seized
The rebel thrones, but greater rage, to see
Thus foiled their mightiest; ours joy filled, and shout,
Presage of victory, and fierce desire 201
Of battle, whereat Michaël bid sound
The archangel trumpet: through the vast of Heaven
It sounded, and the faithful armies rung
Hosanna to the Highest; nor stood at gaze 205
The adverse legions, nor less hideous joined
The horrid shock. 'Now storming fury rose,
And clamor such as heard in Heaven till now
Was never; arms on armor clashing brayed
Horrible discord, and the madding wheels 210
Of brazen chariots raged; dire was the noise
Of conflict; overhead the dismal hiss
Of fiery darts in flaming volleys flew,
And flying vaulted either host with fire.
So under fiery cope together rushed 215
Both battles main, with ruinous assault
And inextinguishable rage; all Heaven

190. hung, lingered; delayed. tenth being the object of the — tempest, fury; violence. verb.

192. less, still less.

195. his massy spear. See I. 214. vaulted, covered as with

216. battles, hosts.

Resounded, and had Earth been then, all Earth
 Had to her centre shook. / What wonder? when Millions of fierce encountering angels fought 220
 On either side, the least of whom could wield
 These elements, and arm him with the force
 Of all their regions: how much more of power
 Army against army numberless to raise
 Dreadful combustion warring, and disturb 225
 Though not destroy their happy native seat;
 Had not the eternal king omnipotent
 From his stronghold of Heaven high overruled
 And limited their might; though numbered such
 As each divided legion might have seemed 230
 A numerous host, in strength each armed hand
 A legion; led in fight, yet leader seemed
 Each warrior single as in chief, expert
 When to advance, or stand, or turn the sway
 Of battle, open when, and when to close 235
 The ridges of grim war: no thought of flight,
 None of retreat, no unbecoming deed
 That argued fear; each on himself relied,
 As only in his arm the moment lay
 Of victory. Deeds of eternal fame 240
 Were done, but infinite, for wide was spread
 That war and various; sometimes on firm ground
 A standing fight, then soaring on main wing
 Tormented all the air; all air seemed then
 Conflicting fire. Long time in even scale 245
 The battle hung; till Satan, who that day

219. had shook, would have shaken.

222. These elements, this world, composed of elements.

224. to raise, had or possessed to raise.

239. moment, momentum;

power.

244. Tormented, vexed; agitated.

Prodigious power had shown, and met in arms
 No equal, ranging through the dire attack
 Of fighting seraphim confused, at length
 Saw where the sword of Michael smote, and felled 250
 Squadrons at once ; with huge two-handed sway
 Brandished aloft the horrid edge came down
 Wide wasting : such destruction to withstand
 He hasted, and opposed the rocky orb
 Of tenfold adamant, his ample shield, 255
 A vast circumference. At his approach
 The great Archangel from his warlike toil
 Surceased, and glad, as hoping here to end
 Intestine war in Heaven, the arch-foe subdued
 Or captive dragged in chains, with hostile frown 260
 And visage all inflamed first thus began :

“ ‘ Author of evil, unknown till thy revolt,
 Unnamed in Heaven, now plenteous, as thou seest
 These acts of hateful strife, hateful to all,
 Though heaviest by just measure on thyself 265
 And thy adherents ; how hast thou disturbed
 Heaven’s blessed peace, and into Nature brought Misery, uncreated till the crime
 Of thy rebellion ! how hast thou instilled
 Thy malice into thousands, once upright 270
 And faithful, now proved false ! But think not here
 To trouble holy rest : Heaven casts thee out
 From all her confines ; Heaven, the seat of bliss,
 Brooks not the works of violence and war.
 Hence then, and Evil go with thee along, 275
 Thy offspring, to the place of evil, Hell,
 Thou and thy wicked crew ; there mingle broils ;
 Ere this avenging sword begin thy doom,

251. sway, swing ; sweep.255. his ample shield. See I.258. Surceased, ceased.263. plenteous, abundant.

284-287.

Or some more sudden vengeance, winged from God,
Precipitate thee with augmented pain.' 280

"So spake the prince of angels; to whom thus
The Adversary: 'Nor think thou with wind
Of airy threats to awe whom yet with deeds
Thou canst not. Hast thou turned the least of these
To flight, or if to fall, but that they rise 285
Unvanquished, easier to transact with me
That thou shouldst hope, imperious, and with threats
To chase me hence? Err not that so shall end
The strife which thou call'st evil, but we style
The strife of glory; which we mean to win, 290
Or turn this Heaven itself into the Hell
Thou fablest; here however to dwell free,
If not to reign: meanwhile thy utmost force,
And join him named Almighty to thy aid,
I fly not, but have sought thee far and nigh.' 295

"They ended parle, and both addressed for fight
Unspeakable; for who, though with the tongue
Of angels, can relate, or to what things
Likened on earth conspicuous, that may lift
Human imagination to such height 300
Of godlike power? for likest gods they seemed,
Stood they or moved, in stature, motion, arms,
Fit to decide the empire of great Heaven.
Now waved their fiery swords, and in the air
Made horrid circles; two broad suns their shields 305
Blazed opposite, while expectation stood

280. Precipitate thee, hurl thee headlong.

282. The Adversary. See I. 82.

283. whom, him whom.

294. And join, though thou join.

296. parle, parley. — addressed addressed themselves; prepared

302. Stood they or moved, whether they stood or moved.

In horror : from each hand with speed retired,
 Where erst was thickest fight, the angelic throng,
 And left large field, unsafe within the wind
 Of such commotion ; such as (to set forth 310
 Great things by small) if, Nature's concord broke,
 Among the constellations war were sprung,
 Two planets rushing from aspect malign
 Of fiercest opposition in mid-sky
 Should combat, and their jarring spheres confound.
 Together both, with next to almighty arm 315
 Uplifted imminent, one stroke they aimed
 That might determine, and not need repeat
 As not of power at once ; nor odds appeared
 In might or swift prevention ; but the sword 320
 Of Michael from the armory of God
 Was given him tempered so, that neither keen
 Nor solid might resist that edge : it met
 The sword of Satan with steep force to smite
 Descending, and in half cut sheer ; nor stayed, 325
 But with swift wheel reverse, deep entering shared
 All his right side ; then Satan first knew pain,
 And writhed him to and fro convolved ; so sore
 The griding sword with discontinuous wound
 Passed through him ; but the ethereal substance closed,
 Not long divisible ; and from the gash 331
 A stream of nectarous humor issuing flowed
 Sanguine, such as celestial spirits may bleed,
 And all his armor stained, erewhile so bright.
 Forthwith on all sides to his aid was run 335
 By angels many and strong, who interposed

313. aspect malign. According to the astrologers, planets in opposition to each other were of malign aspect, threatening evil.

Mangled with ghastly wounds through plate and mail
 Nor stood unmindful Abdiel to annoy
 The atheist crew, but with redoubled blow 370
 Ariel and Arioch and the violence
 Of Ramiel scorched and blasted overthrew.
 I might relate of thousands, and their names
 Eternize here on earth ; but those elect
 Angels, contented with their fame in Heaven, 375
 Seek not the praise of men : the other sort,
 In might though wondrous and in acts of war,
 Nor of renown less eager, yet by doom
 Cancelled from Heaven and sacred memory,
 Nameless in dark oblivion let them dwell ; 380
 For strength, from truth divided and from just,
 Illaudable, nought merits but dispraise
 And ignominy, yet to glory aspires
 Vainglorious, and through infamy seeks fame :
 Therefore eternal silence be their doom. 385

“ And now, their mightiest quelled, the battle swerved,
 With many an inroad gored ; deformed rout
 Entered, and foul disorder ; all the ground
 With shivered armor strewn, and on a heap
 Chariot and charioteer lay overturned, 390
 And fiery foaming steeds ; what stood recoiled

By sin of disobedience, till that hour
 Not liable to fear or flight or pain.
 Far otherwise the inviolable saints
 In cubic phalanx firm advanced entire,
 Invulnerable, impenetrably armed ; 400
 Such high advantages their innocence

 Not to have disobeyed ; in fight they stood
 Unwearied, unobnoxious to be pained 404
 By wound, though from their place by violence moved.

“ Now Night her course began, and, over Heaven
 Inducing darkness, grateful truce imposed,
 And silence on the odious din of war :
 Under her cloudy covert both retired,
 Victor and vanquished. On the foughten field 410
 Michaël and his angels prevalent
 Encamping placed in guard their watches round,
 Cherubic waving fires : on the other part
 Satan with his rebellious disappeared,
 Far in the dark dislodged ; and, void of rest, 415
 His potentates to council called by night,
 And in the midst thus undismayed began :

“ O now in danger tried, now known in arms
 Not to be overpowered, companions dear,
 Found worthy not of liberty alone, 420
 Too mean pretence, but, what we more affect,
 Honor, dominion, glory, and renown ;
 Who have sustained one day in doubtful fight
 (And if one day, why not eternal days ?)

 But proves not so ; then fallible, it seems,
 Of future we may deem him, though till now

 Some disadvantage we endured and pain
 Till now not known, but known, as soon contemned;
 Since now we find this our empyreal form
 Incapable of mortal injury,
 Imperishable, and, though pierced with wound, 485
 Soon closing and by native vigor healed.
 Of evil then so small as easy think
 The remedy ; perhaps more valid arms,
 Weapons more violent, when next we meet,
 May serve to better us and worse our foes, 490
 Or equal what between us made the odds,
 In nature none : if other hidden cause
 Left them superior, while we can preserve
 Unhurt our minds and understanding sound,
 Due search and consultation will disclose.' 495

“ He sat ; and in the assembly next upstood
 Nisroch, of principalities the prime ;
 As one he stood escaped from cruel fight,
 Sore toiled, his riven arms to havoc hewn,
 And cloudy in aspect thus answering spake : 500
 ‘ Deliverer from new lords, leader to free
 Enjoyment of our right as gods ; yet hard
 For gods and too unequal work we find,
 Against unequal arms to fight in pain,
 Against unpained, impassive ; from which evil 505

Spare out of life perhaps, and not repine, 460
But live content, which is the calmest life;
But pain is perfect misery, the worst
Of evils, and excessive overturns
All patience. He who therefore can invent
With what more forcible we may offend 465
Our yet unwounded enemies, or arm
Ourselves with like defence, to me deserves
No less than for deliverance what we owe.'

"Where to with look composed Satan replied:
'Not uninvited that, which thou aright 470
Believ'st so main to our success, I bring.
Which of us who beholds the bright surface
Of this ethereal mould whereon we stand,
This continent of spacious Heaven, adorned 474
With plant, fruit, flower ambrosial, gems, and gold,
Whose eye so superficially surveys
These things as not to mind from whence they grow
Deep under ground, materials dark and crude,

With Heaven's ray and tempered they shoot forth

 Such implements of mischief, as shall dash

Impossible: yet haply of thy race
 In future days, if malice should abound,
 Some one intent on mischief, or inspired
 With devilish machination, might devise
 Like instrument to plague the sons of men 505
 For sin, on war and mutual slaughter bent.
 Forthwith from council to the work they flew;
 None arguing stood; innumerable hands
 Were ready; in a moment up they turned
 Wide the celestial soil, and saw beneath 510
 The originals of Nature in their crude
 Conception; sulphurous and nitrous foam
 They found, they mingled, and with subtle art
 Concocted and adusted they reduced
 To blackest grain, and into store conveyed: 515

 With silent circumspection, unespied.

“ Now when fair morn orient in Heaven appeared,
 Up rose the victor angels, and to arms 525
 The matin trumpet sung · in arms they stood
 Of golden panoply, refulgent host,
 Soon banded ; others from the dawning hills
 Looked round, and scouts each coast light-armed scour,
 Each quarter, to descry the distant foe, 530
 Where lodged, or whither fled, or if for fight,
 In motion or in halt : him soon they met
 Under spread ensigns moving nigh, in slow
 But firm battalion ; back with speediest sail
 Zophiel, of cherubim the swiftest wing, 535
 Came flying, and in mid-air aloud thus cried :

“ ‘ Arm, warriors, arm for fight ! the foe at hand,
 Whom fled we thought, will save us long pursuit
 This day ; fear not his flight ; so thick a cloud
 He comes, and settled in his face I see 540
 Sad resolution and secure : let each
 His adamantine coat gird well, and each
 Fit well his helm, gripe fast his orbèd shield,
 Borne even or high ; for this day will pour down,
 If I conjecture aught, no drizzling shower, 545

 In order, quit of all impediment ;
 Instant without disturb they took alarm,
 And onward moved embattled : when behold 548
 Not distant far with heavy pace the foe
 Approaching gross and huge, in hollow cube
 Training his devilish enginery, impaled
 On every side with shadowing squadrons deep,
 To hide the fraud. At interview both stood 553
 Awhile ; but suddenly at head appeared
 Satan, and thus was heard commanding loud :

" ' Vanguard, to right and left the front unfold ;
 That all may see who hate us how we seek
 Peace and composure, and with open breast 558
 Stand ready to receive them, if they like
 Our overture and turn not back perverse :
 But that I doubt ; however, witness Heaven,
 Heaven witness thou anon, while we discharge
 Freely our part. Ye who appointed stand, 563
 Do as you have in charge, and briefly touch
 What we propound, and loud that all may hear.'

" So scoffing in ambiguous words, he scarce
 Had ended, when to right and left the front
 Divided, and to either flank retired ; 570
 Which to our eyes discovered, new and strange,

Brass, iron, stony mould, had not their mouths
 With hideous orifice gaped on us wide,
 Portending hollow truce : at each behind
 A seraph stood, and in his hand a reed
 Stood waving tipped with fire ; while we suspense 580
 Collected stood within our thoughts amused ;
 Not long, for sudden all at once their reeds
 Put forth, and to a narrow vent applied
 With nicest touch. Immediate in a flame 584
 But soon obscured with smoke all Heaven appeared,
 From those deep-throated engines belched, whose roar
 Embowelled with outrageous noise the air,
 And all her entrails tore, disgorging foul
 Their devilish glut, chained thunderbolts and hail
 Of iron globes ; which, on the victor host 590
 Levelled, with such impetuous fury smote
 That whom they hit none on their feet might stand,
 Though standing else as rocks, but down they fell
 By thousands, angel on archangel rolled,
 The sooner for their arms ; unarmed they might 595
 Have easily as spirits evaded swift
 By quick contraction or remove ; but now
 Foul dissipation followed and forced rout ;
 Nor served it to relax their serried files.
 What should they do ? If on they rushed, repulse 600
 Repeated, and indecent overthrow
 Doubled, would render them yet more despised,
 And to their foes a laughter ; for in view
 Stood ranked of seraphim another row,
 In posture to displode their second tire 605

They worse abhorred. Satan beheld their plight,
And to his mates thus in derision called :

“ O friends, why come not on these victors proud ?
Erewhile they fierce were coming ; and when we 610
To entertain them fair with open front
And breast (what could we more ?) propounded terms
Of composition, straight they changed their minds,
Flew off, and into strange vagaries fell, 614
As they would dance ; yet for a dance they seemed Somewhat extravagant and wild, perhaps
For joy of offered peace : but I suppose,
If our proposals once again were heard,
We should compel them to a quick result.’

“ To whom thus Belial in like gamesome mood : 620
‘ Leader, the terms we sent were terms of weight,
Of hard contents, and full of force urged home,
Such as we might perceive amused them all,
And stumbled many ; who receives them right,
Had need from head to foot well understand ; 625
Not understood, this gift they have besides,
They show us when our foes walk not upright.

“ So they among themselves in pleasant vein
Stood scoffing, heightened in their thoughts beyond
All doubt of victory ; eternal might 630
To match with their inventions they presumed
So easy, and of his thunder made a scorn,
And all his host derided, while they stood
Awhile in trouble : but they stood not long ;
Rage prompted them at length, and found them arms
Against such hellish mischief fit to oppose. 636

 From their foundations loosening to and fro
 They plucked the seated hills with all their load,
 Rocks, waters, woods, and by the shaggy tops 645
 Uplifting bore them in their hands. Amaze,
 Be sure, and terror seized the rebel host,
 When coming towards them so dread they saw
 The bottom of the mountains upward turned ;
 Till on those cursèd engines triple-row 650
 They saw them whelmed, and all their confidence
 Under the weight of mountains buried deep ;
 Themselves invaded next, and on their heads
 Main promontories flung, which in the air 654
 Came shadowing, and oppressed whole legions armed ;
 Their armor helped their harm, crushed in and bruised
 Into their substance pent, which wrought them pain

 Long struggling underneath, ere they could wind

 Upon confusion rose. And now all Heaven

 Consulting on the sum of things, foreseen
 This tumult, and permitted all, advised ;
 That his great purpose he might so fulfil, 675

 Upon his enemies, and to declare
 All power on him transferred : whence to his Son,
 The assessor of his throne, he thus began :

 Visibly what by deity I am,
 And in whose hand what by decree I do,
 Second Omnipotence ! two days are past,
 Two days, as we compute the days of Heaven, 685
 Since Michael and his powers went forth to tame
 These disobedient : sore hath been their fight.
 As likeliest was when two such foes met armed ;
 For to themselves I left them, and thou know’st
 Equal in their creation they were formed, 690
 Save what sin hath impaired, which yet hath wrought
 Insensibly, for I suspend their doom ;
 Whence in perpetual fight they needs must last
 Endless, and no solution will be found.

At his command the uprooted hills retired
 Each to his place ; they heard his voice and went Obsequious ; Heaven his wonted face renewed,
 And with fresh flowerets hill and valley smiled.
 This saw his hapless foes, but stood obdured, 785
 And to rebellious fight rallied their powers
 Insensate, hope conceiving from despair.
 In heavenly spirits could such perverseness dwell,
 But to convince the proud what signs avail,

 They, hardened more by what might most reclaim,
 Grieving to see his glory, at the sight
 Took envy ; and, aspiring to his height,
 Stood re-embattled fierce, by force or fraud
 Weening to prosper and at length prevail 795

 Nor less on either side tempestuous fell
 His arrows from the fourfold-visaged Four 846
 Distinct with eyes, and from the living wheels
 Distinct alike with multitude of eyes ;
 One spirit in them ruled, and every eye
 Glared lightning and shot forth pernicious fire
 Among the accursed, that withered all their strength
 And of their wonted vigor left them drained, 851
 Exhausted, spiritless, afflicted, fallen.
 Yet half his strength he put not forth, but checked
 His thunder in mid volley ; for he meant
 Not to destroy, but root them out of Heaven. 855
 The overthrown he raised, and as a herd
 Of goats or timorous flock together thronged
 Drove them before him thunder-struck, pursued
 With terrors and with furies to the bounds
 And crystal wall of Heaven, which opening wide 860
 Rolled inward, and a spacious gap disclosed
 Into the wasteful deep : the monstrous sight
 Struck them with horror backward, but far worse
 Urged them behind ; headlong themselves they threw
 Down from the verge of Heaven ; eternal wrath 865
 Burned after them to the bottomless pit.

Disburdened Heaven rejoiced, and soon repaired
Her mural breach, returning whence it rolled.

Thou with eternal Wisdom didst converse,
Wisdom thy sister, and with her didst play

10. with her didst play. "I was daily his delight, rejoicing always before him." Proverbs viii. 30.

In presence of the almighty Father, pleased
 With thy celestial song. Up led by thee
 Into the heaven of heavens I have presumed,
 An earthly guest, and drawn empyreal air,
 Thy tempering ; with like safety guided down 15
 Return me to my native element ;
 Lest from this flying steed unreined, as once
 Bellerophon (though from a lower clime),
 Dismounted on the Aleian field I fall,
 Erroneous there to wander and forlorn. 20
 Half yet remains unsung, but narrower bound
 Within the visible diurnal sphere ;
 Standing on earth, not rapt above the pole,
 More safe I sing with mortal voice, unchanged
 To hoarse or mute, though fallen on evil days, 25
 On evil days though fallen, and evil tongues,
 In darkness, and with dangers compassed round,
 And solitude ; yet not alone, while thou
 Visit'st my slumbers nightly or when morn
 Purples the east. Still govern thou my song, 30
 Urania, and fit audience find though few :
 But drive far off the barbarous dissonance

15. Thy tempering, tempered by thee.

18-20. Bellerophon conquered the monster Chimæra by the aid of Pegasus. Elated by his success, he attempted, it is said, to fly up into heaven on his winged steed. Jupiter, to punish his presumption, sent a gadfly to sting Pegasus, and Bellerophon was thrown to the earth. The fall made him both lame and blind, and he wandered disconsolate over the Aleian fields, avoiding the abodes of men. — erroneous, roving ; wandering.

21. Half, half of the poem.

23. rapt, caught up ; borne away.

25-28. Milton here refers to the times in which he lived. This Book was written after the Restoration of Charles II. to the English throne in 1660. This event had destroyed Milton's hopes for the establishment of a republican form of government in England, and for a time his life was in danger, as he had been a friend and adherent of Cromwell who had usurped the government. His blindness was now total, and he sought safety in a retired life.

29. nightly. See III. 29-32.

30. govern, influence ; direct.

31. fit audience find, though few. The number of those who in such evil days would listen to the song of the heavenly Muse was small, though some few still remained who were fit to hear her voice.

Of Bacchus and his revellers, the race
 Of that wild rout that tore the Thracian bard
 In Rhodopè, where woods and rocks had ears 85
 To rapture, till the savage clamor drowned
 Both harp and voice; nor could the Muse defend
 Her son. So fail not thou who thee implores;
 For thou art heavenly, she an empty dream.

Say, goddess, what ensued when Raphaël, 40
 The affable Archangel, had forewarned
 Adam by dire example to beware
 Apostasy, by what befell in Heaven
 To those apostates, lest the like befall
 In Paradise to Adam or his race 45
 (Charged not to touch the interdicted tree)
 If they transgress, and slight that sole command,
 So easily obeyed, amid the choice
 Of all tastes else to please their appetite,
 Though wandering. He with his consorted Eve 50
 The story heard attentive, and was filled
 With admiration and deep muse, to hear
 Of things so high and strange, things to their thought
 So unimaginable as hate in Heaven,
 And war so near the peace of God in bliss 55
 With such confusion; but the evil soon

82-88. Orpheus, the Thracian bard, was the son of Calliope, the Muse who presided over epic poetry. As he played upon the lyre given him by Apollo, nothing could withstand the charm of his music. Not only men, but also beasts, and even woods and rocks were moved to rapture. Having lost his wife Eurydice, he refused to be consoled. The Thracian women, in revenge for the contempt with which he treated them, and excited by the rites of Bacchus, drowned both harp and voice by their savage clamor, tore him limb from limb, and threw his head into the Hebrus, a river which descended from Mount Rhodope to the sea. Milton, under these figures, may be describing the dissolute court of Charles II., among whose followers such strains as his would stir up only contempt and ridicule.

88. who, him who.

41. affable. See V. 221.

42. beware, beware of.

46. interdicted, forbidden. See Genesis ii. 16, 17. See 1. 2.

50. wandering, not fixed; seeking variety.

52. admiration, wonder. — muse, meditation; musing.

Driven back redounded as a flood on those
 From whom it sprung, impossible to mix
 With blessedness. Whence Adam soon repealed
 The doubts that in his heart arose; and now 60
 Led on, yet sinless, with desire to know
 What nearer might concern him; how this world
 Of heaven and earth conspicuous first began,
 When and whereof created, for what cause,
 What within Eden or without was done 65
 Before his memory; as one whose drought
 Yet scarce allayed still eyes the current stream
 Whose liquid murmur heard new thirst excites,
 Proceeded thus to ask his heavenly guest:

“Great things, and full of wonder in our ears, 70
 Far differing from this world, thou hast revealed,
 Divine interpreter, by favor sent
 Down from the empyréan to forewarn
 Us timely of what might else have been our loss, 74
 Unknown, which human knowledge could not reach:
 For which to the infinitely Good we owe
 Immortal thanks, and his admonishment
 Receive, with solemn purpose to observe
 Immutably his sovran will, the end
 Of what we are. But since thou hast vouchsafed 80
 Gently for our instruction to impart
 Things above earthly thought, which yet concerned
 Our knowing as to highest wisdom seemed,
 Deign to descend now lower, and relate
 What may no less perhaps avail us known; 85

67. current, running. 81. Gently, courteously.

72. interpreter, one who un- 83. seemed, seemed good.

85. known, when it is known.

How first began this heaven, which we behold
 Distant so high, with moving fires adorned
 Innumerable, and this which yields or fills
 All space, the ambient air wide interfused
 Embracing round this florid earth; what cause 90
 Moved the Creator, in his holy rest
 Through all eternity, so late to build
 In Chaos, and the work begun how soon
 Absolved; if unforbid thou may'st unfold
 What we not to explore the secrets ask 95
 Of his eternal empire, but the more
 To magnify his works the more we know.
 And the great light of day yet wants to run
 Much of his race though steep; suspense in heaven
 Held by thy voice, thy potent voice, he hears, 100
 And longer will delay to hear thee tell
 His generation, and the rising birth
 Of Nature from the unapparent deep:
 Or if the star of evening and the moon
 Haste to thy audience, night with her will bring 105
 Silence, and sleep listening to thee will watch;
 Or we can bid his absence, till thy song
 End, and dismiss thee ere the morning shine."

Thus Adam his illustrious guest besought;
 And thus the godlike angel answered mild: 110

"This also thy request, with caution asked,

 What words or tongue of seraph can suffice,

89. interfused, 'poured or spread between.

90. florid, covered with flowers; blooming.

94. Absolved, finished.

95. not to explore, not meaning or seeking to explore.

98. wants, has left.

99. though steep, though descending to the horizon.

108. unapparent, invisible, for "darkness was upon the face of the deep." See Genesis i. 2.

105. to thy audience, to hear thee.

Or heart of man suffice to comprehend ?
 Yet what thou canst attain, which best may serve
 To glorify the Maker and infer 116
 Thee also happier, shall not be withheld
 Thy hearing ; such commission from above
 I have received, to answer thy desire
 Of knowledge within bounds ; beyond abstain 120
 To ask, nor let thine own inventions hope
 Things not revealed, which the invisible King,
 Only omniscient, hath suppressed in night,
 To none communicable in Earth or Heaven ;
 Enough is left besides to search and know. 126
 But knowledge is as food, and needs no less
 Her temperance over appetite, to know
 In measure what the mind may well contain ;
 Oppresses else with surfeit, and soon turns
 Wisdom to folly, as nourishment to wind. 130

 Of angels than that star the stars among)
 Fell with his flaming legions through the deep
 Into his place, and the great Son returned 136
 Victorious with his saints, the omnipotent

 Their multitude, and to his Son thus spake :

"So spake the Almighty, and to what he spake
 His Word, the filial Godhead, gave effect. 171
 Immediate are the acts of God, more swift
 Than time or motion, but to human ears
 Cannot without process of speech be told,
 So told as earthly notion can receive.
 Great triumph and rejoicing was in Heaven, 180
 When such was heard declared the Almighty's will;
 Glory they sung to the Most High, good-will
 To future men, and in their dwellings peace;
 Glory to him whose just avenging ire
 Had driven out the ungodly from his sight 185
 And the habitations of the just; to him
 Glory and praise, whose wisdom had ordained

"So sang the Hierarchies. Meanwhile the Son
 On his great expedition now appeared,
 Girt with omnipotence, with radiance crowned
 Of majesty divine, sapience and love 195
 Immense, and all his Father in him shone.
 About his chariot numberless were poured

From the armory of God, where stand of old 200
 Myriads between two brazen mountains lodged,
 Against a solemn day harnessed at hand,
 Celestial equipage; and now came forth
 Spontaneous, for within them spirit lived,
 Attendant on their Lord: Heaven opened wide 205
 Her ever-during gates, harmonious sound
 On golden hinges moving, to let forth
 The King of glory, in his powerful Word
 And Spirit coming to create new worlds.
 On heavenly ground they stood, and from the shore
 They viewed the vast immeasurable abyss 211
 Outrageous as a sea, dark, wasteful, wild,
 Up from the bottom turned by furious winds
 And surging waves, as mountains, to assault 214
 Heaven's height, and with the centre mix the pole.

“ ‘ Silence, ye troubled waves, and thou deep, peace!’ ”

Said then the omnific Word; ‘ your discord end!’
 Nor stayed, but, on the wings of cherubim
 Uplifted, in paternal glory rode
 Far into Chaos and the world unborn; 220
 For Chaos heard his voice. Him all his train
 Followed in bright procession, to behold
 Creation and the wonders of his might.
 Then stayed the fervid wheels, and in his hand
 He took the golden compasses, prepared 225

This universe and all created things :
 One foot he centred, and the other turned
 Round through the vast profundity obscure,
 And said, ' Thus far extend, thus far thy bounds, 220
 This be thy just circumference, O World ! '

" Thus God the heaven created, thus the earth,
 Matter unformed and void : darkness profound
 Covered the abyss ; but on the watery calm
 His brooding wings the Spirit of God outspread, 225
 And vital virtue infused and vital warmth
 Throughout the fluid mass, but downward purged
 The black, tartareous, cold, infernal dregs,
 Adverse to life : then founded, then conglobed
 Like things to like, the rest to several place 230
 Disparted, and between spun out the air ;
 And Earth self-balanced on her centre hung.

" ' Let there be light ! ' said God, and forthwith light
 Ethereal, first of things, quintessence pure,
 Sprung from the deep, and from her native east 235
 To journey through the aery gloom began,
 Sphered in a radiant cloud, for yet the sun
 Was not ; she in a cloudy tabernacle
 Sojourned the while. God saw the light was good ;
 And light from darkness by the hemisphere 250

223-235. " And the earth was without form, and void ; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." Genesis i. 2.

236. virtue, power.

237. purged, separated.

240. the rest, those which could not thus be founded and conglobed. — several, separate ; distinct.

243-252. See Genesis i. 3-5.

248. tabernacle, tent ; temporary abode.

250. by the hemisphere. As the earth is round, one half or one hemisphere must be dark while the other is light.

Divided : light the day, and darkness night
 He named. Thus was the first day even and morn ;
 Nor passed uncelebrated, nor unsung
 By the celestial quires, when orient light
 Exhaling first from darkness they beheld, 255
 Birthday of heaven and earth ; with joy and shout
 The hollow universal orb they filled,
 And touched their golden harps, and hymning praised
 God and his works ; Creator him they sung,
 Both when first evening was, and when first morn.

“ Again God said, ‘ Let there be firmament 261
 Amid the waters, and let it divide
 The waters from the waters.’ And God made
 The firmament, expanse of liquid, pure,
 Transparent, elemental air, diffused 265
 In circuit to the uttermost convex
 Of this great round ; partition firm and sure,
 The waters underneath from those above
 Dividing ; for as earth, so he the world
 Built on circumfluous waters calm, in wide 270
 Crystalline ocean, and the loud misrule
 Of Chaos far removed, lest fierce extremes
 Contiguous might distemper the whole frame ;
 And heaven he named the firmament : so even
 And morning chorus sung the second day. 275

260. evening is mentioned before morn, as in Genesis i., the Hebrews having considered the day to begin at sunset.

261-275. See Genesis i. 6-8.

270. circumfluous, flowing round.

278. Contiguous, coming so near as to touch or strike each other.

Appeared not: over all the face of earth
 Main ocean flowed, not idle, but with warm
 Prolific humor softening all her globe 280
 Fermented the great mother to conceive,
 Sate with genial moisture; when God said,
 'Be gathered now, ye waters under heaven,
 Into one place, and let dry land appear!'
 Immediately the mountains huge appear 285
 Emergent, and their broad bare backs upheave
 Into the clouds, their tops ascend the sky.
 So high as heaved the tumid hills, so low
 Down sunk a hollow bottom broad and deep,
 Capacious bed of waters: thither they 290
 Hasted with glad precipitance, uprolled
 As drops on dust conglobing from the dry;
 Part rise in crystal wall, or ridge direct,
 For haste; such flight the great command impressed
 On the swift floods. As armies at the call 295
 Of trumpet (for of armies thou hast heard)
 Troop to their standard, so the watery throng,
 Wave rolling after wave, where way they found;
 If steep, with torrent rapture; if through plain,
 Soft-ebbing: nor withstood them rock or hill; 300
 But they, or underground, or circuit wide
 With serpent error wandering, found their way,
 And on the washy ooze deep channels wore;
 Easy, ere God had bid the ground be dry,

All but within those banks, where rivers now
Stream, and perpetual draw their humid train.
The dry land, earth, and the great receptacle
Of congregated waters he called seas :
And saw that it was good, and said, ' Let the earth
Put forth the verdant grass, herb yielding seed, 310
And fruit-tree yielding fruit after her kind,
Whose seed is in herself upon the earth.'
He scarce had said, when the bare earth, till then
Desert and bare, unsightly, unadorned,
Brought forth the tender grass, whose verdure clad
Her universal face with pleasant green ; 316
Then herbs of every leaf, that sudden flowered
Opening their various colors, and made gay
Her bosom smelling sweet ; and these scarce blown,
Forth flourished thick the clustering vine, forth crept
The swelling gourd, up stood the corny reed 321
Embattled in her field, and the humble shrub,
And bush with frizzled hair implicit : last
Rose as in dance the stately trees, and spread
Their branches hung with copious fruit, or gemmed
Their blossoms. With high woods the hills were crowned, 326
With tufts the valleys and each fountain side,
With borders long the rivers ; that Earth now Seemed like to Heaven, a seat where gods might dwell,
Or wander with delight, and love to haunt 330
Her sacred shades : though God had yet not rained
Upon the earth, and man to till the ground
None was ; but from the earth a dewy mist
Went up and watered all the ground, and each

Plant of the field, which ere it was in the earth 385
 God made, and every herb before it grew
 On the green stem. God saw that it was good:
 So even and morn recorded the third day.

“ Again the Almighty spake:— ‘ Let there be lights
 High in the expanse of heaven, to divide 390
 The day from night ; and let them be for signs,
 For seasons, and for days, and circling years ;
 And let them be for lights, as I ordain
 Their office in the firmament of heaven,
 To give light on the earth ;’ and it was so. 395
 And God made two great lights, great for their use
 To man, the greater to have rule by day,
 The less by night, altern ; and made the stars,
 And set them in the firmament of heaven
 To illuminate the earth, and rule the day 400
 In their vicissitude, and rule the night,
 And light from darkness to divide. God saw,
 Surveying his great work, that it was good :
 For of celestial bodies first the sun
 A mighty sphere he framed, unlightsome first, 405
 Though of ethereal mould ; then formed the moon
 Globose, and every magnitude of stars,
 And sowed with stars the heaven thick as a field.
 Of light by far the greater part he took,
 Transplanted from her cloudy shrine, and placed 410
 In the sun’s orb, made porous to receive
 And drink the liquid light, firm to retain
 Her gathered beams, great palace now of light.
 Hither, as to their fountain, other stars which shine by light reflected

 And hence the morning planet gilds her horns :
 By tincture or reflection they augment
 Their small peculiar, though, from human sight
 So far remote, with diminution seen.
 First in his east the glorious lamp was seen, 374
 Regent of day, and all the horizon round
 Invested with bright rays, jocund to run
 His longitude through heaven's high road ; the gray
 Dawn and the Pleiades before him danced
 Shedding sweet influence. Less bright the moon, 375
 But opposite in levelled west was set,
 His mirror, with full face borrowing her light
 From him, for other light she needed none
 In that aspect, and still that distance keeps
 Till night, then in the east her turn she shines, 380
 Revolved on heaven's great axle, and her reign
 With thousand lesser lights dividual holds,
 With thousand thousand stars, that then appeared
 Spangling the hemisphere. Then, first adorned
 With her bright luminaries that set and rose, 385
 Glad evening and glad morn crowned the fourth day.

 And let fowl fly above the earth, with wings
 Displayed on the open firmament of heaven.' 384

 Soul living, each that crept, which plenteously
 The waters generated by their kinds,
 And every bird of wing after his kind :
 And saw that it was good, and blessed them, saying,

 And let the fowl be multiplied on the earth.'

 Their aery caravan, high over seas
 Flying, and over lands, with mutual wing
 Easing their flight; so steers the prudent crane 430
 Her annual voyage, borne on winds; the air
 Floats, as they pass, fanned with unnumbered plumes.
 From branch to branch the smaller birds with song
 Solaced the woods, and spread their painted wings
 Till even; nor then the solemn nightingale 435
 Ceased warbling, but all night tuned her soft lays.
 Others on silver lakes and rivers bathed
 Their downy breast; the swan, with archèd neck

 In forest wild, in thicket, brake, or den ;

THE ARGUMENT.

quires concerning celestial motions ; is doubtfully answered, exhorted to search rather things more worthy of knowledge : assents, and, still desirous to detain Raphael, relates to what he remembered since his own creation, his placing in Paradise, his talk with God concerning solitude and fit society, his meeting and nuptials with Eve ; his discourse with the angel upon, who, after admonitions repeated, departs.

angel ended, and in Adam's ear arming left his voice, that he awhile left him still speaking, still stood fixed to hear ;
as new waked, thus gratefully replied :

What thanks sufficient, or what recompense 5
have I to render thee, divine
Saviour, who thus largely hast allayed first I had of knowledge, and vouchsafed thy kindly condescension to relate
; else by me unsearchable, now heard 10

glory attributed to the high
Father ? Something yet of doubt remains, only thy solution can resolve.

Adam is here made to the difficulties which believed system of Astron-omically called the Ptolemaic. This supposed the Earth to be the centre, herself motionless or sedentary, round which the Sun, the planets, and the fixed stars revolved. See III. 481-483.

Of heaven and earth consisting, and compute
 Their magnitudes, this earth a spot, a grain,
 An atom, with the firmament compared
 And all her numbered stars, that seem to roll
 Spaces incomprehensible (for such 20

 Diurnal) merely to officiate light
 Round this opacous earth, this punctual spot,
 One day and night, in all their vast survey
 Useless besides ; — reasoning, I oft admire 25
 How Nature, wise and frugal, could commit
 Such disproportions, with superfluous hand
 So many nobler bodies to create,
 Greater so manifold, to this one use,
 For aught appears, and on their orbs impose 30
 Such restless revolution, day by day
 Repeated, while the sedentary earth,
 That better might with far less compass move,
 Served by more noble than herself, attains
 Her end without least motion, and receives, 35
 As tribute, such a sumless journey brought
 Of incorporeal speed, her warmth and light ;
 Speed, to describe whose swiftness number fails."

So spake our sire, and by his countenance seemed Entering on studious thoughts abstruse ; which Eve
 Perceiving where she sat retired in sight, 41
 With lowliness majestic from her seat,
 And grace that won who saw to wish her stay,
 Rose, and went forth among her fruits and flowers,

To visit how they prospered, bud and bloom, 45
 Her nursery; they at her coming sprung,
 And, touched by her fair tendance, gladlier grew.
 Yet went she not, as not with such discourse
 Delighted, or not capable her ear
 Of what was high: such pleasure she reserved, 50
 Adam relating, she sole auditress;
 Her husband the relater she preferred
 Before the angel, and of him to ask
 Chose rather; he, she knew, would intermix
 Grateful digressions, and solve high dispute 55
 With conjugal caresses; from his lip
 Not words alone pleased her. Oh, when meet now
 Such pairs, in love and mutual honor joined?
 With goddess-like demeanor forth she went,
 Not unattended, for on her as queen 60
 A pomp of winning graces waited still,
 And from about her shot darts of desire
 Into all eyes to wish her still in sight.
 And Raphael now to Adam's doubt proposed Benevolent and facile thus replied: 65

“To ask or search I blame thee not, for heaven
 Is as the book of God before thee set,
 Wherein to read his wondrous works, and learn
 His seasons, hours, or days, or months, or years;
 This to attain, whether heaven move or earth, 70
 Imports not, if thou reckon right; the rest
 From man or angel the great Architect
 Did wisely to conceal, and not divulge
 His secrets to be scanned by them who ought

Rather admire ; or if they list to try 75
 Conjecture, he his fabric of the heavens
 Hath left to their disputes, perhaps to move
 His laughter at their quaint opinions wide
 Hereafter, when they come to model heaven
 And calculate the stars, how they will wield 80
 The mighty frame, how build, unbuild, contrive,
 To save appearances, how gird the sphere
 With centric and eccentric scribbled o'er,
 Cycle and epicycle, orb in orb.
 Already by thy reasoning this I guess 85
 Who art to lead thy offspring, and supposest
 That bodies bright and greater should not serve
 The less not bright, nor heaven such journeys run,
 Earth sitting still, when she alone receives
 The benefit. Consider first, that great 90
 Or bright infers not excellence : the earth,
 Though in comparison of heaven so small,
 Nor glistening, may of solid good contain
 More plenty than the sun that barren shines,
 Whose virtue on itself works no effect, 95
 But in the fruitful earth ; there first received,
 His beams, unactive else, their vigor find.
 Yet not to earth are those bright luminaries
 Officious, but to thee, earth's habitant.
 And for the heaven's wide circuit, let it speak 100

75. list, incline ; please.

78. wide, wide from the truth.

79-84. This refers to the system of the ancients, by which they tried to save appearances ; that is, to contrive a scheme by which all the apparent motions of the heavenly bodies could be accounted for.

83. centric and eccentric are astronomical terms, the former meaning in or tending towards the centre, and the latter departing from the centre.

84. Cycle and epicycle. The first of these terms seems to mean here simply the circle apparently described in a certain period by a heavenly body in its revolution ; the second signifies the smaller circle in which, to account for certain irregularities in its motion, the body of the planet was supposed to move.

Which else to several spheres thou must ascribe
 Moved contrary with thwart obliquities,
 Or save the sun his labor, and that swift
 Nocturnal and diurnal rhomb supposed,
 Invisible else above all stars, the wheel 135
 Of day and night ; which needs not thy belief,
 If earth, industrious of herself, fetch day
 Travelling east, and with her part averse
 From the sun's beam meet night, her other part
 Still luminous by his ray. What if that light, 140
 Sent from her through the wide transpicuous air
 To the terrestrial moon, be as a star
 Enlightening her by day, as she by night
 This earth ? reciprocal, if land be there,
 Fields and inhabitants. Her spots thou seest 145
 As clouds, and clouds may rain, and rain produce
 Fruits in her softened soil, for some to eat
 Allotted there ; and other suns perhaps
 With their attendant moons thou wilt descry,

Of these, the first is her daily motion on her own axis ; the second, her yearly motion round the Sun ; the third, the motion of libration, as it is called, by which the axis of the Earth is always kept parallel to itself.

131-136. Otherwise (that is, supposing the earth to be the centre of motion to the heavenly bodies) thou must ascribe these three different motions to several spheres moved in directions opposite or contrary, with orbits crossing one another, thwart obliquities ; or else (as before supposed, line 122) thou must save the sun his labor, and also save the labor of that swift nocturnal and diurnal rhomb supposed, this being the imaginary sphere which included the earth and all the heavenly bodies, and by its own motion set in motion all the lower spheres and was hence called "primum mobile," or first mover. See again III. 481-488. It was thus the wheel of day and night, invisible above all stars.

137-140. This complicated system is not needed, if the earth, by moving on her own axis from west to east, causes the changes of day and night. This more simple explanation of the appearances of the heavenly bodies forms a part of the system taught by Copernicus (from whom it is called the Copernican system), and adopted by Galileo, who was contemporary with Milton. The poet here makes the angel and Adam anticipate the inquiries and discussions of his own time.

 Unpractised, unprepared, and still to seek.
 Therefore from this high pitch let us descend
 A lower flight, and speak of things at hand
 Useful, whence haply mention may arise 200
 Of something not unseasonable to ask,
 By sufferance and thy wonted favor deigned.
 Thee I have heard relating what was done
 Ere my remembrance; now hear me relate
 My story, which perhaps thou hast not heard; 205
 And day is yet not spent; till then thou seest
 How subtly to detain thee I devise,
 Inviting thee to hear while I relate, —
 Fond, were it not in hope of thy reply:
 For while I sit with thee I seem in Heaven, 210

191. at large, widely; in full.192. subtle, subtle.194. fume, smoke; vapor.197. still to seek, still obliged to seek or learn, not having un-derstood; as in Comus, "I & not think my sister so to seek."202. sufferance, permission; allowance.209. Fond, foolish.

And sweeter thy discourse is to my ear
 Than fruits of palm-tree, pleasantest to thirst
 And hunger both, from labor, at the hour
 Of sweet repast : they satiate and soon fill, 214
 Though pleasant ; but thy words, with grace divine
 Imbued, bring to their sweetness no satiety."

To whom thus Raphael answered heavenly meek :
 " Nor are thy lips ungraceful, sire of men,
 Nor tongue ineloquent ; for God on thee
 Abundantly his gifts hath also poured, 220
 Inward and outward both, his image fair ;
 Speaking or mute all comeliness and grace
 Attends thee, and each word, each motion forms.
 Nor less think we in Heaven of thee on Earth
 Than of our fellow-servant, and inquire 225
 Gladly into the ways of God with man ;
 For God we see hath honored thee, and set
 On man his equal love. Say therefore on ;
 For I that day was absent, as befell,
 Bound on a voyage uncouth and obscure, 230
 Far on excursion toward the gates of Hell ;
 Squared in full legion (such command we had)
 To see that none thence issued forth a spy
 Or enemy while God was in his work,
 Lest he, incensed at such eruption bold, 235
 Destruction with creation might have mixed.
 Not that they durst without his leave attempt,
 But us he sends upon his high behests
 For state, as sovran king, and to inure
 Our prompt obedience. Fast we found, fast shut,

228. his equal love, love equal to that with which he regards us.

The dismal gates, and barricadoed strong ; 241
 But, long ere our approaching, heard within Noise, other than the sound of dance or song,
 Torment and loud lament and furious rage.
 Glad we returned up to the coasts of light 245
 Ere sabbath evening ; so we had in charge.
 But thy relation now ; for I attend,
 Pleased with thy words no less than thou with mine."

So spake the godlike Power, and thus our sire :
 " For man to tell how human life began 250
 Is hard ; for who himself beginning knew ?
 Desire with thee still longer to converse
 Induced me. As new waked from soundest sleep,
 Soft on the flowery herb I found me laid,
 In balmy sweat, which with his beams the sun 255
 Soon dried, and on the reeking moisture fed.
 Straight toward heaven my wondering eyes I turned,
 And gazed awhile the ample sky, till raised
 By quick instinctive motion up I sprung,
 As thitherward endeavoring, and upright 260
 Stood on my feet : about me round I saw
 Hill, dale, and shady woods, and sunny plains,
 And liquid lapse of murmuring streams ; by these,
 Creatures that lived and moved, and walked or flew ;
 Birds on the branches warbling ; all things smiled ;
 With fragrance and with joy my heart o'erflowed.
 Myself I then perused, and limb by limb 265
 Surveyed, and sometimes went, and sometimes ran
 With supple joints, as lively vigor led ;
 But who I was, or where, or from what cause, 270
 Knew not : to speak I tried, and forthwith spake ;
 My tongue obeyed, and readily could name

247. relation, recital ; narrative. — attend, wait ; wait for it. 253. Induced me, led me to propose such relation. — As, as if. 263. lapse, flow ; gliding.

te'er I saw. 'Thou sun,' said I, 'fair light,
 thou enlightened earth, so fresh and gay,
 hills and dales, ye rivers, woods, and plains, 277
 ye that live and move, fair creatures, tell,
 if ye saw, how came I thus, how here?
 of myself; by some great maker then,
 goodness and in power preëminent :
 me how may I know him, how adore, 280
 whom I have that thus I move and live, feel that I am happier than I know.'
 e thus I called, and strayed I knew not whither where I first drew air and first beheld happy light, when answer none returned, 285
 green shady bank, profuse of flowers, ve I sat me down; there gentle sleep found me, and with soft oppression seized

 n was passing to my former state 290
 sible, and forthwith to dissolve;
 n suddenly stood at my head a dream,
 se inward apparition gently moved ancy to believe I yet had being lived. One came, methought, of shape divine, said, 'Thy mansion wants thee, Adam; rise, 295

 father! called by thee, I come thy guide ie garden of bliss, thy seat prepared.'
 ying, by the hand he took me raised, 300 over fields and waters as in air
 th sliding without step, last led me up

Loaden with fairest fruit, that hung to the eye
 Tempting, stirred in me sudden appetite
 To pluck and eat; whereat I waked, and found
 Before mine eyes all real, as the dream 310
 Had lively shadowed. Here had new begun
 My wandering, had not He, who was my guide
 Up hither, from among the trees appeared,
 Presence divine. Rejoicing, but with awe,
 In adoration at his feet I fell 315
 Submit; he reared me, and, 'Whom thou sought'st
 I am,'

Said mildly, 'Author of all this thou seest
 Above, or round about thee, or beneath.
 This Paradise I give thee, count it thine
 To till and keep, and of the fruit to eat: 320
 Of every tree that in the garden grows
 Eat freely with glad heart; fear here no dearth.
 But of the tree whose operation brings
 Knowledge of good and ill, which I have set,
 The pledge of thy obedience and thy faith, 325
 Amid the garden by the Tree of Life,
 Remember what I warn thee, shun to taste,
 And shun the bitter consequence; for know,
 The day thou eat'st thereof, my sole command
 Transgressed, inevitably thou shalt die, 330
 From that day mortal, and this happy state
 Shalt lose, expelled from hence into a world
 Of woe and sorrow.' Sternly he pronounced
 The rigid interdiction, which resounds
 Yet dreadful in mine ear, though in my choice 335
 Not to incur; but soon his clear aspect

Returned, and gracious purpose thus renewed :
 ' Not only these fair bounds, but all the earth
 To thee and to thy race I give ; as lords
 Possess it, and all things that therein live, 340
 Or live in sea or air, beast, fish, and fowl.
 In sign whereof each bird and beast behold
 After their kinds ; I bring them to receive
 From thee their names, and pay thee fealty
 With low subjection ; understand the same 345
 Of fish within their watery residence,
 Not hither summoned, since they cannot change
 Their element to draw the thinner air.'
 As thus he spake, each bird and beast behold
 Approaching two and two ; these cowering low 350
 With blandishment, each bird stooped on his wing.
 I named them as they passed, and understood
 Their nature, with such knowledge God endued
 My sudden apprehension ; but in these
 I found not what methought I wanted still ; 355
 And to the heavenly vision thus presumed :

" O by what name, for thou above all these,
 Above mankind, or aught than mankind higher,
 Surpaskest far my naming, how may I
 Adore thee, Author of this universe, 360
 And all this good to man, for whose well-being
 So amply, and with hands so liberal,
 Thou hast provided all things ? but with me
 I see not who partakes. In solitude
 What happiness, who can enjoy alone, 365
 Or all enjoying what contentment find ?'
 Thus I presumptuous ; and the Vision bright,
 As with a smile more brightened, thus replied :

337. purpose. speech ; conversation ; the French " propos."

360. these refers to beast.

351. stooped is here a participle.

356. presumed to speak.

“ ‘What call’st thou solitude ? Is not the earth
 With various living creatures, and the air 371
 Replenished, and all these at thy command
 To come and play before thee ? know’st thou not
 Their language and their ways ? they also know,
 And reason not contemptibly ; with these
 Find pastime, and bear rule ; thy realm is large.’ 375
 So spake the universal Lord, and seemed
 So ordering. I, with leave of speech implored,
 And humble deprecation, thus replied :

“ ‘Let not my words offend thee, heavenly Power,
 My Maker, be propitious while I speak. 380
 Hast thou not made me here thy substitute,
 And these inferior far beneath me set ?
 Among unequals what society
 Can sort, what harmony or true delight ?
 Which must be mutual, in proportion due 385
 Given and received ; but in disparity,
 The one intense, the other still remiss,
 Cannot well suit with either, but soon prove Tedious alike. Of fellowship I speak
 Such as I seek, fit to participate 390
 All rational delight, wherein the brute
 Cannot be human consort : they rejoice
 Each with their kind, lion with lioness ;
 So fitly them in pairs thou hast combined ;
 Much less can bird with beast, or fish with fowl 395
 So well converse, nor with the ox the ape ;
 Worse then can man with beast, and least of all.’

Thou in thy secrecy although alone,
 Best with thyself accompanied, seek'st not
 Social communication, yet, so pleased,
 Canst raise thy creatures to what height thou wilt
 Of union or communion, deified ;
 I by conversing cannot these erect
 From prone, nor in their ways complacence find.
 Thus I emboldened spake, and freedom used
 Permissive, and acceptance found, which gained
 This answer from the gracious voice divine :

“ ‘ Thus far to try thee, Adam, I was pleased,
 And find thee knowing not of beasts alone,
 Which thou hast rightly named, but of thyself,
 Expressing well the spirit within thee free,
 My image, not imparted to the brute,
 Whose fellowship therefore unmeet for thee
 Good reason was thou freely shouldst dislike ;
 And be so minded still. I, ere thou spak'st,
 Knew it not good for man to be alone,
 And no such company as then thou saw'st
 Intended thee, for trial only brought,
 To see how thou couldst judge of fit and meet.
 What next I bring shall please thee, be assured,
 Thy likeness, thy fit help, thy other self,
 Thy wish exactly to thy heart's desire.’ ”

To whom thus, half abashed, Adam replied : 595

To whom the angel, with a smile that glowed
 Celestial rosy red, love's proper hue,
 Answered: "Let it suffice thee that thou know'st

From the thick shade, and Adam to his bower.

BOOK IX.

THE ARGUMENT.

SATAN, having compassed the earth, with meditated guile returns as a mist by night into Paradise, and enters into the serpent sleeping. Adam and Eve in the morning go forth to their labors, which Eve proposes to divide in several places, each laboring apart. Adam consents not, alleging the danger lest that enemy of whom they were forewarned should attempt her found alone. Eve, loath to be thought not circumspect or firm enough, urges her going apart, the rather desirous to make trial of her strength; Adam at last yields. The serpent finds her alone; his subtle approach, first gazing, then speaking, with much flattery extolling Eve above all other creatures. Eve, wondering to hear the serpent speak, asks how he attained to human speech and such understanding not till now; the serpent answers, that by tasting of a certain tree in the garden he attained both to speech and reason, till then void of both. Eve requires him to bring her to that tree, and finds it to be the tree of knowledge forbidden. The serpent, now grown bolder, with many wiles and arguments induces her at length to eat: she, pleased with the taste, deliberates awhile whether to impart thereof to Adam or not; at last brings him of the fruit, relates what persuaded her to eat thereof. Adam, at first amazed, but perceiving her lost, resolves through vehemence of love to perish with her; and extenuating the trespass eats also of the fruit. The effects thereof in them both; they seek to cover their nakedness; then fall to variance and accusation of one another.

No more of talk where God or angel guest
With man, as with his friend, familiar used
To sit indulgent, and with him partake
Rural repast, permitting him the while
Venial discourse unblamed: I now must change
Those notes to tragic; foul distrust and breach
Disloyal on the part of man, revolt
And disobedience; on the part of Heaven

Now alienated, distance and distaste,
 Anger and just rebuke, and judgment given, 10
 That brought into this world a world of woe,
 Sin and her shadow Death, and Misery
 Death's harbinger: sad task! yet argument
 Not less but more heroic than the wrath
 Of stern Achilles on his foe pursued, 15
 Thrice fugitive, about Troy wall; or rage
 Of Turnus for Lavinia disespoused;
 Or Neptune's ire or Juno's, that so long
 Perplexed the Greek and Cytherea's son:
 If answerable style I can obtain 20
 Of my celestial patroness, who deigns
 Her nightly visitation unimplored,
 And dictates to me slumbering, or inspires
 Easy my unpremeditated verse;
 Since first this subject for heroic song 25
 Pleased me, long choosing and beginning late,

13. argument. See I. 24.

14-16. The subject of Homer's Iliad is the wrath of Achilles, or his quarrel with Agamemnon, and its consequences. Here, the wrath of stern Achilles is the spirit of revenge roused by the death of his friend Patroclus, who was killed by the Trojan hero, Hector. This foe he chased three times round the walls of Troy, and, having slain him, tied his body to his chariot and dragged it to his ships.

16, 17. Reference is here made to a part of the story of Æneas, related by Virgil in the Æneid. Lavinia, the daughter of Latinus, had been promised in marriage to Turnus. She was given by her father to Æneas, and thus disespoused from Turnus.

18, 19. The Greek, perplexed so long by Neptune's ire, was Ulysses, or Odysseus, whose adventures are related by Homer in the Odyssey. Cytherea's son, so long perplexed by Juno's ire, was Æneas. Cytherea was one of the names of Venus. — Milton declares that the subject of his own poem is not less but more heroic than that of either of the three great epic poems of antiquity, the Iliad, the Odyssey, and the Æneid, inasmuch as it treats of the anger and just rebuke of Heaven, rather than of the wrath of stern Achilles, or the rage of Turnus, or Neptune's ire or Juno's.

20. answerable, suitable.

21. my celestial patroness. the heavenly Muse invoked at the opening of the First Book and again in the Seventh.

22. Her nightly visitation. See III. 26-40.

26. long choosing and beginning late. Earlier in life, Milton had proposed to write an epic poem of which King Arthur should be the subject; but the present poem was not begun till after he was fifty years old.

Not sedulous by nature to indite
 Wars, hitherto the only argument
 Heroic deemed, chief mastery to dissect
 With long and tedious havoc fabled knights 27
 In battles feigned (the better fortitude
 Of patience and heroic martyrdom
 Unsung) ; or to describe races and games,
 Or tilting furniture, emblazoned shields,
 Impresses quaint, caparisons and steeds, 28
 Bases and tinsel trappings, gorgeous knights
 At joust and tournament ; then marshalled feast
 Served up in hall with sewers and seneschals ;
 The skill of artifice or office mean,
 Not that which justly gives heroic name 40
 To person or to poem. Me, of these
 Nor skilled nor studious, higher argument
 Remains, sufficient of itself to raise
 That name, unless an age too late, or cold
 Climate, or years, damp my intended wing 45
 Depressed, and much they may, if all be mine,
 Not hers who brings it lightly to my ear.

The sun was sunk, and after him the star
 Of Hesperus, whose office is to bring

27. sedulous to indite, sedulously bent on inditing.

28-31. The wars of fabled knights formed the subject of the old romantic poems, such as the Orlando Furioso of Ariosto.

34. tilting furniture, all the array with which the knights who engaged in tilts, or contests with the lance, were furnished and accompanied. — emblazoned, adorned with the devices of heraldry, or armorial bearings.

36. Impresses quaint, fanciful emblems or subjects on the shield. These were generally some figure, with a motto.

36. Bases were a sort of skirt which was worn by the knight when on horseback, and reached to the knees.

37, 38. The knightly feasts were attended by marshals who placed the guests according to their rank, while the sewer arranged the meats on the table, under the superintendence of the seneschal, or house-steward.

41-43. To me, who am neither skilled nor studious of such things as these, there remains a higher theme or subject.

44. that name. See line 40.

49. Hesperus. See IV 606.

Twilight upon the earth, short arbiter 50
 Twixt day and night; and now from end to end
 Night's hemisphere had veiled the horizon round,
 When Satan, who late fled before the threats
 Of Gabriel out of Eden, now improved
 In meditated fraud and malice, bent 55
 On man's destruction, maugre what might hap
 Of heavier on himself, fearless returned.
 By night he fled, and at midnight returned
 From compassing the earth, cautious of day,
 Since Uriel, regent of the sun, descried 60
 His entrance, and forewarned the cherubim
 That kept their watch; thence full of anguish driven,
 The space of seven continued nights he rode
 With darkness, thrice the equinoctial line
 He circled, four times crossed the car of night 65
 From pole to pole, traversing each colure;
 On the eighth returned, and on the coast averse
 From entrance or cherubic watch by stealth
 Found unsuspected way. There was a place (Now not, though sin not time first wrought the change) 70
 Where Tigris at the foot of Paradise
 Into a gulf shot under ground, till part
 Rose up a fountain by the Tree of Life:
 In with the river sunk and with it rose
 Satan involved in rising mist, then sought 75
 Where to lie hid; sea he had searched and land

50. arbiter, one who comes between two parties to settle their conflicting claims.

58. maugre, notwithstanding; in spite of.

59. cautious of, careful to avoid.

60. Uriel. See IV. 125 and 555-559.

63. The space of, during.

65. crossed the car of night, as he moved westward round the earth, bringing darkness, while his course was from pole to pole.

66. each colure. The colures are two great circles which cross the ecliptic and intersect each other at right angles in the poles of the world or universe. — traversing, passing along, in a direction at right angles to the course of the car of night.

67. the coast averse, that part of the border of Paradise away from.

From Eden over Pontus and the pool
 Mæotis, up beyond the river Ob ;
 Downward as far antarctic ; and in length
 West from Orontes to the ocean barred 80
 At Darien, thence to the land where flows
 Ganges and Indus. Thus the orb he roamed
 With narrow search, and with inspection deep
 Considered every creature, which of all
 Most opportune might serve his wiles, and found 85
 The serpent subtlest beast of all the field.
 Him after long debate, irresolute
 Of thoughts revolved, his final sentence chose
 Fit vessel, fittest imp of fraud, in whom
 To enter, and his dark suggestions hide 90
 From sharpest sight ; for in the wily snake
 Whatever sleights none would suspicious mark,
 As from his wit and native subtlety
 Proceeding, which in other beasts observed
 Doubt might beget of diabolic power 95
 Active within beyond the sense of brute.
 Thus he resolved, but first from inward grief
 His bursting passion into plaints thus poured :

“ O Earth, how like to Heaven, if not preferred
 More justly, seat worthier of gods, as built 100

77. Pontus, Pontus Euxinus, the Black Sea.

77, 78. the pool Mæotis, Palus Mæotis, the Sea of Azov.

78. Ob, the Obi, a river of Siberia.

79. Downward as far antarctic, as far to the south as first to the north.

80. Orontes, a river of Syria, flowing into the Mediterranean Sea. See IV. 273.

81. Darien. The isthmus of Darien unites the two parts of the continent of America, and seems to form a barrier to the waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

82. Ganges and Indus, the principal rivers of Hindostan or India, which he reached by his western course. — the orb, the earth ; in Latin, “ orbis terrarum,” the circle of the lands.

83. narrow, close ; scrutinising.

87. debate, deliberation. — irresolute of, hesitating between.

89. fittest imp of fraud, fittest of the creatures to receive and practise fraud. “ Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made.” Genesis iii. 1.

92. Whatever sleights, artifices whatever they might be.

99. preferred, to be preferred.

With second thoughts, reforming what was old !
 For what god, after better, worse would build ?
 Terrestrial heaven, danced round by other heavens
 That shine, yet bear their bright officious lamps,
 Light above light, for thee alone, as seems, 105
 In thee concentrating all their precious beams
 Of sacred influence ! as God in Heaven
 Is centre, yet extends to all, so thou
 Centring receiv'st from all those orbs ; in thee,
 Not in themselves, all their known virtue appears 110
 Productive in herb, plant, and nobler birth
 Of creatures animate with gradual life
 Of growth, sense, reason, all summed up in Man.
 With what delight could I have walked thee round,
 If I could joy in aught, sweet interchange 115
 Of hill and valley, rivers, woods, and plains,
 Now land, now sea, and shores with forest crowned,
 Rocks, dens, and caves ! but I in none of these Find place or refuge ; and the more I see
 Pleasures about me, so much more I feel 120
 Torment within me, as from the hateful siege
 Of contraries ; all good to me becomes
 Bane, and in Heaven much worse would be my state.
 But neither here seek I — no, nor in Heaven —
 To dwell, unless by mastering Heaven's Supreme ;
 Nor hope to be myself less miserable 125
 By what I seek, but others to make such
 As I, though thereby worse to me redound :
 For only in destroying I find ease
 To my relentless thoughts ; and him destroyed 130
 Or won to what may work his utter loss
 For whom all this was made, all this will soon
 Follow, as to him linked in weal or woe ;
 In woe then ; that destruction wide may range.

104. officious. See VIII. 99.123. worse, what is worse.110. virtue, power. See line 145.130. him, the case absolute. See VII. 142.

To me shall be the glory sole among 136
 The infernal powers, in one day to have marred
 What he, Almighty styled, six nights and days
 Continued making, and who knows how long
 Before had been contriving? though perhaps 140
 Not longer than since I in one night freed
 From servitude inglorious well nigh half
 The angelic name, and thinner left the throng
 Of his adorers. He, to be avenged
 And to repair his numbers thus impaired,
 Whether such virtue spent of old now failed 146
 More angels to create (if they at least
 Are his created) or to spite us more,
 Determined to advance into our room
 A creature formed of earth, and him endow,
 Exalted from so base original, 150
 With heavenly spoils, our spoils. What he decreed
 He effected; man he made, and for him built
 Magnificent this world, and earth his seat;
 Him lord pronounced, and, O indignity!
 Subjected to his service angel wings 156
 And flaming ministers, to watch and tend
 Their earthly charge. Of these the vigilance
 I dread, and to elude, thus wrapped in mist
 Of midnight vapor glide obscure, and pry
 In every bush and brake, where hap may find 160
 The serpent sleeping, in whose mazy folds
 To hide me and the dark intent I bring.
 O foul descent! that I, who erst contended
 With gods to sit the highest, am now constrained
 Into a beast, and mixed with bestial slime, 166
 This essence to incarnate and imbrute,

156. flaming ministers. "Who maketh his angels spirits; his ministers a flaming fire." Psalm civ. 4.

157. charge. "He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways." Ps. xci. 11.

160. hap, chance.

163. erst, once: formerly.

166. This spiritual being to clothe or hide in flesh, and that the flesh of a brute.

That to the height of deity aspired ;
 But what will not ambition and revenge
 Descend to ? who aspires must down as low
 As high he soared, obnoxious first or last 170
 To basest things. Revenge, at first though sweet,
 Bitter ere long back on itself recoils : —
 Let it ; I reck not, so it light well aimed (Since higher I fall short) on him who next
 Provokes my envy, this new favorite 175
 Of Heaven, this man of clay, son of despite,
 Whom, us the more to spite, his Maker raised
 From dust. Spite then with spite is best repaid."

So saying, through each thicket dank or dry
 Like a black mist low creeping, he held on 180
 His midnight search, where soonest he might find
 The serpent : him fast sleeping soon he found
 In labyrinth of many a round self-rolled,
 His head the midst, well stored with subtle wiles ;
 Not yet in horrid shade or dismal den, 185
 Nor nocent yet, but on the grassy herb
 Fearless unfeared he slept : in at his mouth
 The Devil entered, and his brutal sense
 In heart or head possessing soon inspired
 With act intelligential ; but his sleep 190
 Disturbed not, waiting close the approach of morn.

Now, when as sacred light began to dawn
 In Eden on the humid flowers that breathed
 Their morning incense, when all things that breathe
 From the earth's great altar send up silent praise 195
 To the Creator and his nostrils fill

169. who, he who. — must down, must degrade himself or descend.

170. obnoxious, exposed ; subject.

174. Since higher, since if I higher aim.

186. nocent, hurtful ; the contrary of innocent.

192. when as, when.

193. breathed, breathed out ; exhaled.

198. and his nostrils fill. "And the Lord smelled a sweet savor." Gen. viii. 21.

With grateful smell, forth came the human pair,
 And joined their vocal worship to the quire
 Of creatures wanting voice; that done, partake
 The season, prime for sweetest scents and airs; 200
 Then commune how that day they best may ply
 Their growing work, for much their work outgrew
 The hands' despatch of two gardening so wide,
 And Eve first to her husband thus began :

"Adam, well may we labor still to dress 205
 This garden, still to tend plant, herb, and flower,
 Our pleasant task enjoined; but till more hands
 Aid us, the work under our labor grows,
 Luxurious by restraint; what we by day
 Lop overgrown, or prune, or prop, or bind, 210
 One night or two with wanton growth derides,
 Tending to wild. Thou therefore now advise,
 Or hear what to my mind first thoughts present;—
 Let us divide our labors, thou where choice
 Leads thee, or where most needs, whether to wind
 The woodbine round this arbor, or direct 215
 The clasping ivy where to climb; while I,
 In yonder spring of roses intermixed
 With myrtle, find what to redress till noon;
 For while so near each other thus all day 220
 Our task we choose, what wonder if so near Looks intervene and smiles, or object new Casual discourse draw on, which intermits
 Our day's work brought to little, though begun
 Early, and the hour of supper comes unearned." 225

To whom mild answer Adam thus returned :

197. grateful. See VIII. 55.
 198. their vocal worship. See the Morning Hymn, V. 152-208.
 199. wanting, without. — partake, partake of; enjoy.
 200. prime, first and best.
 209. Luxurious by restraint, made luxuriant by our restraint, our effort to check its growth.
 215. most needs. is most need.
 218. spring, clump or small thicket.
 219. redress, set right.
 223. intermits, interrupts.
 224. brought. thus brought.

"Sole Eve, associate sole, to me beyond
 Compare above all living creatures dear!
 Well hast thou motioned, well thy thoughts employed
 How we might well fulfil the work which here 230
 God hath assigned us, nor of me shalt pass
 Unpraised; for nothing lovelier can be found
 In woman, than to study household good
 And good works in her husband to promote.
 Yet not so strictly hath our Lord imposed 235
 Labor, as to debar us when we need
 Refreshment, whether food, or talk between,
 Food of the mind, or this sweet intercourse
 Of looks and smiles; for smiles from reason flow,
 To brute denied, and are of love the food, 240
 Love not the lowest end of human life:
 For not to irksome toil, but to delight,
 He made us, and delight to reason joined.
 These paths and bowers doubt not but our joint hands
 Will keep from wilderness with ease, as wide 245
 As we need walk, till younger hands ere long
 Assist us: but if much converse perhaps
 Thee satiate, to short absence I could yield;
 For solitude sometimes is best society,
 And short retirement urges sweet return. 250
 But other doubt possesses me, lest harm
 Befall thee severed from me; for thou know'st
 What hath been warned us, what malicious foe,
 Envyng our happiness and of his own
 Despairing, seeks to work us woe and shame 255
 By sly assault; and somewhere nigh at hand
 Watches, no doubt, with greedy hope to find (His wish and best advantage) us asunder,
 Hopeless to circumvent us joined, where each
 To other speedy aid might lend at need: 260
 Whether his first design be to withdraw

Our fealty from God, or to disturb
 Conjugal love, than which perhaps no bliss
 Enjoyed by us excites his envy more ;
 Or this, or worse, leave not the faithful side 265
 That gave thee being, still shades thee and protects.
 The wife, where danger or dishonor lurks,
 Safest and seemliest by her husband stays,
 Who guards her, or with her the worst endures."

To whom the virgin majesty of Eve, 270
 As one who loves and some unkindness meets,
 With sweet austere composure thus replied :

" Offspring of Heaven and Earth, and all Earth's lord !
 That such an enemy we have who seeks
 Our ruin, both by thee informed I learn 275
 And from the parting angel overheard,
 As in a shady nook I stood behind,
 Just then turned at shut of evening flowers.
 But that thou shouldst my firmness therefore doubt
 To God or thee, because we have a foe 280
 May tempt it, I expected not to hear.
 His violence thou fear'st not, being such
 As we, not capable of death or pain,
 Can either not receive or can repel.
 His fraud is then thy fear, which plain infers 285
 Thy equal fear that my firm faith and love
 Can by his fraud be shaken or seduced ;
 Thoughts, which how found they harbor in thy breast,
 Adam, misthought of her to thee so dear ? "

To whom with healing words Adam replied : 290

265. Or this, or worse, whether this or worse than this be his design.

288. harbor, a resting-place.

" Daughter of God and man, immortal Eve !
 For such thou art, from sin and blame entire ;
 Not diffident of thee do I dissuade
 Thy absence from my sight, but to avoid
 The attempt itself, intended by our foe. 295
 For he who tempts, though in vain, at least asperses
 The tempted with dishonor foul, supposed
 Not incorruptible of faith, not proof
 Against temptation : thou thyself with scorn
 And anger wouldst resent the offered wrong, 300
 Though ineffectual found ; misdeem not then
 If such affront I labor to avert
 From thee alone, which on us both at once
 The enemy, though bold, will hardly dare,
 Or daring, first on me the assault shall light. 305
 Nor thou his malice and false guile condemn ;
 Subtle he needs must be, who could seduce
 Angels ; nor think superfluous others' aid.
 I from the influence of thy looks receive
 Access in every virtue, in thy sight 310
 More wise, more watchful, stronger, if need were
 Of outward strength ; while shame, thou looking on,
 Shame to be overcome or overreached,
 Would utmost vigor raise, and raised unite.
 Why shouldst not thou like sense within thee feel 315
 When I am present, and thy trial choose
 With me, best witness of thy virtue tried ? "

So spake domestic Adam in his care
 And matrimonial love ; but Eve, who thought
 Less attributed to her faith sincere, 320
 Thus her reply with accent sweet renewed :

" If this be our condition, thus to dwell

292. entire, wholly free.

298. diffident. See VIII. 562.

299. asperses, stains ; tarnishes.

306. others', if not other's.

310. Access, addition ; increase.

314. unite, join in one the utmost vigor of all my powers.

320. Less, too little.

In narrow circuit straitened by a foe
 Subtle or violent, we not endued
 Single with like defence wherever met, 386
 How are we happy, still in fear of harm ?
 But harm precedes not sin : only our foe
 Tempting affronts us with his foul esteem
 Of our integrity ; his foul esteem
 Sticks no dishonor on our front, but turns 390
 Foul on himself ; then wherefore shunned or feared
 By us ? who rather double honor gain
 From his surmise proved false, find peace within,
 Favor from Heaven, our witness from the event.
 And what is faith, love, virtue, unassayed 396
 Alone without exterior help sustained ?
 Let us not then suspect our happy state
 Left so imperfect by the Maker wise,
 As not secure to single or combined.
 Frail is our happiness, if this be so, 400
 And Eden were no Eden thus exposed."

To whom thus Adam fervently replied :
 " O woman, best are all things as the will
 Of God ordained them ; his creating hand
 Nothing imperfect or deficient left 406
 Of all that he created, much less man,
 Or aught that might his happy state secure,
 Secure from outward force ; within himself
 The danger lies, yet lies within his power ;
 Against his will he can receive no harm. 410
 But God left free the will, for what obeys

324, 325. We, wherever we may be met, not being endued, separate from each other, with the same defence as if together.

330. front, forehead ; brow.

334. from the event, from what ensues and proves our fidelity.

335. unassayed, untried ; not put to the proof.

336. Alone, when alone. I. meaning is, What is faith, love, virtue, if it has not been put to the proof when by itself, and without the aid of others ?

339. As not to be secure to us both, whether separate or together.

347. Or aught, or left any imperfect.

Reason is free, and reason he made right,
 But bid her well be ware and still erect,
 Lest by some fair-appearing good surprised
 She dictate false, and misinform the will 355
 To do what God expressly hath forbid.
 Not then mistrust but tender love enjoins
 That I should mind thee oft, and mind thou me.
 Firm we subsist, yet possible to swerve,
 Since reason not impossibility may meet 360
 Some specious object by the foe suborned,
 And fall into deception unaware,
 Not keeping strictest watch, as she was warned.
 Seek not temptation then, which to avoid
 Were better, and most likely if from me 365
 Thou sever not : trial will come unsought.
 Wouldst thou approve thy constancy, approve
 First thy obedience ; the other who can know,
 Not seeing thee attempted, who attest ?
 But if thou think trial unsought may find 370
 Us both securer than thus warned thou seem'st,
 Go ; for thy stay, not free, absents thee more ;
 Go in thy native innocence, rely
 On what thou hast of virtue, summon all ; 374
 For God towards thee hath done his part, do thine."

So spake the patriarch of mankind ; but Eve
 Persisted ; yet submiss, though last, replied :

" With thy permission then, and thus forewarned,
 Chiefly by what thy own last reasoning words
 Touched only, that our trial when least sought 380

353. ware, wary. — erect, upright ; on her guard.

358. mind, remind ; put in mind.

365. most likely, which is most likely to be avoided.

367. approve, prove.

368. the other, thy constancy.

369. attempted, tried. — who attest, who can bear witness to it.

371. securer, less distrustful or watchful of ourselves ; less prepared. — thou seem'st, thou seemest to be, or to consider thyself.

May find us both perhaps far less prepared,
 The willinger I go, nor much expect
 A foe so proud will first the weaker seek ;
 So bent, the more shall shame him his repulse."

Thus saying, from her husband's hand her hand 385
 Soft she withdrew, and like a wood-nymph light,
 Oread, or Dryad, or of Delia's train,
 Betook her to the groves ; but Delia's self
 In gait surpassed, and goddess-like deport,
 Though not as she with bow and quiver armed, 390
 But with such gardening tools as art yet rude,
 Guiltless of fire, had formed, or angels brought.
 To Pales or Pomona, thus adorned
 Likest she seemed, Pomona when she fled
 Vertumnus, or to Ceres in her prime, 395
 Yet virgin of Proserpina from Jove.
 Her long with ardent look his eye pursued
 Delighted, but desiring more her stay.
 Oft he to her his charge of quick return
 Repeated ; she to him as oft engaged 400
 To be returned by noon amid the bower,
 And all things in best order to invite
 Noontide repast or afternoon's repose.
 O much deceived, much failing, hapless Eve,
 Of thy presumed return ! event perverse ! 405

384. So bent, if so bent ; if he is so inclined.

387. Oread, or Dryad. The Oreads were nymphs of the mountains, and the Dryads of the trees.

388. Delia's self. Diana was sometimes called Della, from Delos, the place of her birth. She was the goddess of the chase, and is represented among her attendant nymphs as of lofty stature and noble mien, with bow and quiver armed.

389. deport, port ; bearing.

392. Guiltless of fire, without the aid of fire. The ancients believed that fire was stolen from heaven.

393. Pales was a rural divinity among the Romans. Pomona (see V. 378) was beloved by Vertumnus, the god of fruit.

393-395. Thus adorned, she seemed likest to Pales or Pomona : to Pomona, when she fled Vertumnus.

395. Ceres. See IV. 271.

396. Before she had become by Jupiter the mother of Proserpina.

402. And, and to have.

405. presumed, anticipated

Thou never from that hour in Paradise
 Found'st either sweet repast or sound repose ;
 Such ambush hid among sweet flowers and shades
 Waited with hellish rancor imminent
 To intercept thy way, or send thee back 410
 Despoiled of innocence, of faith, of bliss.
 For now, and since first break of dawn, the Fiend,
 Mere serpent in appearance, forth was come,
 And on his quest where likeliest he might find
 The only two of mankind, but in them 415
 The whole included race, his purposed prey.
 In bower and field he sought, where any tuft
 Of grove or garden-plot more pleasant lay,
 Their tendance or plantation for delight ;
 By fountain or by shady rivulet 420
 He sought them both, but wished his hap might find
 Eve separate ; he wished, but not with hope
 Of what so seldom chanced, when to his wish,
 Beyond his hope, Eve separate he spies,
 Veiled in a cloud of fragrance, where she stood, 425
 Half spied, so thick the roses bushing round
 About her glowed, oft stooping to support
 Each flower of slender stalk, whose head, though gay
 Carnation, purple, azure, or specked with gold,
 Hung drooping unsustained ; them she upstays 430
 Gently with myrtle band, mindless the while
 Herself, though fairest unsupported flower,
 From her best prop so far, and storms so nigh.
 Nearer he drew, and many a walk traversed
 Of stateliest covert, cedar, pine, or palm ; 435
 Then voluble and bold, now hid, now seen,
 Among thick-woven arborets and flowers

409. imminent, close at hand.419. Their tendance, their work, to be tended by them.431. mindless, not minding ;
forgetful of. — the while, while she was thus occupied.432. though fairest. See IV.
270.436. voluble, moving in serpent folds ; rolling on.437. arborets, shrubs or small trees.

Imbordered on each bank, the hand of Eve :
 Spot more delicious than those gardens feigned
 Or of reviv'd Adonis, or renowned . 44
 Alcinoüs, host of old Laertes' son,
 Or that, not mystic, where the sapient king
 Held dalliance with his fair Egyptian spouse.
 Much he the place admired, the person more :
 As one who long in populous city pent 45
 Where houses thick and sewers annoy the air,
 Forth issuing on a summer's morn to breathe
 Among the pleasant villages and farms
 Adjoined, from each thing met conceives delight,
 The smell of grain, or tedded grass, or kine, 46
 Or dairy, each rural sight, each rural sound ;
 If chance with nymph-like step fair virgin pass,
 What pleasing seemed for her now pleases more,
 She most, and in her look sums all delight : —
 Such pleasure took the serpent to behold 47
 This flowery plat, the sweet recess of Eve
 Thus early, thus alone. Her heavenly form
 Angelic, but more soft and feminine,
 Her graceful innocence, her every air
 Of gesture, or least action, overaw'd 48
 His malice, and with rapine sweet bereav'd
 His fierceness of the fierce intent it brought.
 That space the evil one abstracted stood
 From his own evil, and for the time remained
 Stupidly good, of enmity disarm'd, 49
 Of guile, of hate, of envy, of revenge ;

438. hand, handiwork.440. Or, whether. — reviv'dAdonis. See I. 448-452.441. Alcinous. See V. 341. — old Laertes' son, Ulysses.442. not mystic, not taken as mystic or allegorical, although described in the Song of Solomon.
— the sapient king, Solomon.443. Egyptian spouse. See I Kings vii. 8.446. annoy, make noxious ; infect.450. tedded, shaken out to dry after having been mowed.452. nymph-like. See line 386.
454. sums, sums up ; completes the sum of.461. rapine sweet, sweet violence.463. That space, for that space of time.

But the hot hell that always in him burns,
 Though in mid Heaven, soon ended his delight,
 And tortures him now more, the more he sees
 Of pleasure not for him ordained : then soon 470
 Fierce hate he recollects, and all his thoughts
 Of mischief, gratulating, thus excites :

“ Thoughts, whither have ye led me ? with what sweet

Compulsion thus transported to forget
 What hither brought us ? hate, not love, nor hope
 Of Paradise for Hell, hope here to taste 476
 Of pleasure, but all pleasure to destroy,
 Save what is in destroying ; other joy
 To me is lost. Then let me not let pass
 Occasion which now smiles ; behold alone 480
 The woman, opportune to all attempts,
 Her husband (for I view far round) not nigh,
 Whose higher intellectual more I shun,
 And strength, of courage haughty, and of limb
 Heroic built, though of terrestrial mould, 486
 Foe not formidable, exempt from wound,
 I not ; so much hath Hell debased and pain
 Enfeebled me, to what I was in Heaven.
 She fair, divinely fair, fit love for gods,
 Not terrible, though terror be in love 490
 And beauty not approached by stronger hate,
 Hate stronger under show of love well feigned,
 The way which to her ruin now I tend.”

So spake the enemy of mankind, enclosed
 In serpent, inmate bad, and toward Eve 496

 the opportunity.

488. intellectual, intellect.

484. haughty, better perhaps without the comma.

488. to, compared with.

491. not, if not.

493. which, on or by which.
 — tend, move.

Addressed his way, not with indented wave,
 Prone on the ground, as since, but on his rear,
 Circular base of rising folds that towered,
 Fold above fold, a surging maze, his head
 Crested aloft, and carbuncle his eyes, 500
 With burnished neck of verdant gold, erect
 Amidst his circling spires, that on the grass
 Floated redundant: pleasing was his shape
 And lovely, never since of serpent kind
 Lovelier; not those that in Illyria changed 505
 Hermionè and Cadmus, or the god
 In Epidaurus; nor to which transformed
 Ammonian Jove, or Capitoline, was seen,
 He with Olympias, this with her who bore
 Scipio, the height of Rome. With tract oblique 510
 At first, as one who sought access but feared
 To interrupt, sidelong he works his way.
 As when a ship by skilful steersman wrought,
 Nigh river's mouth or foreland where the wind
 Veers oft, as oft so steers, and shifts her sail; 515
 So varied he, and of his tortuous train

496. indented, in and out, like the teeth of a saw.

499. surging, rising; rising in waves.

505. those that in Illyria changed, that is, changed into themselves.

506, 7. Hermione. Harmonia (not Hermione.) was the wife of Cadmus, the founder of Thebes. They went to Illyria, a country to the northwest of Greece, where they were said to have been finally changed into serpents. — the god. Æsculapius, the god of medicine, who frequently appeared in the form of a serpent, was worshipped in Epidaurus, in the southeastern part of Greece, where the ruins of his temple are still to be seen. — to which, that to which.

508. Ammonian Jove, or Jupiter Ammon, was worshipped at Ammonium, an oasis in the Libyan desert. — Capitoline, Jupiter Capitolinus, the Jupiter of the Capitol at Rome.

509. He, Ammonian Jove. — with, together with. — Olympias was the mother of Alexander the Great, who, when he visited the temple of Jupiter Ammon, was saluted by the priests as the son of the god. — this, the Capitoline Jove, who was fabled to be the father of Publius Cornelius Scipio surnamed Africanus. He was the conqueror of Hannibal, and one of the greatest men, the height, of Rome.

510. tract oblique, course indirect.

511. access, approach.

514. foreland, jutting cape; headland.

Curled many a wanton wreath in sight of Eve,
 To lure her eye : she busied heard the sound
 Of rustling leaves, but minded not, as used
 To such disport before her through the field 520
 From every beast, more duteous at her call
 Than at Circéan call the herd disguised.
 He bolder now uncalled before her stood,
 But as in gaze admiring : oft he bowed
 His turret crest and sleek enamelled neck, 525
 Fawning, and licked the ground whereon she trod.
 His gentle dumb expression turned at length
 The eye of Eve to mark his play ; he, glad
 Of her attention gained, with serpent tongue
 Organic or impulse of vocal air 530
 His fraudulent temptation thus began :

“ Wonder not, sovran mistress, if perhaps
 Thou canst, who art sole wonder ; much less arm
 • Thy looks, the heaven of mildness, with disdain,
 Displeased that I approach thee thus and gaze 535
 Insatiate, I thus single, nor have feared
 Thy awful brow, more awful thus retired.
 Fairest resemblance of thy Maker fair,
 Thee all things living gaze on, all things thine
 By gift, and thy celestial beauty adore 540
 With ravishment beheld, there best beheld
 Where universally admired : but here
 In this enclosure wild, these beasts among (Beholders rude, and shallow to discern Half what in thee is fair), one man except 545

522. at Circéan call, at the call of Circe. Circe was a sorceress on whose island some of the companions of Ulysses landed. By her arts they were changed into swine, the herd disguised.

525. turret turret-like ; towering.

530. Organic, used as the organ of speech. — or impulse of vocal air, or causing the sounds by impressions on the air.

537. retired, withdrawn ; alone.

542. Where, where it might be

Who sees thee (and what is one ?), who shouldst be seen

A goddess among gods, adored and served
By angels numberless, thy daily train."

So glozed the Tempter, and his poem tuned :
Into the heart of Eve his words made way, 548
Though at the voice much marvelling : at length
Not unamazed she thus in answer spake :

"What may this mean ? language of man pronounced

By tongue of brute, and human sense expressed !
The first at least of these I thought denied 549
To beasts, whom God on their creation-day
Created mute to all articulate sound ;
The latter I demur, for in their looks
Much reason, and in their actions, oft appears.
Thee, serpent, subtlest beast of all the field 550
I knew, but not with human voice endued.
Redouble then this miracle, and say
How cam'st thou speakable of mute, and how
To me so friendly grown above the rest
Of brutal kind that daily are in sight ; 551
Say, for such wonder claims attention due."

To whom the guileful Tempter thus replied :
"Empress of this fair world, resplendent Eve !
Easy to me it is to tell thee all
What thou command'st, and right thou shouldst be obeyed. 552
I was at first, as other beasts that graze

549. glozed, spoke fair and sense has been denied to beasts)
false. — poem, preface ; intro- I doubt.

551. I knew, I knew to be
552. the latter I demur, of the 553. speakeable of mute, able to latter (that is, whether human speak, having been dumb.

The trodden herb, of abject thoughts and low,
 As was my food ; nor aught but food discerned
 Or sex, and apprehended nothing high :
 Till on a day roving the field I chanced 575
 A goodly tree far distant to behold,
 Loaden with fruit of fairest colors mixed,
 Buggy and gold. I nearer drew to gaze ;
 When from the boughs a savory odor blown,
 Grateful to appetite, more pleased my sense 580
 Than smell of sweetest fennel, or the teats
 Of ewe or goat dropping with milk at even,
 Unsucked of lamb or kid that tend their play.
 To satisfy the sharp desire I had
 Of tasting those fair apples I resolved 585
 Not to defer ; hunger and thirst at once,
 Powerful persuaders, quickened at the scent
 Of that alluring fruit, urged me so keen.
 About the mossy trunk I wound me soon,
 For high from ground the branches would require 590
 Thy utmost reach or Adam's : round the tree
 All other beasts that saw, with like desire
 Longing and envying stood, but could not reach.
 Amid the tree now got, where plenty hung
 Tempting so nigh, to pluck and eat my fill 595
 I spared not, for such pleasure till that hour
 At feed or fountain never had I found.
 Sated at length, ere long I might perceive
 Strange alteration in me to degree
 Of reason in my inward powers, and speech 600
 Wanted not long, though to this shape retained.
 Thenceforth to speculations high or deep
 I turned my thoughts, and with capacious mind
 Considered all things visible in heaven,

580. Grateful. See line 197.588. tend, attend to.599. to degree, even to the degree or height.601. though, though I was.

Or earth, or middle, all things fair and good : 605
 But all that fair and good in thy divine
 Semblance and in thy beauty's heavenly ray
 United I beheld ; no fair to thine
 Equivalent or second, which compelled
 Me thus, though importune perhaps, to come 610
 And gaze, and worship thee of right declared
 Sovran of creatures, universal dame."

So talked the spirited sly snake ; and Eve,
 Yet more amazed, unwary thus replied :
 " Serpent, thy overpraising leaves in doubt 615
 The virtue of that fruit, in thee first proved :
 But say, where grows the tree, from hence how far ?
 For many are the trees of God that grow
 In Paradise and various, yet unknown
 To us ; in such abundance lies our choice 620
 As leaves a greater store of fruit untouched,
 Still hanging incorruptible, till men
 Grow up to their provision, and more hands
 Help to disburden Nature of her birth."

To whom the wily adder, blithe and glad : 625
 " Empress, the way is ready and not long ;
 Beyond a row of myrtles, on a flat
 Fast by a fountain, one small thicket past
 Of blowing myrrh and balm : if thou accept
 My conduct, I can bring thee thither soon." 630

" Lead then," said Eve. He leading swiftly rolled
 In tangles, and made intricate seem straight,

605. middle, between heaven and earth.

610. importune, troublesome.

612. dame, or mistress. This word was formerly a title of honor.

618. spirited, possessed by a spirit.

623. their provision, what is provided for them.

628. Fast by. See I. 12.

630. conduct, guidance.

To mischief swift ; hope elevates and joy
 Brightens his crest. As when a wandering fire,
 Compact of unctuous vapor, which the night 635
 Condenses and the cold environs round,
 Kindled through agitation to a flame
 (Which oft, they say, some evil spirit attends)
 Hovering and blazing with delusive light,
 Misleads the amazed night-wanderer from his way 640
 To bogs and mires and oft through pond or pool,
 There swallowed up and lost, from succor far ;
 So glistered the dire snake, and into fraud
 Led Eve, our credulous mother, to the tree
 Of prohibition, root of all our woe ; 645
 Which when she saw, thus to her guide she spake :

“ Serpent, we might have spared our coming hither,
 Fruitless to me, though fruit be here to excess,
 The credit of whose virtue rest with thee ;
 Wondrous indeed, if cause of such effects. 650
 But of this tree we may not taste nor touch ;
 God so commanded, and left that command
 Sole daughter of his voice ; the rest, we live
 Law to ourselves, our reason is our law.”

To whom the Tempter guilefully replied : 655
 “ Indeed ! hath God then said that of the fruit
 Of all these garden trees ye shall not eat,
 Yet lords declared of all in earth or air ? ”

634. a wandering fire, the will of the wisp or ignis fatuus.

635. compact, compacted ;
 formed.

636. environs round, surrounds
 638. attends, tends.

642. swallowed, to be swallowed.

643. fraud, probably hurt or damage, as in Latin.

644. the tree of prohibition, the forbidden tree. See I. 1.

649. Let belief in its virtue rest on thy authority.

650. if cause, if it be the cause.

653. Sole daughter of his voice, his only word. — the rest, with regard to the rest.

654. Law, as law.

656. See Genesis iii. 1.

658. Yet lords declared, although declared to be lords.

To whom thus Eve, yet sinless : " Of the fruit
Of each tree in the garden we may eat ; 660
But of the fruit of this fair tree amidst
The garden, God hath said, ' Ye shall not eat
Thereof, nor shall ye touch it, lest ye die.' "

She scarce had said, though brief, when now more bold
The Tempter, but with show of zeal and love 665
To man and indignation at his wrong,
New part puts on, and as to passion moved
Fluctuates disturbed, yet comely, and in act
Raised, as of some great matter to begin.
As when of old some orator renowned, 670
In Athens or free Rome, where eloquence
Flourished since mute, to some great cause addressed,
Stood in himself collected, while each part,
Motion, each act, won audience ere the tongue ;
Sometimes in height began, as no delay 675
Or preface brooking through his zeal of right :
So standing, moving, or to height up-grown,
The Tempter, all impassioned, thus began :

" O sacred, wise, and wisdom-giving plant,
Mother of science ! now I feel thy power 680
Within me clear, not only to discern
Things in their causes, but to trace the ways
Of highest agents, deemed however wise.
Queen of this universe, do not believe
Those rigid threats of death ; ye shall not die : 685
How should ye ? by the fruit ? it gives you life

669. See Genesis iii. 2, 3.

667. New part puts on, plays or assumes a new part. — as, as if.

668. Fluctuates, moves to and fro. — in act raised as, raised as if in the act or on the point of beginning.

674. audience, readiness to hear.

675. in height, at the height of his subject. — as, as if.

676. of, for.

680. science, knowledge.

683. deemed however wise, however wise they may be deemed.

685. Ye shall not die. See Genesis iii. 4.

As they, participating godlike food ?

The gods are first, and that advantage use
On our belief, that all from them proceeds.

I question it ; for this fair earth I see, 730

Warmed by the sun, producing every kind,
Them nothing : if they all things, who enclosed

Knowledge of good and evil in this tree,
That whoso eats thereof forthwith attains
Wisdom without their leave ? and wherein lies 735

The offence, that Man should thus attain to know ?

What can your knowledge hurt him, or this tree
Impart against his will, if all be his ?

Or is it envy ? and can envy dwell
In heavenly breasts ? These, these, and many more

Causes import your need of this fair fruit. 740

Goddess humane, reach then, and freely taste."

He ended, and his words replete with guile
Into her heart too easy entrance won.

Fixed on the fruit she gazed, which to behold 735

Might tempt alone, and in her ears the sound

Yet rung of his persuasive words, impregn'd

With reason, to her seeming, and with truth.

Meanwhile the hour of noon drew on, and waked 740

An eager appetite, raised by the smell

So savory of that fruit, which with desire,

Inclinable now grown to touch or taste,

718. that advantage use on our belief, take advantage of that (that is, of their being first in order of time) to make us believe.

722. Them nothing, I see them producing nothing. — if they, if they produce.

727. him. See line 700.

731. import, imply.

732. humane, human, from the Latin "humanus."

735. which to behold alone, only the sight of which.

737. impregn'd, impregnated; filled.

738. to her seeming, as it seemed to her.

742. Inclinable, inclined or inclining.

Solicited her longing eye ; yet first
 Pausing awhile thus to herself she mused : 744

“ Great are thy virtues, doubtless, best of fruits,
 Though kept from man, and worthy to be admired,
 Whose taste, too long forborne, at first assay
 Gave elocution to the mute, and taught
 The tongue not made for speech to speak thy praise :
 Thy praise he also who forbids thy use 750
 Conceals not from us, naming thee the Tree
 Of Knowledge, knowledge both of good and evil ;
 Forbids us then to taste, but his forbidding
 Commends thee more, while it infers the good
 By thee communicated, and our want : 755
 For good unknown sure is not had, or had
 And yet unknown is as not had at all.
 In plain then, what forbids he but to know,
 Forbids us good, forbids us to be wise ?
 Such prohibitions bind not. But if death 760
 Bind us with after-bands, what profits then -
 Our inward freedom ? In the day we eat
 Of this fair fruit, our doom is, we shall die.
 How dies the serpent ? he hath eaten and lives,
 And knows, and speaks, and reasons, and discerns,
 Irrational till then. For us alone 766
 Was death invented ? or to us denied
 This intellectual food, for beasts reserved ?
 For beasts it seems : yet that one beast which first
 Hath tasted envies not, but brings with joy 770
 The good befallen him, author unsuspect,
 Friendly to man, far from deceit or guile.

747. assay, trial.

748. elocution, power of speech.

761. naming thee. See Genesis

ii. 17.

755. our want, our need of it.

757. is as, is as if it were.

758. In plain, to speak plainly.

— to know, knowledge.

761. with after-bands, afterwards with his bands.

771. author unsuspect, author ity or voucher above suspicion.

What fear I then ? rather, what know to fear
 Under this ignorance of good and evil, 775
 Of God or death, of law or penalty ?
 Here grows the cure of all, this fruit divine,
 Fair to the eye, inviting to the taste,
 Of virtue to make wise : what hinders then
 To reach, and feed at once both body and mind ? ”

So saying, her rash hand in evil hour 780
 Forth reaching to the fruit, she plucked, she eat :
 Earth felt the wound, and Nature from her seat,
 Sighing through all her works, gave signs of woe
 That all was lost. Back to the thicket slunk
 The guilty serpent, and well might ; for Eve, 785
 Intent now wholly on her taste, nought else
 Regarded ; such delight till then, as seemed,
 In fruit she never tasted, whether true
 Or fancied so through expectation high
 Of knowledge ; nor was godhead from her thought.
 Greedily she ingorged without restraint, 791
 And knew not eating death. Sate at length,
 And heightened as with wine, jocund and boon,
 Thus to herself she pleasingly began :

“ O sovran, virtuous, precious of all trees 786
 In Paradise ! of operation blest
 To sapience, hitherto obscured, infamed,

774. what know, what do I know.

778. Of virtue, able.

781. “ And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat.” Genes. iii. 6.

787. as seemed, as it seemed to her.

788. whether true, whether the delight was real.

790. nor was godhead from her thought, she remembered that the serpent had declared, “ Ye shall be as gods.”

791. ingorged, devoured ; swallowed with eagerness.

792. knew not eating, knew not that she was eating.

793. boon, merry ; gay.

794. pleasingly, complacently.

796. operation, working.

797. To sapience, to produce wisdom.—infamed, slandered.

 810. secret, unseen ; apart.
 811. And I perhaps am secret,
what I have done is perhaps unknown. " Yet they say, the Lord shall not see." Psalm xciv. 7.
 821. wants, is wanting.

And death ensue? then I shall be no more,
 And Adam, wedded to another Eve,
 Shall live with her enjoying, I extinct;
 A death to think! Confirmed then I resolve, 830
 Adam shall share with me in bliss or woe:
 So dear I love him, that with him all deaths
 I could endure, without him live no life."

So saying, from the tree her step she turned,
 But first low reverence done, as to the power 835
 That dwelt within, whose presence had infused
 Into the plant scintial sap, derived
 From nectar, drink of gods. Adam the while,
 Waiting desirous her return, had wove
 Of choicest flowers a garland to adorn 840
 Her tresses, and her rural labors crown,
 As reapers oft are wont their harvest queen.
 Great joy he promised to his thoughts, and new Solace in her return, so long delayed;
 Yet oft his heart, divine of something ill, 845
 Misgave him; he the faltering measure felt,
 And forth to meet her went, the way she took
 That morn when first they parted. By the Tree
 Of Knowledge he must pass, there he her met,
 Scarce from the tree returning; in her hand 850
 A bough of fairest fruit, that downy smiled,
 New gathered, and ambrosial smell diffused.
 To him she hasted; in her face excuse
 Came prologue and apology to prompt, 854
 Which with bland words at will she thus addressed:

830. A death to think, to think of such a thing is itself a kind of death. — Confirmed, determined.

835. reverence done. This is the case absolute.

837. scintial, giving knowledge, causing wisdom.

842. are wont, are wont to do for.

845. divine of, divining; foreboding.

846. the faltering measure felt, felt his heart beat falteringly, with misgiving.

850. Scarce, hardly; just.

854. prologue, preface or introduction. — to prompt. Milton's own editions have to, but most editors prefer too.

855. at will, at her command.

"Hast thou not wondered, Adam, at my stay?
 Thee I have missed, and thought it long, deprived
 Thy presence; agony of love till now
 Not felt, nor shall be twice, for never more
 Mean I to try, what rash untried I sought, 860
 The pain of absence from thy sight. But strange
 Hath been the cause, and wonderful to hear.
 This tree is not, as we are told, a tree
 Of danger tasted, nor to evil unknown
 Opening the way, but of divine effect 865
 To open eyes, and make them gods who taste;
 And hath been tasted such. The serpent wise,
 Or not restrained as we, or not obeying,
 Hath eaten of the fruit, and is become,
 Not dead, as we are threatened, but henceforth 870
 Endued with human voice and human sense,
 Reasoning to admiration, and with me
 Persuasively hath so prevailed, that I
 Have also tasted, and have also found
 The effects to correspond; opener mine eyes 875
 Dim erst, dilated spirits, ampler heart,
 And growing up to godhead; which for thee
 Chiefly I sought, without thee can despise:
 For bliss, as thou hast part, to me is bliss;
 Tedious, unshared with thee, and odious soon. 880
 Thou therefore also taste, that equal lot
 May join us, equal joy, as equal love;
 Lest, thou not tasting, different degree
 Disjoin us, and I then too late renounce
 Deity for thee, when fate will not permit." 885

Thus Eve with countenance blithe her story told;

867. deprived, deprived of; merly dim. — dilated spirits, dilated are my spirits. — ampler without.

864. tasted, when tasted.

867. such, and found such.

868. Or, either.

876. Dim erst, which were for-heart, enlarged my heart.

879. as thou hast part, just so far as thou sharest.

But in her cheek distemper flushing glowed.
 On the other side, Adam, soon as he heard
 The fatal trespass done by Eve, amazed,
 Astonied stood and blank, while horror chill 890
 Ran through his veins, and all his joints relaxed;
 From his slack hand the garland wreathed for Eve
 Down dropped, and all the faded roses shed:
 Speechless he stood and pale, till thus at length
 First to himself he inward silence broke: 905

“O fairest of creation, last and best
 Of all God’s works, creature in whom excelled
 Whatever can to sight or thought be formed
 Holy, divine, good, amiable, or sweet!
 How art thou lost, how on a sudden lost, 900
 Defaced, deflowered, and now to death devote!
 Rather, how hast thou yielded to transgress
 The strict forbiddance, how to violate
 The sacred fruit forbidden! Some cursèd fraud
 Of enemy hath beguiled thee, yet unknown, 905
 And me with thee hath ruined, for with thee,
 Certain my resolution is to die.
 How can I live without thee! how forego
 Thy sweet converse, and love so dearly joined,
 To live again in these wild woods forlorn! 910
 Should God create another Eve, and I
 Another rib afford, yet loss of thee
 Would never from my heart: no, no! I feel
 The link of nature draw me; flesh of flesh,
 Bone of my bone thou art, and from thy state 915
 Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.”

So having said, as one from sad dismay

887. distemper, disturbance.

890. astonied, astonished.

Recomforted, and after thoughts disturbed
Submitting to what seemed remediless,
Thus in calm mood his words to Eve he turned : 920

“ Bold deed thou hast presumed, adventurous Eve,
And peril great provoked, who thus hath dared,
Had it been only coveting, to eye
That sacred fruit, sacred to abstinence,
Much more to taste it under ban to touch. 925
But past who can recall, or done undo ?
Not God omnipotent, nor Fate ; yet so
Perhaps thou shalt not die, perhaps the fact
Is not so heinous now, foretasted fruit,
Profaned first by the serpent, by him first 930
Made common and unhallowed ere our taste,
Nor yet on him found deadly ; he yet lives,
Lives, as thou said'st, and gains to live as man,
Higher degree of life ; inducement strong
To us, as likely tasting to attain 935
Proportional ascent, which cannot be
But to be gods, or angels demi-gods.
Nor can I think that God, Creator wise,
Though threatening, will in earnest so destroy
Us his prime creatures, dignified so high, 940
Set over all his works, which in our fall,
For us created, needs with us must fail,
Dependent made ; so God shall uncreate,
Be frustrate, do, undo, and labor lose ;
Not well conceived of God, who, though his power
Creation could repeat, yet would be loath 945

919. remediless, without remedy.

923. coveting, with desire to taste.

925. Much more, much more hast dared. — under ban, forbidden

929. foretasted fruit, the fruit having been first tasted.

931. ere our taste, before we tasted.

935. tasting, if we taste.

937. angels, if angels.

940. prime, first in importance.

944. frustrate, frustrated.

Us to abolish, lest the Adversary
 Triumph and say, 'Fickle their state whom God
 Most favors; who can please him long? Me first
 He ruined, now mankind; whom will he next?' 960
 Matter of scorn, not to be given the foe.
 However, I with thee have fixed my lot,
 Certain to undergo like doom; if death
 Consort with thee, death is to me as life;
 So forcible within my heart I feel 965
 The bond of nature draw me to my own;
 My own in thee, for what thou art is mine:
 Our state cannot be severed, we are one,
 One flesh; to lose thee were to lose myself."

So Adam, and thus Eve to him replied: 960
 "O glorious trial of exceeding love,
 Illustrious evidence, example high,
 Engaging me to emulate! but, short
 Of thy perfection, how shall I attain,
 Adam? from whose dear side I boast me sprung, 965
 And gladly of our union hear thee speak,
 One heart, one soul in both; whereof good proof
 This day affords, declaring thee resolved,
 Rather than death or aught than death more dread
 Shall separate us linked in love so dear, 970
 To undergo with me one guilt, one crime,
 If any be, of tasting this fair fruit,
 Whose virtue (for of good still good proceeds Direct, or by occasion) hath presented
 This happy trial of thy love, which else 975
 So eminently never had been known.
 Were it I thought death menaced would ensue
 This my attempt, I would sustain alone
 The worst and not persuade thee, rather die

Deserted than oblige thee with a fact 980
 Pernicious to thy peace, chiefly assured
 Remarkably so late of thy so true
 So faithful love unequalled; but I feel
 Far otherwise the event, not death, but life
 Augmented, opened eyes, new hopes, new joys, 985
 Taste so divine, that what of sweet before
 Hath touched my sense flat seems to this, and harsh.
 On my experience, Adam, freely taste,
 And fear of death deliver to the winds."

So saying, she embraced him, and for joy 990
 Tenderly wept, much won that he his love
 Had so ennobled, as of choice to incur
 Divine displeasure for her sake, or death.
 In recompense (for such compliance bad
 Such recompense best merits), from the bough 995
 She gave him of that fair enticing fruit
 With liberal hand: he scrupled not to eat,
 Against his better knowledge, not deceived,
 But fondly overcome with female charm.
 Earth trembled from her entrails, as again 1000
 In pangs, and Nature gave a second groan;
 Sky loured, and, muttering thunder, some sad drops
 Wept at completing of the mortal sin

 Eating his fill, nor Eve to iterate 1005
 Her former trespass feared, the more to soothe
 Him with her loved society; that now,

As with new wine intoxicated both,
 They swim in mirth, and fancy that they feel
 Divinity within them breeding wings 1210
 Wherewith to scorn the earth : but that false fruit
 Far other operation first displayed,
 Carnal desire inflaming ; he on Eve
 Began to cast lascivious eyes ; she him
 As wantonly repaid ; in lust they burn, 1215
 Till Adam thus gan Eve to dalliance move ;

“ Eve, now I see thou art exact of taste
 And elegant, of sapience no small part,
 Since to each meaning savor we apply, 1220
 And palate call judicious ; I the praise
 Yield thee, so well this day thou hast purveyed.
 Much pleasure we have lost, while we abstained
 From this delightful fruit, nor known till now
 True relish, tasting ; if such pleasure be 1225
 In things to us forbidden, it might be wished
 For this one tree had been forbidden ten.
 But come, so well refreshed, now let us play,
 As meet is after such delicious fare ;
 For never did thy beauty, since the day
 I saw thee first and wedded thee, adorned 1230
 With all perfections, so inflame my sense
 With ardor to enjoy thee, fairer now
 Than ever, bounty of this virtuous tree.”

So said he, and forbore not glance or toy
 Of amorous intent, well understood 1235
 Of Eve, whose eye darted contagious fire.

Her hand he seized, and to a shady bank,
 Thick over head with verdant roof imbowered,
 He led her nothing loath ; flowers were the couch,
 Pansies and violets and asphodel 1040
 And hyacinth, earth's freshest softest lap.
 There they their fill of love and love's disport
 Took largely, of their mutual guilt the seal,
 The solace of their sin, till dewy sleep
 Oppressed them, wearied with their amorous play.
 Soon as the force of that fallacious fruit, 1046
 That with exhilarating vapor bland
 About their spirits had played and inmost powers
 Made err, was now exhaled, and grosser sleep,
 Bred of unkindly fumes, with conscious dreams 1050
 Encumbered, now had left them ; up they rose
 As from unrest, and, each the other viewing,
 Soon found their eyes how opened, and their minds
 How darkened : innocence, that as a veil
 Had shadowed them from knowing ill, was gone,
 Just confidence and native righteousness 1056
 And honor, from about them, naked left
 To guilty Shame ; he covered, but his robe
 Uncovered more. So rose the Danite strong,
 Herculean Samson, from the harlot-lap 1060
 Of Philistéan Dalilah, and waked
 Shorn of his strength ; they destitute and bare
 Of all their virtue : silent, and in face
 Confounded, long they sat, as stricken mute,
 Dec. 11 Adam, though not less than Eve abashed, 1066
 At length gave utterance to these words constrained :

To that false worm, of whomsoever taught
 To counterfeit man's voice, true in our fall,
 False in our promised rising; since our eyes 1070
 Opened we find indeed, and find we know
 Both good and evil, good lost, and evil got;
 Bad fruit of knowledge, if this be to know,
 Which leaves us naked thus, of honor void,
 Of innocence, of faith, of purity, 1075
 Our wonted ornaments now soiled and stained,
 And in our faces evident the signs
 Of foul concupiscence; whence evil store,
 Even shame, the last of evils; of the first
 Be sure then. How shall I behold the face 1080
 Henceforth of God or angel, erst with joy
 And rapture so oft beheld? those heavenly shapes
 Will dazzle now this earthly with their blaze
 Insufferably bright. O might I here
 In solitude live savage, in some glade 1085
 Obscured, where highest woods, impenetrable
 To star or sun light, spread their umbrage broad
 And brown as evening! Cover me, ye pines,
 Ye cedars, with innumerable boughs
 Hide me, where I may never see them more! 1090
 But let us now, as in bad plight, devise
 What best may for the present serve to hide
 The parts of each from other, that seem most
 To shame obnoxious, and unseemliest seen;
 Some tree, whose broad smooth leaves, together sewed
 And girded on our loins, may cover round 1095
 Those middle parts, that this new comer, Shame,
 There sit not, and reproach us as unclean."

So counselled he, and both together went

 And full of peace, now tossed and turbulent ;
 For understanding ruled not and the will
 Heard not her lore, both in subjection now
 To sensual appetite, who from beneath,
 Usurping over sovran reason, claimed 1130
 Superior sway : from thus distempered breast,
 Adam, estranged in look and altered style,
 Speech intermitted thus to Eve renewed :

“ Would thou hadst hearkened to my words, and staid
 With me, as I besought thee, when that strange
 Desire of wandering this unhappy morn, 1135
 I know not whence, possessed thee ; we had then
 Remained still happy, not as now despoiled
 Of all our good, shamed, naked, miserable.
 Let none henceforth seek needless cause to approve
 The faith they owe ; when earnestly they seek 1140
 Such proof, conclude they then begin to fail.”

To whom, soon moved with touch of blame, thus Eve :

“ What words have passed thy lips, Adam severe !
 Imput’st thou that to my default, or will 1145
 Of wandering as thou call’st it, which who knows
 But might as ill have happened thou being by,
 Or to thyself perhaps ? Hadst thou been there,

Fraud in the serpent, speaking as he spake ; 1150
 No ground of enmity between us known
 Why he should mean me ill, or seek to harm.
 Was I to have never parted from thy side ?
 As good have grown there still a lifeless rib !
 Being as I am, why didst not thou, the head, 1155
 Command me absolutely not to go,
 Going into such danger as thou saidst ?
 Too facile then, thou didst not much gainsay,
 Nay, didst permit, approve, and fair dismiss.
 Hadst thou been firm and fixed in thy dissent, 1160
 Neither had I transgressed, nor thou with me."

To whom then first incensed Adam replied :
 " Is this the love, is this the recompense
 Of mine to thee, ingrateful Eve, expressed
 Immutable when thou wert lost, not I, 1165
 Who might have lived and joyed immortal bliss,
 Yet willingly chose rather death with thee ?
 And am I now upbraided as the cause
 Of thy transgressing ? not enough severe,
 It seems, in thy restraint ; what could I more ? 1170
 I warned thee, I admonished thee, foretold
 The danger, and the lurking enemy
 That lay in wait ; beyond this had been force,
 And force upon free will hath here no place.
 But confidence then bore thee on, secure 1175

Thus they in mutual accusation spent

BOOK X.

THE ARGUMENT.

Man's transgression known, the guardian angels forsake Paradise and return up to Heaven to approve their vigilance, and are approved ; God declaring that the entrance of Satan could not be by them prevented. He sends his Son to judge the transgressors, who descends and gives sentence accordingly ; then in pity clothes them both, and reascends. Sin and Death, sitting till then at the gates of Hell, by wondrous sympathy feeling the success of Satan in this new world and the sin by man there committed, resolve to sit no longer confined in Hell, but to follow Satan their sire up to the place of man. To make the way easier from Hell to this world to and fro, they pave a broad highway or bridge over Chaos, according to the track that Satan first made ; then preparing for Earth, they meet him, proud of his success, returning to Hell ; their mutual gratulation. Satan arrives at Pandemonium ; in full assembly relates, with boasting, his success against man ; instead of applause is entertained with a general hiss by all his audience, transformed with himself also suddenly into serpents, according to his doom given in Paradise : then, deluded with a show of the forbidden tree springing up before them, they, greedily reaching to take of the fruit, chew dust and bitter ashes. The proceedings of Sin and Death. God foretells the final victory of his Son over them, and the renewing of all things ; but for the present commands his angels to make several alterations in the heavens and elements. Adam, more and more perceiving his fallen condition, heavily bewails ; rejects the condolment of Eve ; she persists, and at length appeases him : then, to evade the curse likely to fall on their offspring, proposes to Adam violent ways which he approves not, but conceiving better hope, puts her in mind of the late promise made them, that her seed should be revenged on the Serpent, and exhorts her, with him, to seek peace with the offended Deity by repentance and supplication.

MEANWHILE the heinous and spiteful act
Of Satan done in Paradise, and how

He in the serpent had perverted Eve,
 Her husband she, to taste the fatal fruit,
 Was known in Heaven ; for what can scape the eye
 Of God all-seeing, or deceive his heart
 Omniscient ? who, in all things wise and just,
 Hindered not Satan to attempt the mind
 Of man, with strength entire and free-will armed
 Complete to have discovered and repulsed 10
 Whatever wiles of foe or seeming friend.
 For still they knew, and ought to have still remembered,
 The high injunction not to taste that fruit,
 Whoever tempted ; which they not obeying
 Incurred (what could they less ?) the penalty, 15
 And, manifold in sin, deserved to fall.

Up into Heaven from Paradise in haste
 The angelic guards ascended, mute and sad
 For man ; for of his state by this they knew,
 Much wondering how the subtle Fiend had stolen 20
 Entrance unseen. Soon as the unwelcome news
 From Earth arrived at Heaven-gate, displeased
 All were who heard ; dim sadness did not spare
 That time celestial visages, yet mixed
 With pity violated not their bliss. 25
 About the new-arrived in multitudes
 The ethereal people ran, to hear and know
 How all befell : they towards the throne supreme,
 Accountable, made haste to make appear
 With righteous plea their utmost vigilance, 30
 And easily approved ; when the Most High

Eternal Father from his secret cloud
Amidst in thunder uttered thus his voice :

“ Assembled Angels, and ye Powers returned
From unsuccessful charge, be not dismayed 35
Nor troubled at these tidings from the earth,
Which your sincerest care could not prevent ;
Foretold so lately what would come to pass
When first this tempter crossed the gulf from Hell.
I told ye then he should prevail and speed 40
On his bad errand ; man should be seduced
And flattered out of all, believing lies
Against his Maker, no decree of mine
Concurring to necessitate his fall,
Or touch with lightest moment of impulse 45
His free-will, to her own inclining left
In even scale. But fallen he is ; and now
What rests, but that the mortal sentence pass
On his transgression, death denounced that day ?
Which he presumes already vain and void, 50
Because not yet inflicted, as he feared,
By some immediate stroke ; but soon shall find
Forbearance no acquittance ere day end :
Justice shall not return as bounty scorned.
But whom send I to judge them ? whom but thee, 55
Vicegerent Son ? to thee I have transferred
All judgment, whether in Heaven, or Earth, or Hell.

37. sincerest, most faithful.

38. Foretold, having been told before. See III. 77-187.

57. All judgment. “ For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son.” John v. 22.

Easy it may be seen that I intend
 Mercy colleague with justice, sending thee
 Man's friend, his mediator, his designed 60
 Both ransom and redeemer voluntary,
 And destined man himself to judge man fallen."

So spake the Father, and unfolding bright
 Toward the right hand his glory on the Son
 Blazed forth unclouded deity; he full 65
 Resplendent all his Father manifest
 Expressed, and thus divinely answered mild:

"Father Eternal, thine is to decree;
 Mine both in Heaven and Earth to do thy will Supreme, that thou in me thy Son beloved 70
 May'st ever rest well pleased. I go to judge
 On earth these thy transgressors; but thou know'st,
 Whoever judged, the worst on me must light
 When time shall be, for so I undertook
 Before thee, and not repenting this obtain 75
 Of right, that I may mitigate their doom
 On me derived; yet I shall temper so
 Justice with mercy, as may illustrate most
 Them fully satisfied, and thee appease.
 Attendance none shall need nor train, where none 80

 Those two; the third best absent is condemned,

80. Attendance none shall need, no attendance shall be necessary.

82. best absent is condemned, best condemned when absent.

Convict by flight, and rebel to all law ;
Conviction to the serpent none belongs."

Thus saying, from his radiant seat he rose 85
Of high collateral glory ; him Thrones and Powers,
Princedoms and Dominations ministrant
Accompanied to Heaven-gate, from whence
Eden and all the coast in prospect lay.
Down he descended straight ; the speed of gods 90
Time counts not, though with swiftest minutes winged.
Now was the sun in western cadence low
From noon, and gentle airs, due at their hour,
To fan the earth now waked, and usher in
The evening cool, when he from wrath more cool 95
Came, the mild judge and intercessor both,
To sentence man. The voice of God they heard
Now walking in the garden, by soft winds
Brought to their ears while day declined ; they heard,
And from his presence hid themselves among 100
The thickest trees, both man and wife, till God
Approaching thus to Adam called aloud :

"Where art thou, Adam, wont with joy to meet
My coming seen far off ? I miss thee here,
Not pleased thus entertained with solitude, 105
Where obvious duty erewhile appeared unsought.
Or come I less conspicuous, or what change
Absents thee or what chance detains ? Come forth."

88. Convict, proved guilty.

84. No conviction, no proof of guilt, is needed for the serpent.

86. collateral glory, the glory that he had with, or by the side of, the Father.

91. counts not, cannot count.

92. cadence, falling or sinking.

98. due at their hour. See V. 208.

94. usher, to usher.

99. while day declined. "And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day." Genesis iii. 8.

102. See Genesis iii. 9.

105. Not pleased, displeased.

106. obvious, offering itself ; coming forward. — unsought, without being sought after.

He came, and with him Eve, more loath, though first
 To offend, discountenanced both and discomposed.
 Love was not in their looks either to God 111
 Or to each other, but apparent guilt,
 And shame and perturbation and despair,
 Anger and obstinacy and hate and guile ;
 Whence Adam, faltering long, thus answered brief :

“ I heard thee in the garden, and of thy voice 112 Afraid, being naked, hid myself.” To whom
 The gracious Judge without revile replied :
 “ My voice thou oft hast heard, and hast not feared,
 But still rejoiced ; how is it now become 113
 So dreadful to thee ? that thou art naked who Hath told thee ? hast thou eaten of the tree
 Whereof I gave thee charge thou shouldst not eat ?”

To whom thus Adam sore beset replied :
 “ O Heaven ! in evil strait this day I stand 114
 Before my Judge, either to undergo Myself the total crime, or to accuse
 My other self, the partner of my life ;
 Whose failing, while her faith to me remains,
 I should conceal, and not expose to blame 115
 By my complaint ; but strict necessity
 Subdues me, and calamitous constraint,
 Lest on my head both sin and punishment,
 However insupportable, be all
 Devolved ; though should I hold my peace, yet thou
 Wouldst easily detect what I conceal. 116
 This woman, whom thou mad'st to be my help
 And gav'st me as thy perfect gift, so good,

112. apparent, manifest ; made clear.

117. Afraid. See Genesis iii.
 10.

118. revile, reproach.

125. strait, necessity.

127. crime, guilt and its punishment.

So fit, so acceptable, so divine,
 That from her hand I could suspect no ill, 140
 And what she did, whatever in itself,
 Her doing seemed to justify the deed, —
 She gave me of the tree, and I did eat."

To whom the sovran Presence thus replied :
 " Was she thy God, that her thou didst obey 145
 Before his voice ? or was she made thy guide,
 Superior, or but equal, that to her
 Thou didst resign thy manhood, and the place
 Wherein God set thee above her made of thee
 And for thee, whose perfection far excelled 150
 Hers in all real dignity ? Adorned
 She was indeed, and lovely to attract
 Thy love, not thy subjection ; and her gifts
 Were such as under government well seemed,
 Unseemly to bear rule, which was thy part 155
 And person, hadst thou known thyself aright."

So having said, he thus to Eve in few :
 " Say, woman, what is this which thou hast done ? "

To whom sad Eve, with shame nigh overwhelmed,
 Confessing soon, yet not before her Judge 160
 Bold or loquacious, thus abashed replied :
 " The serpent me beguiled, and I did eat."

Which when the Lord God heard, without delay
 To judgment he proceeded on the accused

141. whatever in itself, whatever it might be in itself, in its own character.

143. She gave. " And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat." Genesis iii. 12.

Serpent, though brute, unable to transfer 166
 The guilt on him who made him instrument
 Of mischief, and polluted from the end
 Of his creation; justly then accursed,
 As vitiated in nature. More to know
 Concerned not man (since he no further knew) 170
 Nor altered his offence: yet God at last
 To Satan, first in sin, his doom applied,
 Though in mysterious terms, judged as then best,
 And on the serpent thus his curse let fall:
 "Because thou hast done this, thou art accursed 175
 Above all cattle, each beast of the field;
 Upon thy belly grovelling thou shalt go,
 And dust shalt eat all the days of thy life.
 Between thee and the woman I will put Enmity, and between thine and her seed; 180
 Her seed shall bruise thy head, thou bruise his heel."

So spake this oracle, then verified
 When Jesus, son of Mary, second Eve,
 Saw Satan fall like lightning down from heaven,
 Prince of the air; then rising from his grave 185
 Spoiled principalities and powers, triumphed
 In open show, and with ascension bright
 Captivity led captive through the air,
 The realm itself of Satan long usurped,
 Whom he shall tread at last under our feet; 190
 Even he who now foretold his fatal bruise,
 And to the woman thus his sentence turned:
 "Thy sorrow I will greatly multiply
 By thy conception; children thou shalt bring

167. end, purpose, object.169. More to know, that is. that Satan was the real tempter.171. at last, finally.173. judged as then best, considered to be best at that time.

184. Saw Satan fall. "And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven." Luke x. 18.188. Captivity led captive. See Ephesians iv. 8.

192. See Genesis iii. 16.

In sorrow forth, and to thy husband's will 196
Thine shall submit; he over thee shall rule."

On Adam last thus judgment he pronounced :
"Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife,

And eaten of the tree concerning which 199
I charged thee, saying, 'Thou shalt not eat thereof,'
Cursed is the ground for thy sake; thou in sorrow
Shalt eat thereof all the days of thy life;
Thorns also and thistles it shall bring thee forth
Unbid; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field;
In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, 205
Till thou return unto the ground; for thou
Out of the ground wast taken: know thy birth,
For dust thou art, and shalt to dust return."

So judged he Man, both Judge and Saviour sent,
And the instant stroke of death denounced that day
Removed far off; then, pitying how they stood 211
Before him naked to the air that now
Must suffer change, disdained not to begin
Thenceforth the form of servant to assume;
As when he washed his servants' feet, so now, 215
As father of his family, he clad
Their nakedness with skins of beasts, or slain,
Or as the snake with youthful coat repaid;
And thought not much to clothe his enemies :
Nor he their outward only with the skins 220

197. On Adam last. See Genesis iii. 17-19.

210. instant, immediate. — denounced is a participle.

217. or, whether.

218. Or anew provided, like the snake, with youthful coat.

219. not much, it not too much. 220-224. And he not only covered from his Father's sight their outward nakedness with the skins of beasts, but he also covered their inward nakedness, which was much more shameful, arraying it with his robe of righteousness. See Isaiah lxi. 10.

Of beasts, but inward nakedness much more
 Opprobrious with his robe of righteousness
 Arraying, covered from his Father's sight.
 To him with swift ascent he up returned,
 Into his blissful bosom reassumed 235
 In glory as of old ; to him appeased
 All, though all-knowing, what had passed with man
 Recounted, mixing intercession sweet.

Meanwhile, ere thus was sinned and judged on earth,
 Within the gates of Hell sat Sin and Death 240
 In counterview, within the gates that now
 Stood open wide, belching outrageous flame
 Far into Chaos, since the Fiend passed through,
 Sin opening, who thus now to Death began :

“ O son, why sit we here each other viewing 245
 Idly, while Satan, our great author, thrives
 In other worlds and happier seat provides
 For us his offspring dear ? It cannot be
 But that success attends him ; if mishap,
 Ere this he had returned with fury driven 250
 By his avengers, since no place like this
 Can fit his punishment or their revenge.
 Methinks I feel new strength within me rise,
 Wings growing, and dominion given me large
 Beyond this deep ; whatever draws me on, 255
 Or sympathy, or some connatural force,
 Powerful at greatest distance to unite
 With secret amity things of like kind

228. as of old. See John xvii. 5.

229. was sinned and judged. These verbs are impersonal, the meaning being, ere thus there were on earth sin and judgment.

231. In counterview, opposite to each other ; face to face.

234. Sin opening. See II. 871-883.

240. had, would have.

246. Or, whether. — connatural, of a common nature.

By secretest conveyance. Thou, my shade
 Inseparable, must with me along ; 250
 For Death from Sin no power can separate.
 But lest the difficulty of passing back
 Stay his return perhaps over this gulf
 Impassable, impervious, let us try
 Adventurous work, yet to thy power and mine 255
 Not unagreeable, to found a path
 Over this main from Hell to that new world
 Where Satan now prevails, a monument
 Of merit high to all the infernal host,
 Easing their passage hence for intercourse 260
 Or transmigration, as their lot shall lead.
 Nor can I miss the way, so strongly drawn
 By this new-felt attraction and instinct."

Whom thus the meagre Shadow answered soon :
 " Go whither fate and inclination strong 265
 Leads thee ; I shall not lag behind, nor err
 The way, thou leading, such a scent I draw
 Of carnage, prey innumerable, and taste
 The savor of death from all things there that live :
 Nor shall I to the work thou enterprisest 270
 Be wanting, but afford thee equal aid."

So saying, with delight he snuffed the smell
 Of mortal change on earth. As when a flock
 Of ravenous fowl, though many a league remote,
 Against the day of battle to a field 275
 Where armies lie encamped come flying, lured
 With scent of living carcasses designed

250. must, must go.

254. impervious, without way through.

266. err, mistake.

270. enterprisest, undertakest.

For death the following day in bloody fight:
 So scented the grim feature, and upturned
 His nostril wide into the murky air, 290
 Sagacious of his quarry from so far.
 Then both from out Hell-gates into the waste
 Wide anarchy of Chaos damp and dark
 Flew diverse, and with power (their power was great)
 Hovering upon the waters, what they met 295
 Solid or slimy, as in raging sea
 Tost up and down, together crowded drove
 From each side shoaling towards the mouth of Hell;
 As when two polar winds, blowing adverse
 Upon the Cronian sea, together drive 300
 Mountains of ice, that stop the imagined way
 Beyond Petsora eastward to the rich
 Cathaian coast. The aggregated soil
 Death with his mace petrific, cold and dry,
 As with a trident, smote, and fixed as firm 305
 As Delos floating once; the rest his look
 Bound with Gorgonian rigor not to move,
 And with asphaltic slime: broad as the gate,
 Deep to the roots of Hell the gathered beach

292. Petsora, Petchora, a river and gulf in the northeastern part of Russia.

298. Cathaian, belonging to

Cathay, which was a name given to the rich countries in the east or southeast of Asia. The coast of China is probably here meant. — the aggregated soil, the soil thus together crowded.

294. petrific, turning to stone. — cold and dry seem to agree with soil. He made the soil cold and dry by smiting it.

296. As Delos. Delos was one of the group of islands called Cyclades, in the Ægean Sea, which is fabled to have floated from place to place till Zeus (Jupiter) fastened it with chains of adamant to the bottom of the sea. — the rest, all that had not been thus fixed.

297. Gorgonian. See II. 611. — rigor, stiffness.

They fastened, and the mole immense wrought on
 Over the foaming deep high-arched, a bridge 301
 Of length prodigious, joining to the wall
 Immovable of this now fenceless world
 Forfeit to death; from hence a passage broad,
 Smooth, easy, inoffensive, down to Hell. 305
 So, if great things to small may be compared, ✕
 Xerxes, the liberty of Greece to yoke,
 From Susa his Memnonian palace high
 Came to the sea, and over Hellespont
 Bridging his way Europe with Asia joined, 310
 And scourged with many a stroke the indignant waves.

Now had they brought the work by wondrous art
 Pontifical, a ridge of pendent rock,
 Over the vexed abyss, following the track
 Of Satan to the selfsame place where he 315
 First lighted from his wing and landed safe
 From out of Chaos, to the outside bare
 Of this round World: with pins of adamant
 And chains they made all fast, too fast they made
 And durable; and now in little space 320
 The confines met of empyréan Heaven
 And of this World, and on the left hand Hell

300. mole, massive work or mound formed in the sea. — wrought on, continued.

305. inoffensive, unobstructed. See VIII. 164.

307-311. In the year 480 before Christ, Xerxes, king of Persia, after long preparation, set forth to conquer Greece. His winter residence or palace was Susa, then called by the Greeks "Memnoneion."

He is said to have built a bridge of boats over the Hellespont, the strait which separates Asia from Europe. When this bridge was destroyed by a storm, he commanded a hundred lashes to be given to the waves.

With long reach interposed ; three several ways
 In sight to each of these three places led.
 And now their way to Earth they had descried, 325
 To Paradise first tending, when behold
 Satan, in likeness of an angel bright,
 Betwixt the Centaur and the Scorpion steering
 His zenith, while the sun in Aries rose :
 Disguised he came, but those his children dear 330
 Their parent soon discerned, though in disguise.
 He, after Eve seduced, unminded slunk
 Into the wood fast by, and, changing shape
 To observe the sequel, saw his guileful act
 By Eve, though all unweeting, seconded 335
 Upon her husband, saw their shame that sought
 Vain covertures ; but when he saw descend
 The Son of God to judge them, terrified
 He fled, not hoping to escape, but shun 340
 The present ; fearing, guilty, what his wrath
 Might suddenly inflict : that past, returned
 By night, and listening where the hapless pair
 Sat in their sad discourse and various plaint,
 Thence gathered his own doom, which understood
 Not instant but of future time, with joy 345
 And tidings fraught to Hell he now returned,
 And at the brink of Chaos, near the foot
 Of this new wondrous pontifice, unhopd

Retiring by his own doom alienated,
 And henceforth monarchy with thee divide
 Of all things parted by the empyreal bounds, 389

 Or try thee now more dangerous to his throne."

Whom thus the prince of darkness answered glad :
 " Fair daughter, and thou son and grandchild both,
 High proof ye now have given to be the race 393
 Of Satan (for I glory in the name, Antagonist of Heaven's almighty king),
 Amply have merited of me, of all
 The infernal empire, that so near Heaven's door
 Triumphal with triumphal act have met, 399
 Mine with this glorious work, and made one realm
 Hell and this world, one realm, one continent
 Of easy thoroughfare. Therefore while I
 Descend through darkness on your road with ease
 To my associate powers, them to acquaint 405
 With these successes and with them rejoice,
 You two this way, among these numerous orbs
 All yours, right down to Paradise descend ;
 There dwell and reign in bliss, thence on the earth
 Dominion exercise and in the air, 410
 Chiefly on man, sole lord of all declared ;
 Him first make sure your thrall, and lastly kill.
 My substitutes I send ye, and create Plenipotent on earth, of matchless might
 Issuing from me : on your joint vigor now 415

404. Plenipotent, of full power.

My hold of this new kingdom all depends,
 Through sin to death exposed by my exploit.
 If your joint power prevail, the affairs of Hell
 No detriment need fear ; go, and be strong."

So saying, he dismissed them ; they with speed 410
 Their course through thickest constellations held,
 Spreading their bane ; the blasted stars looked wan,
 And planets, planet-struck, real eclipse
 Then suffered. The other way Satan went down
 The causey to Hell-gate ; on either side 415
 Disparted Chaos overbuilt exclaimed,
 And with rebounding surge the bars assailed
 That scorned his indignation : through the gate,
 Wide open and unguarded, Satan passed,
 And all about found desolate ; for those 420
 Appointed to sit there had left their charge,
 Flown to the upper world ; the rest were all
 Far to the inland retired, about the walls
 Of Pandemonium, city and proud seat
 Of Lucifer, so by allusion called 425
 Of that bright star to Satan paragoned.
 There kept their watch the legions, while the grand
 In council sat, solicitous what chance
 Might intercept their emperor sent ; so he

By Astracan over the snowy plains
 Retires, or Bactrian Sophi from the horn
 Of Turkish crescent leaves all waste beyond
 The realm of Aladule in his retreat 436
 To Tauris or Casbeen; so these, the late
 Heaven-banished host, left desert utmost Hell
 Many a dark league, reduced in careful watch
 Round their metropolis, and now expecting
 Each hour their great adventurer from the search 440
 Of foreign worlds. He through the midst unmarked,
 In show plebeian angel militant
 Of lowest order, passed; and from the door
 Of that Plutonian hall invisible
 Ascended his high throne, which under state 446
 Of richest texture spread at the upper end
 Was placed in regal lustre. Down awhile
 He sat, and round about him saw unseen:
 At last, as from a cloud, his fulgent head
 And shape star-bright appeared, or brighter, clad 450
 With what permissive glory since his fall
 Was left him, or false glitter. All amazed
 At that so sudden blaze the Stygian throng
 Bent their aspect, and whom they wished beheld,

Their mighty chief returned : loud was the acclaim.
 Forth rushed in haste the great consulting peers, 456
 Raised from their dark divan, and with like joy
 Congratulant approached him, who with hand
 Silence, and with these words attention, won :

“ Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues,
 Powers ! 460

For in possession such, not only of right,
 I call ye and declare ye now, returned
 Successful beyond hope to lead ye forth
 Triumphant out of this infernal pit
 Abominable, accursed, the house of woe, 465
 And dungeon of our tyrant : now possess
 As lords a spacious world, to our native Heaven
 Little inferior, by my adventure hard
 With peril great achieved. Long were to tell
 What I have done, what suffered, with what pain 470
 Voyaged the unreal, vast, unbounded deep
 Of horrible confusion, over which
 By Sin and Death a broad way now is paved
 To expedite your glorious march ; but I
 Toiled out my uncouth passage, forced to ride 475
 The untractable abyss, plunged in the womb
 Of unoriginal Night and Chaos wild,
 That jealous of their secrets fiercely opposed
 My journey strange, with clamorous uproar
 Protesting Fate supreme ; thence how I found 480
 The new-created world, which fame in Heaven
 Long had foretold, a fabric wonderful,
 Of absolute perfection ! therein man

480. Protesting, calling to witness against my attempt.

Placed in a paradise, by our exile
 Made happy. Him by fraud I have seduced 485
 From his Creator, and, the more to increase
 Your wonder, with an apple! He thereat
 Offended (worth your laughter!) hath given up
 Both his beloved man and all his world
 To Sin and Death a prey, and so to us, 490
 Without our hazard, labor, or alarm,
 To range in and to dwell, and over man
 To rule, as over all he should have ruled.
 True is, me also he hath judged, or rather
 Me not, but the brute serpent in whose shape 495
 Man I deceived: that which to me belongs
 Is enmity, which he will put between
 Me and mankind; I am to bruise his heel;
 His seed, when is not set, shall bruise my head.
 A world who would not purchase with a bruise, 500
 Or much more grievous pain? Ye have the account
 Of my performance: what remains, ye gods,
 But up and enter now into full bliss?"

So having said, awhile he stood, expecting
 Their universal shout and high applause 505
 To fill his ear; when contrary he hears
 On all sides from innumerable tongues
 A dismal universal hiss, the sound
 Of public scorn: he wondered, but not long
 Had leisure, wondering at himself now more; 510
 His visage drawn he felt to sharp and spare,
 His arms clung to his ribs, his legs entwining

488. worth, this is well worth,

Sublime with expectation when to see
 In triumph issuing forth their glorious chief:
 They saw, but other sight instead, a crowd
 Of ugly serpents! horror on them fell,
 And horrid sympathy; for what they saw 540
 They felt themselves now changing: down their arms,
 Down fell both spear and shield, down they as fast,
 And the dire hiss renewed, and the dire form
 Caught by contagion, like in punishment
 As in their crime. Thus was the applause they meant 545
 Turned to exploding hiss, triumph to shame,
 Cast on themselves from their own mouths. There stood

A grove hard by, sprung up with this their change,
 His will who reigns above, to aggravate
 Their penance, laden with fair fruit like that 550
 Which grew in Paradise, the bait of Eve
 Used by the Tempter: on that prospect strange
 Their earnest eyes they fixed, imagining
 For one forbidden tree a multitude
 Now risen, to work them further woe or shame; 555
 Yet parched with scalding thirst and hunger fierce,
 Though to delude them sent, could not abstain,
 But on they rolled in heaps, and up the trees
 Climbing, sat thicker than the snaky locks
 That curled Magæra: greedily they plucked 560
 The fruitage, fair to sight like that which grew
 Near that bituminous lake where Sodom flamed;

536. sublime, uplifted.

541. changing, changing into.

546. exploding, driving, as it were, from the stage.

549. His will, by will of him.

557. Though, though this was — could not, they could not.

560. Magæra was one of the three Furies whose hair was twined with serpents. — curled, formed the curls of.

561. like that, like the fruit called Apple of Sodom, which resembles a smooth orange or yellow apple. It is fair to the sight, but contains only air and seeds within. It was formerly supposed to be filled with ashes.

562. that bituminous lake, the Dead Sea. — where Sodom flamed. See Genesis xix. 24-28.

This, more delusive, not the touch, but taste
 Deceived ; they, fondly thinking to allay
 Their appetite with gust, instead of fruit 565
 Chewed bitter ashes, which the offended taste
 With spattering noise rejected : oft they assayed,
 Hunger and thirst constraining ; drugged as oft,
 With hatefullest disrelish writhed their jaws
 With soot and cinders filled ; so oft they fell 570
 Into the same illusion, not as man Whom they triumphed once lapsed. Thus were they plagued

And worn with famine long and ceaseless hiss,
 Till their lost shape, permitted, they resumed ;
 Yearly enjoined, some say, to undergo 575
 This annual humbling certain numbered days
 To dash their pride and joy for man seduced.
 However, some tradition they dispersed
 Among the heathen of their purchase got,
 And fabled how the serpent, whom they called 580
 Ophion, with Eurynomè (the wide Encroaching Eve perhaps), had first the rule
 Of high Olympus, thence by Saturn driven
 And Ops, ere yet Dictæan Jove was born.

Meanwhile in Paradise the hellish pair 585
 Too soon arrived ; Sin there in power before,
 Once actual, now in body, and to dwell
 Habitual habitant ; behind her Death,

565. gust, pleasant taste.

566. writhed, they writhed.

572. triumphed, triumphed over. — once lapsed, only once fallen.

576. certain numbered days, for a certain number of days.

579-584. Ophion was one of the Titans, who reigned, with Eurynome, over Olympus, till they were conquered by Saturn and his wife Rhea, or Ops. Jupiter or Jove was called Dictæan from Dictæ, a mountain in Crete, where he was brought up. The Greek name Eurynome means wideencroaching.

587. Once actual, having been there once in act, and therefore in power, though not in person, or in body.

Close following pace for pace, not mounted yet
On his pale horse ; to whom Sin thus began : 590

“ Second of Satan sprung, all-conquering Death,
What think’st thou of our empire now, though earned

With travail difficult ? not better far
Than still at Hell’s dark threshold to have sat
watch,
Unnamed, undreaded, and thyself half-starved ? ” 595

Whom thus the Sin-born monster answered soon :
“ To me, who with eternal famine pine,
Alike is Hell, or Paradise, or Heaven ;
There best where most with ravin I may meet ;
Which here, though plenteous, all too little seems 600
‘To stuff this maw, this vast unhide-bound corpse.’ ”

To whom the incestuous mother thus replied :
“ Thou therefore on these herbs and fruits and flowers
Feed first ; on each beast next, and fish and fowl,
No homely morsels ; and whatever thing . 605
The scythe of Time mows down devour unspar’d ;
Till I in man residing through the race,
His thoughts, his looks, words, action, all infect,
And season him thy last and sweetest prey.”

This said, they both betook them several ways, 610
Both to destroy, or unimmortal make
All kinds, and for destruction to mature
Sooner or later ; which the Almighty seeing,

590. his pale horse. “ And I looked, and behold, a pale horse ; and his name that sat on him was Death.” Revelation vi. 8.
599. there best, there is it best — ravin, prey, rapine.
601. unhide-bound, capacious ; not bound as with a close skin.
598. not better, is it not better. — corpse, body (of Death).

From his transcendent seat the saints among,
To those bright Orders uttered thus his voice : 618

“ See with what heat these dogs of Hell advance
To waste and havoc yonder world, which I
So fair and good created, and had still Kept in that state, had not the folly of man
Let in these wasteful furies, who impute 620
Folly to me (so doth the prince of Hell
And his adherents), that with so much ease
I suffer them to enter and possess
A place so heavenly, and conniving seem
To gratify my scornful enemies, 625
That laugh, as if transported with some fit
Of passion I to them had quitted all
At random yielded up to their misrule,
And knew not that I called and drew them thither,
My hell-hounds, to lick up the draff and filth 630
Which man’s polluting sin with taint hath shed
On what was pure; till crammed and gorged, nigh burst,
With sucked and glutted offal, at one sling
Of thy victorious arm, well-pleasing Son,
Both Sin and Death, and yawning grave at last, 635
Through Chaos hurled, obstruct the mouth of Hell
Forever, and seal up his ravenous jaws.
Then heaven and earth renewed shall be made pure
To sanctity that shall receive no stain ; 639
Till then the curse pronounced on both precedes.”

He ended, and the heavenly audience loud
Sung hallelujah, as the sound of seas,
Through multitude that sung : “ Just are thy ways,

618. had, should have.

631. with taint, carrying with taint.

633. glutted, swallowed.

638. renewed. See 2 Peter
iii. 18; also Book III. 333-338.

642. hallelujah. The meaning of this word is, “Praise ye the Lord.”

643. Through, by reason of. —
Just are thy ways. See Revelation xv. 3.

Righteous are thy decrees on all thy works ;
 Who can extenuate thee ? Next, to the Son, 646
 Destined restorer of mankind, by whom
 New heaven and earth shall to the ages rise,
 Or down from Heaven descend." — Such was their song,

While the Creator, calling forth by name
 His mighty angels, gave them several charge, 650
 As sorted best with present things. The sun
 Had first his precept so to move, so shine,
 As might affect the earth with cold and heat
 Scarce tolerable, and from the north to call
 Decrepit winter, from the south to bring 655
 Solstitial summer's heat. To the blanc moon
 Her office they prescribed ; to the other five
 Their planetary motions and aspects,
 In sextile, square, and trine, and opposite
 Of noxious efficacy, and when to join 660
 In synod unbenign ; and taught the fixed

644. Righteous. See Revelation xvi. 7.

645. extenuate, diminish in honor ; weaken in power.

648. descend. See Revelation xxi. 1, 2.

650. several charge, charge to each ; office to be severally performed.

651. sorted with, fitted.

652. precept, command.

656. solstitial. When the sun is in the northern solstice, or point in the ecliptic at which it is farthest north from the equator, it is the height of summer to the northern hemisphere. — blanc, white or pale.

657. the other five. See V. 177.

658-661. aspects, their situation with regard to each other. When in sextile, they are separated by one sixth of the zodiac, or sixty degrees ; when in square, by one fourth of the zodiac, or ninety degrees ; in trine, by one third of the zodiac, or one hundred and twenty degrees. When they are in opposition, they are one hundred and eighty degrees from each other, or opposite. They are said to be in conjunction, or to join, when they meet in the same part of the zodiac.

660. Of noxious efficacy. The pretended science of astrology taught that the aspects of the planets influenced the destiny of human beings. If the aspect was opposite, their influence was unbenign, as often when they were in conjunction, or met in synod.

661-664. the fixed, the fixed stars. These, like the planets, were supposed to act upon events on earth, and to show malignant influence, as also to affect the air, so as to cause tempestuous weather, either when they rose or set with the sun.

Their influence malignant when to shower,
 Which of them rising with the sun or falling
 Should prove tempestuous: to the winds they set
 Their corners, when with bluster to confound 665
 Sea, air, and shore; the thunder when to roll
 With terror through the dark ærial hall.
 Some say, he bid his angels turn askance
 The poles of Earth twice ten degrees and more
 From the sun's axle; they with labor pushed 670
 Oblique the centric globe: some say, the sun
 Was bid turn reins from the equinoctial road
 Like distant breadth to Taurus with the seven
 Atlantic Sisters, and the Spartan Twins,
 Up to the Tropic Crab; thence down amain 675
 By Leo and the Virgin and the Scales
 As deep as Capricorn, to bring in change
 Of seasons to each clime; else had the spring
 Perpetual smiled on earth with vernant flowers,
 Equal in days and nights, except to those 680

668-670, turn askance the poles of Earth. The Earth's axis (here supposed to have been before parallel to that of the Sun) was turned oblique to the ecliptic, so that it should incline, as it now does, twice ten degrees and more. This inclination of the axis causes the variety of seasons on the Earth's surface, according to the Copernican System of Astronomy, which was fully established in Milton's time by Galileo.

671-677, the centric globe. The Earth, in the old (or Ptolemaic) system of Astronomy, is the centre of the universe, and according to that, or as some say, it was the Sun that was bid to change its course among the signs of the zodiac, so as to drive its chariot, not, as before, in the equinoctial road, but by ascent from Aries through Taurus and Gemini, the Spartan twins

(that is, Castor and Pollux), to Cancer, the tropic Crab. This was its farthest northern limit, whence it descended through Leo, Virgo, Libra (where it crossed the Equinoctial), Scorpio and Sagittarius to Capricornus, its farthest southern limit, from which it ascended to Aries. — Like-distant breadth. Compare line 669. — Atlantic Sisters. These were the seven daughters of Atlas, who were translated to the heavens, where they form the cluster called the Pleiades or Seven Stars (of which six only are visible) in the neck of the constellation Taurus. — the Tropic Crab. When the Sun is in the sign Cancer, it seems to turn to the south; hence the word tropic, from a Greek word signifying to turn.

679. vernant, belonging to spring.

Beyond the polar circles ; to them day
 Had unbenighted shone, while the low sun,
 To recompense his distance, in their sight
 Had rounded still the horizon, and not known
 Or east or west ; which had forbid the snow 686
 From cold Estotiland, and south as far
 Beneath Magellan. At that tasted fruit
 The sun, as from Thyestéan banquet, turned
 His course intended ; else how had the world
 Inhabited, though sinless, more than now 690
 Avoided pinching cold and scorching heat ?
 These changes in the heavens, though slow, produced
 Like change on sea and land, sidéral blast,
 Vapor and mist and exhalation hot,
 Corrupt and pestilent. Now from the north 695
 Of Norumbega, and the Samoed shore,
 Bursting their brazen dungeon, armed with ice
 And snow and hail, and stormy gust and flaw,
 Boreas and Cæcias and Argestes loud

682 - 687. Had unbenighted shone, would have shone without night. But for the inclination of the Earth's axis, the Sun, being always in the Equinoctial, would shine from pole to pole, never appearing to those beyond the polar circles high above the horizon, while at the pole he would seem to move round in the horizon without either rising or setting. — To recompense his distance, to compensate for the comparative want of light and heat occasioned by his distance. — Or, either. — which had forbid, this would have forbidden or prevented. — Estotiland is a name formerly applied to the northern part of America, near the Arctic Circle. — Beneath Magellan, south of the Straits of Magellan.

687. At that tasted fruit, when the fruit was tasted.

688. Thyestean banquet. According to Grecian mythology, the brother of Thyestes, in revenge for wrongs that he had received, slew the two sons of Thyestes, and having prepared a banquet to which he invited his brother, placed their flesh before him.

689. else, otherwise. — had, would have.

690. more than now, any more than it does now.

693. sidéral, belonging to or produced by the stars. See 661-664.

696. Norumbega, a part of North America, probably New England and what lay west of it. — the Samoed shore, the northern coast of Siberia, which is inhabited by wandering tribes of Samoides.

699 - 702. Boreas, the north wind ; Cæcias, the northeast wind ; Argestes, the northwest wind ; Thrascias, a north-north-

And Thrascias rend the woods and seas upturn; 700
 With adverse blast upturns them from the south
 Notus and Afer, black with thunderous clouds
 From Serrationa; thwart of these as fierce
 Forth rush the Lévant and the Ponent winds,
 Eurus and Zephyr, with their lateral noise, 705
 Sirocco and Libecchio. Thus began
 Outrage from lifeless things; but Discord first,
 Daughter of Sin, among the irrational
 Death introduced through fierce antipathy: 709
 Beast now with beast gan war, and fowl with fowl,
 And fish with fish; to graze the herb all leaving
 Devoured each other, nor stood much in awe
 Of man, but fled him, or with countenance grim
 Glared on him passing. These were from without
 The growing miseries which Adam saw 715
 Already in part, though hid in gloomiest shade,
 To sorrow abandoned, but worse felt within,
 And in a troubled sea of passion tost,
 Thus to disburden sought with sad complaint:

“ O miserable of happy! is this the end 720
 Of this new glorious world, and me so late
 The glory of that glory, who now, become
 Accursed of blessed, hide me from the face
 Of God, whom to behold was then my height
 Of happiness? yet well, if here would end 725
 The misery; I deserved it, and would bear

west wind; Notus, the south wind; Afer, the southwest wind coming from Africa.

703. Serrationa, Sierra Leone. — thwart of, across; at right angles with.

704-706. Levant, east; Ponent, west. These are from the Italian words for East and West, meaning rising and setting. Sirocco and Libecchio, are the southeast and southwest winds, the lateral noise of Eurus and Zephyr, the east and west winds.

710. gan war. See VI. 60.

711. leaving, ceasing.

719. to disburden, to relieve his mind.

720. of, from. So in line 723

721. me, of me.

725. well, it would be well.

My own deservings; but this will not serve;
 All that I eat or drink, or shall beget,
 Is propagated curse. O voice once heard
 Delightfully, 'Increase and multiply,' 730
 Now death to hear! for what can I increase
 Or multiply, but curses on my head?
 Who of all ages to succeed, but, feeling
 The evil on him brought by me, will curse
 My head? — Ill fare our ancestor impure; 735
For this we may thank Adam! but his thanks
 Shall be the execration; so, besides
 Mine own that bide upon me, all from me
 Shall with a fierce reflux on me redound,
 On me, as on their natural centre, light, 740
 Heavy though in their place. O fleeting joys
 Of Paradise, dear bought with lasting woes!
 Did I request thee, Maker, from my clay
 To mould me man? did I solicit thee
 From darkness to promote me, or here place 745
 In this delicious garden? As my will Concurred not to my being, it were but right
 And equal to reduce me to my dust,
 Desirous to resign and render back
 All I received, unable to perform 750
 Thy terms too hard, by which I was to hold
 The good I sought not. To the loss of that,
 Sufficient penalty, why hast thou added
 The sense of endless woes? inexplicable

729. voice. See Genesis i. 28.

733. of all ages to succeed, in all the ages that shall follow.

735. Ill fare, woe to.

736. his thanks, the thanks of him who thus curses his ancestor.

738. all from me, all the curses resulting to others from my sin.

741. Heavy though in their place, weighing heavily, though lighting on him, their natural centre, and thus being in their place, where, according to natural laws, they should have no weight, the weight of bodies being only their tendency to the centre. This seems to be the meaning, though it is not very clear.

743. equal, just. — reduct, bring back.

751. Thy terms too hard. See Matthew xxv. 24, 25.

Thy justice seems ; yet, to say truth, too late 755
 I thus contest ; then should have been refused
 Those terms whatever, when they were proposed :
 Thou didst accept them ; wilt thou enjoy the good,
 Then cavil the conditions ? And though God
 Made thee without thy leave, what if thy son 760
 Prove disobedient, and reprov'd retort,
Wherefore didst thou beget me ? I sought it not : —
 Wouldst thou admit for his contempt of thee
 That proud excuse ? Yet him not thy election,
 But natural necessity, begot. 765
 God made thee of choice his own, and of his own
 To serve him ; thy reward was of his grace,
 Thy punishment then justly is at his will.
 Be it so, for I submit ; his doom is fair,
 That dust I am and shall to dust return : 770
 O welcome hour whenever ! why delays
 His hand to execute what his decree
 Fixed on this day ? why do I overlive ?
 Why am I mocked with death, and lengthened out
 To deathless pain ? How gladly would I meet 775
 Mortality my sentence, and be earth
 Insensible ! how glad would lay me down
 As in my mother's lap ! there I should rest
 And sleep secure ; his dreadful voice no more
 Would thunder in my ears, no fear of worse 780
 To me and to my offspring would torment me
 With cruel expectation. Yet one doubt
 Pursues me still, lest all I cannot die ;

757. whatever, whatever they were.

758. Thou. Adam here addresses himself.

759. cavil, cavil at ; quarrel with.

764. election, choice.

766. of choice, by his choice. of his own, with his own gifts.

771. welcome hour whenever, hour welcome whenever it may arrive.

773. on, for ; to take place on.

— overlive, survive this day.

783. lest all I cannot die, that my whole being is not mortal.

Lest that pure breath of life, the spirit of man
 Which God inspired, cannot together perish 753
 With this corporeal clod; then in the grave,
 Or in some other dismal place, who knows
 But I shall die a living death? O thought
 Horrid, if true! Yet why? it was but breath
 Of life that sinned: what dies but what had life 760
 And sin? the body properly hath neither.
 All of me then shall die; let this appease
 The doubt, since human reach no further knows.
 For though the Lord of all be infinite,
 Is his wrath also? Be it, man is not so, 766
 But mortal doomed. How can he exercise
 Wrath without end on man, whom death must end?
 Can he make deathless death? that were to make
 Strange contradiction, which to God himself
 Impossible is held, as argument 800
 Of weakness, not of power. Will he draw out,
 For anger's sake, finite to infinite
 In punished man, to satisfy his rigor
 Satisfied never? that were to extend
 His sentence beyond dust and Nature's law, 806
 By which all causes else according still
 To the reception of their matter act,
 Not to the extent of their own sphere. But say
 That death be not one stroke, as I supposed,
 Bereaving sense, but endless misery 810
 From this day onward, which I feel begun
 Both in me and without me, and so last
 To perpetuity — ay me! that fear

754. breath of life. See Genesis ii. 7.

793. human reach, the reach of human thought.

795. Be it, though it be; though his wrath be infinite.

796. mortal doomed, condemned to die.

806. all causes else, all other causes.

807. the reception of their matter, what the matter on which they act is capable of receiving.

810. Bereaving, taking away by force.

Comes thundering back with dreadful revolution
 On my defenceless head ; both death and I 815
 Am found eternal, and incorporate both ;
 Nor I on my part single, in me all
 Posterity stands cursed : fair patrimony
 That I must leave ye, sons ! Oh, were I able
 To waste it all myself, and leave ye none ! 820
 So disinherited, how would ye bless
 Me, now your curse ! Ah, why should all mankind
 For one man's fault thus guiltless be condemned —
 If guiltless ? but from me what can proceed
 But all corrupt, both mind and will depraved, 825
 Not to do only but to will the same
 With me ? how can they then acquitted stand
 In sight of God ? Him after all disputes
 Forced I absolve ; all my evasions vain
 And reasonings, though through mazes, lead me still
 But to my own conviction : first and last 831
 On me, me only, as the source and spring
 Of all corruption, all the blame lights due ;
 So might the wrath ! Fond wish ! couldst thou support
 That burden, heavier than the earth to bear, 835
 Than all the world much heavier, though divided
 With that bad woman ? Thus what thou desir'st,
 And what thou fear'st, alike destroys all hope
 Of refuge, and concludes thee miserable
 Beyond all past example and future, 840
 To Satan only like, both crime and doom.
 O conscience, into what abyss of fears
 And horrors hast thou driven me ; out of which I find no way, from deep to deeper plunged ! ”

814. revolution, return.
 816. incorporate both, bound together as in one body.
 829. Forced I absolve, I am forced to absolve.
 838. due, deserved.

834. So might the wrath, would that the wrath might also light on me.
 839. concludes, finally judges.
 841. both, both as to.

Thus Adam to himself lamented loud 845
 Through the still night, not now, as ere man fell,
 Wholesome and cool and mild, but with black air
 Accompanied, with damps and dreadful gloom,
 Which to his evil conscience represented
 All things with double terror: on the ground 850
 Outstretched he lay, on the cold ground, and oft
 Cursed his creation, death as oft accused
 Of tardy execution, since denounced
 The day of his offence. "Why comes not death,"
 Said he, "with one thrice-acceptable stroke 855
 To end me? shall truth fail to keep her word,
 Justice divine not hasten to be just?
 But death comes not at all, justice divine
 Mends not her slowest pace for prayers or cries.
 O woods, O fountains, hillocks, dales, and bowers!
 With other echo late I taught your shades 861
 To answer, and resound far other song."
 Whom thus afflicted when sad Eve beheld,
 Desolate where she sat, approaching nigh
 Soft words to his fierce passion she assayed; 865
 But her with stern regard he thus repelled:

"Out of my sight, thou serpent! that name best
 Befits thee with him leagued, thyself as false
 And hateful; nothing wants, but that thy shape
 Like his, and color serpentine, may show 870
 Thy inward fraud, to warn all creatures from thee
 Henceforth; lest that too heavenly form, pretended
 To hellish falsehood, snare them. But for thee
 I had persisted happy, had not thy pride

853. since denounced, since it had been denounced.

854. The day. "In the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die." Gen. ii. 17.

862. far other song. See IV. 720-735, v. 144-208.

865. assayed, tried; offered.

869. wants, is wanting.

871. fraud, guile.

872. pretended to, hung before; spread over. This is from the Latin verb "præ-tendo," to stretch before.

874. had persisted, should have continued.

He added not, and from her turned : but Eve,
 Not so repulsed, with tears that ceased not flowing,
 And tresses all disordered, at his feet 911
 Fell humble, and embracing them besought
 His peace, and thus proceeded in her plaint :

" Forsake me not thus, Adam ! witness Heaven
 What love sincere and reverence in my heart 915
 I bear thee, and unweeting have offended,
 Unhappily deceived : thy suppliant
 I beg, and clasp thy knees ; bereave me not,
 Whereon I live, thy gentle looks, thy aid,
 Thy counsel, in this uttermost distress, 920
 My only strength and stay : forlorn of thee,
 Whither shall I betake me, where subsist ?
 While yet we live, scarce one short hour perhaps,
 Between us two let there be peace ; both joining, 925
 As joined in injuries, one enmity
 Against a foe by doom express assigned us,
 That cruel serpent. On me exercise not
 Thy hatred for this misery befallen,
 On me already lost, me than thyself
 More miserable ; both have sinned, but thou, 930
 Against God only, I against God and thee,
 And to the place of judgment will return,
 There with my cries importune Heaven, that all
 The sentence, from thy head removed, may light

913. *peace, pardon.*916. unweeting. See line 335.919. of thy gentle looks, on

On me, sole cause to thee of all this woe ; 935

She ended weeping, and her lowly plight,
 Immovable till peace obtained from fault
 Acknowledged and deplored, in Adam wrought
 Commiseration ; soon his heart relented 940
 Towards her, his life so late and sole delight,
 Now at his feet submissive in distress,
 Creature so fair his reconciliation seeking,
 His counsel whom she had displeased, his aid :
 As one disarmed, his anger all he lost, 945
 And thus with peaceful words upraised her soon :

" Unwary, and too desirous, as before
 So now, of what thou know'st not, who desir'st
 The punishment all on thyself ; alas !
 Bear thine own first, ill able to sustain 950
 His full wrath, whose thou feel'st as yet least part,
 And my displeasure bear'st so ill. If prayers
 Could alter high decrees, I to that place
 Would speed before thee, and be louder heard,
 That on my head all might be visited, 955
 Thy frailty and infirmer sex forgiven,
 To me committed and by me exposed.
 But rise ; let us no more contend, nor blame
 Each other, blamed enough elsewhere, but strive,
 In offices of love, how we may lighten 960
 Each other's burden in our share of woe ;
 Since this day's death denounced, if aught I see,
 Will prove no sudden but a slow-paced evil,
 A long day's dying to augment our pain,
 And to our seed (O hapless seed !) derived." 965

To whom thus Eve, recovering heart, replied :
 " Adam, by sad experiment I know
 How little weight my words with thee can find,
 Found so erroneous ; thence by just event
 Found so unfortunate : nevertheless, 970
 Restored by thee, vile as I am, to place
 Of new acceptance, hopeful to regain
 Thy love, the sole contentment of my heart,
 Living or dying, from thee I will not hide
 What thoughts in my unquiet breast are risen, 975
 Tending to some relief of our extremes,
 Or end, though sharp and sad, yet tolerable,
 As in our evils, and of easier choice.
 If care of our descent perplex us most,
 Which must be born to certain woe, devoured 980
 By Death at last (and miserable it is
 To be to others cause of misery,
 Our own begotten, and of our loins to bring
 Into this cursèd world a woful race,
 That after wretched life must be at last 985
 Food for so foul a monster), in thy power
 It lies, yet ere conception, to prevent
 The race unblest, to being yet unbegot.
 Childless thou art, childless remain : so Death
 Shall be deceived his glut, and with us two 990
 Be forced to satisfy his ravenous maw.
 But if thou judge it hard and difficult,
 Conversing, looking, loving, to abstain
 From love's due rites, nuptial embraces sweet,
 And with desire to languish without hope, 995
 Before the present object languishing

With like desire, which would be misery
And torment less than none of what we dread ;
Then, both ourselves and seed at once to free
From what we fear for both, let us make short, 1000
Let us seek Death, or, he not found, supply
With our own hands his office on ourselves.
Why stand we longer shivering under fears
That show no end but death, and have the power,
Of many ways to die the shortest choosing, 1005
Destruction with destruction to destroy ? ”

She ended here, or vehement despair
Broke off the rest ; so much of death her thoughts
Had entertained as dyed her cheeks with pale.
But Adam, with such counsel nothing swayed, 1010
To better hopes his more attentive mind
Laboring had raised, and thus to Eve replied :

“ Eve, thy contempt of life and pleasure seems
To argue in thee something more sublime
And excellent than what thy mind contemns ; 1015
But self-destruction therefore sought refutes
That excellence thought in thee, and implies
Not thy contempt, but anguish and regret
For loss of life and pleasure overloved.
Or if thou covet death as utmost end 1020
Of misery, so thinking to evade
The penalty pronounced, doubt not but God
Hath wiselier armed his vengeful ire than so
To be forestalled ; much more I fear lest death
So snatched will not exempt us from the pain 1025
We are by doom to pay ; rather such acts
Of contumacy will provoke the Highest
To make death in us live. Then let us seek 1004. and have, while we have.

1006. pale, paleness.

1024. forestalled, anticipated.
1026. by doom, doomed.

Some safer resolution, which methinks
 I have in view, calling to mind with heed 1030
 Part of our sentence, that thy seed shall bruise
 The serpent's head ; piteous amends ! unless
 Be meant, whom I conjecture, our grand foe
 Satan, who in the serpent hath contrived
 Against us this deceit : to crush his head 1035
 Would be revenge indeed ; which will be lost
 By death brought on ourselves, or childless days
 Resolved as thou proposest ; so our foe
 Shall scape his punishment ordained, and we
 Instead shall double ours upon our heads. 1040
 No more be mentioned then of violence
 Against ourselves, and wilful barrenness,
 That cuts us off from hope, and savors only
 Rancor and pride, impatience and despite,
 Reluctance against God and his just yoke 1045
 Laid on our necks. Remember with what mild
 And gracious temper he both heard and judged,
 Without wrath or reviling ; we expected
 Immediate dissolution, which we thought
 Was meant by death that day, when lo, to thee
 Pains only in child-bearing were foretold, 1051
 And bringing forth, soon recompensed with joy,
 Fruit of thy womb : on me the curse aslope
 Glanced on the ground ; with labor I must earn
 My bread ; what harm ? idleness had been worse ;
 My labor will sustain me ; and, lest cold 1055
 Or heat should injure us, his timely care
 Hath unbesought provided, and his hands
 Clothed us unworthy, pitying while he judged.
 How much more, if we pray him, will his ear 1060
 Be open, and his heart to pity incline,
 And teach us further by what means to shun

The inclement seasons, rain, ice, hail, and snow,
 Which now the sky with various face begins
 To show us in this mountain, while the winds 1065
 Blow moist and keen, shattering the graceful locks
 Of these fair spreading trees; which bids us seek
 Some better shroud, some better warmth to cherish
 Our limbs benumbed, ere this diurnal star
 Leave cold the night; how we his gathered beams
 Reflected may with matter sere foment, 1071
 Or by collision of two bodies grind
 The air attrite to fire, as late the clouds
 Justling or pushed with winds rude in their shock
 Tine the slant lightning, whose thwart flame driven down 1076
 Kindles the gummy bark of fir or pine,
 And sends a comfortable heat from far,
 Which might supply the sun. Such fire to use,
 And what may else be remedy or cure
 To evils which our own misdeeds have wrought, 1080
 He will instruct us praying and of grace
 Beseeching him, so as we need not fear
 To pass commodiously this life, sustained
 By him with many comforts, till we end
 In dust, our final rest and native home. 1085
 What better can we do, than to the place
 Repairing where he judged us prostrate fall
 Before him reverent, and there confess
 Humbly our faults, and pardon beg, with tears
 Watering the ground, and with our sighs the air
 Frequenting, sent from hearts contrite, in sign 1091

Of sorrow unfeigned and humiliation meek ?
Undoubtedly he will relent and turn
From his displeasure, in whose look serene,
When angry most he seemed and most severe, 1005
What else but favor, grace, and mercy shone ? ”

So spake our father penitent, nor Eve
Felt less remorse : they forthwith to the place
Repairing where he judged them prostrate fell
Before him reverent, and both confessed 1100
Humbly their faults, and pardon begged, with tears
Watering the ground, and with their sighs the air
Frequenting, sent from hearts contrite, in sign
Of sorrow unfeigned and humiliation meek.

BOOK XI.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE Son of God presents to his Father the prayers of our first parents now repenting, and intercedes for them. God accepts them, but declares that they must no longer abide in Paradise: sends Michael with a band of Cherubim to dispossess them; but first to reveal to Adam future things. Michael's coming down. Adam shows to Eve certain ominous signs; he discerns Michael's approach, goes out to meet him: the Angel denounces their departure. Eve's lamentation. Adam pleads, but submits. The Angel leads him up to a high hill, sets before him in vision what shall happen till the flood.

Thus they in lowliest plight repentant stood
Praying; for from the mercy-seat above
Prevenient grace descending had removed
The stony from their hearts, and made new flesh
Regenerate grow instead, that sighs now breathed 5
Unutterable, which the spirit of prayer
Inspired, and winged for Heaven with speedier flight
Than loudest oratory: yet their port
Not of mean suitors, nor important less
Seemed their petition, than when the ancient pair 10
In fables old, less ancient yet than these,

11-14. When Jupiter (Zeus) had resolved to destroy the race of men, Deucalion and his wife Pyrrha alone were spared. A flood swept away all other mortals, and when the waters subsided Deucalion offered sacrifice, and sought to learn from the goddess Themis how the race might be restored.

Deucalion and chaste Pyrrha, to restore
 The race of mankind drowned, before the shrine
 Of Themis stood devout. To Heaven their prayers
 Flew up, nor missed the way by envious winds 15
 Blown vagabond or frustrate: in they passed
 Dimensionless through heavenly doors; then clad
 With incense, where the golden altar fumed,
 By their great Intercessor, came in sight
 Before the Father's throne: them the glad Son 20
 Presenting, thus to intercede began:

"See, Father, what first fruits on earth are sprung
 From thy implanted grace in man, these sighs
 And prayers, which in this golden censer, mixed
 With incense, I thy priest before thee bring, 25
 Fruits of more pleasing savor from thy seed
 Sown with contrition in his heart, than those
 Which, his own hand manuring, all the trees
 Of Paradise could have produced, ere fallen
 From innocence. Now therefore bend thine ear 30
 To supplication, hear his sighs though mute;
 Unskilful with what words to pray, let me
 Interpret for him, me his advocate
 And propitiation; all his works on me,
 Good or not good, ingraft; my merit those 35
 Shall perfect, and for these my death shall pay.
 Accept me, and in me from these receive

But let us call to synod all the blest
 Through Heaven's wide bounds; from them I will

He ended, and the Son gave signal high
 To the bright minister that watched; he blew
 His trumpet, heard in Oreb since perhaps 75
 When God descended, and perhaps once more
 To sound at general doom. The angelic blast
 Filled all the regions: from their blissful bowers
 Of amarantine shade, fountain or spring,
 By the waters of life, where'er they sat
 In fellowships of joy, the sons of light 80
 Hasted, resorting to the summons high,
 And took their seats; till from his throne supreme
 The Almighty thus pronounced his sovran will:

"O sons, like one of us Man is become
 To know both good and evil, since his taste 85
 Of that defended fruit; but let him boast
 His knowledge of good lost and evil got,
 Happier had it sufficed him to have known
 Good by itself, and evil not at all.

His heart I know, how variable and vain
 Self-left. Lest therefore his now bolder hand
 Reach also of the Tree of Life, and eat,
 And live for ever, dream at least to live 95
 For ever, to remove him I decree,
 And send him from the garden forth to till
 The ground whence he was taken, fitter soil.
 Michael, this my behest have thou in charge ;
 Take to thee from among the Cherubim 100
 Thy choice of flaming warriors, lest the Fiend,
 Or in behalf of man, or to invade
 Vacant possession, some new trouble raise :
 Haste thee, and from the Paradise of God
 Without remorse drive out the sinful pair, 105
 From hallowed ground the unholy, and denounce
 To them and to their progeny from thence Perpetual banishment. Yet, lest they faint
 At the sad sentence rigorously urged
 (For I behold them softened and with tears 110
 Bewailing their excess), all terror hide.
 If patiently thy bidding they obey,
 Dismiss them not disconsolate ; reveal
 To Adam what shall come in future days,
 As I shall thee enlighten ; intermix 115
 My covenant in the woman's seed renewed :
 So send them forth, though sorrowing yet in peace ;
 And on the east side of the garden place,
 Where entrance up from Eden easiest climbs,
 Cherubic watch, and of a sword the flame 120
 Wide waving, all approach far off to fright,

And guard all passage to the Tree of Life ;
 Lest Paradise a réceptacle prove
 To spirits foul, and all my trees their prey, 127
 With whose stolen fruit man once more to delude."

He ceased ; and the archangelic power prepared
 For swift descent, with him the cohort bright
 Of watchful Cherubim ; four faces each
 Had, like a double Janus, all their shape 130
 Spangled with eyes, more numerous than those
 Of Argus, and more wakeful than to drowse,
 Charmed with Arcadian pipe, the pastoral reed
 Of Hermes, or his opiate rod. Meanwhile,
 To re-salute the world with sacred light,
 Leucothœa waked, and with fresh dews embalmed 135
 The earth, when Adam and first matron Eve
 Had ended now their orisons, and found
 Strength added from above, new hope to spring
 Out of despair, joy, but with fear yet linked ;
 Which thus to Eve his welcome words renewed ; 140

"Eve, easily may faith admit that all
 The good which we enjoy from Heaven descends ;
 But that from us aught should ascend to Heaven
 So prevalent as to concern the mind

128. four faces. "Every one had four faces apiece." Ezekiel x. 21.

129. Janus was a Roman deity, commonly represented with two faces.

130. with eyes. See Ezekiel x. 12.

131-133. Argus was said to have had a hundred eyes. He was set by Hera (Juno) to guard Io, whom she had metamorphosed into a cow. But Hermes (Mercury) slew him, having lulled him to sleep with the sweet sounds of his flute or Arcadian pipe, and touched him with his opiate rod.—Arcadian, belonging to Arcadia, a country of shepherds, by whom Hermes was especially worshipped.—pastoral, belonging to shepherds.—opiate, sleep-giving.

135. Leucothœa, signifying in Greek White-goddess, was a goddess of the sea. Milton here uses the name for the goddess of the dawn.

141. prevalent, prevailing ; efficacious.

Of God high-blest, or to incline his will, 145
 Hard to belief may seem ; yet this will prayer,
 Or one short sigh of human breath, upborne
 Even to the seat of God. For since I sought
 By prayer the offended Deity to appease,
 Kneeled and before him humbled all my heart, 150
 Methought I saw him placable and mild,
 Bending his ear ; persuasion in me grew
 That I was heard with favor ; peace returned
 Home to my breast, and to my memory
 His promise that thy seed shall bruise our foe ; 155
 Which, then not minded in dismay, yet now
 Assures me that the bitterness of death
 Is past, and we shall live. Whence hail to thee,
 Eve rightly called, mother of all mankind,
 Mother of all things living, since by thee 160
 Man is to live, and all things live for man !”

To whom thus Eve with sad demeanor meek :
 “ Ill worthy I such title should belong
 To me transgressor, who, for thee ordained
 A help, became thy snare ; to me reproach 165
 Rather belongs, distrust and all dispraise :
 But infinite in pardon was my Judge,
 That I, who first brought death on all, am graced
 The source of life ; next favorable thou,
 Who highly thus to entitle me vouchsaf’st, 170
 Far other name deserving. But the field
 To labor calls us now with sweat imposed
 Though after sleepless night ; for see, the morn,
 All unconcerned with our unrest, begins

146. this will prayer, prayer will do this.

157. “ And Agag said, Surely the bitterness of death is past.” 1 Samuel xv. 32.

159. rightly called. “And Adam called his wife’s name Eve, because she was the mother of all living.” Genesis iii. 20.

168. am graced, am so favored as to be.

172. imposed, laid upon us.

Her rosy progress smiling. Let us forth, 175
 I never from thy side henceforth to stray,
 Where'er our day's work lies, though now enjoined
 Laborious, till day droop; while here we dwell,
 What can be toilsome in these pleasant walks?
 Here let us live, though in fallen state, content." 180

So spake, so wished much-humbled Eve, but Fate
 Subscribed not; Nature first gave signs, impressed
 On bird, beast, air, air suddenly eclipsed
 After short blush of morn; nigh in her sight
 The bird of Jove, stooped from his aery tour, 185
 Two birds of gayest plume before him drove:
 Down from a hill the beast that reigns in woods,
 First hunter then, pursued a gentle brace,
 Goodliest of all the forest, hart and hind;
 Direct to the eastern gate was bent their flight. 190
 Adam observed, and, with his eye the chase
 Pursuing, not unmoved to Eve thus spake:

"O Eve, some further change awaits us nigh,
 Which Heaven by these mute signs in Nature shows,
 Forerunners of his purpose, or to warn 195
 Us haply too secure of our discharge
 From penalty, because from death released
 Some days; how long, and what till then our life,
 Who knows, or more than this, that we are dust,
 And thither must return and be no more? 200
 Why else this double object in our sight
 Of flight, pursued in the air and o'er the ground,

182. Subscribed, assented; agreed.

188. eclipsed, become dark with clouds.

185. The bird of Jove, the eagle. — stooped, having stooped. — tour, wheel. Or it may mean tower; the height to which he towers.

187. the beast that reigns, the lion, king of beasts.

186. secure, certain.

198. Some days, for some days.

199. or more than this, or who knows more than this.

One way the self-same hour? Why in the east
 Darkness ere day's mid-course, and morning light
 More orient in yon western cloud, that draws 206
 O'er the blue firmament a radiant white,
 And slow descends with something heavenly fraught?"

He erred not, for by this the heavenly bands
 Down from a sky of jasper lighted now
 In Paradise, and on a hill made halt; 210
 A glorious apparition, had not doubt
 And carnal fear that day dimmed Adam's eye.
 Not that more glorious, when the angels met
 Jacob in Mahanaim, where he saw
 The field pavilioned with his guardians bright; 216
 Nor that which on the flaming mount appeared
 In Dothan, covered with a camp of fire,
 Against the Syrian king, who, to surprise
 One man, assassin-like had levied war,
 War unproclaimed. 'The princely Hierarch 220
 In their bright stand there left his powers to seize Possession of the garden; he alone,
 To find where Adam sheltered, took his way,
 Not unperceived of Adam, who to Eve,
 While the great visitant approached, thus spake: 225

"Eve, now expect great tidings, which perhaps
 Of us will soon determine, or impose
 New laws to be observed; for I descry,
 From yonder blazing cloud that veils the hill,

203. Why, why is there.
 205. More orient, more bright than the rising light.

208. by this, by this time.

 precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal." Revelation
 xxi. 11.

 216-220. See 2 Kings vi. 8-17.
 — Hierarch. See line 99.

221. stand, station; or, In their bright stand, standing in their brightness.

223. sheltered, had taken shelter.

227. determine, decide the fate.

One of the heavenly host, and by his gait 230
 None of the meanest, some great potentate,
 Or of the Thrones above, such majesty
 Invests him coming; yet not terrible
 That I should fear, nor sociably mild
 As Raphaël that I should much confide; 235
 But solemn and sublime, whom not to offend,
 With reverence I must meet, and thou retire."

He ended; and the Archangel soon drew nigh,
 Not in his shape celestial, but as man
 Clad to meet man; over his lucid arms 240
 A military vest of purple flowed,
 Livelier than Melibœan, or the grain
 Of Sarra, worn by kings and heroes old
 In time of truce; Iris had dipped the woof:
 His starry helm unbuckled showed him prime 245
 In manhood where youth ended; by his side,
 As in a glistening zodiac, hung the sword,
 Satan's dire dread, and in his hand the spear.
 Adam bowed low; he kingly from his state
 Inclined not, but his coming thus declared: 250

"Adam, Heaven's high behest no preface needs:
 Sufficient that thy prayers are heard, and death,
 Then due by sentence when thou didst transgress,
 Defeated of his seizure, many days
 Given thee of grace, wherein thou may'st repent, 255

232. Or of, or one of.

233. Invests, clothes.

235. As Raphael. See V. 22;
 VII. 40, 41.

242. Melibœan. Melibœa, a town in Thessaly, was celebrated for its purple dye. — grain, dye or color. See V. 285.

243. Sarra, the ancient Tyre, also famous for its purple.

244. Iris, the personification of the rainbow.

247. In a belt glistening like the Zodiac.

248. Satan's dire dread. See VI. 320–328.

249. state, stateliness; stately bearing.

250. inclined, bent.

254. Defeated, is defeated, disappointed. — seizure, possession.

255. Given, are given.

And one bad act with many deeds well done
May'st cover. Well may then thy Lord appeased
Redeem thee quite from death's rapacious claim ;
But longer in this Paradise to dwell
Permits not ; to remove thee I am come, 280
And send thee from the garden forth, to till
The ground whence thou wast taken, fitter soil."

He added not, for Adam at the news
Heart-struck with chilling gripe of sorrow stood
That all his senses bound ; ~~He~~ ^{She}, who unseen 285
Yet all had heard, with audible lament
Discovered soon the place of her retire :

" O unexpected stroke, worse than of death !
Must I thus leave thee, Paradise ? thus leave
Thee, native soil, these happy walks and shades, 270
Fit haunt of gods, where I had hope to spend,
Quiet though sad, the respite of that day
That must be mortal to us both ? O flowers,
That never will in other climate grow,
My early visitation and my last 275
At even, which I bred up with tender hand
From the first opening bud and gave ye names,
Who now shall rear ye to the sun, or rank
Your tribes, and water from the ambrosial fount ?
Thee lastly, nuptial bower, by me adorned 280
With what to sight or smell was sweet, from thee
How shall I part, and whither wander down
Into a lower world, to this obscure
And wild ? How shall we breathe in other air
Less pure, accustomed to immortal fruits ? " 285

280. Permits, he, thy Lord, 272. respite, delay ; postpone-permits. ment.

287. Discovered. See I. 64. — 288. to this, compared with stire, retirement ; retreat. this.

Whom thus the angel interrupted mild :
 " Lament not, Eve, but patiently resign
 What justly thou hast lost ; nor set thy heart,
 Thus over-fond, on that which is not thine :
 Thy going is not lonely ; with thee goes 290
 Thy husband ; him to follow thou art bound ;
 Where he abides, think there thy native soil."

Adam by this from the cold sudden damp
 Recovering, and his scattered spirits returned,
 To Michael thus his humble words addressed : 295

" Celestial ! whether among the Thrones, or named
 Of them the highest, for such of shape may seem Prince above princes, gently hast thou told
 Thy message, which might else in telling wound
 And in performing end us ; what besides 300
 Of sorrow and dejection and despair
 Our frailty can sustain, thy tidings bring,
 Departure from this happy place, our sweet
 Recess, and only consolation left,
 Familiar to our eyes, all places else 305
 Inhospitable appear and desolate,
 Nor knowing us nor known : and if by prayer
 Incessant I could hope to change the will
 Of him who all things can, I would not cease
 To weary him with my assiduous cries. 310
 But prayer against his absolute decree
 No more avails than breath against the wind,
 Blown stifling back on him that breathes it forth :
 Therefore to his great bidding I submit.

This most afflicts me, that departing hence 315
 As from his face I shall be hid, deprived
 His blessed countenance; here I could frequent
 With worship place by place where he vouchsafed
 Presence divine, and to my sons relate,
 ' On this mount he appeared, under this tree 320
 Stood visible, among these pines his voice
 I heard, here with him at this fountain talked : '
 So many grateful altars I would rear
 Of grassy turf, and pile up every stone
 Of lustre from the brook, in memory 325
 Or monument to ages, and thereon
 Offer sweet-smelling gums, and fruits, and flowers.
 In yonder nether world where shall I seek
 His bright appearances, or footstep trace ?
 For though I fled him angry, yet, recalled 330
 To life prolonged and promised race, I now
 Gladly behold though but his utmost skirts
 Of glory, and far off his steps adore."

To whom thus Michael with regard benign :
 " Adam, thou know'st Heaven his, and all the earth.
 Not this rock only; his omnipresence fills 335
 Land, sea, and air, and every kind that lives,
 Fomented by his virtual power and warmed :
 All the earth he gave thee to possess and rule,
 No despicable gift; surmise not then 340
 His presence to these narrow bounds confined
 Of Paradise or Eden : this had been
 Perhaps thy capital seat, from whence had spread
 All generations, and had hither come,
 From all the ends of the earth, to celebrate 345

And reverence thee their great progenitor.
 But this præminence thou hast lost, brought down
 To dwell on even ground now with thy sons.
 Yet doubt not but in valley and in plain
 God is as here, and will be found alike 364
 Present, and of his presence many a sign
 Still following thee, still compassing thee round
 With goodness and paternal love, his face
 Express, and of his steps the track divine.
 Which that thou may'st believe, and be confirmed 365
 Ere thou from hence depart, know I am sent
 To show thee what shall come in future days
 To thee and to thy offspring ; good with bad
 Expect to hear, supernal grace contending
 With sinfulness of men ; thereby to learn 366
 True patience, and to temper joy with fear
 And pious sorrow, equally inured
 By moderation either state to bear,
 Prosperous or adverse : so shalt thou lead
 Safest thy life, and best prepared endure 367
 Thy mortal passage when it comes. Ascend
 This hill ; let Eve (for I have drenched her eyes)
 Here sleep below, while thou to foresight wak'st ;
 As once thou slept'st, while she to life was formed.

To whom thus Adam gratefully replied : 370
 " Ascend, I follow thee, safe guide, the path
 Thou lead'st me, and to the hand of Heaven submit,
 However chastening ; to the evil turn
 My obvious breast, arming to overcome
 By suffering, and earn rest from labor won, 375

 Of Paradise the highest, from whose top
 The hemisphere of earth in clearest ken 379
 Stretched out to the amplest reach of prospect lay.
 Not higher that hill, or wider looking round,
 Whereon, for different cause, the Tempter set
 Our second Adam in the wilderness,
 To show him all earth's kingdoms and their glory.
 His eye might there command wherever stood 385

390. Paquin, Pekin. — Sinæan here means Chinese. The Sinæ were the easternmost people of Asia, as known to the ancients.

391. Agra and Lahor (Lahore) are cities in the north of Hindostan. The latter, situated in the district of the Punjaub, was of great extent in the times of the Great Mogul, a name given to the descendants of the Mongul conqueror who established an empire in India in the sixteenth century.

Call El Dorado. But to nobler sights
 Michael from Adam's eyes the film removed,
 Which that false fruit that promised clearer sight
 Had bred; then purged with euphrasy and rue
 The visual nerve (for he had much to see), 415
 And from the well of life three drops instilled.
 So deep the power of these ingredients pierced,
 Even to the inmost seat of mental sight,
 That Adam, now enforced to close his eyes,
 Sunk down, and all his spirits became intranced; 420
 But him the gentle angel by the hand
 Soon raised, and his attention thus recalled:

"Adam, now ope thine eyes, and first behold
 The effects which thy original crime hath wrought
 In some to spring from thee, who never touched 425
 The excepted tree, nor with the snake conspired,
 Nor sinned thy sin, yet from that sin derive Corruption to bring forth more violent deeds."

His eyes he opened, and beheld a field,
 Part arable and tilth, whereon were sheaves 430
 New reaped, the other part sheep-walks and folds;
 In the midst an altar as the landmark stood,
 Rustic, of grassy sord; thither anon
 A sweaty reaper from his tillage brought
 First-fruits, the green ear and the yellow sheaf 435
 Unculled, as came to hand; a shepherd next,

 near which country Geryon is fabled to have reigned.

More meek, came with the firstlings of his flock
 Choicest and best ; then sacrificing laid
 The inwards and their fat with incense strewed
 On the cleft wood, and all due rites performed. 444
 His offering soon propitious fire from heaven
 Consumed with nimble glance and grateful steam ;
 The other's not, for his was not sincere ;
 Whereat he inly raged, and as they talked
 Smote him into the midriff with a stone 445
 That beat out life ; he fell, and deadly pale
 Groaned out his soul with gushing blood effused.
 Much at that sight was Adam in his heart
 Dismayed, and thus in haste to the angel cried :

“ O teacher, some great mischief hath befallen 450
 To that meek man, who well had sacrificed ;—
 Is piety thus and pure devotion paid ? ”

To whom Michael thus, he also moved, replied :
 “ These two are brethren, Adam, and to come
 Out of thy loins ; the unjust the just hath slain, 455
 For envy that his brother's offering found
 From Heaven acceptance ; but the bloody fact
 Will be avenged, and the other's faith approved
 Lose no reward, though here thou see him die,
 Rolling in dust and gore.” To which our sire : 460

“ Alas, both for the deed and for the cause !
 But have I now seen death ? Is this the way
 I must return to native dust ? O sight
 Of terror, foul and ugly to behold,
 Horrid to think, how horrible to feel ! ” 465

To whom thus Michaël : “ Death thou hast seen

His best of man, and gave him up to tears
 A space, till firmer thoughts restrained excess ;
 And scarce recovering words his plaint renewed :

“ O miserable mankind, to what fall 500
 Degraded, to what wretched state reserved !
 Better end here unborn. Why is life given
 To be thus wrested from us ? rather why
 Obtruded on us thus, who, if we knew
 What we receive, would either not accept 505
 Life offered, or soon beg to lay it down,
 Glad to be so dismissed in peace ? Can thus
 The image of God in man, created once
 So goodly and erect, though faulty since,
 To such unsightly sufferings be debased 510
 Under inhuman pains ? Why should not man,
 Retaining still divine similitude
 In part, from such deformities be free,
 And for his Maker’s image sake exempt ? ” 514

“ Their Maker’s image,” answered Michael, “ then
 Forsook them, when themselves they vilified
 To serve ungoverned appetite, and took
 His image whom they served, a brutish vice,
 Inductive mainly to the sin of Eve.
 Therefore so abject is their punishment, 520
 Disfiguring not God’s likeness but their own,
 Or if his likeness, by themselves defaced,
 While they pervert pure nature’s healthful rules
 To loathsome sickness ; worthily, since they God’s image did not reverence in themselves.” 525

497. His best of man, his utmost manliness.

502. Better end here, it would be better that the race of man should end here.

518. His image, the image of appetite (personified).

519. Inductive mainly to, chief temptation to or occasion of. See IX. 789.

"I yield it just," said Adam, "and submit.
But is there yet no other way besides
These painful passages, how we may come
To death, and mix with our connatural dust?" 529

"There is," said Michael, "if thou well observe
The rule of Not too much, by temperance taught,
In what thou eat'st and drink'st, seeking from thence
Due nourishment, not gluttonous delight,
Till many years over thy head return :
So mayest thou live, till like ripe fruit thou drop
Into thy mother's lap, or be with ease 536
Gathered, not harshly plucked, for death mature.
This is old age ; but then thou must outlive
Thy youth, thy strength, thy beauty, which will change
To withered, weak, and gray ; thy senses then 540
Obtuse all taste of pleasure must forego
To what thou hast ; and for the air of youth,
Hopeful and cheerful, in thy blood will reign
A melancholy damp of cold and dry,
To weigh thy spirits down and last consume 545
The balm of life." To whom our ancestor :

"Henceforth I fly not death, nor would prolong
Life much ; bent rather how I may be quit
Fair'est and easiest of this cumbrous charge,
Which I must keep till my appointed day 550
Of rendering up, and patiently attend
My dissolution." Michaël replied :

529. it just, that it is just.

529. connatural, of the same nature.

“Nor love thy life, nor hate; but what thou liv’st
Live well, how long or short permit to Heaven:
And now prepare thee for another sight.” 555

He looked, and saw a spacious plain, whereon
Were tents of various hue; by some were herds
Of cattle grazing; others, whence the sound
Of instruments that made melodious chime
Was heard, of harp and organ, and who moved 560
Their stops and chords was seen; his volant touch
Instinct through all proportions low and high,
Fled and pursued transverse the resonant fugue.
In other part stood one who, at the forge
Laboring, two massy clods of iron and brass 565
Had melted (whether found where casual fire
Had wasted woods on mountain or in vale
Down to the veins of earth, thence gliding hot
To some cave’s mouth, or whether washed by stream
From underground); the liquid ore he drained 570
Into fit moulds prepared, from which he formed
First his own tools, then what might else be wrought

Fusil or graven in metal. After these,
But on the hither side, a different sort 574
From the high neighboring hills, which was their seat,
Down to the plain descended: by their guise
Just men they seemed, and all their study bent

562. Instinct, as if by instinct; instinctively.

563. transverse. This probably means running along or across the strings. — resonant, sounding; or, perhaps, sounding again, re-sounding, as the fugue is a repetition.

573. Fusil, made fluid by heat.

573-592. See Genesis vi. 1, 2.

579. nor those things last, nor were those things last their study.

Freedom and peace to men : they on the plain 580
 Long had not walked, when from the tents behold
 A bevy of fair women, richly gay
 In gems and wanton dress ; to the harp they sung
 Soft amorous ditties, and in dance came on.
 The men, though grave, eyed them, and let their eyes
 Rove without rein, till in the amorous net 586
 Fast caught they liked, and each his liking chose ;
 And now of love they treat, till the evening star,
 Love's harbinger, appeared ; then all in heat
 They light the nuptial torch, and bid invoke 590
 Hymen, then first to marriage-rites invoked :
 With feast and music all the tents resound.
 Such happy interview and fair event
 Of love and youth not lost, songs, garlands, flowers,
 And charming symphonies, attached the heart 595
 Of Adam, soon inclined to admit delight,
 The bent of nature ; which he thus expressed :

" True opener of mine eyes, prime angel blest !
 Much better seems this vision, and more hope
 Of peaceful days portends, than those two past ; 600
 Those were of hate and death, or pain much worse ;
 Here nature seems fulfilled in all her ends."

To whom thus Michael : " Judge not what is best
 By pleasure, though to nature seeming meet,
 Created, as thou art, to nobler end, 605
 Holy and pure, conformity divine.
 Those tents thou saw'st so pleasant were the tents
 Of wickedness, wherein shall dwell his race
 Who slew his brother ; studious they appear
 Of arts that polish life, inventors rare ; 610

Unmindful of their Maker, though his Spirit
 Taught them, but they his gifts acknowledged none.
 Yet they a beauteous offspring shall beget ;
 For that fair female troop thou saw'st, that seemed
 Of goddesses, so blithe, so smooth, so gay, 615
 Yet empty of all good wherein consists
 Woman's domestic honor and chief praise,
 Bred only and completed to the taste
 Of lustful appetite, to sing, to dance,
 To dress, and troll the tongue, and roll the eye : — 620
 To these, that sober race of men, whose lives
 Religious titled them the sons of God,
 Shall yield up' all their virtue, all their fame,
 Ignobly, to the trains and to the smiles
 Of these fair atheists, and now swim in joy, 625
 Ere long to swim at large ; and laugh, for which
 The world ere long a world of tears must weep."

To whom thus Adam, of short joy bereft :
 " O pity and shame, that they who to live well
 Entered so fair should turn aside to tread 630
 Paths indirect, or in the midway faint !
 But still I see the tenor of man's woe
 Holds on the same, from woman to begin."

" From man's effeminate slackness it begins,"
 Said the angel, " who should better hold his place
 By wisdom and superior gifts received. 635
 But now prepare thee for another scene."

He looked, and saw wide territory spread
 Before him, towns, and rural works between,
 Cities of men with lofty gates and towers, 640

614-620. This is an incomplete sentence ; these in line 621 refers to fair female troop.

620. troll, to roll ; to move volubly.

624. trains, wiles ; artifices.

628. at large, an allusion to the deluge.

Concourse in arms, fierce faces threatening war,
 Giants of mighty bone and bold emprise;
 Part wield their arms, part curb the foaming steed,
 Single or in array of battle ranged,
 Both horse and foot, nor idly mustering stood : 645
 One way a band select from forage drives
 A herd of beeves, fair oxen and fair kine,
 From a fat meadow-ground, or fleecy flock,
 Ewes and their bleating lambs over the plain,
 Their booty ; scarce with life the shepherds fly, 650
 But call in aid, which makes a bloody fray.
 With cruel tournament the squadrons join ;
 Where cattle pastured late, now scattered lies
 With carcasses and arms the ensanguined field
 Deserted : others to a city strong 655
 Lay siege, encamped, by battery, scale, and mine
 Assaulting ; others from the wall defend
 With dart and javelin, stones, and sulphurous fire ;
 On each hand slaughter and gigantic deeds.
 In other parts the sceptred heralds call 660
 To council in the city gates ; anon
 Gray-headed men and grave, with warriors mixed,
 Assemble, and harangues are heard, but soon
 In factious opposition ; till at last
 Of middle age one rising, eminent 665
 In wise deport, spake much of right and wrong,
 Of justice, of religion, truth and peace,
 And judgment from above : him old and young
 Exploded, and had seized with violent hands
 Had not a cloud descending snatched him thence 670

Unseen amid the throng ; so violence
 Proceeded, and oppression and sword-law,
 Through all the plain, and refuge none was found.
 Adam was all in tears, and to his guide
 Lamenting turned full sad : " O what are these ! 675
 Death's ministers, not men, who thus deal death
 Inhumanly to men, and multiply
 Ten thousand-fold the sin of him who slew
 His brother ; for of whom such massacre
 Make they but of their brethren, men of men ? 680
 But who was that just man, whom had not Heaven
 Rescued, had in his righteousness been lost ? "

To whom thus Michael : " These are the product
 Of those ill-mated marriages thou saw'st,
 Where good with bad were matched, who of themselves 685

Abhor to join, and by imprudence mixed
 Produce prodigious births of body or mind.
 Such were these giants, men of high renown,
 For in those days might only shall be admired
 And valor and heroic virtue called : 690
 To overcome in battle, and subdue
 Nations, and bring home spoils with infinite
 Man-slaughter, shall be held the highest pitch
 Of human glory, and for glory done
 Of triumph to be styled great conquerors, 695
 Patrons of mankind, gods, and sons of gods ;
 Destroyers rightlier called, and plagues of men.

671-673. See Genesis vi. 5.

676. ministers, servants.

687. prodigious, monstrous.

688. men of high renown.
 " The same became mighty men

694. and for glory done, of triumph. This difficult passage has been variously explained. It may be thus rendered, and to be styled great conquerors, patrons of mankind, gods, and sons of gods, on account of glorious deeds performed, shall be held the highest pitch (line 693) of triumph.

Thus fame shall be achieved, renown on earth,
 And what most merits fame in silence hid.
 But he, the seventh from thee, whom thou beheld'st
 The only righteous in a world perverse 701
 And therefore hated, therefore so beset
 With foes, for daring single to be just,
 And utter odious truth, that God would come
 To judge them with his saints;—him the Most High,
 Rapt in a balmy cloud, with wingèd steeds, 706
 Did, as thou saw'st, receive, to walk with God
 High in salvation and the climes of bliss,
 Exempt from death; to show thee what reward
 Awaits the good, the rest what punishment; 710
 Which now direct thine eyes and soon behold."

He looked, and saw the face of things quite changed:

The brazen throat of war had ceased to roar;
 All now was turned to jollity and game,
 To luxury and riot, feast and dance, 715
 Marrying or prostituting, as befell,
 Rape or adultery, where passing fair
 Allured them; thence from cups to civil broils.
 At length a reverend sire among them came
 And of their doings great dislike declared, 720
 And testified against their ways; he oft
 Frequented their assemblies, whereso met,

716. as befell, as it might chance.

717. passing seems to mean surpassingly.

718. cups, drinking. — civil broils, intestine quarrels.

719. See Genesis vi. 9.

722. whereso, wheresoever.

Triumphs or festivals, and to them preached
 Conversion and repentance, as to souls
 In prison under judgments imminent, 725
 But all in vain ; which when he saw, he ceased
 Contending, and removed his tents far off.
 Then from the mountain hewing timber tall
 Began to build a vessel of huge bulk, 730
 Measured by cubit, length and breadth and height,
 Smeared round with pitch, and in the side a door
 Contrived, and of provisions laid in large
 For man and beast : when lo, a wonder strange !
 Of every beast, and bird, and insect small 735
 Came sevens and pairs, and entered in, as taught
 Their order ; last the sire and his three sons,
 With their four wives ; and God made fast the door.
 Meanwhile the south wind rose, and, with black wings
 Wide hovering, all the clouds together drove
 From under heaven ; the hills to their supply 740
 Vapor and exhalation dusk and moist
 Sent up amain ; and now the thickened sky
 Like a dark ceiling stood ; down rushed the rain
 Impetuous, and continued till the earth
 No more was seen : the floating vessel swum 745
 Uplifted, and secure with beakéd prow
 Rode tilting o'er the waves ; all dwellings else
 Flood overwhelmed, and them with all their pomp
 Deep under water rolled ; sea covered sea,
 Sea without shore ; and in their palaces, 750
 Where luxury late reigned, sea-monsters whelped
 And stabled ; of mankind, so numerous late,

728. preached. See 2 Peter ii. 5.
 725. In prison. "The spirits in prison." 1 Peter iii. 19.

728-753. See Genesis vi. and
 vii.

732. large, large store ; largely.
 740. their, of the clouds.

745. swum. "The ark went upon the face of the waters."
 Genesis vii. 18.

746. beakéd, sharp-pointed ; resembling a beak.

747. all dwellings else, all other dwellings.

All left in one small bottom swum embarked.
 How did'st thou grieve then, Adam, to behold
 The end of all thy offspring, end so sad, 766
 Depopulation ! thee another flood,
 Of tears and sorrow a flood, thee also drowned,
 And sunk thee as thy sons ; till gently reared
 By the angel, on thy feet thou stood'st at last,
 Though comfortless, as when a father mourns 769
 His children, all in view destroyed at once ;
 And scarce to the angel utteredst thus thy plaint :

“ O visions ill foreseen ! better had I
 Lived ignorant of future, so had borne
 My part of evil only, each day's lot 765
 Enough to bear ; those now, that were dispensed
 The burden of many ages, on me light
 At once, by my foreknowledge gaining birth
 Abortive, to torment me ere their being
 With thought that they must be. Let no man seek Henceforth to be foretold what shall befall 771
 Him or his children ; evil he may be sure,
 Which neither his foreknowing can prevent,
 And he the future evil shall no less
 In apprehension than in substance feel 775
 Grievous to bear : but that care now is past,
 Man is not whom to warn ; those few escaped
 Famine and anguish will at last consume,
 Wandering that watery desert. I had hope,
 When violence was ceased and war on earth, 780
 All would have then gone well, peace would have crowned

768. All left, all that were left.
 — bottom, vessel.

766. Enough. “Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.” Matthew vi. 34. — those, those evils. — dispensed, dealt out by portions as.

774. And — no less is equivalent to nor — less.

777. Man is not whom to warn, no man exists who can be warned.

779. Wandering, wandering over.

With length of happy days the race of man :
 But I was far deceived ; for now I see
 Peace to corrupt no less than war to waste.
 How comes it thus ? unfold, celestial guide, 785
 And whether here the race of man will end."

To whom thus Michael : " Those, whom last thou saw'st
 In triumph and luxurious wealth, are they
 First seen in acts of prowess eminent
 And great exploits, but of true virtue void ; 790
 Who having spilt much blood and done much waste
 Subduing nations, and achieved thereby
 Fame in the world, high titles, and rich prey,
 Shall change their course to pleasure, ease, and sloth,
 Surfeit, and lust, till wantonness and pride 795
 Raise out of friendship hostile deeds in peace.
 The conquered also and enslaved by war
 Shall, with their freedom lost, all virtue lose
 And fear of God, from whom their piety feigned
 In sharp contest of battle found no aid 800
 Against invaders ; therefore cooled in zeal
 Thenceforth shall practise how to live secure,
 Worldly or dissolute, on what their lords
 Shall leave them to enjoy ; for the earth shall bear
 More than enough, that temperance may be tried.
 So all shall turn degenerate, all depraved, 805
 Justice and temperance, truth and faith forgot ;
 One man except, the only son of light
 In a dark age, against example good,
 Against allurement, custom, and a world 810

784. That peace corrupts no subject of this verb, see line less than war wastes. 797.

785. unfold. explain ; declare how it comes to be thus.

789. First, previously.

796. in peace, in time of peace.

802. shall practise. For the

808. except, excepted.

809. against example good, good notwithstanding the example of evil about him. See V. 900-902.

Offended ; fearless of reproach and scorn,
 Or violence, he of their wicked ways
 Shall them admonish, and before them set
 The paths of righteousness how much more safe
 And full of peace, denouncing wrath to come 815
 On their impenitence ; and shall return
 Of them derided, but of God observed
 The one just man alive ; by his command
 Shall build a wondrous ark, as thou beheld'st,
 To save himself and household from amidst 820
 A world devote to universal wrack.
 No sooner he, with them of man and beast
 Select for life, shall in the ark be lodged
 And sheltered round, but all the cataracts
 Of heaven set open on the earth shall pour 825
 Rain day and night ; all fountains of the deep
 Broke up shall heave the ocean to usurp
 Beyond all bounds, till inundation rise
 Above the highest hills : then shall this mount
 Of Paradise by might of waves be moved 830
 Out of his place, pushed by the hornéd flood,
 With all his verdure spoiled and trees adrift,
 Down the great river to the opening gulf,
 And there take root an island salt and bare,
 The haunt of seals, and orcs, and sea-mews' clang :
 To teach thee that God attributes to place 836

815. full of peace. "All her paths are peace." Proverbs iii. 17.

817. Of, by.

818. just. "Noah was a just man." Genesis vi. 9.

821. devote, devoted ; given up. — wrack, wreck.

823. Select for life, chosen to live.

824. cataracts, in Genesis vii. 11, windows. The former word (cataracts) is a translation from the Greek, the latter (windows) from the Hebrew version of the Scriptures. The poet seems also to have had in mind the common meaning of the word.

826. all fountains. "All the fountains of the great deep." Genesis vii. 11.

831. his, its. — horned. This epithet was applied by the ancients to rivers. Virgil gives the rushing Po the head and horns of a bull.

835. orcs, animals of the cetaceous or whale order ; grampuses. — clang. See VII. 422.

No sanctity, if none be thither brought
By men who there frequent, or therein dwell.
And now what further shall ensue, behold."

He looked, and saw the ark hull on the flood, 840
Which now abated ; for the clouds were fled,
Driven by a keen north wind, that blowing dry
Wrinkled the face of deluge, as decayed ;
And the clear sun on his wide watery glass
Gazed hot, and of the fresh wave largely drew 845
As after thirst, which made their flowing shrink
From standing lake to tripping ebb, that stole
With soft foot towards the deep, who now had stopped

His sluices, as the heaven his windows shut. 849
The ark no more now floats, but seems on ground,
Fast on the top of some high mountain fixed.
And now the tops of hills as rocks appear ;
With clamor thence the rapid currents drive
Towards the retreating sea their furious tide.
Forthwith from out the ark a raven flies, 855
And after him, the surer messenger,
A dove, sent forth once and again to spy
Green tree or ground whereon his foot may light ;
The second time returning in his bill
An olive-leaf he brings, pacific sign. 860
Anon dry ground appears, and from his ark
The ancient sire descends with all his train ;
Then with uplifted hands and eyes devout,
Grateful to Heaven, over his head beholds
A dewy cloud, and in the cloud a bow, 865

838. there frequent, thither resort or throng.

840-867. See Genesis viii.

840. hull, float as a hull.

843. as decayed, as if decayed.

844. his, its, referring to face.

846. their, of the wave or waves.

849. shut, had shut.

860. pacific sign, emblem of peace.

865. a bow. "I do set my bow in the cloud." See Genesis ix. 12-16.

Conspicuous with three listed colors gay,
 Betokening peace from God and covenant new.
 Whereat the heart of Adam, erst so sad,
 Greatly rejoiced, and thus his joy broke forth :

“ O thou who future things canst represent 870
 As present, heavenly instructor, I revive
 At this last sight, assured that man shall live
 With all the creatures, and their seed preserve.
 Far less I now lament for one whole world
 Of wicked sons destroyed, than I rejoice 875
 For one man found so perfect and so just,
 That God vouchsafes to raise another world
 From him, and all his anger to forget.
 But say, what mean those colored streaks in heaven,
 Distended as the brow of God appeased ? 880
 Or serve they as a flowery verge to bind
 The fluid skirts of that same watery cloud,
 Lest it again dissolve and shower the earth ? ”

To whom the Archangel : “ Dextrously thou
 aim'st ;
 So willingly doth God remit his ire, 885
 Though late repenting him of man depraved,
 Grieved at his heart when looking down he saw
 The whole earth filled with violence, and all flesh
 Corrupting each their way ; yet, those removed,
 Such grace shall one just man find in his sight, 890
 That he relents not to blot out mankind,

886. three, red, yellow, blue.
 — listed, in stripes.

890. Distended, spread. — as,
 as it were ; like.

881. serve they, serve they only.

884. Dexterously thou aimest, rightly thou dost guess.

888. repenting him of, repent-
 ing that he had made. — depraved,
 now fallen from innocence.

887. Grieved. “ And it repenteth the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart.” Genesis vi. 6.

889. removed, having been removed.

891. relents not to blot, gives up his purpose of blotting.

And makes a covenant never to destroy
 The earth again by flood, nor let the sea
 Surpass his bounds, nor rain to drown the world
 With man therein or beast; but when he brings
 Over the earth a cloud, will therein set 896
 His triple-colored bow, whereon to look,
 And call to mind his covenant: day and night,
 Seed-time and harvest, heat and hoary frost, 899
 Shall hold their course, till fire purge all things new,
 Both heaven and earth, wherein the just shall dwell."

892. a covenant. See Genesis ix. 8-17.

893. let, to let.

894. nor, nor let.

897. whereon to look, on which he may look. See Genesis ix. 16.

898. day and night. "While the earth remaineth, seed-time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease." Genesis viii. 22.

900. till fire purge all things. See 2 Peter iii. 12, 13. — new, to make them new; "new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness."

BOOK XII.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE angel Michael continues from the flood to relate what shall succeed; then, in the mention of Abraham, comes by degrees to explain who that seed of the woman shall be which was promised Adam and Eve in the fall. His incarnation, death, resurrection, and ascension; the state of the church till his second coming. Adam, greatly satisfied and recomfited by these relations and promises, ascends the hill with Michael; wakens Eve, who all this while had slept, but with gentle dreams composed to quietness of mind and submission. Michael in either hand leads them out of Paradise, the fiery sword waving behind them, and the Cherubim taking their stations to guard the place.

As one who in his journey baits at noon,
Though bent on speed, so here the Archangel paused
Betwixt the world destroyed and world restored,
If Adam aught perhaps might interpose;
Then with transition sweet new speech resumes: 5

“ Thus thou hast seen one world begin and end;
And man as from a second stock proceed.
Much thou hast yet to see, but I perceive
Thy mortal sight to fail; objects divine
Must needs impair and weary human sense. 10
Henceforth what is to come I will relate;
Thou therefore give due audience, and attend.

“ This second source of men, while yet but few,
And while the dread of judgment past remains

1. bait, rests for refreshment. 12. audience, hearing.

Fresh in their minds, fearing the Deity, 15
 With some regard to what is just and right
 Shall lead their lives, and multiply apace,
 Laboring the soil and reaping plenteous crop,
 Corn, wine, and oil ; and from the herd or flock
 Oft sacrificing bullock, lamb, or kid, 20
 With large wine-offerings poured and sacred feast,
 Shall spend their days in joy unblamed, and dwell
 Long time in peace, by families and tribes,
 Under paternal rule : till one shall rise
 Of proud ambitious heart, who, not content 25
 With fair equality, fraternal state,
 Will arrogate dominion undeserved
 Over his brethren, and quite dispossess
 Concord and law of nature from the earth ;
 Hunting (and men, not beasts, shall be his game) 30
 With war and hostile snare such as refuse
 Subjection to his empire tyrannous.
 A mighty hunter thence he shall be styled
 Before the Lord, as in despite of Heaven,
 Or from Heaven claiming second sovranty ; 35
 And from rebellion shall derive his name,
 Though of rebellion others he accuse.
 He, with a crew whom like ambition joins
 With him or under him to tyrannize,
 Marching from Eden towards the west, shall find 40
 The plain, wherein a black bituminous gurge
 Boils out from under ground, the mouth of Hell :

18. Laboring, tilling ; cultivating.

24. one, Nimrod. "He began to be a mighty one in the earth." Genesis x. 8.

27. undeserved, not gained by right or merit.

30. Hunting. "He was a mighty hunter before the Lord." Genesis x. 9.

34. as, as if.

36. name, Nimrod, translated by some, rebel.

41. The plain. "And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, — in the land of Shinar." "And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar ; and they dwelt there." Genesis x. 10 and xi. 2. — black bituminous gurge. In the Baby-

Of brick and of that stuff they cast to build
 A city and tower whose top may reach to Heaven,
 And get themselves a name, lest far dispersed 45
 In foreign lands their memory be lost,
 Regardless whether good or evil fame.
 But God, who oft descends to visit men
 Unseen and through their habitations walks
 To mark their doings, them beholding soon 50
 Comes down to see their city, ere the tower
 Obstruct Heaven-towers, and in derision sets
 Upon their tongues a various spirit, to rase
 Quite out their native language, and instead
 To sow a jangling noise of words unknown. 55
 Forthwith a hideous gabble rises loud
 Among the builders; each to other calls
 Not understood, till hoarse and all in rage
 As mocked they storm: great laughter was in Heaven
 And looking down, to see the hubbub strange 60
 And hear the din; thus was the building left Ridiculous, and the work Confusion named."

Whereto thus Adam fatherly displeased:
 "O execrable son, so to aspire lonian plain, "plain of Shinar," are still found wells of naphtha or bitumen. In the neighborhood of Babylon (Babel) was an inexhaustible supply of clay, of which were made the bricks,

 that, together with the bitumen,
 formed the walls of the city,
 whose remains may still be seen on the banks of the Euphrates.
 — gurge means whirlpool; gulf.

43. Of brick. See Genesis xi.
 8, 4. — ihat stuff, allme or bitu-
 men. This was used in the walls of Babylon as mortar or cement.
 — cast, plan; devise.

43-62. See Genesis xi. 5-9.

52. in derision. "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh;
 the Lord shall have them in derision." Psalm ii. 4.

53. rase, blot. See II. 928.

59. As mocked they storm, they are fierce with passion, thinking themselves mocked.

60. looking down, great looking down.

62. Ridiculous, fit for laughter or scorn. — Confusion. See Genesis xi. 9.

63. fatherly, as the father of the race.

64. execrable son. See lines
 24-37.

Above his brethren, to himself assuming 65
 Authority usurped, from God not given :
 He gave us only over beast, fish, fowl,
 Dominion absolute ; that right we hold
 By his donation ; but man over men
 He made not lord ; such title to himself 70
 Reserving, human left from human free.
 But this usurper his encroachment proud
 Stays not on man ; to God his tower intends
 Siege and defiance. Wretched man ! what food
 Will he convey up thither to sustain 75
 Himself and his rash army, where thin air
 Above the clouds will pine his entrails gross,
 And famish him of breath, if not of bread ? ”

To whom thus Michael : “ Justly thou abhorr’st
 That son, who on the quiet state of men 80
 Such trouble brought, affecting to subdue
 Rational liberty ; yet know withal,
 Since thy original lapse true liberty
 Is lost, which always with right reason dwells
 Twinned, and from her hath no dividual being. 85
 Reason in man obscured or not obeyed,
 Immediately inordinate desires
 And upstart passions catch the government
 From reason, and to servitude reduce
 Man till then free. Therefore since he permits 90
 Within himself unworthy powers to reign
 Over free reason, God in judgment just
 Subjects him from without to violent lords,
 Who oft as undeservedly enthrall

71. human left from human free, left men free from man’s dominion.

77. pine, wear out ; waste away.

81. affecting, aiming.

83. lapse, fall.

85. Twinned, as a twin.—dividual, separate. See VII. 333.

86. obscured, being or having been obscured.

88. catch, snatch away.

94. undeservedly. See line 27.

His outward freedom : tyranny must be, 36
 Though to the tyrant thereby no excuse.
 Yet sometimes nations will decline so low
 From virtue, which is reason, that no wrong,
 But justice, and some fatal curse annexed,
 Deprives them of their outward liberty, 100
 Their inward lost : witness the irreverent son
 Of him who built the ark, who for the shame
 Done to his father heard his heavy curse,
Servant of servants, on his vicious race.
 Thus will this latter as the former world 106
 Still tend from bad to worse, till God at last,
 Wearied with their iniquities, withdraw
 His presence from among them, and avert
 His holy eyes ; resolving from thenceforth
 To leave them to their own polluted ways, 110
 And one peculiar nation to select
 From all the rest of whom to be invoked,
 A nation from one faithful man to spring :
 Him on this side Euphrates yet residing,
 Bred up in idol-worship, — O that men 116
 (Canst thou believe ?) should be so stupid grown,
 While yet the patriarch lived who scaped the flood,
 As to forsake the living God, and fall
 To worship their own work in wood and stone
 For gods ! — yet him God the Most High vouchsafes
 To call by vision from his father's house, 121
 His kindred and false gods, into a land

96. must be. "Woe unto the world because of offences ! for it must needs be that offences come ; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh !" Matthew xviii. 7. See IV. 393, 394.

101. inward lost, inward liberty being lost. See John viii. 81-86. — the irreverent son. See Genesis ix. 20-27.

112. of, by

113. one faithful man, Abram or Abraham.

114. this side Euphrates, the eastern side, on which was Eden.

115. idol-worship. "Your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham and the father of Nachor ; and they served other gods." Joshua xxiv. 2.

121-127. See Genesis xii. 1-3.

Which he will show him, and from him will raise
 A mighty nation, and upon him shower
 His benediction so, that in his seed 126
 All nations shall be blest: he straight obeys,
 Not knowing to what land, yet firm believes.
 I see him, but thou canst not, with what faith
 He leaves his gods, his friends, and native soil,
 Ur of Chaldæa, passing now the ford 130
 To Haran, after him a cumbrous train
 Of herds and flocks, and numerous servitude;
 Not wandering poor, but trusting all his wealth
 With God who called him, in a land unknown.
 Canaan he now attains; I see his tents 136
 Pitched about Sechem, and the neighboring plain
 Of Moreh; there by promise he receives
 Gift to his progeny of all that land,
 From Hamath northward to the desert south 139
 (Things by their names I call, though yet unnamed),
 From Hermon east to the great western sea;
 Mount Hermon, yonder sea, each place behold
 In prospect, as I point them; on the shore
 Mount Carmel; here the double-founted stream

126. straight. See I. 531.

127. Not knowing. "He went out, not knowing whither he went." Hebrews xi. 8.

130. Ur of Chaldæa. See Genesis xi. 31. Ur was a city in the north of Mesopotamia, a district between the rivers Euphrates and Tigris.

131. Haran, or Charran, was also in Mesopotamia.

132. servitude, body of servants or slaves.

135. Canaan. "They went forth to go into the land of Canaan, and into the land of Canaan they came." Genesis xii. 5. This land lay between the river Jordan on the east and the great western (Mediterranean) sea on the west.

136. Sechem, Sichem, called in the New Testament (John iv. 5) Sychar.

137. Moreh. See Genesis xii. 6. This plain was about midway between the river and the sea.—there by promise. See Genesis xii. 7.

139. Hamath was north of Damascus.—northward, on the north.

141. Hermon was on the north-east of Canaan, near the source of the Jordan.

143. on the shore of yonder sea, the Mediterranean.

144. double-founted, having two sources or fountains.

Jordan, true limit eastward ; but his sons 145
 Shall dwell to Senir, that long ridge of hills.
 This ponder, that all nations of the earth
 Shall in his seed be blessed ; by that seed
 Is meant thy great Deliverer, who shall bruise
 The serpent's head ; whereof to thee anon 150
 Plainlier shall be revealed. This patriarch blest,
 Whom faithful Abraham due time shall call,
 A son, and of his son a grandchild, leaves,
 Like him in faith, in wisdom, and renown.
 The grandchild with twelve sons increased departs
 From Canaan to a land hereafter called 155
 Egypt, divided by the river Nile ;
 See where it flows, disgorging at seven mouths
 Into the sea. To sojourn in that land
 He comes, invited by a younger son 160
 In time of dearth ; a son whose worthy deeds
 Raise him to be the second in that realm
 Of Pharaoh : there he dies, and leaves his race
 Growing into a nation, and now grown
 Suspected to a sequent king, who seeks 165
 To stop their overgrowth as inmate guests
 Too numerous ; whence of guests he makes them slaves
 Inhospitably, and kills their infant males :

145. true limit eastward, the real boundary on the east.

146. Senir is properly Mount Hermon (see Deuteronomy iii. 9), though Milton seems here to use it as the name of a different range.

147. This ponder, consider this.

149. who shall bruise. See Genesis iii. 15.

152. Abraham. "Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram ; but thy name shall be Abraham ; for a father of many nations have I made thee." Genesis xvii. 5.

153. A son, Isaac. — a grandchild, Jacob.

153-163. See Genesis xxxvii. ; and xxxix.-i.

158. seven mouths. The Nile formerly entered the sea by seven mouths ; the number is now reduced to two.

162. the second. See Genesis xli. 83-43.

165. sequent, succeeding ; following. "Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph." Exodus i. 8

166. as, as being.

Till by two brethren (those two brethren call Moses and Aaron) sent from God to claim 170
 His people from enthrallment, they return
 With glory and spoil back to their promised land.
 But first the lawless tyrant, who denies
 To know their God or message to regard,
 Must be compelled by signs and judgments dire ; 175
 To blood unshed the rivers must be turned ;
 Frogs, lice, and flies, must all his palace fill
 With loathed intrusion, and fill all the land ;
 His cattle must of rot and murrain die ;
 Blotches and blains must all his flesh emboss, 180
 And all his people ; thunder mixed with hail,
 Hail mixed with fire, must rend the Egyptian sky,
 And wheel on the earth, devouring where it rolls ;
 What it devours not, herb, or fruit, or grain,
 A darksome cloud of locusts swarming down 185
 Must eat, and on the ground leave nothing green ;
 Darkness must overshadow all his bounds,
 Palpable darkness, and blot out three days ;
 Last with one midnight stroke all the first born
 Of Egypt must lie dead. Thus with ten wounds
 The river-dragon tamed at length submits 191
 To let his sojourners depart, and oft
 Humbles his stubborn heart, but still as ice
 More hardened after thaw, till in his rage
 Pursuing whom he late dismissed, the sea 195

169. by two brethren. See Exodus iii.-vi.

173-190. See Exodus vii.-xii.

178. denies, refuses. "And Pharaoh said, Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go." Exodus v. 2.

180. emboss, cover with swellings.

183. wheel on the earth. "And the fire ran along upon the ground." Exodus ix. 23.

188. Palpable, "which may be felt." Exodus x. 21.

190. ten wounds, the ten plagues.

190-214. See Exodus xiii.-xv.

191. The river-dragon. "Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers." Ezekiel xxix. 3.

195. whom, those whom. — the sea, the Red Sea, which lies between Egypt and the Arabian Desert.

Swallows him with his host, but them lets pass
 As on dry land between two crystal walls,
 Awed by the rod of Moses so to stand
 Divided till his rescued gain their shore :
 Such wondrous power God to his saint will lend, 200
 Though present in his angel, who shall go
 Before them in a cloud and pillar of fire,
 By day a cloud, by night a pillar of fire,
 To guide them in their journey, and remove
 Behind them, while the obdurate king pursues. 205
 All night he will pursue, but his approach
 Darkness defends between till morning watch ;
 Then through the fiery pillar and the cloud
 God looking forth will trouble all his host,
 And craze their chariot-wheels : when by command
 Moses once more his potent rod extends 211
 Over the sea ; the sea his rod obeys ;
 On their embattled ranks the waves return,
 And overwhelm their war. The race elect
 Safe towards Canaan from the shore advance 215
 Through the wild desert, not the readiest way,
 Lest entering on the Canaanite alarmed
 War terrify them inexpert, and fear
 Return them back to Egypt, choosing rather Inglorious life with servitude ; for life 220
 To noble and ignoble is more sweet
 Untrained in arms, where rashness leads not on.

214. war, forces ; warlike array.

216. not the readiest way. The nearest way to Canaan would have been in a north-easterly direction, but the Israelites turned to the south.

217. alarmed, roused ; put on his guard.

218. inexpert, inexperienced ; unpractised.

222. Untrained, if they are not trained.

This also shall they gain by their delay
 In the wide wilderness, there they shall found
 Their government, and their great senate choose 225
 Through the twelve tribes, to rule by laws ordained.
 God from the mount of Sinai, whose gray top
 Shall tremble, he descending, will himself
 In thunder, lightning, and loud trumpet's sound,
 Ordain them laws; part, such as appertain 230
 To civil justice; part, religious rites
 Of sacrifice, informing them by types
 And shadows of that destined Seed to bruise
 The serpent, by what means he shall achieve
 Mankind's deliverance. But the voice of God 235
 To mortal ear is dreadful: they beseech
 That Moses might report to them his will,
 And terror cease; he grants what they besought,
 Instructed that to God is no access
 Without mediator, whose high office now 240
 Moses in figure bears, to introduce
 One greater, of whose day he shall foretell,
 And all the prophets in their age the times
 Of great Messiah shall sing. Thus laws and rites
 Established, such delight hath God in men 245
 Obedient to his will, that he vouchsafes
 Among them to set up his tabernacle,
 The Holy One with mortal men to dwell.

225. their great senate. "And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. And they judged the people at all seasons; the hard causes they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves." See Exodus xviii.

By his prescript a sanctuary is framed
 Of cedar, overlaid with gold ; therein 250
 An ark, and in the ark his testimony,
 The records of his covenant ; over these
 A mercy-seat of gold between the wings
 Of two bright cherubim ; before him burn
 Seven lamps, as in a zodiac representing 255
 The heavenly fires ; over the tent a cloud
 Shall rest by day, a fiery gleam by night,
 Save when they journey, and at length they come,
 Conducted by his angel, to the land
 Promised to Abraham and his seed. The rest 260
 Were long to tell, how many battles fought,
 How many kings destroyed and kingdoms won,
 Or how the sun shall in mid-heaven stand still
 A day entire, and night's due course adjourn,
 Man's voice commanding, ' Sun in Gibeon stand, 265
 And thou, moon, in the vale of Aialon,
 Till Israel overcome ; ' so call the third
 From Abraham, son of Isaac, and from him
 His whole descent, who thus shall Canaan win."

Here Adam interposed : " O sent from Heaven, 270
 Enlightener of my darkness ! gracious things
 Thou hast revealed, those chiefly which concern
 Just Abraham and his seed : now first I find
 Mine eyes true opening, and my heart much eased, Erewhile perplexed with thoughts what would become

275. what, as to or concerning what.

Of me and all mankind ; but now I see 276
 His day, in whom all nations shall be blessed,
 Favor unmerited by me, who sought
 Forbidden knowledge by forbidden means.
 Yet this I apprehend not, why to those 280
 Among whom God will deign to dwell on earth
 So many and so various laws are given ;
 So many laws argue so many sins
 Among them ; how can God with such reside ? " 284

To whom thus Michael : " Doubt not but that sin
 Will reign among them, as of thee begot ;
 And therefore was law given them, to evince
 Their natural pravity, by stirring up
 Sin against law to fight ; that when they see
 Law can discover sin but not remove, 290
 Save by those shadowy expiations weak,
 The blood of bulls and goats, they may conclude
 Some blood more precious must be paid for man,
 Just for unjust, that in such righteousness,
 To them by faith imputed, they may find 295
 Justification towards God, and peace
 Of conscience, which the law by ceremonies
 Cannot appease, nor man the moral part
 Perform, and not performing cannot live.
 So law appears imperfect, and but given 300
 With purpose to resign them in full time

Up to a better covenant, disciplined
 From shadowy types to truth, from flesh to spirit,
 From imposition of strict laws to free
 Acceptance of large grace, from servile fear 306
 To filial, works of law to works of faith.
 And therefore shall not Moses, though of God
 Highly beloved, being but the minister
 Of law, his people into Canaan lead ;
 But Joshua, whom the Gentiles Jesus call, 310
 His name and office bearing who shall quell
 The adversary serpent, and bring back
 Through the world's wilderness long wandered man
 Safe to eternal Paradise of rest.
 Meanwhile they, in their earthly Canaan placed, 315
 Long time shall dwell and prosper, but when sins
 National interrupt their public peace,
 Provoking God to raise them enemies ;
 From whom as oft he saves them penitent,
 By judges first, then under kings ; of whom 320
 The second, both for piety renowned
 And puissant deeds, a promise shall receive
 Irrevocable, that his regal throne
 For ever shall endure ; the like shall sing
 All prophecy, that of the royal stock 325
 Of David (so I name this king) shall rise
 A son, the woman's seed to thee foretold,
 Foretold to Abraham, as in whom shall trust
 All nations, and to kings foretold, of kings

The last, for of his reign shall be no end. 330
 But first a long succession must ensue,
 And his next son, for wealth and wisdom famed,
 The clouded ark of God, till then ~~in~~ tents
 Wandering, shall in a glorious temple enshrine.
 Such follow him as shall be registered 335
 Part good, part bad; of bad the longer scroll,
 Whose foul idolatries and other faults,
 Heaped to the popular sum, will so incense
 God, as to leave them, and expose their land,
 Their city, his temple, and his holy ark, 340
 With all his sacred things, a scorn and prey
 To that proud city, whose high walls thou saw'st
 Left in confusion, Babylon thence called.
 There in captivity he lets them dwell
 The space of seventy years, then brings them back,
 Remembering mercy and his covenant sworn 345
 To David, stablished as the days of Heaven.
 Returned from Babylon, by leave of kings
 Their lords, whom God disposed, the house of God
 They first, re-edify, and for a while 350
 In mean estate live moderate, till, grown
 In wealth and multitude, factious they grow.
 But first among the priests dissension springs,

332. his next son, the son who succeeded him as king; Solomon, who reigned next.

333. in tents. The Ark of the Covenant had been removed, with or without the Tabernacle, from place to place, until it was carried with great solemnity into the Temple which Solomon had built for its abode.

353-356. The history of this dissension is found in the Apoc-

Men who attend the altar and should most Endeavor peace: their strife pollution brings 355
 Upon the temple itself; at last they seize
 The sceptre, and regard not David's sons,
 Then lose it to a stranger, that the true
 Anointed king Messiah might be born
 Barred of his right; yet at his birth a star, 360
 Unseen before in heaven, proclaims him come,
 And guides the eastern sages, who inquire
 His place, to offer incense, myrrh, and gold.
 His place of birth a solemn angel tells
 To simple shepherds keeping watch by night; 365
 They gladly thither haste, and by 'a quire
 Of squadroned angels hear his carol sung:
 A Virgin is his mother, but his sire
 The power of the Most High; he shall ascend
 The throne hereditary, and bound his reign 370
 With earth's wide bounds, his glory with the heavens."

He ceased, discerning Adam with such joy
 Surcharged as had, like grief, been dewed in tears,
 Without the vent of words, which these he breathed :

" O prophet of glad tidings, finisher 375
 Of utmost hope! now clear I understand,
 What oft my steadiest thoughts have searched in vain,

367. carol, Christmas song; song of joy.

373. dewed, dropped as dew.

Why our great expectation should be called
 The seed of woman. Virgin Mother, hail !
 High in the love of Heaven, yet from my loins 390
 Thou shalt proceed, and from thy womb the Son
 Of God Most High ; so God with man unites.
 Needs must the serpent now his capital bruise
 Expect with mortal pain : say where and when 394
 Their fight, what stroke shall bruise the victor's heel ? ”

To whom thus Michael : “ Dream not of their fight
 As of a duel, or the local wounds
 Of head or heel : not therefore joins the Son
 Manhood to Godhead, with more strength to foil
 Thy enemy ; nor so is overcome 399
 Satan, whose fall from Heaven, a deadlier bruise,
 Disabled not to give thee thy death's wound ;
 Which he, who comes thy Saviour, shall recure,
 Not by destroying Satan, but his works
 In thee and in thy seed ; nor can this be, 396
 But by fulfilling that which thou didst want,
 Obedience to the law of God, imposed
 On penalty of death, and suffering death,
 The penalty to thy transgression due,
 And due to theirs which out of thine will grow ; 400
 So only can high justice rest appaid.
 The law of God exact he shall fulfil
 Both by obedience and by love, though love
 Alone fulfil the law ; thy punishment

383. capital, upon the head. “ It shall bruise thy head.” Genesis iii. 15.

387. local, having a place.

401. appaid, satisfied.

404. fulfil the law. “ Love is the fulfilling of the law.” Romans xiii. 10.

He shall endure by coming in the flesh 405
 To a reproachful life and cursèd death,
 Proclaiming life to all who shall believe
 In his redemption, and that his obedience
 Imputed becomes theirs by faith, his merits
 To save them, not their own, though legal, works.
 For this he shall live hated, be blasphemed, 411
 Seized on by force, judged, and to death condemned
 A shameful and accursed, nailed to the cross
 By his own nation, slain for bringing life ;
 But to the cross he nails thy enemies, 415
 The law that is against thee, and the sins
 Of all mankind, with him there crucified,
 Never to hurt them more who rightly trust
 In this his satisfaction : so he dies,
 But soon revives ; death over him no power 420
 Shall long usurp ; ere the third dawning light
 Return, the stars of morn shall see him rise
 Out of his grave, fresh as the dawning light,
 Thy ransom paid, which man from death redeems ;
 His death for man, as many as offered life 425
 Neglect not, and the benefit embrace
 By faith not void of works. This godlike act
 Annuls thy doom, the death thou shouldst have died,
 In sin for ever lost from life ; this act 429
 Shall bruise the head of Satan, crush his strength,

408. that, believe that.

409. his merits, etc. Perhaps a Latinism ; that his merits save them.

410. not their own, though legal, works, not their own works, though according to the law. "Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ." Galatians ii. 16.

427. not void of works. See James ii. 14-26.

Defeating Sin and Death, his two main arms,
 And fix far deeper in his head their stings
 Than temporal death shall bruise the victor's heel,
 Or theirs whom he redeems, a death-like sleep,
 A gentle wafting to immortal life. 436
 Nor after resurrection shall he stay
 Longer on earth than certain times to appear
 To his disciples, men who in his life
 Still followed him; to them shall leave in charge
 To teach all nations what of him they learned 440
 And his salvation, them who shall believe
 Baptizing in the profluent stream, the sign
 Of washing them from guilt of sin to life,
 Pure, and in mind prepared, if so befall,
 For death, like that which the Redeemer died. 446
 All nations they shall teach; for from that day
 Not only to the sons of Abraham's loins
 Salvation shall be preached, but to the sons
 Of Abraham's faith wherever through the world;
 So in his seed all nations shall be blessed. 450
 Then to the heaven of heavens he shall ascend
 With victory, triumphing through the air
 Over his foes and thine; there shall surprise
 The serpent, prince of air, and drag in chains
 Through all his realm, and there confounded leave;
 Then enter into glory, and resume 456
 His seat at God's right hand, exalted high
 Above all names in Heaven; and thence shall come,
 When this world's dissolution shall be ripe,

With glory and power to judge both quick and dead ; 460

To judge the unfaithful dead, but to reward
His faithful, and receive them into bliss,
Whether in Heaven or Earth, for then the earth
Shall all be Paradise, far happier place
Than this of Eden, and far happier days." 465

So spake the Archangel Michaël, then paused,
As at the world's great period ; and our sire,
Replete with joy and wonder, thus replied :

" O goodness infinite, goodness immense !
That all this good of evil shall produce, 470
And evil turn to good ; more wonderful
Than that which by creation first brought forth
Light out of darkness ! Full of doubt I stand,
Whether I should repent me now of sin
By me done and occasioned, or rejoice 475
Much more, that much more good thereof shall spring,
To God more glory, more good-will to men
From God, and over wrath grace shall abound.
But say, if our Deliverer up to Heaven
Must reascend, what will betide the few 480
His faithful, left among the unfaithful herd,
The enemies of truth ? who then shall guide
His people, who defend ? will they not deal
Worse with his followers than with him they dealt ? "

" Be sure they will," said the angel ; " but from Heaven 485

He to his own a Comforter will send,
 The promise of the Father, who shall dwell
 His Spirit within them, and the law of faith
 Working through love upon their hearts shall write,
 To guide them in all truth, and also arm 490
 With spiritual armor, able to resist
 Satan's assaults and quench his fiery darts ;
 What man can do against them not afraid,
 Though to the death ; against such cruelties
 With inward consolations recompensed, 495
 And oft supported so as shall amaze
 Their proudest persecutors : for the Spirit,
 Poured first on his Apostles whom he sends
 To evangelize the nations, then on all
 Baptized, shall them with wondrous gifts endue 500
 To speak all tongues, and do all miracles
 As did their Lord before them. Thus they win
 Great numbers of each nation to receive
 With joy the tidings brought from Heaven : at length,
 Their ministry performed and race well run, 505
 Their doctrine and their story written left,
 They die ; but in their room, as they forewarn,
 Wolves shall succeed for teachers, grievous wolves,
 Who all the sacred mysteries of Heaven
 To their own vile advantages shall turn 510
 Of lucre and ambition, and the truth
 With superstitions and traditions taint,

Left only in those written records pure,
 Though not but by the Spirit understood.
 Then shall they seek to avail themselves of names,
 Places, and titles, and with these to join 516
 Secular power, though feigning still to act
 By spiritual, to themselves appropriating
 The Spirit of God, promised alike and given
 To all believers; and from that pretence 520
 Spiritual laws by carnal power shall force
 On every conscience; laws which none shall find
 Left them inrolled, or what the Spirit within Shall on the heart engrave. What will they then
 But force the Spirit of grace itself, and bind 525
 His consort Liberty? What, but unbuild
 His living temples, built by faith to stand,
 Their own faith, not another's? for on earth
 Who against faith and conscience can be heard
 Infallible? yet many will presume: 530
 Whence heavy persecution shall arise
 On all who in the worship persevere
 Of spirit and truth; the rest, far greater part,
 Will deem in outward rites and specious forms
 Religion satisfied; Truth shall retire 535
 Bestuck with slanderous darts, and works of faith
 Rarely be found. So shall the world go on,
 To good malignant, to bad men benign,
 Under her own weight groaning, till the day
 Appear of respiration to the just 540
 And vengeance to the wicked, at return

Of him so lately promised to thy aid,
 The woman's seed, obscurely then foretold,
 Now amplier known thy Saviour and thy Lord ;
 Last in the clouds from Heaven to be revealed 545
 In glory of the Father, to dissolve
 Satan with his perverted world, then raise
 From the conflagrant mass, purged and refined,
 New heavens, new earth, ages of endless date,
 Founded in righteousness and peace and love, 550
 To bring forth fruits, joy and eternal bliss."

He ended ; and thus Adam last replied :
 " How soon hath thy prediction, seer blest,
 Measured this transient world, the race of time,
 Till time stand fixed ! beyond is all abyss, 555
 Eternity, whose end no eye can reach.
 Greatly instructed I shall hence depart,
 Greatly in peace of thought, and have my fill
 Of knowledge, what this vessel can contain ;
 Beyond which was my folly to aspire. 560
 Henceforth I learn that to obey is best,
 And love with fear the only God, to walk
 As in his presence, ever to observe
 His providence, and on him sole depend,
 Merciful over all his works, with good 565
 Still overcoming evil, and by small Accomplishing great things, by things deemed weak

according to his works." Mat-

Subverting worldly strong and worldly wise
 By simply meek ; that suffering for truth's sake
 Is fortitude to highest victory, 570
 And, to the faithful, death the gate of life ;
 Taught this by his example, whom I now
 Acknowledge my Redeemer ever blest."

To whom thus also the angel last replied :
 " This having learned, thou hast attained the sum 575
 Of wisdom ; hope no higher, though all the stars
 Thou knew'st by name, and all the ethereal powers,
 All secrets of the deep, all Nature's works,
 Or works of God in heaven, air, earth, or sea,
 And all the riches of this world enjoyedst, 580
 And all the rule, one empire : only add
 Deeds to thy knowledge answerable ; add faith,
 Add virtue, patience, temperance, add love,
 By name to come called charity, the soul
 Of all the rest ; then wilt thou not be loath 585
 To leave this Paradise, but shalt possess
 A paradise within thee, happier far.
 Let us descend now therefore from this top
 Of speculation, for the hour precise
 Exacts our parting hence ; and see, the guards 590
 By me encamped on yonder hill expect
 Their motion, at whose front a flaming sword,
 In signal of remove, waves fiercely round :
 We may no longer stay. Go, waken Eve ;
 Her also I with gentle dreams have calmed, 595
 Portending good, and all her spirits composed
 To meek submission ; thou at season fit

Let her with thee partake what thou hast heard,
 Chiefly what may concern her faith to know,
 The great deliverance by her seed to come 600
 (For by the woman's seed) on all mankind ;
 That ye may live, which may be many days,
 Both in one faith unanimous, though sad
 With cause for evils past, yet much more cheered
 With meditation on the happy end." 605

He ended, and they both descend the hill ;
 Descended, Adam to the bower where Eve
 Lay sleeping ran before, but found her waked ;
 And thus with words not sad she him received :

" Whence thou return'st, and whither went'st, I know ; 610
 For God is also in sleep, and dreams advise,
 Which he hath sent propitious, some great good
 Presaging, since with sorrow and heart's distress
 Wearied I fell asleep. But now lead on ;
 In me is no delay ; with thee to go 615
 Is to stay here ; without thee here to stay
 Is to go hence unwilling ; thou to me
 Art all things under heaven, all places thou,
 Who for my wilful crime art banished hence.
 This further consolation yet secure 620
 I carry hence ; though all by me is lost,
 Such favor I unworthy am vouchsafed,
 By me the promised Seed shall all restore."

So spake our mother Eve, and Adam heard
 Well pleased, but answered not ; for now too nigh 625
 The Archangel stood, and from the other hill
 To their fixed station, all in bright array,

601. For by, for it shall come

by. See Galatians iv. 4, 5.
 603. unanimous, agreeing.

611. advise, inform.

627. fixed, appointed.

The Cherubim descended ; on the ground
 Gliding metéorous, as evening mist
 Risen from a river o'er the marish glides, 630
 And gathers ground fast at the laborer's heel
 Homeward returning. High in front advanced
 The brandished sword of God before them blazed
 Fierce as a comet, which with torrid heat,
 And vapor as the Libyan air adust, 635
 Began to parch that temperate clime ; whereat
 In either hand the hastening angel caught
 Our lingering parents, and to the eastern gate
 Led them direct, and down the cliff as fast
 To the subjected plain ; then disappeared. 640
 They, looking back, all the eastern side beheld
 Of Paradise, so late their happy seat,
 Waved over by that flaming brand, the gate
 With dreadful faces thronged and fiery arms.
 Some natural tears they dropped, but wiped them
 soon ; 645
 The world was all before them, where to choose
 Their place of rest, and Providence their guide.
 They, hand in hand, with wandering steps and slow
 Through Eden took their solitary way.

630. marish, marsh.631. gathers, gains.634. which, the sword. — torrid, burning.635. as the Libyan air adust, parched as the air of the Libyan desert. — adust. See VI. 514.640. subjected, lying below or under. A Latinism.641. eastern side. "At the east of the garden of Eden." Genesis iii. 24.643. brand, sword.644. dreadful, inspiring with awe.649. Through Eden. The garden was planted "in Eden." Genesis ii. 8. See IV. 210-215.
